Introduction

Note: This introduction to Info Source is in large print to assist persons with visual disabilities.

About Info Source

Info Source: Sources of Federal Government Information will make it fast and easy for you to find out about the Government of Canada, its organization and its information holdings. It will help you determine where you should go, write or call to make government enquiries, and is likely to be the first and only step you'll need to take to locate the source of the information you want.

This book is also the key to learning how to exercise your rights under two Canadian laws – the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. This Introduction tells you what you need to know to request information under those legislations.

First, however, it is helpful for you to understand the basic differences between the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. The information contained under each Act is different and there are different procedures to obtain it. The following pages describe the essential details.

Info Source combines and replaces the Access Register and the Index to Personal Information, two publications you might have seen or used before.

The annual edition of Info Source is complemented by bulletins, including the Directory of Federal Government Enquiry Points.

Inside Info Source

This Info Source book has three main components:

Table of Contents

The Table of Contents is organized alphabetically by the commonly used name of the department or agency, such as Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada or Health Canada, rather than by their legal titles, Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food or Department of Health.

Introduction

The Introduction includes:

- information about the terms used throughout the book, some essential points about the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, and directions on how to locate information by using Info Source or by making a formal request under either Act;
- a listing of Access to Information and Privacy Coordinators, which is organized in the same order as the Table of Contents, gives you the address and telephone number of all Access to Information and Privacy offices; and
- the description of the Standard Program Records — see definition under “Useful Terms” below.

Chapters

There is one chapter for each federal government department or agency subject to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, or to the Privacy Act only.

Except for the institutions subject to the Privacy Act only, each chapter contains:

General Information about the institution, including:

- Background
- Responsibilities
- Legislation
- Organization

Information Holdings including:

- Program Records
- Standard Program Records
- Personal Information Banks
- Classes of Personal Information
- Manuals

Additional Information including:

- Address of a central information source, as well as regional addresses, if any
- Reading Room(s)

Useful terms

Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator Each federal government department or agency has an Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator. The Coordinators' offices are staffed by people who can answer questions and help you identify the records you wish to see. The Coordinators may be contacted in person, by telephone or by letter. If you send a letter, include as much information as you can to help the staff locate the records you want and send you a reply as soon as possible.

Bank Number (See "Program Record Number or Bank Number" below.)

Classes of Personal Information Other personal information not used administratively or not retrievable by personal identifier, for instance unsolicited opinions, complaints or correspondence, is described under "Classes of Personal Information". This category was included to ensure that government departments and agencies account for all personal information which they hold.

Manuals The manuals listed under this title contain the directives, instructions, guidelines or procedures which are used by the employees of a department or agency to carry out its operations, activities or programs.

Personal Information Banks Personal Information Banks provide a summary of the type of information about individuals which is held by federal departments and agencies. The Privacy Act requires that Personal Information Banks include all personal information that is organized and retrievable by a person's name or by an identifying number, symbol or other particular assigned only to that person. Personal Information Banks must also include personal information which has been or is being used, or is available for use for an administrative purpose.

Personal Information Banks – Federal Employees The Personal Information Banks for Government of Canada employees are now described in a separate publication, Info Source: Sources of Federal Employee Information. This book is available in the office of the Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator at each federal government department or agency, federal government personnel offices and federal libraries.

Program Records The Program Records provide pointers to program information held by each federal government department or agency and describe the subject areas covered by these programs.

Program Record Number or Bank Number The Program Record Number or Bank Number you see at the end of each Program Record or Personal Information Bank helps the Access to Information and Privacy office to locate the information you require.

Reading Room The Access to Information Act requires all government institutions to provide facilities where their manuals can be inspected. The location of one or more reading rooms is provided under this heading.

Standard Program Records Many departments and agencies use Standard Program Records to list information on administrative subject areas which are common to many institutions, for example Accounts and Accounting, Budgets, Buildings, etc.

Access to Information Act

The Access to Information Act gives Canadian citizens as well as people and corporations present in Canada the right to have access to federal government records that are not of a personal nature. The Act complements but does not replace other procedures for obtaining government information. It is not intended to limit in any way the access to government information that is normally available to the public upon request.

Wide range of information You can ask for information, no matter what form it is in, including letters, memos, reports, photographs, films, microfilms and computerized data. This Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assists you in obtaining it.

Using the Access to Information Act

Some information may be exempt or excluded under the Act.

- Exemptions: Exemptions protect certain types of information that could cause harm if released. For example, some information on national security, law enforcement or trade secrets falls into this category.
- Exclusions: The Access to Information Act does not apply to public information that is already available, such as publications and material in libraries and museums. It also excludes material such as Cabinet documents.

- Note: Of course, the Act cannot give you access to records that are not controlled by the federal government, such as those maintained by provincial or municipal governments or by private organizations such as commercial banks and credit bureaus. Most provincial governments each have legislation similar to the Access to Information Act. Consult the provincial government listings in the blue pages of your local telephone book.

How to apply

Once you have decided to make a formal request under the Access to Information Act, there are certain simple procedures to follow:

- Consult Info Source to find the appropriate department or agency.
- Obtain an Access to Information Request Form from any location where Info Source is available (including the Web Site: http://www.tbs-sct.gc.ca/gos-sog/infosource/Info\_6/Request-Frms\_e.html).
- If it is not convenient for you to fill in a form, you may send a letter, mentioning the Act (see details below).
- Enclose the application fee (see details below).
- Send the form or the letter to the Access to Information Coordinator at the appropriate department or agency.

If you decide to submit a letter, you must state clearly that you are requesting information under the Access to Information Act, and include the following:

- name of the government department or agency you believe has the information you want;
- description (be as specific as possible) of the records you want to see;
- preferred method of seeing the records (e.g. do you want to receive photocopies of the original documents or see the originals in the government office where they are located?);

- your name, street, address, city or town, province or territory, postal code, telephone number(s) and your signature;
- date of your request;
- application fee.

Fees and costs An application fee of $5 (subject to change) applies and additional costs may be charged for each request. You will be notified in advance if there are additional costs and you may be asked to make a deposit. Cheques and money orders are payable to the Receiver General of Canada (unless otherwise stated).

Turnaround time Government departments must acknowledge your request within 30 days under the Access to Information Act. However, in special cases, they may need more time to process your request. If you feel it's taking too long, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

Information Commissioner

The Information Commissioner investigates formal complaints from members of the public arising from the Access to Information Act. If you have a complaint about the denial of access to information, fees charged for access, the time taken to respond to requests, refusal to give access in the official language requested, Info Source publications and other matters that relate to requesting or obtaining access to records, you may contact:

When the Information Commissioner's investigation is complete, an individual who is of the opinion that they have not been given access to all information which they are entitled to receive has the right to apply to the Federal Court – Trial Division for a review of the matter.

Privacy Act

In its day-to-day operations, federal government departments and agencies collect personal information from almost all Canadians. The Privacy Act gives Canadian citizens and people present in Canada the right to have access to information that is held about them by the federal government. It also protects against unauthorized disclosure of that personal information. In addition, it strictly controls how the government will collect, use, store, disclose and dispose of any personal information.

Most information available when you ask Because much of your personal information is available to you informally at your request, this Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assist you in obtaining it.

Types of personal information held You probably already know about many of the programs and operations of the government that use personal information such as income tax at Canada Customs and Revenue Agency, citizenship at Citizenship and Immigration Canada and the Employment Insurance program at Human Resources Development Canada.

Note The Privacy Act does not control nor give you access to records that are not held by the federal government, such as those maintained by provincial or municipal governments or by private organizations such as commercial banks and credit bureaus. Most provincial governments have legislation similar to the Privacy Act. Consult the provincial government listings in the blue pages of your local telephone book.

Some personal information is confidential The federal government must keep some personal information confidential under the Privacy Act, much of which relates to other people, national security or law enforcement.

How to apply

When you have decided to make a formal request under the Privacy Act, there are certain procedures to follow. Remember, you will find what you are looking for faster if you already have a good idea of which department or agency has the information you want.

- Obtain a Personal Information Request Form at any location where Info Source is available (including the Web Site: http://www.tbs-sct.gc.ca/gos-sog/infosource/Info\_6/Request-Frms\_e.html).
- Fill out the form and identify yourself in such a way that the government can verify who you are, i.e. that it is you, and not someone else, asking for your information. The more precise the information you provide, the faster your request can be answered.
- Send the form to the Privacy Coordinator of the appropriate department or agency.
- There is no charge to apply for information under the Privacy Act.

To change the information If you believe the information which a federal institution has on file about you is untrue or misleading, you can ask to have it corrected. Even if the department or agency does not agree to change this information, it must make a note that you have asked for the change and attach it to the file.

Safeguarding personal information The protection of your personal information and privacy is also a very important purpose of the Privacy Act. The Act states how and when the government can collect, store and dispose of personal information. It also covers specifically why and how the information can be used or given out, as well as who can use or receive it.

Giving out information The government can only disclose your information to someone else with your consent or when one or more of the criteria in the Privacy Act are met, such as to comply with a subpoena.

Turnaround time Under the law, all or most of the information you ask for should be disclosed within 30 days of receiving the request. If a time extension is required, you will be notified within the first 30 days and told why up to another 30 days may be needed.

Privacy Commissioner

The Privacy Commissioner is a representative of the people with the power to look into complaints of improper collection, use, storage, disclosure or disposal of personal information. The Privacy Commissioner can also help if you are dissatisfied with the results of your formal application or the time it has taken to see your personal information.

When the Privacy Commissioner’s investigation is complete, an individual who is of the opinion that they have not been given access to all of their personal information which they are entitled has the right to apply to the Federal Court – Trial Division for a review of the matter. You can write or call the Privacy Commissioner’s office at:

Using Info Source quickly and effectively

Determine the correct chapter Turn to the chapter of the department or agency you think has the information, and check the Program Records and the Personal Information Banks.

If you are unsure about the correct department or agency, a telephone call or letter to any Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office should provide the answer.

For persons with disabilities Individuals who are unable to exercise their rights using regular procedures may obtain further assistance from any Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office.

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada

Chapter 1

General Information

Background

The Department of Agriculture was established in 1867, the year of Confederation, by an act of Parliament. The formation of the Experimental Farms System followed in 1886 and a Dairy Commissioner was appointed in 1890. The aim of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada today is to develop and assist the Canadian agriculture and food system to provide for the needs of Canadian consumers and export markets in a manner which ensures a dependable supply of safe, nutritious food at reasonable prices; to ensure equitable returns to producers, processors and marketers; and to meet Canadian food and technological aid commitments to international development. The Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food, the Department and portfolio agencies administer 35 acts concerning food and agriculture industries. The activities of the Department extend from the farmer to the consumer, through all phases of production, processing and marketing of agriculture and agri-food food products. The Department also assists farmers through crop insurance, price stabilization and agricultural adjustment programs to alleviate losses caused by the weather, changing markets and other hazards. While the collection and use of personal information are necessary for the performance of most activities, they are especially important for the following activities: research; regulation and licensing of imports and exports of livestock and plant products; control and eradication of animal and plant diseases; and administration of various loan and assistance programs.

Responsibilities

The mandate of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada is to promote the growth, stability and competitiveness of the agri-food sector through policies, programs and services most appropriately provided by the federal government to assist the sector to maximize its contribution to the Canadian economy. The Department's responsibilities embrace most aspects of the agricultural industry. It carries out research into the physical and economic problems of agriculture; assists with market and export development; and carries out programs aimed at environmentally sustainable resource use. The Department enforces laws governing the sales of feed, fertilizers and pesticides; and assists farmers through measures such as crop insurance. It also supervises racetrack betting.

Organization

Canadian Grain Commission

The Canadian Grain Commission administers the provisions of the Canada Grain Act. In the interests of producers, it must establish and maintain standards of quality for Canadian grain and regulate grain handling in Canada to ensure a dependable commodity for domestic and export markets. In addition, the Commission supervises trading on the Winnipeg Commodity Exchange.

Communications Branch

The primary purpose of this branch is to ensure communication of the department's policies and programs, promote public understanding of AAFC's initiatives and policies; and raise awareness of the sector's importance to Canadian society.

Co-operatives Secretariat

The Co-operatives Secretariat is dedicated to the economic growth and social development of Canada by encouraging the establishment of partnerships between the co-operative sector and the federal government to ensure the development of sustainable co-operative enterprises. To achieve this, the Secretariat advises the government on policies and programs affecting co-operatives and ensures that they take into account co-operative sector needs and that they fall within federal priorities. The Secretariat also acts as a catalyst by raising awareness of governments, key stakeholders and the general public about the co-operative model, particularly through the publication of statistical analysis and various documents. Moreover, the Secretariat has the responsibility to liaise between co-operatives and numerous federal organizations to achieve its mandate.

Corporate Services Branch

This Branch is involved with many facets of the "business of the business". It is responsible for developing and maintaining programs, policies, practices and a strategic vision that supports good decision making within the Department and across the three Core Business Lines. The key roles of Corporate Services Branch include comptrollership policies and practices, strategic planning, knowledge product platforms and standards development, provision of technical support and the operation of the departmental planning cycle. To deliver these support roles the Branch is organized in four functional areas: 1) Strategic Business Planning 2) Finance and Resource Management 3) Information Management; and 4) Assets Management and Capital Planning. Through a relationship with the Canadian Pari-Mutuel Agency, this Branch also has a responsibility to protect the wagering public against fraudulent practices and to help maintain a viable racing industry in Canada.

Departmental Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for the correspondence, briefing and activity scheduling systems for the Minister and the Deputy Minister, for tracking and reporting on major current issues of concern to the Department, for Parliamentary Relations, and for providing secretariat services to the Departmental Management Committee and the Heads Up executive Committee of the Department.

Farm Financial Programs Branch

Farm Financial Programs Branch (FFPB) participates in the development and implements a full range of national policies, strategies and programs that support the agriculture and agri-food sector and rural communities to address rapidly changing challenges. This is accomplished by enhancing the capacity of the federal and provincial governments and industry to work together in the design and delivery of programs to meet unforeseen production and marketing short fall, to mitigate future income situations and to adjust and adapt throughout the full food chain so as to seize market opportunities and achieve greater self-reliance for the industry. The Branch provides leadership to develop and manage approaches, mechanisms and processes to ensure integrity of design and delivery of programs. New information technologies are being utilized to streamline program administration, provide new administrative tools, enhance client access through user friendly systems and to provide single window access. The Branch is ensuring enhanced administrative activities to support human and financial resource management, and to design data bases and performance measures for evaluation and performance reporting. Branch programs include the Net Income Stabilisation Administration (NISA), the Agriculture Income Disaster Assistance (AIDA) program, the Canadian Farm Income Program (CFIP), Crop Insurance, Loan Guarantees, Advance Payments and the Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development fund.

Human Resources Branch

The Branch promotes and facilitates, in partnership with managers, the optimal management of Human Resources towards the achievement of departmental objectives. The Human Resources Branch develops and administers human resources policies and programs and provides staff training and other related services for a staff of over 5800 employees of the Department, at various locations across Canada.

Market and Industry Services Branch

The mandate of the Market and Industry Services Branch is to work with the agri-food sector to enhance its global competitiveness and in so doing, increase the sector's share of both domestic and international markets for agriculture and agri-food products. The Branch priorities are implemented by responsibility centres located in Ottawa (7) and 7 regional offices. The International Trade Policy Directorate's role is to improve and secure markets for agri-food products, improve trade rules and work towards reducing unfair competition in domestic and foreign markets. The Agricultural Industry Services Directorate provides services and coordination to enable Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada to meet clients' needs related to market access, marketing programs, market information and intelligence, export market development, market readiness and sector competitiveness. The Investment Secretariat's role is to increase investment in Canada's agriculture, food and related life science industries. The role of the International Markets Bureau is to assist Canadian agriculture and agri-food industries to expand their exports, and to develop and implement a range of programs and services for the industry with emphasis on the provision of advice, information and programs related to international market development. The Food Bureau develops, maintains and provides specific sectoral expertise in the various processed food and beverage sectors in support of government policy, programs and activities. The Bureau also assists the industry in increasing its ability to meet domestic and international market demand, and to encourage and attract investment. The Global Affairs' role is to protect and promote Canadian interests in international agri-food organizations and other events. The Strategic Planning and Coordination Division coordinates Branch strategic planning, corporate support activities and manages the Agri-Food Trade Program. The Management Services Division provides support and advice related to business planning, resource management, information systems and general administration. The Intercultural Relations and Human Resources Division provides advice and counselling to senior management regarding the development and implementation of intercultural strategies, programs, activities and other related services in order to contribute and facilitate the integration of diversity of the Canadian society through various partnerships and projects. It also provides support to the effective management of the Branch's human resources including supporting managers in the recruitment, retention and development of employees.

Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration (PFRA)

The Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration (PFRA) works with people on the prairies to develop a viable agricultural industry and sustainable rural economy. In partnership with other levels of government, farm groups, producers and industry, PFRA protects Prairie soils, develops and conserves the area's water resources, and encourages diversification into new crops, value-added processing and other wealth-creating activities. The investigation of degradation problems and the promotion of solutions serve to conserve the soil resource for present and future use. Dependable water supplies for agricultural and other related uses at the farm, community and regional level allow greater variety of agricultural activities and render the economy less sensitive to drought. Operation of community pastures on land not suitable for cultivation and distribution of tree seedlings to promote farm shelterbelts assist in conservation of the soil resource. Operation of water storage and irrigation projects and the development of new water resource projects in cooperation with the provinces enhances economic security and provides development opportunities on the Prairies.

Research Branch

The Branch's mission is to improve the on-going competitiveness of the Canadian food and agriculture sector through the development and transfer of innovation technologies. The Branch focus is on research that is valuable to Canada but which the private sector could not provide profitably, working alone. Specifically, the Branch's research is directed toward reducing the cost of producing and processing food, improving the quality and safety of food products, advancing environmental practices that sustain agricultural production and transferring technology.

Review Branch

This Branch provides senior management with independent assurance and information to facilitate course corrections, management improvements and positive cultural change. We conduct or manage independent reviews which provide information for:

1. Assurance: Financial and non-financial information is reliable and useful for decision-making; reliability and usefulness of performance information; financial controls; management practices and controls
2. Performance Opportunities: Programs, management systems, controls and processes are enhanced; relevance, appropriateness and acceptance of activities; extent program objectives being achieved; cost benefit of programs and activities; best practices and lessons learned; management effectiveness.

Rural Secretariat

The Rural Secretariat is the primary focal point for rural policy issues within Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada and the federal government. The main tasks of the Rural Secretariat are to provide analysis and advice on issues affecting rural and remote Canada, to facilitate coordination, liaison and partnerships around rural issues and to facilitate two-way communication between rural stakeholders and the federal government. The Secretariat's principal programs are the Rural Dialogue, Pilot Projects and the Canadian Agricultural Rural Communities Initiative (CARCI). During the year 2000, the Rural Secretariat also managed the Rural/Urban Youth Exchange, a Government of Canada millennium initiative.

Strategic Policy Branch

Strategic Policy Branch is the department's main focus for policy leadership. The Strategic Policy Branch is responsible for the development of comprehensive strategic policies for the Agriculture and Agri-Food Portfolio, the provision of appropriate policy advice to the Minister of Agriculture, the Minister Responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board and the Secretary of State for Rural Development, and the provision of departmental input and leadership on horizontal policy files. It creates linkages across policy files and the department. The Branch's mandate is to create and maintain a policy environment which enhances the agriculture and agri-food sector's economic viability and self-reliance and promotes environmental stewardship in the sector. The Branch also provides a focal point for relations with the provinces and consultations with industry and other partners.

Agricultural Marketing Programs Act (AMPA)

Description: AMPA has two major programs – the Advance Payments Program and the Price Pooling Program. These programs were formerly known as the Advance Payments for Crops Act, the Cash Flow Enhancement Program, and the Agricultural Products Cooperative Marketing Act. The purpose of APP is to improve marketing opportunities. The government guarantees the repayment of advances issued to producers by the producer organizations and the Canadian Wheat Board as a means of improving cash flow at or after harvest. An individual producer can obtain up to $250,000 with the government paying the interest on the first $50,000 advanced to each producer. The advances are based on the security of the crop the producers have in storage and are repaid as the crop is sold. The PPP is a market development program designed to assist and encourage cooperative marketing of agricultural products and to provide equal return to producers for products of like grade, varieties and types. The program provides a price guarantee to the marketing agencies to protect them against unanticipated declines in the market price of their products. The price guarantee is established using the expected average wholesale price of the product.

Topics: The bank contains information on applicants under APP related to cash advances and interest charges; and marketing agencies under PPP concerning price guarantees. Storage Medium: Hard copy and computer Program Record Number: AAFC FFP 255

GRIP/NISA Environmental Assessment Survey (1992)

Description: To collect factual data and information on land and chemical use needed to conduct an environmental assessment of the Gross Revenue Insurance Plan (GRIP) and the Net Income Stabilization Account (NISA). The assessment is required by law under the Farm Income Protection Act (FIPA – subsection 5(2)), and was agreed to by the Signatories to the Federal-Provincial GRIP and NISA agreements (MCRs). Target population: There are two basic populations of farmers – those participating in GRIP and/or NISA and those not participating. Only producers of eligible crops in participating provinces will be surveyed. Program Record Number: AAFC FFP 802

National Livestock Initiative

Description: The National Livestock Initiative, announced December 13, 2000, represents an investment of $1.3 million under the Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development (CARD) program. The Initiative is composed of two parts:

Livestock Environmental Initiative

Delivered through an industry-led body, the program will help the livestock industry to address environmental concerns through research and development of technology, and acceleration of technology assessment and transfer. The emphasis is on promoting technologies and management practices which are technically ready for on-farm application.

Environmental Management System for the Hog Industry

This initiative involves developing an approach towards a certification system for the hog industry. Recognizing that work is already underway in some provinces, the needs and implications in developing a national approach will be investigated. Funded through Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development Fund (CARD). Program Record Number: AAFC FFP 608

Net Income Stabilization Account (NISA)

Description: A voluntary program developed jointly between producers and the Government of Canada and participating provinces. The Program is designed to help producers achieve long-term farm income stability on an individual basis. By providing producers the opportunity to deposit money annually into their NISA account and receive matching government contributions, their NISA account grows. In lower income years, producers can make withdrawals from the funds they have set aside. Program Record Number: AAFC FFP 807

Pulse Quality Enhancement Initiative

Description: This national initiative aims to improve the quality of Canadian pulse crops, develop new uses for pulse crop starch, protein and other components and build on the environmental benefits of including pulse crops in rotation. Industry is sharing in the cost of this initiative by investing significantly in pulse quality research which is needed to remain competitive in the world market. Funded through Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development Fund (CARD). Program Record Number: AAFC FFP 610

Spring Credit Advance Program

Description: The Government guarantees the repayments of the advances of up to $20,000 that producer organizations make to producers in the spring of 2000 and 2001. The Government also pays the interest on the advances while they are outstanding. The program is intended to assist producers with financing the planting of their crops for these years. The producers have until December 31 of the year an advance was issued to repay the advance or transfer the balance to an advance under the Agricultural Marketing Programs Act. Topics: The bank contains information on applicants under SCAP related to cash advances and interest charges. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or electronic. Program Record Number: AAFC FFP 625

Description: The purpose of the initiative was to increase competitiveness of the Atlantic agri-products industry so as to profitably gain and maintain market share and develop new markets by fostering a pan-Atlantic collaboration to address issues and opportunities and integrating private sector participation in strategic and in the adaptation and change process. The program ran from April 1, 1994 to March 31, 1998. Topics: The bank contained information on individuals and organizations from both the primary and value-added agri-products sectors who have made application under the program. The information included names, address, phone and fax numbers and general information on the nature of the business they operate as well as details on specific project proposals and financial costs associated with these proposals. Information was used for the purposes of evaluating the merits of project proposals for funding and for correspondence and making payments under approved projects. Storage Medium: Information was maintained in electronic and hard-copy form. Information will be kept for a minimum of three years (March 31, 2001) subsequent to the termination of the program and then destroyed Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 451

Briefing Papers in Market Development and Investment

Description: Briefing discussion papers on various agriculture related to market development; investment trade policy issues for use by the Minister and senior officials of the Department. Topics: Import quotas; tariff changes; bilateral trade agreement negotiations; relations with less developed countries; food security; food reserves; other trade-related topics; international business development initiatives; investment trade missions and shows. Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 366

Canadian Agri-Food Development Initiative

Description: Information on a financial contribution program, which was in operation from 1990-95, to assist the agri-food industry in undertaking developmental projects including information on CMISI applicants and assisted projects. Topics: Marketing, production and human resource development. Note: Files will be retained for 6 years (March 31, 2001) Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 484

Compilation, Analysis and Dissemination of Trade Statistics

Description: Canadian Agri-Food Trade System (CATS). Topics: Canadian agricultural exports (by commodity and receiving country); Canadian agricultural imports (by commodity and source country); trade statistics. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or CD/diskettes. Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 491

Food and Beverage Industry Services and Analyses

Description: Information on the Canadian food and beverage processing and distribution sector. Topics: Statistical and analytical reports on the post-farmgate agri-food sector including sector reports, sub-sector profiles, consumer and market segment trend reports, reports of contract research and seminars on post-farmgate issues (nutraceuticals and functional foods, e-commerce, tax credits, profitability, etc.), reports on progress towards CAMC goals. Storage Medium: Hardcopy and/or electronic (including Internet). Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 271

Grain Marketing

Description: Information relating to the activities of the Canadian grain exporting and processing firms. Included are outgoing and incoming trade missions; visits of buyers; technical seminars; feeding trials; information on markets and sales; research surveys and analyses of the industry; the development and administration of various acts and legislation governing the activities of the Canadian grain industry; domestic storage of grains and oilseeds; production and marketing nationally of Canadian products; world market situations; general economic development of the industry; involvement with associations and organizations from the public and private sectors, including government departments and foreign organizations; foreign market conditions; regulations; and agricultural production. Topics: Visits; grain missions to foreign countries; credit grain sales; wheat embargo; market development studies; industry sector profiles; research; marketing analysis; quotas; permits; deferred delivery; Canola Utilization Assistance Program; acts and legislation; grains policy; markets for grain; markets for oilseeds; grains financial matters; associations, institutions and organizations; committees; conferences and meetings; companies; corporations and firms; provincial governments; federal government departments and agencies; economics. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or electronic. Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 835

International Relations

Description: Information on liaison with international organizations, international agricultural intelligence and bilateral relations with foreign countries, including visits and missions. Topics: Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD); World Trade Organization (WTO); Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO); World Food Program; World Food Council; Inter-American Institute for Agricultural Co-operation (IICA); Memoranda of Understanding on Agricultural Co-operation; senior level foreign visits. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 494

International Trade and Markets Information

Description: Information pertaining to the export of Canadian agri-food products and investment including services, programs and technology. Topics: Country Export Market assessment Reports; Foreign Missions Reports; reports of seminars and technical trade missions; Canadian agri-food trade with individual foreign countries; Product Export opportunities Report; programs and services available to exporters; export marketing companies and organizations; agri-food sector of foreign countries; international business development initiatives; priority / emerging markets; Canadian Food and Beverage Exporters's Directory in CD ROM; Canada's International Business Strategy for Agriculture, Food and Beverages; reports on Canada's investment performance; Federal / Provincial Agri-Food Investment Strategy; agri-food trade policies, tariffs, tariff quotas, non-tariff measures and other market access conditions. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or Internet. Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 422

Investment Attraction, Retention and Expansion

Description: Information related to government strategies, work plans and initiatives to attract new investment into Canada's agriculture, food and related life science industries. Topics: Federal and provincial investment strategies and work plans (namely the Federal Life Science Investment Action Plan and the Federal-Provincial Investment Strategy); reports on investment and alliance-building initiatives and events such as trade shows, workshops and missions; information on public and private sector investment agencies, programs and services; reports on investment flows, industry developments and business climate issues; commercially confidential corporate call reports and target lists; investment promotion materials such as posters, presentation decks, brochures and reports. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or electronic files (including Internet). Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 715

Market Information Service

Description: Information on the quality, quantity, price, sale and/or movement of selected commodities. Topics: Collection of prices, sales and inventories of various commodities from private sector sources in Canada and abroad; aggregation of data and relevant information concerning policies and programs in Canada, competing countries and importing nations; publishing of markets information and intelligence; liaison with private sector and other government departments/agencies. Storage Medium: Machine-readable files and public database which are published on the Internet. Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 261

Market Intelligence

Description: Market analyses on the purchasing, processing and transportation of food. Topics: Food prices; food expenditures (consumer spending); processing and retailing. Storage Medium: Food prices, pricing forecast model and food consumption are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 320

Who's Who

Description: The purpose of the initiative is to provide a branch directory of staff by name, organization and area of expertise. The information includes name, address, phone and fax numbers and general information on employees' responsibilities. Information is used for the purpose of allowing for people inside and outside the Department to search for MISB employees based on names, organization, expertise. Storage Medium: Information is maintained in electronic form in an Oracle database in the corporate server. Information will be kept ongoing and will be deleted or added depending on employee movement. Program Record Number: AAFC MIS 483

Alberta Irrigation Rehabilitation Program

Description: Information on the Alberta Irrigation Rehabilitation Agreement of 1973 providing for the transfer to Alberta of Canada's interest in the St. Mary and Bow River irrigation projects and for financial contributions by Canada for the rehabilitation of irrigation works in Alberta.

Topics: Implementation Board; agreements; finance; drainage; irrigable areas; land; individual project files; individual service, supply and construction contracts related to each individual project file. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 535

Assiniboine River Diking Program

Description: Information relating to the construction of a system consisting of about 160km of dikes to control flooding along the Assiniboine River between Portage la Prairie and Winnipeg and the operation and maintenance of these dikes. Topics: Advisory Board agendas and minutes of meetings; Property and Land Committee of the Advisory Board; Saskatchewan Lands Tripartite Committee of the Advisory Board; Cost Sharing Committee of the Advisory Board; land; individual service, supply and construction contract files.

Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 540

Drought Monitoring Program

Description: Information relating to the risk of drought on the Canadian Prairies, including water supply, soil moisture and pasture condition assessments. Topics: Drought; water supply; wind erosion risk; soil moisture; pastures; committees; workshops; remote sensing; prairie drought monitoring network. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 561

Engineering Services Projects

Description: Information relating to the investigation, planning, design, construction and maintenance of various works pertaining to water development, irrigation and infrastructure programs in the prairie provinces; and the provision of technical assistance to other federal departments and provincial governments with respect to water resource planning and management. Topics: Agreements; Community Wells Program; irrigation; drainage and flood control; dam maintenance; engineering assistance; safety inspection and investigation; individual project files; individual service, supply and construction contracts related to each individual project file. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 520

Irrigation Demonstration Program

Description: Information relating to the operation of the Canada-Saskatchewan Irrigation Diversification Centre at Outlook, Saskatchewan. The Centre is a joint Canada – Saskatchewan facility and provides a focal point for the investigation and demonstration of irrigation management techniques that can be evaluated for a wide range of new and established crops. It provides specialized information to farmers and the agricultural industry on irrigation, drainage, special crops, fertilizers, weed control and special equipment. Topics: Vegetable Project Committee; Research Committee; Demonstration Committee; reports on various crops; land; irrigation. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 545

Land-Use Program – Community Pastures

Description: Information relating to the operation and administration of PFRA community pastures, the conservation of land resources, the reduction of the impact of drought, the stabilization of western beef breeding herds, the improvement in the quality of beef cattle and the provision of supplemental grazing for farmers. Topics: Pasture agreements; agreements; cattle brands; pasture breeding services; wildlife control; control of pests by the application of pesticides and herbicides; animal health; land purchase program; pasture improvements; ecology and preservation of grasslands; land development program; dugout excavation dugout enlargement; grazing applications and allotment notices; individual service, supply and construction contract files related to each individual project file; surface leasing agreements. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 510

Shelterbelt Program

Description: Information relating to the operation of the Shelterbelt Centre at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, established in 1902 by the Department of the Interior and transferred to PFRA in 1963. The program involves the production and distribution of tree seedlings for farmstead and field shelterbelt plantings throughout the Prairie provinces. Topics: Water supply; roads and utilities; irrigation; buildings; landscaping; domestic water agreement with the Town of Indian Head Land; shelterbelts; infields and farmsteads tree distribution policy. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 550

Soil Conservation Program

Description: Information relating to analyses and discussions of soil conservation and land at farm and regional levels. Topics: Project reports; local conservation organizations; soil conservation committees; Dryland Salinity Control Association; individual service; individual project files; agreements; applications for assistance; letters to government agencies and farm organizations; conservation workshops; soil conservation and degradation; unproductive land; economic and regional development agreements; the following databases: Crop Residue Survey. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 560

South Saskatchewan River Project

Description: Information on the construction, operation and maintenance of the Gardiner and Qu'Appelle River Dams forming Lake Diefenbaker in accordance with an agreement between Canada and Saskatchewan dated July 25, 1958. Topics: Policy; agreement; damage claims and adjustments; educational arrangements; photography; publicity; inaugural ceremonies; water analysis; buildings and lands; equipment; finances; personnel; development boards; contracts; dams and reservoirs; irrigation; power facilities; recreational facilities; reports on climate, economics, engineering, power, soils and recreational features. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 525

South-West Saskatchewan Irrigation Projects

Description: Information on the construction of twenty-seven water storage reservoirs and six irrigation projects in southwest Saskatchewan. Four of the reservoirs have been turned over to the province while the remainder continue to be maintained and operated by PFRA. The irrigation projects are located at Consul, Eastend, Maple Creek, Rush lake, Val Marie and West Val Marie. Topics: Assignments and agreements for sale of land; letters patent; drainage; irrigation; leases; application for land; spring runoff records; land levelling; letters to debtors; individual project files; individual construction contract files related to the project files. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 530

Rural Water Development Program

Description: Information relating to the provision of financial and technical assistance to individuals, groups and communities for the development of water and land resources; the establishment of on-farm, community and regional water supplies, including dugouts, stockwatering dams, irrigation schemes as well as farm wells, pipelines and reservoirs. Topics: Community Wells Program, agreements; dugouts and small dams; irrigation; submissions for community projects; farm well program; individual project files; applications for water development grants; economic and regional development agreements; the following database: Prairie Rural Water Development Program Projects. Program Record Number: AAFC PFA 515

Animal Research

Description: Information on animal production systems from traditional and nontraditional techniques, including biotechnology. Topics: Beef, dairy, swine, poultry, and other animals. Program Record Number: AAFC RBR 220

Crop Research

Description: Information on crop varieties, systems for the protection of crops from diseases, insects, and weeds, and production systems minimizing environmental impact from agricultural practices, using traditional and nontraditional techniques including biotechnology. Topics: Cereals, oilseeds, forages, field crops, vegetables, tree fruits and berries, and ornamentals. Program Record Number: AAFC RBR 210

Food Research

Description: Food and nonfood products and processes that add economic value to basic agricultural commodities. Topics: Products and processes from animals and crops as well as nonfood applications. Program Record Number: AAFC RBR 211

Resources Research

Description: Information on the services and technologies to conserve soil, water, air, and genetic resources (plant, animal, and microbial), to meet current and future agricultural and food production needs.

Program Record Number: AAFC RBR 195

Program Reviews

Description: Information on the Reviews of departmental programs. Topics: Documentation relating to results of reviews of departmental programs, objectives; analysis of effectiveness and audits of programs systems functions and organizations. Storage Medium: Our Review Branch web site, at the following URL address: <http://www.agr.ca/review/rbmain.html>; hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AAFC RB 415

Rural Secretariat

Canadian Rural Partnership (CRP) Pilot Projects Initiative

Description: Information relating to the CRP Pilot Projects Initiative. This initiative funds creative approaches to community development in rural and remote communities. It is designed to work through partnerships with community groups operating in rural areas which can include the private sector, the voluntary sector, cooperatives and other levels of government. Topics: Proposals from applicants; agreements between departments; contribution agreements between AAFC and the proponents; financial information and reports; database program for tracking purposes. Program Record Number: AAFC RRS 301

Canadian Agricultural Rural Communities Initiative (CARCI)

Description: Information relating to the Canadian Agricultural Rural Communities Initiative (CARCI). This fund was established to enhance the sustainability of agricultural rural communities, particularly those affected by changes in the agricultural sector. CARCI has been allocated $9.3 million over three years, from the Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development (CARD) fund. Topics: Proposals from applicants; contribution agreements between AAFC and the proponents; financial information and reports; database program for tracking purpose. Program Record Number: AAFC RRS 302

Strategic Policy Branch

Adapting to Change and Managing Risk-Survey

Description: In January 1998, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada conducted a large scale study of Canadian farmers' attitudes toward change and risk, and the ways that they deal with these issues on their farm operations. Producers whose main farm enterprise was either field crops, beef cattle, hogs, or horticulture and who had farm sales of at least $ 10,000. To provide benchmark data on producers' attitudes toward change and risk, and their strategies for dealing with these. To segment the farm population based on these attitudes. Use attitudinal data with financial and economic data to better understand producer attitudes and behaviours. Used in assessment and development of safety net programs. Records are maintained for further analysis. 98071r and report is available on the internet at: www.agr.ca/policy/epad

Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 710

AgriConnexions

Description: An on-line database of government and industry-related information for use by employees of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada (AAFC) and the Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA). Topics: Profiles of industry associations and provincial and territorial departments with agriculture and rural mandates; upcoming events related to the agriculture and agri-food sector; links to provincial and territorial Web sites and to AAFC's five portfolio organizations. Access: Access to AgriConnexions is through AgriSource, AAFC's intranet. Storage Medium: Data used by AgriConnexions is stored in an Oracle database. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 700

Agri-Food Policy Review

Description: Information on the Agri-Food Policy Review related to the work of the federal-provincial and government-industry task forces and committees set up to examine the challenges and priorities facing Canada's agri-food industry. Topics: The eleven task forces and committees dealt with: Safety Nets, Farm Finance and Management, Competitiveness, Transportation, Dairy Supply Management, Poultry Supply Management, Food Safety and Quality, Sustainable Agriculture, Research and Technology Transfer, and Pesticides Registration. Access: Reports of the task forces and committees are available upon request. Files are arranged by policy area. Storage Medium: Machine readable and hard copy. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 367

Agricultural Development Policy and Analysis

Description: Policy-oriented analyses of agricultural development issues. Topics: Farm costs and incomes; farm income protection; agricultural stabilization; development strategy; energy in agriculture; farm labour programs; land-use policy; farm credit policy; agricultural taxation. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 485

Agricultural Environmental Stewardship Initiative (AESI)

Description: Information on the three year (2000-2003) Agricultural Environmental Stewardship Initiative (AESI) being implemented by industry-led agricultural adaptation councils in each province. The AESI emphasizes projects that address the regional impacts of agricultural practices on water, soil, and air quality, biodiversity and greenhouse gas emissions. This initiative addresses this issues through education and awareness, technology transfer, and stewardship tools including environmental clubs, environmental management systems, and land use planning. This initiative is funded under the Canadian

Adaptation and Rural Development Fund. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 620

Agriculture-Related Data

Description: Economic data related to agriculture. Topics: Market commentaries (annual and monthly time series); monthly and annual trade data (prices and quantities); source data for Food and Agriculture Regional Model and the hog, slaughter cattle and cow/calf stabilization models (monthly, quarterly and annual time series); miscellaneous economic data on agriculture and food. Access: Files arranged by AGSEC code or commodity (marketing and trade coding system). Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 330

Climate Change Funding Initiative

Description: The Climate Change Funding Initiative (CCFI) is a four-year, $4 million investment to help the agricultural sector address climate change. The Initiative will ultimately contribute to Canada's efforts in meeting its Kyoto commitments to reduce greenhouse gas emissions to six per cent below 1990 levels by 2008-2012. This initiative is funded under the Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development Fund. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 603

Climate Change Skills and Knowledge Transfer Program

Description: The Climate Change – Skills and Knowledge Transfer Program is a four year initiative being implemented by the Soil Conservation Council of Canada (SCC). The SCC calls the initiative "Taking Charge," as it involves farmers raising farmers' awareness and knowledge of climate change issues, and the application of good environmental practices that can contribute to Canada's reduction of greenhouse gas emissions. Funded through Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development Fund (CARD). Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 604

Countryside Canada

Description: Countryside Canada is a three-year national program of $600,000 designed to strengthen environmental conservation practices within the agricultural sector by recognizing exemplary stewardship efforts of farmers and ranchers across the country. The program acknowledges that an increase in wildlife habitat conservation is dependent, in great part, on the cooperation and enthusiasm of private landowners, including farmers and ranchers. Funded through Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development Fund (CARD). Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 606

Economic Intelligence

Description: Economic intelligence on agricultural production and inputs. Topics: Farm input markets; farm costs and incomes. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 490

Economic Research on Commodity Markets and Agricultural Market Forecasting

Description: Information on the supplies, consumption, inventories, trade and prices of the major agricultural commodities produced in Canada and on the analysis of factors influencing the behaviour of markets for these commodities. Topics: Dairy and dairy products; livestock and livestock products; poultry and poultry products; fruit, vegetables, honey and maple products; special crops; grains, oilseeds and fodder crop. Storage Medium: Statistics on commodity prices, marketings, stocks, imports, exports, production and disposition are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 310

Farm Women's Bureau

Description: The mandate of the Farm Women's Bureau is: To advocate and promote in partnership with farm women the equitable representation of farm women in agricultural policy and decision making. Topics: Government policy; Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination; the Federal Plan for Gender Equality; farm and rural women's representation on Federal Agencies, Boards and Commissions; farm and rural issues, consultations, information and liaison activities; farm women's organizations in Canada. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 500

Grain Handling and Transportation

Description: Information on grain handling and transportation system in Canada. Topics: Labour disputes; elevators; box cars; terminals; trading – CNR, CPR; Crow rates; tariffs, stop-off charges; Western Grain Transportation Act. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 815

Grain Payments

Description: Information on domestic grain sector support. Topics: Prices; initial payments; cash advances; situation report. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 820

Grains and Oilseeds

Description: Information on various grain and oilseed crops, problems and policies. Topics: Feed grains; domestic feed grain marketing policy; canola; oats; barley; wheat; durum; soy bean; flax; rye; drought; pesticides; corn. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 830

Hog Environmental Management Strategy (HEMS)

Description: Information on the HEMS, a two year initiative (completed in 1999) that fostered coordination among the federal and provincial levels of government and industry, ensuring a comprehensive approach to developing solutions towards environmental problems facing the hog industry. It focused on research and development, technology transfer, information and support tools for the hog industry. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 621

Livestock Environmental Initiative (LEI)

Description: Information on the Livestock Environmental Initiative (LEI) funded under the Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development (CARD) program. Delivered through an industry-led body, the program is to help the livestock industry to address environmental concerns through research and development of technology, and acceleration of technology assessment and transfer. The emphasis is on promoting technologies and management practices which are technically ready for on-farm application. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 622

National Soil and Water Conservation Program (NSWCP)

Description: Information on the NSWCP, a two-year (1997/98 – 1998/99) initiative that helped the agriculture and agri-food sector addresses priority environmental sustainability issues through four program areas including: Stewardship, technology transfer/research and development; market opportunities development; and increasing understanding and awareness. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 623

Pesticide Minor Use Program Funding Initiative (MUPFI)

Description: MUPFI provides funding from the Canadian Adaptation and Rural Development (CARD) Fund to enhance producers' access to pest management tools. Applications are received from agricultural associations and universities, requesting funding for minor use pesticide research to support registration for minor use label expansions. Funding for joint Canada-U.S. pesticide research is also carried out. This bank contains records of the MUPFI application form, i.e., name, address, telephone and facsimile numbers, project description, proposed project funding, and project work plan, schedule and costs. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 624

Producer Account Maintenance

Description: Information on transactions between grain buyers and producers under the provisions of the Western Grain Stabilization Act. Topics: Date of transaction; grade of grain; purchaser (name and location); quantity delivered; revenue paid; kind of grain. Access: Files arranged by Canadian Wheat Board permit number. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 345

Resource and Environment Programs

Description: Information on environmental issues related to agriculture and programs to encourage environmental management of resources. Topics: Soil and water conservation management studies, wildlife habitat/agriculture interface, environmental assessment and review processes, National Soil Conservation Program,

Green Plan initiatives, Environmental Sustainability Initiatives, Land Management Adjustment Program, and pesticide price monitoring National Soil and Water Conservation Program, Hog Environmental Management Strategy, Livestock Environmental Initiative, Country Side Canada, Climate Change Funding Initiative, Climate Change Skills and Knowledge Transfer Program, Agricultural Environmental Stewardship Initiative. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 483

Western Grain Transportation Consultations

Description: The western grain handling and transportation consultation process focussed on 1) the Western Grain Transportation Act (WGTA) method of payment options identified by the 1990 Transportation Committee under the Agri-food Policy Review, 2) western grain transportation system efficiencies, 3) the costs associated with moving grain from Thunder Bay to St. Lawrence shipping points, 4) Minimum Compensatory Rates (MCRs) for canola products and 5) the impacts of policy change on rural communities. The consultations were designed to solicit the views of a wide range of stakeholders, primarily at the "grass roots" level. There were approximately 154 public meetings, from coast to coast – but mostly located in western Canada. The information was used to assist in evaluating various options and to assist in making decisions. Topics: Views on options, and method of payments for the above mentioned subjects. Program Record Number: AAFC SPB 801

Western Grain Stabilization Program

Description: The bank was used to administer stabilization payments to grain producers. It contains the grain receipts and levy payments of holders of permits issued by the Canadian Wheat Board in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

Class of Individuals: Grain producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Purpose: Files in this bank were used to calculate and issue stabilization payments to participating grain producers.

Consistent Uses: Disclosure: (1) On an individual request basis, account information supplied to Revenue Canada to assist in its investigations. (2) The four western provincial crown corporations (Manitoba Crop Insurance Corporation, Saskatchewan Crop Insurance Corporation and the Farm Income and Crop Insurance Branch of the British Columbia Ministry of Agriculture and Food requested use of our data bank. Information provided concerning specific producers' sales by grain type and tonnes (not sales value) and generally extends over a number of crop years. The requests are ongoing and average perhaps one per week involving perhaps a dozen producers at most. In addition, we also provided computer tape files of our participants identified by permit number only while quoting the outstanding levy to be deducted from these accounts. This information was used in conducting audits of crop insurance claims and in pursuing fraudulent claims through the courts. The computer tape files used for matching participant to claimant in order to determine the amount of levy to be deducted from the claimant's indemnity payment (the provincial corporations were registered as designated purchasers under the WAGS Act). (3) Western Grain Transportation Agency: Grain sales information specific to producers in a specific area covering a ten year period was provided. This was an annual request. This information is used to establish compensatory amounts for the additional cost of transporting grain by truck as a result of rail line abandonment and the closure of grain elevators contiguous to it. As additional rail lines become eligible each year for removal from the network, more producers are affected by elevator closures. (4) Canada Grains Council: Historical data which are non-specific as to producer. The data are statistical in nature and used by the council for various analyses and studies. This was an annual request at one time but we have not received a request for the past two years. (5) Auditor General: Complete copies of our master file of name and addresses as well as our payout file. The information is requested annually. The information is used to verify the propriety and accuracy of stabilization payments. (6) RCMP: Detailed information specific to individuals is provided which would include name and address as well as grain sales for one or more years. The information is requested on an as needed basis (very infrequently). This information is issued to conduct criminal investigations.

(7) Statistics Canada: Statistical information is provided on an ad hoc basis. Requests are very infrequent. The information is not producer specific and is used to conduct various analyses and studies. (8) Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) Payouts: Producer permit numbers, participant status and the amount of levy yet to be deducted is provided to the CWB once or twice a year. Conversely, each week the CWB furnishes WGSA with a computer tape of name and address changes and new permit number issues. The information enables the CWB to match participant files to their payment files in order to deduct the WGS levy from interim, adjustment and final payments. Information on the payout and the levy by producer is returned for processing to the WGS accounts. The CWB also forwards information weekly providing information about new permit book numbers and name and address which is used to update the WGS data base prior to levy refunds or stabilization payouts. (9) Revenue Canada: Statutory set-offs are received and recorded to intercept amounts owing to the Crown. Levy refunds and stabilization payments are matched to the file of set-offs and may confirmed amounts are diverted to Revenue Canada. (10) Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act: Monthly a computer tape file is received from Justice Canada to perform a name and address match against the WGSA master file. The matching is carried out to identify payees against whom there is an outstanding summons. WGSA payments are intercepted and set aside for instructions from Justice as to the amount to be diverted. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 20 years. PAC Number: 77-005 Related to PR#: AAFC FFP 350 TBS Registration: 001715 Bank Number: AAFC PPU 180

General Correspondence and Enquiries

Personal information in this class relates to routine correspondence concerning the regulatory and licensing activities associated with meat inspection, pesticides, feeds and fertilizers, veterinary biologics and the humane transportation of animals. It also relates to general enquiries concerning agricultural research, market intelligence, food advisory information and financial assistance to marketing boards and co-operatives. The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer, but is neither arranged nor retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files controlled by the Department and is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject and the date of the correspondence. The retention period for this class of personal information is controlled by the retention period of the files in which they are stored.

Ministerial Correspondence

This class of information contains correspondence received by the Departmental Secretariat from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other similar submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were to be provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Other Programs and Agreements

This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, Federal-Provincial Agreements such as those under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA) are concerned with rural problems of unemployment and social disadvantages. Special ARDA agreements have been used as a vehicle to improve the economic circumstances of native people by providing financial and other assistance to create job opportunities. Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the name of the program concerned and the name of the specific project.

Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency

Chapter 2

General Information

Background

The Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency was established in 1987 by an Act of Parliament as a federal government organization.

ACOA operates within the Industry Portfolio, which includes 14 departments and agencies that report to Parliament through the Minister of Industry.

Responsibilities

ACOA is not only responsible for administering federal/provincial economic renewal agreements on behalf of the federal government, it also invests strategically in policy research and analysis, in trade, tourism and investment, innovation as well as entrepreneurship and skills development.

To fulfill its mandate, ACOA pursues two distinct activities, ensuring that:

- a wide variety of business development tools and resources serve the diverse needs of the region's emerging and existing entrepreneurs; and,
- all economic development programs and activities in the region are coordinated and designed to improve the climate for small business growth for all Atlantic Canadians.

Priorities

ACOA works to support and promote new opportunities for economic development and to enhance the competitive strength and productivity of small- and medium-sized enterprises (SME's) in the region by focussing on the following strategic areas:

1. Policy, Advocacy and Coordination
2. Access to Capital and Information
3. Entrepreneurship and Skills Development
4. Innovation
5. Trade, Tourism and Investment
6. Community Economic Development

Service lines

To meet its objectives in each strategic priority area ACOA administers, or is involved in, a number of key programs and activities:

1. Business Development Program (BDP) – designed to help SMEs establish, expand or modernize by offering access to capital in the form of unsecured, interest-free loans.

2. ACF Equity Atlantic Inc. – a $30-million venture capital fund, designed to address the deficiency in venture capital availability in Atlantic Canada.
3. Community-Based Economic Development – grass-roots efforts by communities, with ACOA support, to improve their economic conditions.
4. Canada Business Service Centres – a network of four centres providing business-related services and products to SMEs and aspiring entrepreneurs in the region.
5. COOPERATION Agreements – federal/provincial, cost-shared programs designed to improve the environment for economic growth in Atlantic Canada.
6. Advocacy, Coordination and Procurement – continuous efforts to represent the region interests, while securing more federal government contracting opportunities in the Atlantic Provinces.

Legislation

- Government Organization Act, Atlantic Canada 1987 (Part I)
- Small Business Loans Act
- Special Areas Act

Organization

Activity Structure: ACOA's program is divided into two main activities or business lines: Development and Corporate Administration. The majority of ACOA's efforts towards the attainment of its objectives are accounted for under Development. The Corporate Administration business line isolates the administrative functions of the Agency from the direct program-related business of the organization.

Development: Support and promote opportunities for economic development in Atlantic Canada, with particular emphasis on SMEs, through planning, research analysis policy, program and project development and implementation and through advocating the interests of Atlantic Canada in national economic policy, program and project development and implementation.

Corporate Administration: Ensure that ACOA's resources are efficiently and effectively managed and that administrative systems and services are in place to enhance management decision making, managerial accountability and operational control.

Organization Structure: ACOA's Head Office is in Moncton, New Brunswick. It includes the President's office, Policy and Programs, Finance and Corporate Services, Legal Services and Human Resources.

In each capital of the Atlantic provinces, regional Vice-Presidents are responsible for the delivery of ACOA programs. In Sydney, Nova Scotia, the Vice-President of Enterprise Cape Breton Corporation (ECBC) is responsible for delivering some ACOA programs in Cape Breton. Each Vice-President is equipped with Ministerial delegated authorities to approve most projects and proposals occurring in their area of responsibility.

Through its Ottawa office, also headed by a Vice-President, ACOA advocates the interests of Atlantic Canadians in the development of national policies and programs, including the interest of the region's entrepreneurs related to federal procurement and carries out research related to economic development.

ACOA legislation provides for an ACOA Advisory Board. The Board is composed of the President of ACOA and not more than seven other members who represent all areas in Atlantic Canada.

Atlantic Pilotage Authority Canada

Chapter 3

General Information

Background

As a result of recommendations made by the Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four pilotage authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes, and Pacific – are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Atlantic Pilotage Authority was incorporated in carrying out the Pilotage Act in 1972, and pursuant to the Financial Administration Act, (Schedule SC 1983-84, 31) was designated a Schedule III Part I Crown corporation.

Responsibilities

The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries – all coastal waters in the Atlantic region. As a further goal, the authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation

- Atlantic Pilotage Regulations
- Authority By-Laws
- Canadian Shipping Act
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Pilotage Act

Organization

♦ Administration Division

This Division provides administrative and financial services as required to operate within accepted corporate business procedures.

♦ Operations Division

This Division provides pilotage services by assigning and dispatching qualified pilots to ships navigating within the boundaries of the Atlantic Pilotage Authority.

Bank of Canada

Chapter 4

Background

The Bank of Canada is the country's central bank. It was incorporated in 1934 under the Bank of Canada Act. Under the preamble of the Act, unchanged since its inception, the Bank of Canada is required "to regulate credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment, so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion."

Overall responsibility for the management of the Bank is assigned to the Board of Directors, composed of the Governor, the Senior Deputy Governor and 12 directors. The Governor and Senior Deputy Governor are appointed for seven-year terms, the directors for three years. The Deputy Minister of Finance sits on the board as a non-voting member. The Governor is the Chief Executive Officer of the Bank and is responsible for the business of the Bank. As a practical matter, collective responsibility for the conduct of Bank affairs rests with the Governing Council, composed of the Governor, the Senior Deputy Governor and the other Deputy Governors.

Responsibilities

The Bank of Canada's primary responsibilities can be grouped into four broad functions: developing and implementing monetary policy, providing central banking services, issuing bank notes, and servicing the public debt.

Monetary policy is the Bank's primary function and most important responsibility. Monetary policy is concerned with managing the rate of monetary expansion in a way that is consistent with preserving the value of money. In terms of central banking services, the Bank plays an active role in Canada's payments clearing and settlement systems, operates deposit accounts for major financial institutions and for the federal government, and manages the government's foreign exchange reserves. The Bank also has sole responsibility for issuing Canada's bank notes, undoubtedly its best-known product. This responsibility involves note design (including features that enhance security against counterfeiting), as well as printing, distributing and eventually replacing bank notes. Coinage, on the other hand, is produced by the Royal Canadian Mint. Lastly, as the government's fiscal agent, the Bank advises the government on matters relating to the public debt, issues government debt, maintains bondholder records, and makes payments on behalf of the government for interest and debt redemption.

Legislation

- Bank Act
- Bank of Canada Act
- Currency Act
- Financial Administration Act
- Payment, Clearing and Settlement Act

Organization

♦ Corporate Services Departments

The Corporate Services Departments provide advice, information and internal services that support the management of the Bank. The Corporate Services departments are: Executive and Legal Services, Communications Services, Management Services (information, human resources and financial services), Infrastructure Services (facilities, office, protective and automation services) and Audit Services. Executive and Legal Services provide corporate secretary support to the Bank's Board of Directors and the management of the Bank. Communications Services provide publication and public information services. As part of the Management Services Department, Financial Services (formerly known as Comptroller's Department), is responsible for the internal financial functions of the Bank, statutory financial reporting requirements, accounting in support of the Exchange Fund Account and administration of unclaimed bank balances.

♦ Department of Banking Operations

The overall responsibility of the Department is to provide efficient and effective service to other central banks, international financial organizations, the Government of Canada, chartered banks, trust companies and other financial organizations. Its responsibilities include the security and administration of valuables such as gold and securities, the provision of banking services to other clients, and all aspects of the issuance of bank notes, including custody of the National Currency Collection. The Department also provides fiscal functions for which the Bank of Canada acts as an agent for the Government of Canada. These functions include the clearing of government obligations and receiving deposits for the account of the Government of Canada. Finally the Department participates with the Research Department in the Bank's Regional Presence activities.

♦ Department of Monetary and Financial Analysis

This department is responsible for analyzing the transmission mechanism of monetary policy and contributing to the Bank's role in providing for financial stability. The department monitors and analyzes the evolution of financial variables such as monetary aggregates, credit aggregates and interest rates. It also monitors the evolution of the financial institutions, financial intermediation and payments systems to assess the implications for monetary policy and financial stability. It provides advice on regulatory and supervisory issues related to the financial sector policies under the jurisdiction of the federal government. Finally the department is responsible for the regulatory oversight of major clearing and settlement systems.

◆ Financial Markets Department

This department has both operational and analytical duties. Its most important operational functions are to help implement monetary policy through its activities in financial markets, to conduct foreign exchange operations as fiscal agent for the government and the Bank, and to issue Government of Canada securities (principally treasury bills and marketable bonds) both domestically and abroad. Its analytical function is to monitor conditions in financial markets, forecast key financial flows and study relevant financial relationships. The results are communicated to the Bank's senior officers for their use in formulating monetary policy, advising the government on matters related to debt management, and influencing the development of capital market structures appropriate to Canadian needs.

◆ Government Securities Services

This department is responsible for administering Government of Canada domestic securities. Its functions include: development and distribution of debt certificates; maintenance of the debt register information; servicing the holders of debt instruments through account statements, interest payments, product information and other client services; and managing the order-taking and redemption processes through intermediaries.

◆ International Department

The principal responsibilities of this department include producing timely analyses of current and prospective economic developments in foreign countries, providing policy advice on issues addressed by international organizations such as the International Monetary Fund and the OECD, and undertaking studies on international financial markets and economic policy issues.

◆ Research Department

This department's primary responsibility is to assess the significance of current economic developments and prospects in Canada and to keep Bank management fully informed about them. An aspect of this responsibility is to seek further understanding of the operation of the economy and of public policies which are, or could be, employed in an attempt to regulate it.

British Columbia Treaty Commission

Chapter 5

General Information

Background

The BC Treaty Commission ("BCTC") was created in September 1992 through an agreement between the Government of Canada, the Government of British Columbia and the First Nations Summit ("the Principals"), whose members represent the majority of First Nations in British Columbia.

The BCTC received statutory recognition through the Treaty Commission Act passed by the Legislature of British Columbia in April 1993 and through the BC Treaty Commission Act passed by the federal government in December 1995, both of which were proclaimed in force in March 1996. The First Nations Summit also passed a resolution in April 1993 to establish the BCTC.

Responsibilities

The role of the BCTC is to facilitate the negotiation of treaties and, where the Parties agree, other related agreements in British Columbia.

Legislation

- BC Treaty Commission Act

Organization

Administration

Responsible for finance, contracts and administration, human resources, and information management.

Table Negotiations

Responsible for monitoring negotiations and providing facilitation services where requested by all three parties; monitoring compliance with the Commission's Policies & Procedures for negotiations.

Negotiation Support Funding

Responsible for administering negotiation support funding which is provided by Canada and British Columbia to First Nations in the process.

Communications

Responsible for reporting annually on the Treaty Commission, the treaty process, treaty negotiations and the status of each negotiation, and under a Public Information and Education Agreement with the Government of Canada and the Government of British Columbia begun in 1997, responsible for province-wide information on the treaty process and treaty negotiations.

Business Development Bank of Canada

Chapter 6

Background

The Business Development Bank of Canada (BDC) is a Crown corporation which was established by an Act of Parliament effective October 2, 1975 as the Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB), and continued under its new name by an Act of Parliament on July 13, 1995. FBDB, in turn, had succeeded the Industrial Development Bank which was formed in 1944.

BDC's mandate is to support Canadian entrepreneurship by providing financial and management services, giving particular attention to the needs of small and medium-sized enterprises. A network of branches across Canada provide the full range of the Bank's services to small and medium-sized businesses located in each branch territory.

Responsibilities

The Bank is responsible for acting as a complementary lender, providing funds by means of loans and equity financing to small and medium-sized businesses to fill out or complete services available from commercial financial institutions. Through its Investment Group, the Bank is also responsible for providing venture capital and subordinate financing in addition to, or in place of, loans and guarantees.

Legislation

- Business Development Bank of Canada Act

Organization

The Bank has a network of approximately eighty branches across Canada organized into areas reporting to a Head Office located in Montreal.

Corporate resources located in regional Service Centres and Head Office provide guidance to branches with respect to the application of established Bank policy and procedures. They also process financing applications for amounts exceeding branch limits.

The branches provide financing and management services to small and medium businesses located within their particular territory. Enquiries and applications for financing and managerial support are received by branch personnel and processed in accordance with established policy and procedure.

Furthermore, enquiries and applications may be received through the Business Service Centre located in Head Office.

The various services and departments of the Bank include the following:

Consulting Group (formerly Management Services Division)

The Consulting Group offers BDC's management services by providing consulting services to help Canadian entrepreneurs strengthen their management capabilities.

BDC's consulting services provide entrepreneurs with the specialized support they need to enhance their business performance. Consulting in a variety of areas including finance and accounting, human resources, marketing, planning and general management is provided through a network of experienced business professionals and specialists.

Financial Services

◆ Investment Group

Responsible for all equity, venture capital and subordinate financing. Its role is to act as a catalyst in stimulating the formation of risk capital for companies with high growth potential. It ensures that all proposals satisfy Bank policy and are financially viable. This Division assesses, on a continuing basis, the adequacy and suitability of investment policy and procedures and, when necessary, recommends changes. The services of this Division include direct purchase of a minority ownership interest as well as syndication of proposals to other venture capitalists and financial institutions.

◆ Loans Division

Establishes and oversees policies and procedures with respect to the provision of financial assistance to small and medium-sized businesses. In addition, the Division oversees the management of the Bank's loan portfolio for the entire life of all accounts. Most financing is provided in the form of loans for such purposes as purchasing fixed assets, replenishing working capital, refinancing, and financing a change of ownership. Guarantees may be provided to other financial institutions to enable a business to obtain an adequate line of credit. Through the operations of BDC Connex – BDC's "virtual bank" – BDC offers on-line access to its financial services.

Head Office Departments

◆ Audit and Inspection Department

Conducts reviews of the Bank's systems of internal control.

♦ Controller's

Responsible for all financial planning, accounting and control in the Bank.

♦ Corporate Development

Responsible for formulating the Bank's strategic, corporate and operating plans; analysis of existing activities and corporate development. It also provides information on economic conditions and the impact of the Bank's activities upon the economy.

♦ Corporate Office

Provides the Bank with the strategic direction required to manage its activities and achieve its mandate and objectives.

♦ Government Relations

Responsible for the coordination of communications between the Bank and the Minister, the government and members of Parliament, and has responsibility for international relations.

♦ Human Resources and Administration

Provides the Bank with corporate-wide human resources management. It is also responsible for official languages, employment equity and payroll services. It also provides overall administration support services including lease administration of the Bank's premises.

♦ Insurance

Responsible for insurance related to loan security and corporate insurance.

♦ Legal Services and Corporate Secretariat

Provides legal advice to the Bank in connection with its specific program activities and support departments. This department is also responsible for the Board of Directors, its Committees, and responses to Parliament.

♦ Loan Portfolio Risk Management

Provides an ongoing assessment of the quality of authorized loans and ensures credit risk is minimized.

♦ Marketing

Develops all financial products, and ensure that the Bank's products evolve with the needs of its customers.

♦ Ombudsman's Office

Resolves all customer complaints not solved at other levels.

♦ Public Affairs

This department is responsible for advertising and public relations to promote the role and activities of the Bank.

♦ Systems and Technology

Develops and maintains business systems (manual and computerized) to support the operational functions and management information needs of the Bank.

♦ Training

Responsible for establishing and executing competency standards and accreditation methods to develop a balanced and skilled work force.

♦ Treasury

Responsible for funding of corporate cash requirements, monitoring of cash flow, deposit and investment of corporate funds and interest rate forecasts.

Special Initiatives

The Bank also delivers programs on behalf of other government departments to meet the needs of specific entrepreneurial groups. One such initiative is the administration of the Student Business Loan program on behalf of Human Resources Development Canada. This program encourages full-time students to start-up their own business during the summer months.

Canada Council for the Arts

Chapter 7

General Information

Background

The Canada Council for the Arts was created by the Parliament of Canada in 1957 (Canada Council Act, 1957, RSC 1970 c-2, as amended). The mandate of the Canada Council (Section 8(1)) is "to foster and promote the study and enjoyment of, and the production of works in, the arts."

Responsibilities

The general policy objective of the Canada Council for the Arts is to recognize, foster and promote excellence in the arts. Most of its grants are awarded through an extensive system of competitions judged by juries of practising artists and other independent specialists in the particular disciplines.

In addition to its mandate to foster and promote the arts, the Canada Council for the Arts has been assigned responsibility for the Canadian Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) (Subsection 8(2), Order-in-Council PC 1957-831), in conformity with the constitution of UNESCO.

The Council also administers the Killam program of scholarly awards and prizes, financed from a private legacy. The Public Lending Right Commission, which provides payments to Canadian authors for the public use of their works in Canadian libraries, operates under the aegis of the Council.

Legislation

- Canada Council Act

Organization

Arts Division

♦ Canada Council Art Bank

Rents a collection of over 17,000 works of art by more than 2,500 contemporary Canadian artists to federal government departments and agencies, public institutions, non-profit organizations and to the private sector.

♦ Dance Section

Responsible for support to individual artists and to professional Canadian dance companies and organizations in ballet, modern and experimental dance.

♦ Media Arts Section

Provides support to independent professional artists for the creation of works using conventional and/or new acoustic and visual technologies and their related media. It administers four production and creative development programs: film, video, new media and audio, and first productions. It also administers a presentation, distribution and development program. These programs are concerned with production and dissemination in multiple format media, including computer processing, visual and acoustic imaging and system control. In addition to direct production assistance, support is available to non-profit media art organizations through operational and project funds, as well as interdisciplinary work and performance art creation and touring grants.

♦ Music Section

Responsible for support to professional Canadian musicians, music companies, organizations and associations. Its programs include grants to orchestras, opera companies, choirs, contemporary/new music groups, small ensembles and other music groups and organizations in jazz, world and folk music, commissioning of Canadian compositions, residencies, aid to sound recording by Canadian producers and companies, and touring, presenting and management in Canada.

♦ Theatre Section

Responsible for support to professional theatre artists, companies and organizations. Its programs include grants to individual theatre artists, theatre production project grants, First Peoples' infrastructure project grants, operating grants to professional theatre organizations, theatre touring and presenting program.

♦ Visual Arts Section

Responsible for support to professional visual artists, art institutions, and associations. Its programs include aid to artist centres; exhibition and programming assistance to art galleries; visiting artist program; studios in Paris and Rome, Chalmers fund for the crafts; project assistance for initiatives in contemporary visual art and architecture.

♦ Writing and Publishing Section

Responsible for support to publishing companies, organizations and associations, and support to writers. Its programs include block grants and project grants to book publishers; translation grants; aid to international translation; aid to periodicals; promotion and distribution of Canadian books and periodicals.

Art Bank Data Bank

Description: The Art Bank databank is divided into two interlinked database systems: one which deals with the collection of works of art and the artists, the other, with the contractual part of the rental program. Topics: A) In addition to the hard copy records and files, information on all artists in the collection is maintained and includes: year of birth, year of death, sex, language (English or French), address and telephone number (if available). Information is also maintained on all works in the collection and includes: titles, execution date, medium, weight, dimensions, symmetry, signature and date location on work, date of purchase, price, jury members at time of purchase, physical location of the work and a history of the rented and exhibited works. B) Rental contracts are produced from the Contract database and links every rented work in the collection to a rental agreement. In addition to the hard copy records and files, information maintained includes: department name, contact (address and telephone number), location of each rented work (room, section, floor, building, street address), rental fee for each work and all factual information related to each contract. Access: Financial records and accounts receivable are maintained for all active agreements.

Art Bank Digital Image Bank

Description: The Art Bank Image Bank contains some 20,000 images of works of art from the Canada Council Art Bank. Topics: These images, delivered in three-size formats: Thumbnail, Quick-View and Full-size, are stored on a stand-alone computer using a software technology called ArchiMedia, short for archives of media. This software links the images with some basic artist and artwork information such as: artist name, title and execution date of work, medium, weight, dimensions and rental fee. This information is downloaded from our database and updated on a regular basis. There is a master Kodak Photo CD for all works in this bank. Access: It is used mainly by the Art Consultants as a marketing tool with potential rental clients. Storage Medium: Computerized digital images and database.

Program Record Number: CAC ART 017

Art Bank Programs

Description: Correspondence and information on the Art Bank. Topics: Policy; Advisory selection committee; insurance; loans to art galleries for exhibitions; long-term loans to galleries; special purchase assistance; special projects. Access: Files arranged by subject for program files. All program files and case files, except art gallery purchases, are maintained by the Art Bank. Storage Medium: Paper case files. Program Record Number: CAC ARB 155

Arts Awards Service – Case files

Description: Case files for all grants that were administered by the Arts Awards Service. (The Arts Awards' programs have been cancelled and support to individual artists has been integrated in the disciplinary sections.) Topics: Arts grants "A" and "B", non-fiction writing; project and travel grants. Access: Files are arranged by applicant and are retained by the Canada Council for the Arts for a period of eight years. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CAC AAS 050

Arts Division – General File

Description: Correspondence and other information on the Arts Division, but not unique to a specific discipline or section. Topics: Policies and procedures; art surveys and reports; studies; arts advisory policies and historical data; appeal procedures. Access: Information arranged by program, by subject. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CAC ART 015

Arts Programs Data Bank

Description: In addition to the hard copy records and files, the electronic data bank of information is maintained on all individuals, group of individuals and organizations who apply for grants. Topics: This bank includes the applicant's name, address, sex, language of applications (English and French), title of project and amounts of money requested and awarded. Adjudication records and financial payment are maintained for each program. The bank is used for historical records of all applicants and to initiate and record payment transactions. Sections and programs included in this Data Bank are Arts Awards Service, Dance Section, Explorations Program, Killam Program, Media Arts Section, Music Section, Theatre Section, Touring Office, Visual Arts Section, Writing and Publishing Section. (The Arts Awards Service, the Explorations Program and the Touring Office have been cancelled but support has been integrated in the disciplinary sections.) Access: Information arranged by applicant, by program. Storage Medium: Computerized database. Program Record Number: CAC ART 002

Assistance to First Peoples for Curatorial Residencies in Visual Arts

Description: This initiative provides professional development in all aspects of curatorial practice in visual arts to First Peoples at their chosen host institution. For this program, visual arts includes painting, sculpture, mixed media, installation, photography and crafts. The minimum duration of each residency is one year. Topics: Grants to individuals. Access: Files arranged by applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CAC FPS 031

Canada Customs and Revenue Agency

Chapter 8

Background

In 1927, the Department of National Revenue Act (now RSC 1985, C. N-16) established the Department of National Revenue by renaming the Department of Customs and Excise. The Department was responsible for assessing and collecting duty and tax, monitoring the movement of people and goods across the Canadian border and protecting Canadian industries from foreign competition.

The same act created a second department to collect income tax, a responsibility that a commissioner from the Department of Finance had been meeting. Each department had the same minister, but had its own departmental organization and deputy minister.

In May 1994, Bill C-2, an act to amend the Department of National Revenue Act received royal assent and formed the legal basis to create a consolidated department to perform the activities previously done by Revenue Canada, Customs and Excise and Revenue Canada, Taxation. A new regional structure was implemented in July 1994, combining the 23 parallel regions of Customs, Excise, and Taxation into six consolidated regions. The Headquarters organization was also consolidated into six restructured program branches and six corporate branches.

On November 1999, Revenue Canada began operations as the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency (CCRA).

Over the past several decades, Revenue Canada has come to play an ever greater role in Canadian society. In addition to its traditional role of administering Canada's tax system, trade policies, and borders services, it now plays a role in revenue generation and income redistribution. It also administers the Free Trade Agreement, the North American Free Trade Agreement, and the World Trade Organization Agreement.

In fulfilling these responsibilities, the Agency administers 66 acts of Parliament, works for the federal, provincial, and territorial governments, and deals with virtually every business and individual in Canada.

Responsibilities

The CCRA's responsibilities include revenue collection, trade administration, customs borders services, and various social and economic payments.

It works for the federal, provincial, and territorial governments, as well as individuals and businesses, to support Canada's social and economic progress.

The CCRA administers the Canada Child Tax Benefit, the goods and services tax/harmonized sales tax (GST/HST) credit, and many provincial and territorial benefit and credit programs. It also collects federal and some provincial income tax, GST/HST, Canada Pension Plan contributions, Employment Insurance premiums, and customs and excise duties. As well, it collects excise tax and, for provinces with agreements with the federal government, provincial sales tax, tobacco taxes, liquor markups, and levies on non-commercial imports.

The CCRA administers the border and trade aspects of the North American Free Trade Agreement and the World Trade Organization (WTO) Agreement, as well as administering Canada's international tax agreements with other countries.

The CCRA works in partnership with law enforcement agencies and federal departments to protect Canadians and society as a whole by preventing illegal and dangerous goods and inadmissible people from entering Canada, and monitoring the movement of controlled and regulated goods.

The CCRA continually strives to deliver our programs and services effectively, fairly, and at the lowest possible cost. Its goals are to:

- provide accessible, responsive, and reliable services at an affordable cost;
- deliver fair, responsible, and effective enforcement programs in a way that directly responds to changes in the environment;
- minimize the administrative cost and compliance burden on clients through the streamlining and simplifying of legislation, programs, and operations;
- apply the principles of fairness diligently and consistently in all CCRA programs to keep public confidence and encourage voluntary compliance;
- make sure employees have the knowledge, skills, and support to work effectively in an environment that promotes and recognizes exemplary performance; and
- provide effective support for our programs and initiatives through responsive, modern, and integrated corporate policies, systems, and processes.

Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation

Chapter 9

Background

The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) was established in 1967 by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act. The Corporation's primary role is to provide, for the benefit of persons having deposits in a bank, trust or loan company, insurance against the loss of all or part of their deposits to a maximum of $60,000 in the event of the failure of the member institution concerned. The definition of "deposit" may be summarized as moneys received by a member institution which it is obligated to repay on demand, or on a fixed or determinable date that is within five years from the date of the deposit. Deposits not payable in Canada or repayable in foreign currency are not insured. In the furtherance of its main function, the Corporation may, amongst other powers, acquire assets from, or make or guarantee loans or deposits to a member institution for the purpose of averting or reducing a threatened loss to the Corporation.

Responsibilities

The Corporation's primary role is set out above. The Corporation's secondary role includes examining the affairs of member institutions in order to obtain information for deposit insurance purposes (under legislation, the examination of member institutions is the responsibility of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions); acting as lender of last resort to provide short-term liquidation loans under specified authority; managing the acquired assets of member institutions; and reducing the risk of loss to the Corporation by guaranteeing loans or deposits with a member institution. In addition, the Corporation acts as curator of a bank, or liquidator or receiver of a member institution, and manages, monitors and invests a deposit insurance fund and other funds accumulated from the operations of the Corporation.

♦ Audit and Consulting Services

This division is responsible for an independent examination and review of internal controls, policies and procedures; systems and practices; their application; and the extent to which they protect the interests of the Corporation. The internal auditor develops and maintains this function in accordance with provisions related to Crown corporations as outlined in the Financial Administration Act.

♦ Field Operations Division

The primary functions of this division are to develop systems and procedures for the conduct of interventions and to manage the operations of a number of member accounts.

♦ Finance and Administration

This division is composed of four departments: Finance, Human Resources, Information Systems, and Communications and Public Affairs. The Finance Department is responsible for the accounting, planning and treasury activities of the Corporation. Internally, the division provides the diverse services, tools and environment necessary for Corporation staff to effectively and efficiently carry out their duties. Externally, the division provides specialized services to government, member institutions and the general public (e.g., 1-800 information lines, public awareness activities, payout support).

♦ Insurance and Risk Assessment Division

The main responsibility of this division is the effective operation of the insurance, member relations and risk assessment functions of the Corporation. The division is also responsible for developing and establishing standards of sound business and financial practices, and determining practices that warrant a premium increase.

♦ Legal Division

This division is responsible for providing legal counsel and advice in all legal matters affecting the Corporation. It also performs duties assigned to it by the Board of Directors.

Canada Economic Development for Quebec Regions

Chapter 10

General Information

Background

Under the order adopted on February 13, 1998, Economic Development Agency of Canada for the Regions of Quebec (CED) became the new name of the organization formerly known as the Federal Office of Regional Development (Quebec), or FORD(Q). FORD(Q) was created in June 1991, and has been part of the Industry Portfolio since January 1996.

Responsibilities

Under the Department of Industry Act, the objective of Canada Economic Development for the Regions of Quebec is to promote economic development in areas of Quebec where low incomes and slow economic growth are prevalent or where opportunities for productive employment are inadequate, to emphasize on long-term economic development and sustainable employment and income creation and to focus on small-and medium-sized enterprises and the development and enhancement of entrepreneurship.

Legislation

- Atlantic Enterprise Loan Insurance Regulations with regard to projects in the Province of Quebec
- Canada Small Business Financing Act
- Department of Industry Act regarding regional economic development in the Province of Quebec
- Enterprise Development Regulations with regard to contributions and projects in the Province of Quebec
- Industrial and Regional Development Act regarding activities in the Province of Quebec
- Small Business Loans Act
- Special Areas Act regarding activities in the Province of Quebec

Organization

As member of the Industry Portfolio, Canada Economic Development reports to the Minister of Industry Canada. A Secretary of State assumes the Agency's responsibilities for the economic development of the regions of Quebec.

Canada Economic Development for the Regions of Quebec is headquartered in Montréal and has a network of 13 business offices in various regions of Quebec and provides clients with information on its programs and services through its Internet site, www.dec-ced.gc.ca.

The Executive Assistant and Ministerial Advisor, Assistant Deputy Minister, Operations, Assistant Deputy Minister, Strategy and Liaison, Director General, Communications, Director General, Resource Management and Director, Legal Services, report to the Deputy Minister.

Deputy Minister

The Deputy Minister is responsible, on behalf of the Minister, for the day-to-day management of the Agency. He also supports and contributes to collective management of the government. He acts as senior policy advisor for the Minister and the government, and is assisted in his activities by the Executive Assistant and Ministerial Advisor, who serves as a co-ordinator in support of senior management. The Executive Assistant and Ministerial Advisor heads the Corporate Secretariat, which is responsible for document management, ministerial correspondence, parliamentary relations and enforcement of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

Operations

The Assistant Deputy Minister, Operations, is responsible for program development and the delivery of all Agency products and services, as well as for negotiating and managing partnership agreements with other federal departments and outside organizations, such as financial institutions. He is in charge of implementing agreements with the Quebec government, including the Infrastructure Agreement. The Assistant Deputy Minister, Operations, heads the Regional Operations Branch, the Inter-Regional Intervention and Partnership Branch and a network of 13 business offices throughout Quebec.

The business offices, located in various parts of Quebec, are nerve centres for the delivery of the programs and services of Canada Economic Development for the Regions of Quebec. They play an active role in establishing the Agency's priorities and approaches and in adjusting programs and services to the local situation. Regional teams represent the Agency with local organizations and hold consultations with the community. They also enable the Government of Canada to publicize its policies and its activities with regard to the economic development of the regions.

Strategy and Liaison

The Assistant Deputy Minister, Strategy and Liaison, is responsible for defining the Agency's strategic orientations, carrying out the necessary socio-economic studies, providing the Agency's input to the creation of national policy, promoting Quebec regional interests at the federal level, maintaining the quality system, the performance measurement and managing information.

He administers these operational entities: Portfolio Management Branch and Interdepartmental Liaison, Policy and Advocacy Branch, both located in Hull, the Planning and Strategic Orientations Branch and the Quality, Evaluation and Information Management Branch.

Communications

The Communications Branch is responsible for developing and implementing a communication program to inform the public of the Agency's contribution and, in the case of special mandates, the Government of Canada's contribution, to the economic development of the regions of Quebec.

Resource Management

The Resource Management Branch (human, financial and administrative) is responsible for creating programs and policies and delivering strategic and corporate services in all areas related to the management of resources. The Branch participates in implementing the Expenditure Management System, controlling revenues and expenditures and drawing up financial policies, procedures and systems. It ensures liaison with the Office of the Auditor General of Canada, the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Public Service Commission. Lastly, it is responsible for the management of administrative and real property services, government contracts and purchasing.

Legal Services

The Legal Services Branch provides legal assistance and opinion relevant to the Agency activities. More specifically, Legal Services activities focus on commercial law and its impact on public law. The Branch also provides litigation support services.

The Canada Business Service Centre (CBSC) Initiative was introduced to provide Canadian firms with easier access to a wide range of information on government services, programs and regulations. There are currently 34 federal business departments and agencies participating in this initiative, as well as other levels of government and non-governmental organizations.

Three regional development agencies and Industry Canada (IC) are designated as federal managing partners and are responsible for the development and management of the CBSCs in their areas.

Currently there are twelve CBSC centres, one in every province, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon. The participants and designated federal managing partners who are responsible for the development and management of the CBSCs vary from province to province. Western Economic Diversification (WD) manages the centres in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Industry Canada manages the centres in Ontario, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. The Canada Economic Development Agency for Quebec Regions (CED) manages the Quebec centre. The Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency (ACOA) manages the centres in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

A national CBSC Secretariat provides centralized support to the network of regional CBSCs and promotes development of the CBSC initiative. The Secretariat is located at Industry Canada. Guidelines for operation of the Secretariat are issued by the Assistant Deputy Ministers' Managing Partners Committee, with representatives from ACOA, WED, IC and CED. It acts as the secretariat for the Managers Operating Committee, the Information Management Committee and the Information Specialists Committee. It also coordinates the dissemination of information from participating federal business departments.

Canada Industrial Relations Board

Chapter 11

General Information

Background

The Canada Industrial Relations Board (CIRB) is an independent, representational, quasi-judicial tribunal responsible for the interpretation and application of the Canada Labour Code, Part I, Industrial Relations, and certain provisions of Part II, Occupational Safety and Health.

Part I of the Canada Labour Code had remained virtually unchanged since 1972. However, with the coming into force on January 1, 1999 of Bill C-19, an Act to amend the Canada Labour Code (Part I), R.S. 1998 C. 26, significant changes were made to the Code in an effort to modernize it and improve the collective bargaining process for federally regulated industries. The Act also replaced the former Canada Labour Relations Board with the Canada Industrial Relations Board.

The Board has jurisdiction in regard to some 700,000 employees engaged in federal jurisdiction industries, which include interprovincial transportation (air, land and water), broadcasting, banking, longshoring and grain handling, and to private sector employees in Nunavut, the Yukon, and the Northwest Territories.

Responsibilities

The Board's mandate is to contribute to and promote effective industrial relations in any work, undertaking or business that falls within the authority of the Parliament of Canada. It interprets and applies the Code in a manner that supports and promotes free collective bargaining and the constructive settlement of disputes.

In general, Part I of the Canada Labour Code charges the Board with a two-fold responsibility: that of granting, modifying and terminating bargaining rights, and that of resolving, through mediation or adjudication, complaints of unfair labour practice concerning violations of the Code by trade unions or employers.

Under Part II of the Code, the Board must rule on complaints by employees alleging that they have been discriminated against or punished for exercising their rights in relation to safety.

On finding a violation of the Code, the Board is empowered to order reinstatement and compensation where appropriate. It is also empowered, upon application, to order employees to return to work in cases of illegal work stoppages and to attempt to resolve or adjudicate, where necessary, various other types of disputes that may arise under Part I of the Code.

Legislation

- Canada Labour Code (Parts I and II)
- Canada Industrial Relations Board Regulations, 1978, SOR 78-499

Organization

The Board is composed of a chairperson, at least two full-time vice-chairpersons (at present four) and not more than six full-time members (three representing employees and three representing employers) (at present six full-time and six part-time), all appointed by order-in-council. The chairperson and vice-chairpersons are appointed for five-year terms; members are appointed for three-year terms. This makes up the Adjudicative Branch of the Board.

The Board is managed by the executive director, who is responsible for regional operations, case management, information management and information technology, financial and administrative services and human resources. The Board's Legal Services Branch, headed by the senior legal counsel, provides legal assistance as required by the Board, and acts as the Board's legal counsel in most judicial review proceedings.

The majority of the Board's staff, as well as its full-time vice-chairpersons and members, work out of the headquarters (National Capital Region) office; the Board also has five regional offices and a satellite office, all staffed with labour relations professionals and case management teams.

Information Holdings

Acquisition and Termination of Bargaining Rights

Description: Case files concerning the acquisition by trade unions of the right to bargain collectively on behalf of employees in the federal jurisdiction, through certification as bargaining agent or by way of successor rights, and the termination of bargaining rights. Topics: Application for certification; application for declaration of single employer; application for revocation of certification; application for declaration of successor rights; application for declaration of sale of business; application for access to employer's premises for the purpose of soliciting union membership. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 005

Change of Terms and Conditions of Employment

Description: Application by employers under federal jurisdiction for permission to alter the rates of pay, or any other terms or conditions of employment, or any rights or privileges of employees who are the subject of an application by a trade union to represent the employees in collective bargaining. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 035

Collective Bargaining and Collective Agreements

Description: Applications concerning the existence of disputed collective agreements or the identification of parties bound by a collective agreement; applications concerning the failure of an employer to comply with obligations under a collective agreement respecting any proposed technological change; applications for permission to give the employer notice to begin collective bargaining following a notice of technological change; references from the Minister of Labour directing the Board to inquire into disputes related to the settlement of first collective agreements, and to impose a first agreement on the parties if necessary; applications by individuals who, because of religious beliefs, object to joining a trade union or to paying regular union dues to a trade union (the Board may allow an exception for such individuals, directing the amount normally paid for regular union dues to a registered charity chosen by the employee and the union); applications by parties to a collective agreement to serve notice to bargain following the establishment of a portion of the public service as a Crown corporation and following certain determinations by the Board as to whether the agreement will remain in force, the expiration date if it does remain in force, whether the employees concerned constitute one or more units appropriate for collective bargaining, and which trade union shall be the bargaining agent for each unit. Topics: Determination of the existence of a collective agreement; revision of terms of collective agreement; technological change; leave to serve notice to bargain concerning technological change; provision of first agreement; religious objections; portion of the public service established as Crown corporation. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 030

Complaints of Unfair Labour Practice

Description: Complaints by persons or organizations that an employer, a trade union or a person has violated or failed to comply with provisions of the Canada Labour Code, Part I (Industrial Relations). Topics: Complaints related to failure to bargain in good faith, interference with the bargaining rights of a bargaining agent and changing of conditions of employment without the consent of the bargaining agent during the prescribed bargaining period; complaints alleging offences by employers such as interference with the formation or administration of a union or the representation of employees by a trade union, or discrimination against employees for union membership, union activity or the exercise of their rights under the Code; complaints alleging violations by trade unions such as trying to force an employer to bargain collectively in respect of employees for whom the union is not the bargaining agent, bargaining with an employer in respect of employees with the knowledge that another organization is the actual bargaining agent, interference in the formation or administration of an employer's organization, unauthorized soliciting of employees during their working hours at their place of employment, requiring the termination of an employee for loss of union membership unless that loss of membership is the result of failure to pay the required union fees, the application of membership rules or disciplinary procedures in a discriminatory manner, and discriminating against a person in matters related to employment or union membership because a person has exercised certain rights or fulfilled specified obligations under the Code; complaints alleging failure of a trade union to represent fairly all employees in the bargaining unit, or failure to establish rules for the referral of members to employment and apply the rules fairly, and alleging failure of a trade union to provide certified financial statements of its affairs to the end of its last fiscal year to any of its members free of charge. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 010

Review and Enforcement of Orders

Description: Applications to amend or rescind previous Board decisions or to reconsider previous decisions; requests to file Board orders in the federal court to give them the weight of an Order of the Court; or applications for the written consent of the Board to prosecute an offence under the Canada Labour Code. Topics: Application for review; filing of Board order in court; consent to prosecute. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 025

Safety of Employees

Description: Complaints by employees alleging that their employer has imposed a penalty on them because they refused to work in accordance with their rights under Part II of the Canada Labour Code (Refusal to Work because of a Dangerous Situation). Program Record Number: CLR OPS 020

Unlawful Work Stoppage

Description: Applications by an employer (in the case of a strike) or by a trade union (in the case of a lockout) for a declaration that the work stoppage is unlawful and for an order returning employees to work. Topics: Applications concerning unlawful strikes; applications in cases of unlawful lockout. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 015

Description: This bank contains requests submitted by individuals seeking access to information under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act; replies to such requests; and information relating to their processing. Class of Individuals: Individuals submitting requests for access to information under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Purpose: The information is used to process formal access requests in accordance with the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Consistent Uses: This bank is also used to report to Treasury Board on access requests received under the Acts. Retention and Disposition Standards: Records are retained for two years after the last administrative action, then destroyed. PAC Number: 98/001 TBS Registration: 004457 Bank Number: CIR PPU 020

Religious Objections

Description: This bank contains applications by individuals who, because of religious beliefs, object to joining a trade union or to paying regular union dues to a trade union. The Board may order that a provision in a collective agreement requiring membership in a trade union or the payment of union dues as a condition of employment, not be applied to such employees. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an employee's objections to membership in a trade union are based on true religious convictions. Consistent Uses: Religious objections may occasionally require a public hearing to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision regarding the objections. Such a hearing may result in the publication of a written judgement containing the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting, or rejecting, the application. Retention and Disposal Standards: Simple cases (i.e., those that are withdrawn or settled without the holding of a public hearing) are kept for two years and then destroyed. Other cases are kept by the Board for 10 years, and then transferred to the National Archives of

Canada for selective retention. Related to PR#: CLR OPS 030 TBS Registration: 002331 Bank Number: CLR PPU 015

Termination of Bargaining Rights

Description: This bank contains case files concerning applications for revocation of certifications which grant bargaining agents (unions) the right to represent employees in collective bargaining with employers in the federal jurisdiction. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an individual is a member of the bargaining unit and therefore entitled to express support for or against his or her bargaining agent. Consistent Uses: Applications for revocation may occasionally require a public hearing in order to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision and may result in the publication of a written judgement which will contain the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting or rejecting it. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for five years for successful applications and three years for unsuccessful applications, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Cases which are withdrawn are destroyed after two years. PAC Number: 84-015 Related to PR#: CLR OPS 005 TBS Registration: 000102 Bank Number: CLR PPU 010

Unsolicited Applications for Employment

Description: This bank maintains an inventory of applications from individuals requesting employment with the Department. The files include completed application forms, letters, and curricula vitae of persons seeking employment with the Department. Class of Individuals: Individuals seeking employment with the Department. Purpose: The bank is used to review applications of individuals requesting employment with the Department when positions become available. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six months and then destroyed. PAC Number: 98/001 TBS Registration: 004458 Bank Number: CIR PPU 025

Violations of the Canada Labour Code

Description: This bank contains case files concerning complaints by individuals that a section, or sections, of the Canada Labour Code, Parts I and II have been violated by their employer, their union, or another individual. Files may contain information on grievances, work records, or letters from unions or employers containing opinions or comments about individuals. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Information about individuals is obtained solely for the purpose of bringing about a settlement to the dispute or, failing settlement, for the purpose of adjudication by the Board on the merits of the complaint. Consistent Uses: Information contained in case files, along with testimony given at public hearings may be published in written judgements which set out the Board's reasons for rejecting or upholding a complaint. Personal information is used solely for the purpose of settling or deciding on the merits of each case and is published solely for the purpose of explaining the Board's reasons for its decision and its policy in like cases. Retention and Disposal Standards: Case files are kept for five years if successful and three years if unsuccessful, and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Settled cases are kept for the minimum two years required and then destroyed. PAC Number: 84-015 Related to PR#: CLR OPS 010 TBS Registration: 000101 Bank Number: CLR PPU 005

Other Personal Information Banks

Other case files and subject files held by operational services may contain personal information such as names of individuals, addresses, position titles, job descriptions, salaries, and membership in a trade union. The information is not retrievable by personal identifiers and is collected solely for the purpose of administering the Canada Labour Code. All files are organized by file number and are maintained by operational services at headquarters in Ottawa. Regional offices retain duplicate files for the purposes of investigation until the settlement of a case. Some personal information such as job descriptions and salaries may be published in written judgements where it is pertinent to the background of a case in which the Canada Industrial Relations Board decides its decision requires formal elaboration. Such information is usually the result of testimony given at public hearings.

Canada Information Office

Chapter 12

Background

The Canada Information Office (CIO) was created on July 9, 1996. In April 1998, following the creation of the ad hoc Cabinet Committee on Government Communications (Committee), the CIO came under the responsibility of the Chair of the Committee, the Honourable Alfonso Gagliano, Minister of Public Works and Government Services. As a result, the CIO was given an additional role which is to provide support and advice to the Committee in its efforts to make government communications more effective and efficient. Since then, the CIO's efforts have been focused on improving communications between the government and citizens.

The Canada Information Office's mandate is to improve communications between the Government of Canada and Canadians. In doing so, we promote better corporate communications by the Government as a whole and support the Government's commitment to a strong and united Canada.

The CIO works with other government departments and agencies, as well as with the private sector and non-governmental organizations, on initiatives to inform Canadians about Canada and the services available to them from the Government of Canada.

At the CIO, we believe the better the Government of Canada communicates with citizens, the better Canadians will know their government, their country and each other.

Responsibilities

We collaborate with government departments, private-sector partners and other non-government organizations to deliver communication products and government-wide initiatives. We engage in two key areas of activity: communications and public opinion research.

Research and analysis helps the Canada Information Office and government departments respond better to your information needs. We conduct research to find out what's on the minds of Canadians, what information they want, and what form they want it in. We do this through:

- public opinion polls, surveys, and other research
- consultation with citizens and national, regional and local groups; and
- media monitoring

We share our findings to add to understanding of Canadians' communications preferences, their top concerns and priorities, and how they differ across the country and over time. Research findings are available on this Web site so you can see what's on the minds of your fellow citizens.

Armed with our research findings, the Canada Information Office works with government departments to plan communications that meet Canadians' needs. Communications take many forms, including:

- direct mail
- toll-free telephone lines
- Web sites
- community newspaper advertising
- television advertising
- cheque inserts
- exhibits and other events

Organization

The CIO is organized along three sectors: Planning, Research and Regional Coordination, Operations and Corporate Services.

Planning, Research and Regional Coordination Sector

This sector sets out the CIO's strategic framework, plans and goals, and evaluates, measures and reports on departmental activities. It is also responsible for the CIO's regional coordination function. Through its public opinion and communications research, environmental scanning and analysis, and network of regional coordinators, the Planning and Research Sector provides strategic advice, evaluations and recommendations that help guide the CIO, other government departments and the ad hoc Cabinet Committee in developing and implementing activities, policies and programs relating to government-wide communications across the country. The Planning and Research Sector is composed of three branches: Strategic Planning, Policy and Evaluation; Research and Analysis; Regional Coordination.

♦ Strategic Planning, Policy and Evaluation Branch

This branch sets out the Canada Information Office's strategic framework, plans and goals. It also evaluates and measures departmental activities, and accordingly prepares performance reports. The Branch provides strategic advice for the CIO's activities and advises on policies and programs relating to government-wide communications.

◆ Research and Analysis Branch

In collaboration with other branches, this branch determines the CIO's research objectives, needs and priorities. It then designs, develops and implements relevant research-related activities and products. These are shared throughout the Government of Canada to increase understanding of the societal trends, factors, issues and events affecting government communications. The branch also coordinates public opinion research for the Government of Canada as a whole in order to ensure concerted planning and sharing in this area of activity.

◆ Regional Coordination Branch

With a communications office in each province, CIO's Regional Coordination Branch aims to make Canadians more aware of the programs and services available to them in communities throughout the country. Regional communication coordinators work closely with senior officials of federal departments to improve corporate communications for the Government of Canada.

Operations Sector

This sector, in partnership with governmental and non-governmental partners, designs and delivers communications products, services and activities that respond to Canadians' needs and desires for information. Through its media monitoring and tracking of government-related events and coordination of Ministerial tours in Quebec, the Operations sector is able to monitor current and emerging trends that influence the achievement of the CIO's strategic objectives. Through its outreach and community relations programs, the CIO is able to reach out to various segments of the population and inform them about the Government's key priorities, programs and services. The Operations Sector is composed of three branches: Communications; Outreach; and Information Services and Operations.

◆ Communications Branch

The Communications Branch develops new products and services that respond to Canadians' needs and desires for information about their country and the programs and services available from the Government of Canada. Among the branch's activities are communications planning, advertising and marketing, publishing media relations, coordination of the federal program of fairs and exhibits and public education projects. The Communications Branch works with a variety of government departments to achieve greater coordination of the government's communications activities and to ensure that they are relevant and reflect the realities of Canada's various regions and communities.

◆ Information Services and Operations Branch

This branch is responsible for following media coverage of current events for the Canada Information Office and for the Government of Canada. It regularly prepares and distributes calendars of activities related to those issues.

The Branch also assists in the coordination of Ministerial tours in Quebec.

◆ Outreach Branch

Outreach runs a community relations program that helps improve communications between the government and Canadians. The Branch works with decision makers, community and opinion leaders, and associations. Through partnerships with these groups, Outreach undertakes citizen-focused activities at national, regional and local levels to promote Government of Canada programs and services to the public. These activities help inform Canadians about the presence and relevance of government across the country and in their local communities.

◆ Corporate Services Branch

This branch is responsible for human resources (pay and benefits, staffing and staff relations), finance and administration (corporate budgets, office management, security, and purchasing), information technology (computer and telecommunications systems, help desk and training) and corporate activities such as parliamentary relations, correspondence, records management, processing of Access to Information and Privacy requests. The Corporate Services Branch is composed of the Corporate Secretariat, the Human Resources Branch, the Information Technology Branch and the Finance and Administration Branch.

◆ Corporate Secretariat

The Corporate Secretariat is responsible for all activities relating to the management of information (correspondence, filing, document revision, reception and mail), as well as the coordination of preparatory and follow-up activities for Question Period in the House of Commons. It is also responsible for information requests related to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

◆ Human Resources Branch

The activities of the Human Resources Branch support departmental personnel in their daily work and in their professional development. The Branch is responsible for pay and benefits, as well as writing job descriptions, staffing positions, and enhancing staff relations. It also helps employees learn how to improve their skills and advance their careers.

◆ Information Technology Branch

This branch oversees all activities related to the Department's computer, information, and telecommunications systems. These activities include purchasing, installation maintenance, upgrading and security monitoring of these vital systems. The Branch manages a user help desk, coordinates and helps produce multi-media presentations for the other sectors, and gives training sessions to staff.

◆ Finance and Administration Branch

The Finance and Administration Branch provides financial, administrative, and personnel (security) services. Its activities include the management and control of corporate budgets, office management, and security and asset management, including the purchase of furniture, supplies and printing services.

Canada Lands Company Limited

Chapter 13

Background

Canada Lands is a non-agent Crown corporation which is mandated to dispose of strategic real properties no longer required by the Government, and to manage certain select properties, in order to generate "optimal value" to the Canadian taxpayer. Optimal value recognizes financial value realized, economic stimulation, and contribution to quality of life in communities.

The primary financial goal of Canada Lands is to create value and generate the optimal cash flow for its Shareholder, the Government of Canada, while carrying out its mandate in a commercially viable and self-financing manner, without any reliance on government appropriations. Effective consultation with stakeholders and transparent operations are central to the Company's operating philosophy.

The Corporation reports to Parliament through the Minister of Public Works and Government Services.

Organization

The Corporation operates on a regional basis with Vice Presidents in charge of Eastern and Western Canada. Corporate functions include accounting, asset management, finance, human resources, management information systems, public and government affairs and corporate secretarial.

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation

Chapter 14

Background

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) was incorporated as a Crown corporation in January, 1946, by an Act of Parliament. CMHC has authority to act for the Government of Canada in all matters prescribed under the Housing Acts, principally the National Housing Act (NHA). CMHC reports to Parliament through a designated Minister. Its affairs are managed by a board of directors consisting of the chairman of the board, the President and eight other members, all appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Responsibilities

CMCH is a Crown Corporation. It was created in 1946, to promote the construction of new houses and improve existing houses, and to improve housing and living conditions for Canadians. In 1996, CMCH received a renewed mandate which redefined the federal role in housing. The new mandate covers activities in home financing, export of Canadian housing products, services and expertise, social housing, and housing-related research and sharing research results.

With the 1996 mandate as the basis, four corporate objectives focus and guide CMCH: to expand housing choice and improve housing affordability; to improve housing and living conditions; to support market competitiveness, job creation and the well-being of the housing sector; and to ensure that CMCH is a modern visible representative of the Government of Canada.

Legislation

- Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act
- Financial Administration Act
- National Housing Act and Regulations

Organization

♦ Audit and Evaluation Services

Performs comprehensive audits of functions, programs, systems and Federal/Provincial Agreements. In addition, conducts special audits involving non-profit and co-op sponsors, real estate fee managers and approved lenders. Periodically evaluates the continued relevance, success and cost-effectiveness of NHA programs and on that basis, the President, with the Board of Directors, recommends to the Minister or Cabinet the reconfirmation, improvement and discontinuance of NHA programs.

♦ Communications and Marketing

This sector consists of Communications and Marketing Operations, Market Research and Planning, Corporate Relations, the Canadian Housing Information Centre (CHIC) and the Canadian Housing Export Centre (CHEC). It is responsible for developing strategies for communications, marketing and export activities, coordinating business line communications, marketing and export efforts and opportunities, performing corporate marketing research management, product development and distribution, monitoring client needs and market trends and ensuring consistent communications and marketing messages. It is responsible for liaison activities between the Corporation and the Minister's Office. CHIC is Canada's largest most comprehensive housing library which serves the public and the housing industry. CHEC works with the housing industry and Team Canada to develop and promote the export of Canadian housing products, services and expertise abroad.

♦ Corporate Services

This sector is responsible for the business systems required to support many of the operational needs of the Corporation and its financial processes. It includes Finance, Administrative Services, Information Technology and Risk Management.

♦ Legal Services and Corporate Secretary

Background

Canada Post is a federal Crown corporation, established by the Canada Post Corporation Act on October 16, 1981. It collects, processes and delivers mail across Canada, and between Canada and more than 200 postal administrations around the globe. The Corporation delivers approximately 9 billion messages and parcels annually to over 12 million addresses in rural and urban Canada. Products and services are marketed through a network of almost 20,000 retail points of purchase.

Canada Post, with over 54,000 full and part-time employees, has the third largest work force in Canada outside of government and, with approximately $4 billion in annual revenue, is a large and important part of the transportation and communications sectors of the Canadian economy.

In the course of doing business, Canada Post maintains and uses records of employees, contractors, customers and others. The Corporation places a high value on the protection and propriety of such personal information; employee access to their records and customer confidentiality are longstanding traditions.

Description: Contains Post Office Savings Bank (1868-1969) unclaimed account information. Account holders wishing to confirm if funds remain on deposit in their name must forward a written request together with appropriate documentation, preferably the account passbook, which identifies the assigned account number. Legal authority is required by those acting on behalf of an account holder or an estate. Class of Individuals: Individuals having funds on deposit with Canada Post, either currently or within the past 15 years. Purpose: To support administration of the remaining 56,600 accounts currently outstanding in the Post Office Savings Bank, the value of which is 2.6 million dollars. Consistent Uses: Records of the Post Office Savings Bank are accessed monthly to facilitate the confirmation and withdrawal of funds by valid account holders or their legal representatives. Accounts having a balance of less than $25.00 and no activity in relation thereto for a period of 30 years are transferred to the credit of the Receiver General for Canada. (Note that payment records are also stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060 and by Money Order Services.) Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for a period of 15 years after the year an account is closed, whether by withdrawal or through transfer to the Receiver General for Canada. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001336 Bank Number: CPC PPU 055

Risk Management Claims

Description: This bank contains records regarding claims for damages involving property, liability and automobile accidents, legal opinions, settlement transactions and other correspondence related to motor vehicle and other accidents involving third parties. The records contain information on the parties involved, their insurers (if applicable) and the nature of the injury or loss (e.g., lost employment or salary). The records also concern losses due to fire and such crimes as robbery, break and enter, and vandalism. Limited information exists in automated form in the Risk Management Information System. Data elements include the names of the employee and claimant, the type of loss and settlement cost. Note that payment records are also stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060, and that claims involving delayed, lost or damaged mail are stored in Customer Service, CPC PPU 030. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify details such as incident location and date. Class of Individuals: Third parties making claims or from whom Canada Post is seeking damages. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the resolution of Corporation and third-party claims. Consistent Uses: Records are used to determine liability for motor vehicle, fire and other accidents involving third parties; to approve damage settlements, such as payments by and to the Corporation (as postal vehicles are insured, claims are handled by outside adjusters); to support claims by Canada Post against insurance policies in force; and to facilitate loss control and other measures to prevent recurrences. Note that certain information may be provided to insurance companies, lawyers acting on behalf of either party and the police, to facilitate resolution of the claim. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six years after the fiscal year during which the claim by or against the Corporation is settled, unless a minor was involved, in which case the records are retained for six fiscal years after the minor's age of majority (varies from province to province). PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001335 Bank Number: CPC PPU 050

♦ Human Resources

Crown Debt Requests

Description: This bank contains requests from and responses to such federal institutions as Revenue Canada and Human Resources Development Canada, seeking to locate individuals owing federal Crown debts (e.g., overdue income tax, unemployment insurance overpayments, customs duties, defaulted student loans) or to whom Crown payments are due. This bank also contains the Social Insurance Number, which is provided, unsolicited, by the federal institutions. Class of Individuals: Individuals owing Crown debts, or to whom Crown payments are due, who are the subject of an inquiry. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to ensure Canada Post can properly decide and account for disclosures of this sort. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the year of response and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 002157 Bank Number: CPC PPU 120

Human Rights

Description: This bank contains confidential letters of complaint and interview notes with complainants, those alleged to have harassed or discriminated against the complainant and witness statements, as well as investigation and analysis reports and records of decisions taken. Background information varies with the complaint, but could include grievances, medical reports, personal appraisals and correspondence. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the name of the complainant and the location and date of the incident. Class of Individuals: Individuals submitting discrimination complaints and individuals alleged to have harassed or discriminated against complainants. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the resolution of allegations of discrimination based on prescribed grounds set out in the Canadian Human Rights Act, and allegations of personal harassment in the workplace. Consistent Uses: The records are used to help determine whether or not harassment or discrimination has occurred (note that records of complaints are not stored on the complainant's Employee Personal File, CPC PPE 802); and to recommend and support management decisions on the transfer and discipline of employees or other corrective action, e.g., when the source of the complaint is a Canada Post policy or procedure. Individuals found to have harassed or discriminated may have a disciplinary notice to that effect placed on their Employee Personal File. Information may be disclosed in confidence to relevant Corporation officials and to the Canadian Human Rights Commission to facilitate resolution of the complaint. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five calendar years after year of case closed. TBS Registration: 001761 Bank Number: CPC PPU 096

Official Languages Complaints

Description: This bank contains records documenting the nature, extent, scope, type and location of official languages complaints, as well as the results of complaint investigations and resolution. Note that the identity of complainants is protected under section 60 of the Official Languages Act throughout the investigation process. Therefore, unless complainants agree to reveal their identity, records are anonymous in nature. Class of Individuals: Individuals or groups who file complaints either directly with CPC or with the Commissioner of Official Languages (excluding official languages issues handled through Customer Service). Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the investigation and resolution of official languages complaints submitted by individuals or groups to the Commissioner of Official Languages or CPC and to retain an audit trail of actions taken. Consistent Uses: The records are used to report to external agencies responsible for monitoring compliance of the Official Languages Act and related regulations. They may also be disclosed to the Federal Court or other authorized third parties to facilitate the resolution of complaints, grievances or court action.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Complaint files are retained for five calendar years after complaint resolved or withdrawn. TBS Registration: 003737 Bank Number: CPC PPU 125

Privacy Act Requests/Complaints

Description: This bank contains the request forms submitted by individuals seeking access to their files, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing, including exempt material and legal opinions. It also includes records of complaints to the Privacy Commissioner of Canada and their resolution, and exceptional third-party requests referred to privacy coordination staff for advice or decision. This bank also contains the Social Insurance Number of some applicants, only because the old Treasury Board request forms used by applicants contained a SIN field. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the approximate date(s) of the request(s) concerned. Class of Individuals: Canada Post contractors and customers who have submitted formal access, correction or notation requests under the Privacy Act to the Corporate Privacy Coordinator or complaints to the Privacy Commissioner; or who are the subject of exceptional third-party requests. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the processing of requests and complaints submitted by individuals under the Privacy Act, and to retain an audit trail of actions taken. Consistent Uses: The records are used to process access, correction and notation requests, to respond to Privacy Commissioner complaints, and to report annually to Parliament on their disposition. Annotations regarding exemptions, corrections and disclosures to third parties may be attached to the records requested. Records may be disclosed to the Privacy Commissioner and to the Federal Court, to facilitate the resolution of complaints or court actions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the year of last administrative use (which is normally the provision of records requested under the Privacy Act, the processing of correction or notation requests or the resolution of complaints), and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 001344 Bank Number: CPC PPU 115

Staffing and Employment

Description: This bank contains such records as solicited and unsolicited job applications, acknowledgement of receipt letters, staffing action requests, job descriptions, salary ranges, selection profiles, competition posters, transfer requests, seniority, surplus, lay-off, re-call and eligibility lists, human resources inventory printouts, résumés of work experience and education, reference letters and checks, official languages knowledge examination papers, tests and results, lists of candidates, interview notes and rating board assessments, eligibility lists, offers of employment, notices to candidates of right to appeal, other appeal documents and related correspondence. This bank also contains the Social Insurance Number which will continue to be used as an employee identifier until such time as it can be replaced by a CPC employee numbering system. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the competition number and date, if applicable, as well as position title and location. Class of Individuals: Individuals who apply for or are hired to fill temporary and permanent positions with Canada Post Corporation. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support internal staffing and external recruitment activities. Consistent Uses: Job applications are screened when vacancies arise. Staffing records are used to provide impartial information to match new and vacant positions to the most qualified candidates (notations of staffing decisions may be stored in the Employee Personal File, CPC PPE 802; in Payroll, Benefits and Attendance, CPC PPE 815; and in the Human Resource Information System, CPC PPE 804); to assist in succession planning and career development; to conduct reference checks, provide feedback to candidates regarding their applications and job interviews; and to process complaints, appeals and grievances concerning appointments and promotions (see Grievances and Arbitrations, CPC PPE 813). Limited personal information regarding seniority, surplus and layoffs may be posted, as well as provided to collective bargaining agents. Personal information about successful candidates may be disclosed to unsuccessful candidates under strict conditions of confidentiality, to better explain decisions taken. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after last administrative use (which is usually the expiration of the appeal period for competitions), and then destroyed. Layoff/transfer lists are updated continuously and destroyed when superseded. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001343 Bank Number: CPC PPU 095

♦ Mail Operations

Delivery Control Systems

Description: This bank contains delivery records for signature services (Registered and Security Registered, Cash on Delivery, Insured Mail with Proof of Delivery, Priority Courier); change of address notifications/hold mail request forms; directories or lists of customers used to ensure the accurate delivery of mail and the provision of related services (e.g., Community Mailbox, Group Mailbox and Rural Mailbox Delivery and Electronic Mail) and related correspondence. These records contain such information on customers as name, fees paid, present address, previous address, effective dates, signature and proof of identity (when needed in picking up mail and when filing a change of address notification). Limited account information exists in automated form in the Priority Courier Track and Trace and Electronic Mail systems. Class of Individuals: Customers who subscribe to, or receive, postal signature services, submit a redirection/hold mail application or reside in areas requiring name/address lists to effect postal delivery.

Purpose: The records are used to support the provision of postal services, including signature mail services; to control the redirection or holding of mail; to ensure accurate mail delivery where delivery service has changed or is difficult; to facilitate the reconciliation and audit of accounts; and to respond to inquiries or claims (see also Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Electronic name and address lists and related information received from volume mailers are used in creating and addressing Lettermail Plus and Admail Plus items for subsequent delivery.

Consistent Uses: Redirection records are also used to correct the mailing lists of large volume mailers where such mailers are using a previous or incorrect address. Change of address notifications are automated for the purpose of producing new address labels. They are also used to update the System for Mail Address Redirection Techniques (SMART). Address information is also disclosed to government institutions under certain circumstances in order to facilitate the collection of Crown debts or the making of Crown payments (see CPC PPU 120 and CPC PPU 090). Retention and Disposal Standards: Signature service records are retained for a maximum of two years after the year of delivery and are then destroyed, with the exception of certain financial records, which are retained for seven years. As a convenience to customers, Electronic Mail data are retained under strict security for six months and are then deleted. Change of address/hold mail records are destroyed six fiscal years after year of transaction. Directories and lists are updated continuously and destroyed when superseded or obsolete. TBS

Registration: 002558 Bank Number: CPC PPU 001

♦ Marketing and Product Management

National Change of Address

Description: This bank contains data drawn from change of address forms, including: a mover's previous and new address; the length and dates for which redirection services have been purchased; and records concerning participation in related services available to movers and mailers. Class of Individuals: All subscribers to CPC's hold and redirection of mail services since January 1993.

Purpose: To facilitate the redirection of mail. Consistent Uses: To confirm service particulars and inform movers of address notification and other options; to produce letter carrier case cards and new address labels; to notify publishers having movers' name and old address of the new address; with mover consent, to update the mailing lists of other mailers, provided they have the movers' name and old address; to resolve complaints and enquiries; to contact movers on a mailer's behalf (without disclosing the new address); and for research, statistical and audit purposes. Change of address data may also be disclosed to law enforcement agencies conducting lawful investigations, and to certain federal government departments seeking to locate individuals owing a Crown debt or being owed a Crown payment (see CPC PPU 090 and CPC PPU 120, respectively). Retention and Disposal Standards: Change of Address forms retained by postal outlets are destroyed six fiscal years after year of transaction. The input copies are destroyed 3 months after verification of input. Withdrawal letters are retained for two years after date of withdrawal. Records regarding payments received are retained for six fiscal years after year of payment. Agreements with mailers (including records pertaining to names and addresses of individuals who have moved), are retained for six fiscal years after the year of the termination of the contract. Every month three-year-old addresses are archived, where they are retained for a further seven years. PAC Number: 91-020 TBS Registration: 003294 Bank Number: CPC PPU 002

♦ Office of the Ombudsman

Office of the Ombudsman – Requests for Assistance – Complaints

Description: This bank contains such records as inquiries, complaints and information relating to their processing. Certain information exists in automated form in the Information Management Inquiry System (IMIS). Data elements may, where applicable, include all or some of the following: the names and addresses of the sender and addressee, the nature of the complaint (delay, loss, damage), the type and value of the item, any special services purchased, dates of mailing and claim, insured amount, result of investigation and amount paid. Individuals seeking access to this bank for the purpose of reviewing their personal files should specify the date and subject matter of their original inquiry with the Office of the Ombudsman, as well as their assigned file number. Class of Individuals: Customers who have submitted to the Ombudsman a request for the review of their complaint with regard to the postal service. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the preparation of responses to customer inquiries, as well as the resolution of complaints concerning postal services. Consistent Uses: The records are used to analyze and resolve complaints; to respond to inquiries about postal services; and to identify trends or patterns. Disclosure of Information: The Office of the Ombudsman at Canada Post abides by the Standards of Practice and the Code of Ethics of Ombudsman Associations. The Ombudsman, as a neutral official, has the responsibility of maintaining strict confidentiality concerning matters that are brought to his/her attention, unless given permission to do otherwise. The only exceptions, at the sole discretion of the Ombudsman, are where there appears to be imminent threat of serious harm. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for seven years after last administrative use (which is normally the issue of a response to a request for the review of a complaint to the Ombudsman), and then destroyed. (subject to approval) PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 004271 Bank Number: CPC PPU 099

◆ Procurement & Administrative Services

Parking

Description: This bank contains permit applications for parking, and related correspondence about parking of motor vehicles on property owned or leased by Canada Post. Records of transactions also exist in automated form. Individual seeking access to this bank should specify employment location and dates. Class of Individuals: Canada Post contractors and others who have applied for or received Corporate parking permits.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the control of parking at certain Canada Post facilities.

Consistent Uses: The records are used to control the issue and revocation of parking permits and the prosecution of parking violators. The records may also be used to help coordinate car pools. Note that certain records are beyond CPC control as many employees have personal contracts with private parking lot operators.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the fiscal year in which the permit expired and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 001334 Bank Number: CPC PPU 045

Purchasing Contracts

Description: This bank contains records relating to contracts, renewals and terminations and supporting documentation, which may include the request for proposal, price quotes, curriculum vitae, company résumé, records of experience, terms of reference, financial/insurance/bonding information, reliability checks and/or security clearance levels, and performance records. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide their full name, the name of their company (if applicable), the Canada Post contract/proposal number, and the location of the procurement office. Class of Individuals: A limited number of individuals offering or providing professional services in management and information technology consulting, market research, health services, security, translation, labour arbitration, counselling and temporary help, as well as in architecture, engineering, construction, property appraisal, property development and property management, including cleaning and maintenance; and equipment, supplies and other goods. (Note that payment records are stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060; that records on contractors providing mail or letter carrier transportation services are stored in Transportation Contracts, CPC PPU 035; and that records on retail postal outlet operators are stored in Retail Postal Outlet Contracts, CPC PPU 020.)

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the award and administration of Canada Post's procurement and certain other service contracts. Consistent Uses: The records are used to monitor performance or equipment supplied against requirements, so as to verify entitlements; and for evaluation and audit purposes. For example, the information may be collated and analysed to determine average costs by geographic areas and specialities. Retention and Disposal Standards: Tenders not awarded are retained for two fiscal years. Contracts awarded and supporting documentation are retained for six years after fiscal year of completion and non-renewal. All contracts relating to accepted designs for stamps, first day covers and postal stationery are retained for six years after the completion of the contract. All correspondence and contracts with stamp suppliers relating to the production of quantities of stamps, first day covers and postal stationery, are retained for six years after completion of the contract. TBS Registration: 003293 Bank Number: CPC PPU 031

Transportation Contracts

Description: This bank contains records relating to contracts, transfers, renewals and terminations and supporting documentation, including distance, stops, equipment used, costs and duration, financial/insurance/bonding information. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the name, dates and location of the service provided. Class of Individuals: Individuals owning businesses which have bid on or been awarded contracts for the carriage of mail or for the transportation of letter carriers. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the award and administration of transportation contracts. Consistent Uses: The records are used to create source lists and otherwise perform the tender process; to administer contracts, including the monitoring of performance and the granting of adjustments; to facilitate budgeting and cost control; and to produce internal reports and responses to external enquiries. Note that the name of the successful tenderer may be disclosed to unsuccessful tenderers and others, upon award of the contract. Retention and Disposal Standards: Tenders not awarded are destroyed two years after the contract is awarded. Other records are retained for six years after termination and non-renewal of contract and then destroyed, except for registers of contracts, which are transferred to National Archives of Canada for selective retention. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001332 Bank Number: CPC PPU 035

◆ Real Estate

Real Estate Contracts

Description: This bank contains records relating to contracts, transfers, renewals and terminations and supporting documentation, including requests for proposal, price quotes, curriculum vitae, company résumé, records of experience, terms of reference, financial/insurance/bonding information, reliability checks and/or security clearance levels, performance and payments records. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide their full name, the name of their company (if applicable) and the Canada Post project and location. If the contract in question has been let via Government Services Canada, provide those details. Class of Individuals: Companies and a limited number of individuals offering or providing professional services in architecture, engineering, construction, property appraisal, brokerage services, property development and property management, including cleaning and maintenance.

(Note that payment records are also stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060). Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the award and administration of Canada Post's real estate lease and property management contracts. Consistent Uses: The records are used to prepare source lists and select from among potential contractors and to monitor performance against requirements, so as to verify entitlements; and for evaluation and audit purposes. For example, the information may be collated and analysed to determine average costs by geographic areas and specialties. The information is shared with and often held by Canada Post's major procurement and real property management agents (e.g., Government Services Canada). Retention and Disposal Standards: Tenders not awarded are retained for two fiscal years. Contracts awarded and supporting documentation are retained for six years after fiscal year of completion and non-renewal. TBS Registration: 003291 Bank Number: CPC PPU 038

◆ Retail Business

Philatelic Customers

Description: This bank contains information in both paper and automated form such as customer enquiries and mailing lists, coded to include special areas of interest, as well as invoices, funds on deposit, credit card numbers, order history, survey responses, and other sales records. A list of former customers who have issued bad cheques is also retained. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide as many details as possible, such as name, address, subject matter, dates and account numbers.

Class of Individuals: Canada Post's national and international customers of philatelic products, sponsors of stamp clubs and those who have expressed an interest.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the sale and distribution of philatelic products and related promotional material. Consistent Uses: The records are used to support philatelic sales and subscription services; to assist in the presentation of philatelic exhibits; to generate particular lists of customers/subscribers (for example, by area of interest); to control inventory; and for market research purposes, such as the identification of promotional needs and opportunities. Retention and Disposal Standards: Financial records are retained for six years after last administrative use, which is usually payment for and mailing of philatelic products. Mailing lists are updated continuously, verified annually and retained until superseded or obsolete (for example, when customers submit change-of-address cards or requests to be deleted from the list; or move, leaving no forwarding address). General correspondence is retained for two years. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001327 Bank Number: CPC PPU 010

Postal Office Boxes

Description: This bank contains postal office box applications, including service particulars (e.g. primary delivery mode, rental periods and the redirection of mail), the names of agents or others authorized to receive mail and whether the postal office box service is for private or commercial use. Other records include general enquiries, receipts and other payment records, audits and accounts of terminating services. Certain information exists in automated form (Retail Outlet Support System).

Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide postal office box location, number, and rental dates.

Class of Individuals: Canada Post customers who have applied for or expressed interest in postal office box services. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the provision of postal office box services. Consistent Uses: The records are used to provide the services requested and, if applicable, to facilitate the collection and refund of rent for postal office boxes (receipts are forwarded to corporate head office to reconcile accounts); and for periodic audits and for market research. Certain information may be disclosed to law enforcement and other federal or provincial agencies, pursuant to lawful investigations. Retention and Disposal Standards: Postal office box applications and related records are retained for two years after the termination of service and then destroyed. Waiting lists are updated continuously, as boxes become available. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001326 Bank Number: CPC PPU 005

Retail Postal Outlet Contracts

Description: This bank contains hardcopy and computerized records, including the terms and conditions of contracts with retail postal outlet operators and, from time to time, credit history reports. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide full name, the retail postal outlet concerned and dates. Class of Individuals: Individuals and businesses contracted to provide a range of basic postal services to the public. (Note that payment records also are stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060). Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to administer a network of retail postal outlets. Consistent Uses: The records in it are used to administer the network of retail postal outlets, including the authorization of payment of commissions on sales; and for periodic audits and market research. Retention and Disposal Standards: Contracts awarded and supporting documentation are retained for six years after fiscal year of completion and non-renewal and then destroyed. Financial records are also retained for six years. Tenders not awarded are retained for two fiscal years. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001329 Bank Number: CPC PPU 020

Stamp Subjects and Designer References

Description: This bank contains such information as subject suggestions, their supporters, and enquiries, general correspondence, résumés, samples of art work (usually reproduced on 35mm slides) and, if applicable, letters of commission. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide name and date of previous submission. (Note that stamp subject suggestions may also be stored in Corporate Correspondence, CPC PPU 100, and payment records concerning commissioned designs are also stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060.) Class of Individuals: Canadian designers, artists, illustrators, photographers and others who have indicated their interest in being considered for a postage stamp design commission. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide a visual reference file of the work of Canadian designers and artists who could be considered for a postage stamp design commission. Consistent Uses: The records are used to consider possible designers to be commissioned to submit design proposals for new stamp issues. Retention and Disposal Standards: Samples of work are returned to designers upon request. Records regarding rejected solicitations are retained for two years after the year of rejection and then destroyed. Records relating to commissioned stamp designers are retained for ten years and then transferred to National Archives of Canada. If the records are judged by the National Archivist to be of historical/archival value, they are retained permanently. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001330 Bank Number: CPC PPU 025

Stamp Vendors

Description: This bank contains the sales histories of stamp vendors, such as records of stamp purchases, amount of the discount and amount paid. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify registered name and address as well as stamp sales details. Class of Individuals: Individuals and small businesses who have applied for or been granted a permit to purchase stamps at a discount for resale to the public. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the sale of stamps via a network of stamp vendors. Consistent Uses: Vendors use permits to purchase stamps at a discount. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after last administrative use and then transferred to National Archives of Canada. Information judged by the National Archivist to be of archival/historical value is retained permanently. The remainder is destroyed. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001328 Bank Number: CPC PPU 015

Administrative Records

Certain information provided by or about individuals may also be found in administrative records, such as general correspondence and organizational planning files, minutes of committee meetings, daily information books, library loan and distribution lists, fixed asset inventory control reports, general ledger reports, audit reports and evaluations, internal electronic mail communications, video recordings and records relating to visits and conferences involving officials of other postal authorities. Several functions also provide advice on employee, customer or contractor matters concerning areas such as employee relations, labour relations, customer service, corporate security, occupational health and safety, etc. This information may exist in the form of personal notes, drafts, letters, case files and electronic mail messages, duplicates of which are often located in other personal information banks. Retention/disposal standards vary, but comply with a two-year minimum.

Corporate Security

This class includes information detailing complaints received by Corporate Security and the remedial action undertaken. The records are chronologically ordered and thus not retrievable by individual identifier. They include occurrence reports which contain the name, address and phone number of the complainant, the names of the other parties involved, the name of the investigating officer and details concerning causes and remedial action. Should the enquiry result in a suspicion of a postal-related crime or offence, or a Criminal Code offence involving the mail, a file number is added to the occurrence report which is transferred to personal information bank Postal Related Crimes/Offences (see CPC PPU 085 or CPC PPE 824). Otherwise, the occurrence reports are retained for two years, at which time they are destroyed. The purpose of such retention is to allow for statistical analyses and quality control.

Marketing and Sales

This class includes Postage Meter Services and marketing information such as market research studies, various coded mailing lists, market surveys and test reports concerning householders and other Canada Post customers (for example, large volume mailers). The records include correspondence, reports, accounts of sales calls and other meetings with customers, which may contain the names, titles and business addresses of company representatives, as well as profiles of key executives. These records are used for business purposes only, namely to identify customer needs and perceptions and to help make marketing decisions related to product and service mix, price and promotion. Canada Post also temporarily retains certain records which may contain personal information under arrangements with customers and business partners. These records assist in the preparation of account development strategies for national and divisionally managed accounts. Such records are not under the Corporation's sole control and may not be accessed without the prior consent of the customer or business partner involved. Note also that claims and enquiries related to collection and delivery services have been indexed and described as a Canada Post information bank (see Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Certain records are held in electronic form in the following systems: Cash Receipts, Money Order Information, Canadian Wildlife Service, National Accounts and Marketing Mailing List.

Undeliverable Mail

This class of records includes lettermail and parcels that, for any cause, cannot be delivered to the addressee or returned to the sender. This includes mail that cannot be delivered for legal reasons, and mail that is refused by the addressee or on which postage due is not paid by the sender on demand. The treatment of this mail is governed by the Undeliverable Mail Regulations. Undeliverable mail is opened to facilitate delivery to addressee or return to sender. Undeliverable admail is not returned to the sender or forwarded to an addressee unless it bears a specific request for return or redirection to another address, or has obvious value. Undeliverable international mail is returned to the country of origin unless marked abandoned, in which case it is treated in the same manner as domestic mail. When undeliverable mail of no obvious value does not contain sufficient information to permit the mail to be returned to the sender or forwarded to the addressee, it is destroyed. Where the mail contains cash or merchandise the cash is deposited to the credit of Canada Post Corporation and the merchandise is sold or otherwise disposed of in a manner approved by the Corporation.

Additional Information

Please see the INTRODUCTION to this publication for information on access procedures under the provisions of the Privacy Act.

Records contained within information banks are limited to relevant data subjects. For example, if an individual has never bid on nor been awarded a contract with Canada Post, no record of that individual would exist in the applicable contract bank.

To facilitate access and records retrieval, specific details should be provided, such as those outlined in individual bank descriptions.

If Canada Post exempts any information, the individual refused access is provided with the precise reasons for the exemption and the applicable appeal procedures.

Records are routinely destroyed when their useful life expires; thus, access requests for older records may prove unsuccessful. Individuals are encouraged to seek informal access to their records – employees via their supervisors, and customers, contractors and others via the Canada Post officials with whom they have been dealing.

Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board

Chapter 16

General Information

Background

The Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board was established in 1987 as a joint federal/provincial agency pursuant to the federal Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act and by the provincial Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act. These acts brought into law the principles established in a 1985 agreement between the federal government and the provincial government relating to offshore petroleum resources.

Responsibilities

The Board manages the petroleum resources in the Newfoundland offshore area on behalf of the Government of Canada and the Government of Newfoundland and Labrador. Its authority is derived from the legislation implementing the 1985 Atlantic Accord between the two governments.

The Board has a duty to ensure that:

- management of offshore land rights takes place in an orderly way;
- assessments of the resource potential of the offshore area are completed on a timely basis;
- offshore exploration and production activities are conducted in a safe and environmentally responsible manner;
- exploitation of the resource is conducted in accordance with good oilfield practice to optimize recovery and avoid waste;
- operators' procurement decisions are consistent with their statutory obligations and agreements with governments to provide economic and social benefits to Canada, and in particular to Newfoundland; and
- it provides guidance to industry regarding regulatory requirements and encourages continuous improvement in practices that provide for worker safety and environmental protection.

Legislation

- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Newfoundland Act, R.S.N. 1990, c.C-2
- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1987, c.3

Organization

The Board consists of seven members who are appointed for fixed terms of office (The Board currently has six Board members). Three members are appointed by the federal government, three by the provincial government and the Chairman is appointed by both the federal and provincial governments. The Chairman also acts on a full-time basis as Chief Executive Officer.

♦ Exploration Department

This Department is responsible for co-ordinating geophysical and geological program authorizations; monitoring and evaluating geological and geophysical programs and exploratory and delineation drilling; determining significant and commercial discovery areas; evaluating undiscovered resource potential of the Board's area of jurisdiction; providing recommendations on development plans and maintaining geological and geophysical databases and cuttings, cores and fluid samples.

♦ Reservoir Engineering Department

This Department is responsible for oil and gas conservation; assessing discovered resources and productive capacities; administering regulations concerning exploitation schemes for depletion of oil and gas pools, reservoir data acquisition and production rate limitation; reviewing and providing recommendations on well evaluation programs, development plans for oil and gas fields, production accounting procedures and testing programs; maintaining the reservoir database; evaluating conservation and enhanced recovery projects; monitoring field performance; and conducting reservoir performance studies.

♦ Operations and Safety Department

This Department is responsible for reviewing and providing recommendations regarding the approval of offshore petroleum exploration, development and production activities; reviewing operators' emergency response plans; monitoring offshore petroleum activities; conducting safety audits and inspections related to procedures, training and equipment; administering and making recommendations regarding the drafting of regulations, their standards and guidelines; monitoring any conditions of approval; co-ordinating with other agencies as required; and providing status reports of offshore petroleum activities.

♦ Environmental Affairs Department

This Department assesses environmental effects; administers and advises on environmental protection regulations and guidelines; establishes and monitors compliance with physical environment and effluent treatment requirements; co-ordinates with other environmental agencies; and reviews operators' environmental emergency contingency plans.

♦ Industrial Benefits Department

This Department provides advice to the Board concerning the administration of the Canada-Newfoundland benefits plan provisions of the legislation, including provisions related to domestic procurement, employment, project management, research and development, education and training, and employment equity.

♦ Legal and Land Department

This Department is responsible for providing legal and land advice and services to the Board. Land matters include the issuance of exploration rights through calls for bids; and the administration of exploration, significant discovery and production licenses.

♦ Administration Department

This Department provides administrative, financial, human resource, and computer services to the Board.

♦ The Executive Committee

The Executive Committee manages the day-to-day activities of the Board. It comprises the Chairman and all of the vice-chairmen.

Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Board

Chapter 17

Background

The Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Board was established in 1990 as a joint federal-provincial agency pursuant to the federal Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act and the provincial Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation (Nova Scotia) Act. These Acts implemented a 1986 agreement between the federal government and Nova Scotia relating to offshore petroleum resources. The Board has offices in Halifax and Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Responsibilities

The Board's principal responsibilities include:

- 1) enhancement of safe working conditions for offshore petroleum activities;
- 2) protection of the environment during offshore petroleum activities;
- 3) management of offshore petroleum resources to ensure that operators provide for maximum economic recovery and avoid waste;
- 4) review of industrial benefits matters relating to petroleum activities offshore Nova Scotia so as to ensure that Canadians, with first consideration given to Nova Scotians, have a full and fair opportunity to participate on a competitive basis in the supply of goods and services to be used in any offshore petroleum activities;
- 5) issuance, in a controlled and fair manner, of licenses required to carry out petroleum exploration and development activities offshore Nova Scotia. The Board also maintains a public registry of licenses, curates samples and geological and geophysical information (which is made available to the public following a statutory confidentiality period), and compiles and develops information on petroleum resources within the Nova Scotia Offshore area;
- 6) collection, maintenance and distribution of offshore petroleum information to the petroleum industry, governments and the public in general.

Legislation

- Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation (Nova Scotia) Act, S.N.S. 1987, c. 3.
- Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1988, c. 28.

Organization

The Board consists of five members who are appointed for fixed terms of office (the Board currently has four Board members with one additional appointment pending). The Government of Canada and the Government of Nova Scotia each appoint two members. The Chairman is appointed by both governments. The Board has appointed a Chief Executive Officer who is responsible for day to day operations of the Board and a staff of twenty four people.

♦ Offshore Petroleum Resources

This Department is responsible for assessing discovered petroleum resources and evaluating the undiscovered petroleum resource potential of the Nova Scotia offshore area; recommending lands for disposition through calls for bids (including the terms and conditions of calls for bids and licences); administering licences under which oil and gas rights are held and maintaining a public registry of such licences; evaluating the results of geological and geophysical surveys and exploratory and development drilling; determining areas to be designated as significant discoveries or commercial discoveries; archiving geological, geophysical and well history reports; and curating cuttings, cores and fluid samples.

♦ Offshore Operations

This Department is responsible for providing recommendations regarding the approval of plans, programs and specific activities related to exploration, development or production; monitoring any conditions of approval; conducting audits and inspections related to procedures, training and equipment; certifying divers and other diving personnel; reviewing operators' emergency response plans; and monitoring and providing status reports on offshore petroleum activities. It is also responsible for conserving oil and gas resources; assessing the productive capacities of wells; monitoring field performance and conducting reservoir performance studies; and administering regulations concerning production schemes, production rate limitations and the acquisition of reservoir data.

♦ Environmental Affairs

This Department assesses the environmental effects of offshore operations as well as risks to offshore operations arising from the physical environment. It administers and advises on environmental protection regulations and guidelines, establishes and monitors compliance with physical environment and effluent treatment requirements, coordinates with other environmental agencies, and reviews operators' environmental emergency contingency plans.

♦ Administration, Industrial Benefits and Legal

This Department provides administrative, financial, human resources and legal services to the Board. The Department is responsible for the Board's external communications, including publications and public relations. The Department also administers statutory requirements concerning employment and industrial benefits plans.

Canadian Artists and Producers Professional Relations Tribunal

Chapter 18

Background

The Canadian Artists and Producers Professional Relations Tribunal was created pursuant to the Status of the Artist Act which received Royal Assent in June 1992. The provisions of the Act creating the Tribunal were brought into force in June 1993. The first members of the Tribunal were appointed in March 1995 and the Tribunal has been operational since the substantive provisions of the Act were brought into force in May 1995.

One of the most important features of the Status of the Artist Act is that it establishes a framework for the conduct of professional relations between independent professional artists and producers within the federal jurisdiction.

The Act guarantees the right of artists to join associations that can represent their professional interests and gives them a mechanism through which to advance their socio-economic interests by guaranteeing the right to bargain collectively with producers for the purpose of reaching agreement on the minimum terms and conditions under which an artist will provide services to those producers. The Act also permits producers to form associations for the purposes of bargaining and entering into scale agreements.

Responsibilities

The Tribunal is the independent quasi-judicial agency established to administer the framework governing professional relations between self-employed artists and producers under federal jurisdiction that is prescribed by the Status of the Artist Act. The Tribunal's principal responsibilities are:

- to define the sectors of cultural activity subject to federal jurisdiction that are suitable for collective bargaining;
- to certify artists' associations to represent these sectors;
- to hear and decide complaints of unfair practices filed by artists, artists' associations and producers and to prescribe appropriate remedies.

The Tribunal reports to Parliament through the Minister of Labour. However, certain provisions of the Act specify a role for the Minister of Canadian Heritage.

Legislation

- Status of the Artist Act

Organization

The Tribunal is composed of a Chairperson, a Vice-chairperson and not less than two or more than four other full-time or part-time members. The Chairperson is the Chief Executive Officer of the Tribunal and is responsible for the management of the staff and supervision of the work of the Tribunal.

Canadian Centre for Management Development

Chapter 19

Background

On April 14, 1988, the Prime Minister announced the creation of the Canadian Centre for Management Development (CCMD), dedicated to excellence in teaching and research into public sector management, enhancing public sector management capabilities, and promoting a strong corporate culture in the federal public service. On March 27, 1991, new legislation entitled Canadian Centre for Management Development Act (Bill C-34) received Royal Assent and the Act was officially proclaimed on December 1, 1991.

The Act provides for the creation of a departmental corporation under the general direction of a Board of Governors. The composition of the Board is to be equally divided between public and non-public sector (academic and business) representatives. The Clerk of the Privy Council is the Chairman of the Board. Among other public sector representatives, the Secretary of the Treasury Board, the President of the Public Service Commission and the President of the Centre are ex officio governors.

Responsibilities

The Centre focuses on the learning and management development needs of managers in the federal public sector. Programs are open to all managers, at all levels, in all departments and in all regions. In addition, the Centre has a capacity to undertake research on public sector management. This includes the development of case histories on major initiatives that may be used to broaden the range of management programs offered within the federal public service. There is one campus in the National Capital Region (NCR), situated in the historic LaSalle Academy on Sussex Drive in downtown Ottawa. Courses are also offered at existing facilities in most regions of Canada.

The clientele of the Centre includes managers at all levels, members of the Executive Group, Deputy Ministers and Senior Governor-in-Council appointees.

Legislation

- Canadian Centre for Management Development Act

Organization

Office of the President

The President of the Centre is appointed by the Governor-in-Council and has the rank and status of a deputy minister. The President is the Chief Executive Officer of the Centre and has control over the form and content of programs, studies and publications of the Centre, the appointment of staff, the contracting for services and any other authority normally exercised by a deputy head pursuant to a statute or delegated authority. The President also has responsibilities related to Public Service Renewal. The other positions reporting to the President are listed below.

♦ Program Services

The Director General of Program Services is responsible for the provision of all functions related to finance, administration, evaluation, information management (including information services and informatics), and human resources as well as the registration of participants.

♦ Communications and Outreach Group

The Director General, Communications and Outreach Group, is responsible for overseeing all communication and dissemination activities to ensure a coordinated approach to corporate promotion and marketing.

♦ Career Development Programs Group

The Director General, Career Development Programs, is responsible for the provision of learning programs related to corporate recruitment, assessment and development initiatives. Some programs, such as the Accelerated Executive Development Program (AEXDP), are offered to members of the Executive Group. Other programs, such as the Management Trainee Program (MTP) and the Career Assignment Program (CAP), are designed for feeder groups to the Executive category. In addition, short programs are offered to managers.

♦ Corporate Learning Programs Group

The Director General, Corporate Learning Programs, is responsible for learning programs that equip critical masses of Public Service executives and managers, most of whom are not participants in corporate development programs, to become leaders and learners and to implement strategic change reflecting the values of the Public Service of Canada. Offerings include leadership programs; strategic learning programs dealing with service, policy, diversity and Aboriginal issues; and law programs.

♦ Strategic Research and Planning Group

The Director General, Strategic Research and Planning, is responsible for the conduct and publication of research projects on a wide range of public sector management issues and concerns, the administration of a fellowship program for senior public and private sector officials and academics, and the management of contributions given to a variety of management organizations and associations.

◆ International Cooperation

The Vice-President, International Cooperation, is responsible for creating a single window to broker requests from other countries for access to Canadian public sector expertise. This window will be supported by a partnership of Canadian federal departments and agencies and eventually other suppliers of public sector expertise, including other levels of government, universities and colleges, non-governmental organizations and private sector organizations. The goals are to support public sector management in other countries, provide global exposure and learning opportunities for Canadian public servants, and to market Canadian public sector know-how more effectively. Within this partnership, the Canadian Centre for Management Development will also lead a coalition of organizations working internationally in the fields of governance and public management.

◆ Learning Events

The Director General, Learning Events, is responsible for the development and management of events that create learning opportunities for public service managers across the country in areas of prime importance to the federal government. Many of those events such as the Armchair discussion series, the ADM Forum and the EX induction program are planned and managed in cooperation with CCMD's federal government partners.

This includes records such as correspondence, reports, studies concerning agendas, projects, guidelines, planning, proposals not funded, research proposals and document review. Program Record Number: CMD CMD 030

Seminars, Workshops, Courses

Description: Includes subjects relating to seminars, workshops, courses and other learning events offered by CCMD to federal government managers. This would include records such as correspondence, completed forms, evaluations, course materials, agendas, timetables. Program Record Number: CMD CMD 025

Individual Data Base

Description: This information bank contains basic information on course and other training activities of the Centre, on actual and potential clients, on internal and external resources employed by the Centre and all persons with which CCMD has contact. Class of Individuals: Individuals, principally members of the management category of the Canadian federal public service, who have contact with the Canadian Centre for Management Development. May also contain information on members of the private (business) sector or other levels of government who attend CCMD-sponsored activities. Purpose: The purpose of this information bank is to establish and maintain files on actual and potential clients in order to facilitate the registration of these individuals to CCMD activities, to have information available to determine our client profile to help in the development and delivery of products offered by the Centre. This information bank also permits the establishment and maintenance of distribution lists such as the list of departmental training coordinators to whom CCMD publicity material is sent in bulk. Consistent Uses: This information bank serves to identify potential clients and resources for activities offered by the Centre.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained as long as the information is still valid. TBS Registration: 003329 Bank Number: CMD PPU 010

Registration Information System

Description: This information bank may contain basic information on participants and administrative data on training activities at the Canadian Centre for Management Development. Class of Individuals: Individuals, mainly members of the management category of the federal public service, who have taken or are registered on a training activity sponsored by the Canadian Centre for Management Development. May also contain information on members of the private (business) sector or other levels of government who attend CCMD-sponsored activities. Purpose: This information bank exists to establish and maintain files on CCMD activities and participants to these training and development activities. Consistent Uses: The information bank provides data necessary for the delivery of training activities offered by the Centre. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are kept for a five-year period following the end of the training activity, and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 003328 Bank Number: CMD PPU 005

Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety

Chapter 20

Background

The Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety (CCOHS) is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act, created by Parliament in April, 1978 to act as a national institute to promote the rights of Canadians to a healthy and safe working environment. It is governed by a Council of Governors representing labour, employers and federal, provincial and territorial governments.

Responsibilities

CCOHS promotes a healthier and safer workplace by providing a free occupational health and safety inquiries service to Canadians in both official languages while providing a cost recovery print and electronic information delivery service. The cost recovery service includes publications, training, online electronic services in various formats (CD-ROM, Web, Intranet, magnetic tape).

Specialized services are also offered containing the full text of occupational health and safety and environmental legislation, and regulatory and advisory information on chemicals in the workplace and the environment.

Legislation

- Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety Act
- Financial Administration Act, Schedule II

Organization

CCOHS is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act. Its policies are established by the Council of Governors, which consists of a chairman and 12 representatives from labour, employers' organizations, and the federal, provincial and territorial governments. It meets three times a year. The Chairman is appointed by federal Order-in-Council. The President and Chief Executive Officer supervises and directs the work and staff of the Centre.

There are five departments through which the program is delivered.

Corporate Management:

Provides the direction and management of operations at CCOHS.

Inquiries Service:

Responds directly to occupational health and safety inquiries from the public.

Health and Safety Products and Services:

Provides occupational health and safety products and services to businesses, labour organizations, governments media, and health and safety professionals.

Marketing, Sales & Communications:

Provides the promotion, communication, and client service for the products available from CCOHS.

Computer Systems and Services:

Provides the technical structure and support services for the production and promotion of occupational health and safety products.

CCINFO

Description: CCINFO is CCOHS' electronic information service which consists of delivery of occupational health and safety information.

Databases accessible through CCOHS' electronic services:

- Material Safety Data Sheet (MSDS) is a database of more than 120,000 material safety data sheets as supplied by more than 600 contributors.
- CHEMINFO is a database of comprehensive, practical summarized OSH information on chemicals. Each profile provides a detailed evaluation of health, fire and reactivity hazards, also recommendations on topics such as storage, handling, personal protective equipment, accidental release, first aid and hazard classifications including WHMIS and OSHA.
- Chemical Evaluation Search and Retrieval System (CESARS) is a database that contains comprehensive environmental and health information on chemicals. It provides detailed descriptions of chemical toxicity to humans, mammals, aquatic and plant life, as well as data on physical-chemical properties, and environmental fate and persistence. CESARS is divided into twenty-three topic areas, all contain references and most have topic summaries of key information.
- Domestic/Non-Domestic Substances List (DSL/NDSL) is a database created in accordance with the Canadian Environmental Protection Act (CEPA). The DSL defines "existing" substances in Canada. The NDSL specifies substances, other than those on the DSL, that were in world commerce, based on the 1985 US Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA) chemical inventory.

- New Jersey Hazardous Substance Fact Sheets (NJHSFS) provides workers, employers, emergency responders, and others with essential information on the hazards and safe use of industrial chemicals and environmental contaminants. Fact sheets contain basic summarized information on the hazards, safe storage, handling, control measures, first aid, and emergency procedures for common chemicals.
- Chemical Hazards Response Information System (CHRIS) is a comprehensive source of emergency response information including health hazards, first-aid, fire hazards, chemical reactivity, transport/handling and more, for over 1,200 common materials.
- Canadian Studies database is a directory of recent Canadian studies in the field of occupational health and safety.
- Transport of Dangerous Goods database contains Canadian hazardous materials shipping information applicable to truck or rail transport. This database provides regulatory information such as shipping name, product identification number, hazard classifications, reportable limits and special provisions for transport. Also included are the North American emergency response guidelines.
- Transport 49CFR database provides U.S. regulatory information on thousands of hazardous materials, the CERCLA reportable quantity list and the list of marine pollutants. It also includes shipping name, hazard classification, labels, special provisions and reportable quantities etc. The North American emergency response guides are included in most records which details information on potential hazards and actions for emergency response.
- Resources database contains a directory of Canadian organizations and people involved in the field of occupational health and safety. Records are as provided by contributors.
- Canadiana is a database which includes annotated references to occupational health and safety documents published in Canada, about Canadian subjects or by Canadian authors. It also includes references on reports, articles, conference proceedings, monographs and unpublished materials.
- Case Law is a database containing summaries of cases and decisions related to occupational health and safety from jurisdictions across Canada. Information on the cases includes, for example, jurisdiction, forum, year and summary. Data are contributed by the organizations which actually prepare the summaries.
- Fatality Reports database provides information about the circumstances surrounding occupationally related fatalities. Data are taken from reports on inquests and inquiries into occupationally related fatalities across Canada.
- Noise Levels database measures the noise level in actual work situations involving different types of equipment and occupations in various industries. Data are taken from the results of measurements from both published and unpublished sources.
- Directory of Occupational Safety and Health Legislation in Canada provides references to the acts and regulations aiming especially at the safety and health of working people in Canada.
- CISILO is a bibliographic database with international coverage of occupational health and safety documents.
- International Directory of OSH Institutions database contains information on the responsibilities and activities of more than 300 key organizations operating in the sphere of occupational health and safety in 93 member states of the international labour office (ILO).
- INOR-Organizations (INRS) is an International directory of organizations that conduct research on the prevention of occupational risks, whether or not this is their main activity.
- INRS-bibliographie is a bibliographic database, in french, covering the international literature available on the prevention of occupational hazards; emphasis is placed on french-language literature.
- HSELINE on CCINFodisc is a database containing more than 200,000 citations with abstracts to worldwide literature on occupational safety and health. It covers all U.K. health and safety commission and health and safety executive publications as well as a wide range of periodicals, books, conference proceedings, reports, and legislation. It is predominantly oriented towards safety and industrial hazards.
- OSHLINE is a current, up-to-date bibliographic database with international coverage of occupational health and safety. It updates the now static collection of NIOSHTIC®. NIOSHTIC® is a bibliographic database with international coverage of occupational health and safety (static file).
- RTECS® is a registry of toxicity data and regulatory information for chemical substances. It includes reviews, hazard classifications, occupational exposure limits and references to U.S. standards and regulations.
- The Chemical Advisor® is a database which provides access to four chemical regulatory databases on over 120,000 chemicals achieved by consolidating over 280 chemical lists from 70 agencies and authoritative sources. It includes fully compiled current regulatory information, proposed changes, and reporting requirements as well as principal health and environmental concerns.

- NIOSH Pocket Guide to Chemical Hazards (NPG) is a concise, highly organized source of general industrial hygiene information in electronic form. This version of the NPG gives important industrial hygiene data on 677 hazardous workplace chemicals or substance groups which has been updated, expanded and is easy to use.
- Canadian EnviroOSH Legislation is a database which contains complete text, including graphics, of Canadian federal, provincial, and territorial occupational and environmental health and safety acts, regulations, guidelines and codes of practice from all Canadian jurisdictions.
- Canadian EnviroOSH Legislation Plus Standards is a database which contains complete text, tables and graphics of all federal, provincial, territorial occupational and environmental legislation, health and safety acts, regulations, guidelines and codes of practice from all Canadian jurisdictions plus the complete text of those standards referenced in the legislation.
- Unjust Dismissal — Human Resources Development Canada (HRDC) – Labour Program CD-ROM provides details of cases under the Canada Labour Code (CLC). It includes details about the employer/employee, type of industry/occupation, and summaries of decisions made at various stages of the proceedings and is updated semi-annually.
- Workplace Safety & Hygiene Legislation Plus Standards. Complete text of BC OSH regulations plus cited BC and Federal Acts and regulations. Includes full text of cited CSA (Canadian Standards Association), CGSB (Canadian General Standards Board) and WCB of BC standards.
- Case Law — Human Resources Development Canada (HRDC) – Labour Program CD-ROM includes excerpts of CCOHS' case law database which provides health and safety related cases and decisions specific to the Canada Labour Code (CLC) and is updated semi-annually.
- TOXLINE® on CCINFODisc is a collection of toxicological information from the U.S. National Library of Medicine (NLM), containing over 1,000,000 references to published material and research in progress in the areas of environmental pollution, reproductive effects of chemicals, food and water contamination, occupational hazards, and more. It includes references from 15 secondary sources for 1981 to present.
- HSDB® on CCINFODisc is considered a key reliable resource on hazardous chemicals, the Hazardous Substances Data Bank® produced by the U.S. National library of Medicine (NLM) provides detailed data on the toxic effects, environmental fate and health and safety concerns of over 4,400 hazardous chemicals. Over 150 different information fields are available in these comprehensive chemical profiles. It includes carcinogenicity and biomedical effects, analytical and monitoring methods, exposure standards and regulations. Program Record Number: OHS ISS 055

- ILO Encyclopedia of Occupational Health & Safety – An Internet version of the International Labour Organisation's (ILO) comprehensive encyclopedia of occupational health and safety.
- NIOSH Manual of Analytical Methods – Contains sampling and analytical methods information for monitoring occupational exposures to toxic substances in air and biological samples.
- IPCS INCHEM – Consolidates authoritative documents from various UN agencies on toxic chemicals.
- IPCS INTOX – Contains a variety of documents on poisonous substances – includes pharmaceuticals, chemicals, poisonous and venomous animals, and poisonous plants and fungi.

Inquiries

Description: A person-to-person service that answers questions on specific occupational health and safety matters. The answers to the most commonly asked occupational health and safety questions (2,500) are also available on the CCOHS Website in the area called OSH Answers. Topics: Chemical hazards, physical hazards, occupational diseases, biological hazards, psycho social issues, occupational safety, ergonomics, occupational health and safety administration. Program Record Number: OHS IRS 041

Canadian Commercial Corporation

Chapter 21

General Information

Background

A federal Crown Corporation established in 1946 by an Act of Parliament, CCC is the official export sales agency of the Government of Canada. It has a broad legislated mandate: "to assist in the development of trade between Canada and other nations".

Responsibilities

CCC is an integral part of the Government of Canada's trade team offering services which complement the export financing and insurance activities of Export Development Corporation as well as the market intelligence and promotional activities of the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT) and other federal departments and agencies.

The Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC) is an export sales and contracting agency, wholly owned by the Government of Canada. CCC works with Canadian exporters and their international buyers to facilitate export sales through its unique government-backed guarantee of contract performance.

Specializing in sales to foreign governments, CCC can act as a prime contractor and use its governmental status to sign export sales on behalf of Canadian exporters, guaranteeing its full and satisfactory completion.

CCC has helped thousands of Canadian companies and international buyers make deals worth over $25 billion, in over 100 countries

Legislation

- Canadian Commercial Corporation Act

Organization

The board of directors is comprised of Canadian business executives, public service officials and the President of the Corporation. The President and Chief Executive officer directs the business of the Corporation and exercises further power and duties as assigned by the Board.

♦ Business Operations

These units handle all CCC business operations in both U.S. and International markets, including business development, preparation of bids and proposals, contract negotiations and contracting administration as well as account marketing and liaison. These units are also responsible for the Progress Payment Program that gives access to pre-shipment financing to some small and medium sized enterprises.

♦ Corporate Marketing and Strategic Planning

This unit is responsible for increasing awareness and usage of CCC services among exporters, trade intermediaries, foreign buyers. It focuses on strategic planning, sectoral marketing, communications, media, government relations, events and Trade shows. This unit is also responsible for planning and implementing the IM/IT infrastructure for the Corporation.

♦ Human Resources & Administration

The unit oversees the human resources, administration, health and safety, official languages, translation and security requirements of the Corporation.

♦ Risk and Financial Services

This unit is responsible for ensuring sound financial and risk management practices for all policies and programs of the Corporation.

Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board

Chapter 22

Background

The Cultural Property Export Review Board was established through the Cultural Property Export and Import Act on September 6, 1977. The duties of the Review Board as set out in section 20 of the Act are: pursuant to section 29, to review applications for export permits; pursuant to section 30, to make determinations respecting fair cash offers to purchase; and pursuant to section 32 and section 33.1, to make determinations and redeterminations for the purpose of subparagraph 39(1) (a) (i.1) or 110(1)(b.1) of the Income Tax Act.

Administrative services to the Review Board are provided through the Department of Canadian Heritage by the Movable Cultural Property Secretariat. All Review Board files are housed with the Secretariat. The personal information they contain pertains to members of the Review Board, applications for grants, loans, cultural property export permits, appeals against the refusal of cultural property export permits and applications for the certification of cultural property submitted on behalf of donors or vendors. Application forms are filed by number but can be accessed through a manual cross-index or automated system containing the name of the appellant (in the case of an appeal) or the donor/vendor (in the case of certification). Review Board member files are maintained in alphabetical order.

Responsibilities

The Review Board is responsible for preserving in Canada significant examples of Canadian heritage in movable cultural property, reviewing applications for export permits, making determinations on fair cash offers to purchase and making determinations for the purposes of the Income Tax Act. It also provides advice to the Minister of Canadian Heritage on matters affecting the preservation in Canada of the heritage in movable cultural property. In particular, it recommends to the Minister, pursuant to section 35 of the Act, grants and loans to designated institutions and public authorities in Canada for the purchase of objects for which permits have been refused under the Act, or for the purchase of cultural property outside Canada that is related to the national heritage. The grants and loans are made out of monies appropriated annually by Parliament.

In reviewing an application for an export permit the Board must determine whether the object in question: is included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List; is of outstanding significance by reason of its close association with Canadian history or national life, its aesthetic qualities or its value in the study of the arts or sciences; is of such a degree of national importance that its loss would significantly diminish the national heritage.

Where the Review Board determines that the cultural property subject of an application meets the criteria of outstanding significance and national importance, and the cultural property qualifies for certification for income tax purposes, the Review Board issues a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate to the donor/vendor, once legal disposition has been made to the institution making such an application. It should be noted that objects proposed for certification need not be included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List. Thus objects less than 50 years old or made by a living person may qualify. It should also be noted that a certified cultural property subject of a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate is exempt from tax on taxable capital gains when disposed of (by gift or sale) to an institution or public authority in Canada designated for the purpose and, in the case of a donation, also qualifies for the 100 percent tax credit provision under the Income Tax Act.

Appeals

Description: An applicant for a cultural property export permit, whose permit is refused by an expert examiner, may appeal this decision to the Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board. The process of appeal, including the disposition of the relevant information, is set out in section 29 of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act. The information in this bank includes the original permit application, the advice of the expert examiner and any other experts consulted, and administrative correspondence related to the conduct of the appeal. In each case, the information contained in an appeal file is shared with all interested parties. Class of Individuals: Individuals seeking to export cultural property which is subject to control. Purpose: To determine if an export permit should be granted. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for ten years. PAC Number: 79-002 Related to PR#: CPE CPI 005 TBS Registration: 000116 Bank Number: CPE PPU 005

Certification

Description: The purpose of this bank is to enable the Review Board to make determinations concerning the certification of cultural property for income tax purposes, and to issue cultural property income tax certificates. The application files contain information concerning the fair market value of objects being transferred to designated institutions by individual donors or vendors. Material held in the bank includes the application, appraisals, declaration of authenticity, information on provenance, significance of the object, deeds of gift or purchase agreements and, in the case of a sale, the purchase price. Copies of any advice from experts consulted and a copy of the tax certificate are also included. Class of Individuals: Individuals who donate or sell cultural property to designated Canadian cultural institutions. Purpose: Certification of cultural property for income tax purposes and the issuance of cultural property income tax certificates. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for ten years and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 79-002 Related to PR#: CPE CPI 005 TBS Registration: 000117 Bank Number: CPE PPU 010

Certification – Appeals Before the Tax Court

Description: In accordance with section 33.1 of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act, redeterminations of fair market value made by the Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board may be appealed to the Tax Court of Canada. Any person who has irrevocably disposed of an object, the fair market value of which has been redetermined under subsection 32(5), to a designated institution or public authority may, within ninety days after the day on which a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate is issued in relation to that object, appeal the redetermination to the Tax Court of Canada. Material held in the bank includes the Notice to Appeal filed with the Tax Court, correspondence with legal counsel, reports prepared by expert witnesses, court documents, copies of the original tax certificate, correspondence, and application for certification of cultural property for income tax purposes. Note: Some of these records may be protected by solicitor client privilege. Classes of Individuals: Individuals who donate or sell cultural property to designated institutions. Purpose: The Tax Court of Canada may confirm or vary the fair market value and, for the purposes of the Income Tax Act, the value fixed by the Court is deemed to be the fair market value of the object determined by the Review Board in respect of its disposition. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for ten years and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 94/010 TBS Registration: 004255 Bank Number: CPE PPU 030

Export Permits

Description: In accordance with section 4 of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act, an export permit must be obtained for cultural property which is more than 50 years old and made by a person who is no longer living. The permit application procedures are set out in the Act and the regulations. This bank contains original permit applications and supporting documentation, including correspondence and photographs. Class of Individuals: Applicants for export permits and general export permits. Purpose: The information was compiled in accordance with the regulations established under the Cultural Property Export and Import Act for export controls affecting cultural property. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for ten years and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Related to PR#: CPE CPI 005 TBS Registration: 002588 Bank Number: CPE PPU 015

Permit Officers, Expert Examiners and Applications for Grants and Loans

Description: This bank contains information about individuals designated as permit issuing officers and expert examiners for the purposes of export controls affecting cultural property. Permit issuing officers are employees of Revenue Canada who issue the permits, while expert examiners are employees of curatorial institutions who make determinations about the objects being exported. Grants for the purchase of cultural property are available for objects for which export permits have been refused, or which are located outside of Canada and are related to the Canadian national heritage. Class of Individuals: Employees of Revenue Canada; museum curators; dealers and collectors of cultural property. Purpose: The information has been compiled to maintain listings of permit issuing officers and expert examiners responsible for ensuring the efficient operations of the export control system. Information about individuals selling cultural property is required to establish their eligibility for a grant. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for ten years and then transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Related to PR#: CPE CPI 005 TBS Registration: 002587 Bank Number: CPE PPU 020

Review Board Members

Description: Section 18 of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act establishes the Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board and defines the composition of its membership. Information in this bank includes the curricula vitae of members, Orders-in-Council appointing them to the Board, correspondence, travel expense claims, press releases and articles by and about members. Class of Individuals: Members of the public; curators; dealers and collectors. Purpose: The information was compiled to determine the professional qualifications of individuals and their eligibility for membership on the Board. Some information is also used in the completion of travel documentation and for remuneration of members. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for ten years and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Related to PR#: CPE CPI 005 TBS Registration: 002589 Bank Number: CPE PPU 025

Canadian Dairy Commission

Chapter 23

General Information

Background

The Canadian Dairy Commission, established by the Canadian Dairy Commission Act in October 1966, is accountable to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food. A chairman and chief executive officer, a vice-chairman and a commissioner are appointed by Governor in Council to head the corporation. Funded by the federal government, producers and the marketplace, the Commission strives to balance and serve the interests of all dairy stakeholders – producers, processors, further processors, exporters, consumers and governments.

Responsibilities

The objectives of the Commission are to provide efficient producers of milk and cream with the opportunity of obtaining a fair return for their labour and investment, and to provide consumers with a continuous and adequate supply of dairy products of high quality.

The Commission has the authority to purchase, store, process or sell dairy products; to make payments to milk and cream producers for the purpose of stabilizing the price of industrial milk and cream; to investigate matters relating to the production, processing or marketing of any dairy product; and to help promote the use of dairy products.

In meeting its legislated objectives, the Commission calculates support prices at which it will purchase butter and skim milk powder. These prices are used as a reference at the provincial level in pricing milk components sold to processors. It also works with the private sector to balance the seasonal demand and supply of industrial milk products for the domestic market and facilitates the export of those products which are surplus to Canadian requirements and within Canada's World Trade Organization (WTO) commitments.

The supply of industrial milk and cream is managed nationally through the establishment of Market Sharing Quotas (MSQ) as determined by provisions of the National Milk Marketing Plan. The Commission, in chairing the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee (CMSMC), calculates and recommends the level of national MSQ and provincial market shares that are determined by the CMSMC.

The Commission administers the federal subsidy payment to producers which reduces the price required by producers from the marketplace, thereby moderating consumers' costs for dairy product purchases. These subsidy payments will be completely phased out as of February 1, 2002.

Canadian Environmental Assessment Agency

Chapter 24

Background

The Canadian Environmental Assessment Agency (the Agency) was created on December 21, 1994 to administer the federal environmental assessment process under the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act. The Agency replaced the Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office (FEARO), and reports directly to the Minister of the Environment. The Agency is a federal department dedicated solely to administering and promoting environmental assessment policies and practices of the federal government. Its mission is to provide Canadians with high quality federal environmental assessments that contribute to informed decision making in support of sustainable development.

Responsibilities

The Agency's main responsibilities are: to administer the federal environmental assessment process; to provide legal, procedural and policy advice to the Minister of the Environment on the Minister's responsibilities under the Act; to provide opportunities for public participation in the federal environmental assessment (EA) process and to promote sound environmental assessment practices.

Legislation

The Canadian Environmental Assessment Act and its regulations: the Law List, Comprehensive Study List, Inclusion List and Exclusion List, the Projects Outside Canada Environmental Assessment Regulations and the Coordination by Federal Authorities of Environmental Assessment Procedures and Requirements Regulations.

Organization

The Agency is divided into three main sectors: Program Delivery, Policy Development and Corporate Services.

Program Delivery Sector

◆ Project Assessment

Project Assessment develops and manages effective and independent public reviews and mediations to fulfil the Agency's mission and manages the Participant Funding Program.

It also undertakes and manages the Agency's responsibilities for comprehensive studies and class screenings; and advocates timely, efficient, high quality environmental assessments of projects.

◆ Regional Liaison and Guidance

Regional Liaison and Guidance provides the Agency's clients with information, advice and services to enhance the quality of environmental assessment and promotes compliance with the Act and its regulations. It provides advice and training on good environmental assessment practices.

The regional offices provide expert advice, training and information on environmental activities and practices to other federal departments and agencies, the provinces and other clients to coordinate and harmonize assessment requirements and procedures for specific project reviews.

Regional Liaison and Guidance also provides advice and support services to the federal administrator of the James Bay and Northern Quebec Agreement (JBNQA); and, manages the environmental assessment processes established under the JBNQA and related environmental assessment.

Policy Development Sector

◆ Legislative and Regulatory Affairs

Legislative and Regulatory Affairs provides a legislative and regulatory framework for integrating environmental assessment into federal decision making; monitors and promotes compliance within that framework; and explores alternatives to regulations.

It provides support to the Regulatory Advisory Committee and the Senior Management Committee on Environmental Assessment.

◆ Policy Analysis

Policy Analysis facilitates the consistent application of federal environmental assessment requirements through interdepartmental co-ordination and harmonization with environmental assessment processes of provinces and other jurisdictions.

It provides advice on Aboriginal environmental assessment matters to the Agency and other clients in order to shape the federal approach to integrating environmental assessment requirements into comprehensive land claims agreements, self government agreements and federal devolution initiatives.

Corporate Services Sector

◆ Communications

Communications provides communications advice and specialized information management services to internal and external clients in support of the Agency's objectives; promotes environmental assessment to the public; and manages the Federal Environmental Assessment Index (FEAI), the Agency's web site and a communications program which facilitate informed public participation in the federal environmental assessment process. The FEAI can be accessed at <http://www.ceaa.gc.ca>. The Ministerial Services Unit of Communications manages Parliamentary relations, ministerial services and correspondence.

◆ Finance and Administration

Finance and Administration provides financial and administrative advice to the Agency; including the development of mechanisms for cost recovery.

◆ Human Resources

Human Resources provides professional advice and human resources services to all of the Agency's employees.

◆ Legal Services

Legal Services provides professional legal services to the Agency and other federal departments regarding the design and implementation of the Act and the environmental assessment regulatory framework.

Canadian Film Development Corporation

Chapter 25

General Information

Background

The Canadian Film Development Corporation was established by an Act of Parliament (R.S.C. 1970, c. C-8) in March 1967. The Corporation, publicly known as Telefilm Canada, is dedicated primarily to the development and promotion of the Canadian film, television and new media industry. The Corporation acts as one of the government's principal instruments for providing strategic leverage to the Canadian private sector.

Responsibilities

The Government of Canada acts as a partner to the Canadian television, film and new media industry through Telefilm Canada, which provides support either in the form of financial investment or through the other resources at its disposal.

The Corporation meets the diverse needs of the industry through a wide range of funds. Support is available at all stages of the process, from screenplay development to final production and beyond to the distribution and marketing of finished products in Canada and abroad.

Telefilm Canada is a Crown corporation that reports to Parliament through the Minister of Canadian Heritage. It is headed by a board of directors, whose chair is appointed by the Governor in Council. On the recommendation of the Corporation's board, the Governor in Council also appoints an executive director, who acts as chief executive officer and is responsible for day-to-day operations. The Corporation is headquartered in Montreal and maintains offices in Toronto, Vancouver, Halifax and Paris.

Legislation

- Canadian Film Development Corporation Act, R.S.C. 1970, c. C-8

◆ Canadian Operations

This division has overall responsibility for the administration of Telefilm Canada's principal funds: the Feature Film Fund, the Canadian Television Fund – Equity Investment Program and the Multimedia Fund. It co-ordinates decision-making and production, distribution and development activities among the Canadian offices of the Corporation.

◆ Communications and Public Affairs

This department contributes to national and international recognition of the Canadian industry. It is responsible for publications, press relations, promotional activities and the Organisation's web site, and it coordinates the support programme for Canadian festivals, Canadian Showcase.

◆ Finance and Administration

This division is responsible for accounting services, financial planning, technologies and information systems, contracts administration and material resources management.

◆ Human Resources

This sector's mandate is to develop a consistent level of competence and versatility throughout the Telefilm Canada team while improving the quality and efficiency of practices and policies within the management of human resources.

◆ International Relations

This division comprises the Co-productions and International Markets and Festivals departments and the Paris office. It is responsible for administering international co-production agreements on behalf of the Canadian government and takes part in treaty negotiations. Co-production agreements have been signed with Algeria, Argentina, Austria, Australia, Belgium, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Brazil, Chile, China, Commonwealth of Independent States, Croatia, Cuba, Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hong Kong, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Luxembourg, Macedonia, Malta, Mexico, Morocco, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Philippines, Poland, Romania, Russian Federation, Singapore, Slovak Republic, Slovenia, South Africa, South Korea, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, Venezuela. The division evaluates applications submitted under these treaties and makes recommendations to the Minister of Canadian Heritage regarding provisional and final approval.

◆ Office of the General Counsel and Corporate Secretary

In addition to its role as General Counsel and Secretary to the Board, and arbiter of internal conflict of interest situations, this office has taken on the duties of overseeing Access to Information Act requests.

◆ Policy, Planning and Research

This division is responsible for the formulation of policies and strategies for the administration of Telefilm Canada funds. It is also responsible for establishing formal liaison with industry representatives and federal and provincial institutions, and for the evaluation of the cultural and industrial impact of the Corporation's policies. Further divisional responsibilities include studies on the effects of the Corporation's various programs and the evolution of the industry in general, aimed at improving long-term planning and ensuring that Telefilm's activities effectively meet industry needs.

Canadian Food Inspection Agency

Chapter 26

General Information

Background

To enhance effectiveness and efficiency, the Government of Canada decided to consolidate federally mandated food and fish inspection and animal and plant health activities into a single federal agency reporting to the Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food. On April 1, 1997 the Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA) opened its doors.

The Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food is responsible for and has overall direction of the Canadian Food Inspection Agency. The CFIA is headed by a President who reports directly to the Minister. The President is supported by an Executive Vice-President as outlined in the Agency's legislation. An advisory board of not more than 12 members advises the Minister on any issue related to the Agency.

The Minister of Health remains responsible for establishing policies and standards relating to the safety and nutritional quality of food sold in Canada. The Minister of Health is also responsible for assessing the effectiveness of the Agency's activities related to food safety.

Responsibilities

Canadian Food Inspection Agency's Mandate is to enhance the effectiveness and efficiency of federal inspection and related services for food and animal and plant health.

CFIA Mission:

Safe food, market access, consumer protection

CFIA Objectives:

- 1) To contribute to a safe food supply and accurate product information

Description: Information on the control of animal bird and animal pathogens imports to prevent animal disease from gaining entry into Canada. Topics: Veterinary inspection reports; Foreign Animal Disease (FAD) strategy documents; quarantine station activity reports; import protocols; risk assessments; import permit applications; import permits; laboratory diagnostic test results, import of animal pathogens; import of game farm and zoological garden animals; import of pets; feathers; skins, hides and wool; import of birds; fertilizers; tankage; plant products; insects; others (tropical fish, amphibians, worms).

Program Record Number: CFIA ANI 015

Inspection and Compliance

Description: Information on the development, implementation and monitoring of a national field compliance program for registered pesticides. Topics: Monitoring; investigation; enforcement; verifications, sampling. Program Record Number: CFIA INS 140

Inspection and Enforcement

Description: Information on the inspection and enforcement of standards governing seed quality. Topics:

Seed inspection; violations and detentions; crop inspection; grading; diseases; seed testing. Program Record Number: CFIA ENF 100

Inspection and Monitoring

Description: Information on the inspection and monitoring of dairy, fresh and processed fruits and vegetables, honey and maple products and certain other products; and on related establishments. Topics: Product inspection; establishment inspection; laboratory analysis; certificates of inspection; system auditing; consultation with governmental and non-governmental organizations; violations and prosecutions; inspection fees; complaints; compliance; policy development; the following database: Residues in Agri-Foods Monitoring Program. Program Record Number: CFIA MON 060

Inspection and Monitoring (Meat and Poultry Products)

Description: Information on the inspection, slaughter, monitoring and auditing of food animals, meat products, meat-by products and plant sanitation. Topics: Testing – toxicity, agricultural chemicals and veterinary drug residues, contaminants; slaughter and disease monitoring; complaint investigation; transport and plant sanitation; inspection auditing; surveys; national and regional inspection and audits – slaughterhouses, storage and processing facilities; stamping devices; policy development. Storage Medium: Files of statistics on monthly red meat and poultry kills, disease condemnations and establishment reviews are computer available as well as chemical and veterinary drug residues in Agri-Food monitoring. Program Record Number: CFIA MPP 075

Inspection, Testing and Certification

Description: Information on the inspection and testing of seed potatoes, and certification for domestic markets. Topics: Seed multiplication; seed potato improvement; inspection; enforcement; training programs; storage and transportation; testing (seed lots, field and post-harvest); inventory of varieties; assessment of varieties; complaint investigation (domestic); federal-provincial consultations. Program Record Number: CFIA ITC 115

Pathology Services

Description: Diagnostic service and research activities related to animal diseases, consultation and licensing for use of biologics, veterinary and pest control products. Topics: Diseases (agents of disease, transmission to humans, economic loss due to disease); diagnostic activities; diagnostic reagents; registration consulting service; licensing and use of biologics, veterinary and pest control products. Program Record Number: CFIA PAT 005

Pest Control

Description: Relates to pest control programs, diseases and parasites of plants and animals, control methods for specific pests, test data. Topics: Policies and general information on pest control; adjuvants; hard surface antimicrobials; industrial slime; invertebrate and vertebrate pests; materials preservation; plant diseases; water biocides; weeds and plant growth control; wood preservation; biotechnology. Program Record Number: CFIA PES 081

Plant Registration and licencing

Description: Information on the registration of storages, slaughtering and processing plants and meat rendering plants. Licensing of grading stations for meat and egg products. Topics: Policy development, construction specifications, equipment, inspection records. Program Record Number: CFIA PRL 080

Red Meat Grading Program

Description: Information on a national and regional program audits on red meat grading program delivery. Topics: Grading, audits and monitoring of grading accuracy and delivery of red meat; complaints, enforcement; policy development. Program Record Number: CFIA RMG 035

Registration and Product Standards (Meat and Poultry Products)

Description: Information on standards for the processing, grading and marking of poultry and poultry products, red meat, egg and egg products. Topics: Sanitation and building standards; grading standards; poultry packaging and labelling; import and export requirements; policy development; consultation with industry. Program Record Number: CFIA RPS 030

Registration, Licensing and Arbitration

Description: Information on the registration of fresh and processed fruit and vegetable, honey and maple products processing plants, dairy plants, and fresh produce warehouses; the licensing of dealers and brokers; and the arbitration of disputes. Topics: Registration of establishments – dairies; fresh and processed fruit and vegetable, honey and maple products processing plants; fresh produce warehouses; licensing of dealers and brokers; suspension or cancellation of registration; list of registered processors; arbitration boards; complaints; policy development. Program Record Number: CFIA RLA 050

Regulatory Communication

Description: Includes guidelines and procedures relative to the dissemination of technical information via various media. Topics: Regulatory communication; computer systems; presentations; publications; regulatory information by telephone. Program Record Number: CFIA REC 051

Regulatory Liaison

Description: Relates to national and international aspects of pesticide management, coordination of policies and regulatory activities. Topics: Regulatory liaison with: federal, foreign, international, national and provincial organizations and governments. Program Record Number: CFIA LIA 052

Scientific Analysis

Description: Information on analytical tests to ensure conformity with established quality-assurance and safety standards for certain products and facilities. Topics: Requests for analysis; analytical reports; test results; product safety; sampling programs (quotas); provision standards; consultation with national and international, governmental and non-governmental organizations; methods of analysis; statistics; laboratory accreditation protocols; audits; check samples; quality assurance protocols. Access: Files arranged by date sampled, laboratory number or by commodity, region, date and type of test. Certain files are kept in regional laboratories. Storage Medium: LIMS computer database contains samples received and reported, tests requested and performed, and computer-generated certificates of analysis are machine-readable. Additional data stored in Personal Computer Databases in the Agri-Food Safety and Strategies Division. Program Record Number: CFIA SCI 065

Seed Potato Programs

Description: Information on the planning and maintenance of a national program designed to provide seed potatoes of a class and quality that will meet the demands of both domestic and export markets. Topics: Seed potato certification standards; import requirements of foreign and domestic markets; export and domestic certification standards. Program Record Number: CFIA SEE 161

Seed Standards

Description: Information on the development of new or amended seed quality standards; packaging and labelling. Program Record Number: CFIA STA 105

Standards and Labels

Description: Information on the development of and compliance with standards and labels to ensure quality, nutritional value and safety of agri-food products. Topics: Label review on microfilm; approved Canadian and foreign labels (machine-readable list); packaging; food standards – formulas and preparation; additives; policy development. Program Record Number: CFIA LAB 085

Standards and Specifications

Description: Information on guidelines, specifications and standards on seed potatoes. Topics: Standards and labelling; laboratory facilities; transportation; storage; seed potato varieties; policy development. Program Record Number: CFIA SPE 120

Training for Inspection and Monitoring (Meat Hygiene)

Description: Information on training for the inspection and monitoring of food animals, meat products and plant sanitation. Topics: Inspection techniques for various species, sanitation practices, humane handling, meat processing; basic meat science; basic microbiology; food borne pathogens; biological residues. Storage Medium: Training materials in written format as modules with visual components on video or filmstrip with audio cassette. Program Record Number: CFIA TIM 076

Variety Registration

Description: Information on the evaluation of new varieties of seeds for the purpose of registration.

Topics: Registration of seeds; list of registered varieties; unregistered varieties. Program Record Number: CFIA VAR 110

VM Group – Employee Perception Study

Description: As part of its commitment to an open and consultative working environment, the Food Production and Inspection Branch conducted a survey of all its employees in the Veterinary Medicine (VM) Group. The survey was done cooperatively with the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada in the form of a questionnaire distributed to all VM Group members.

Topics: Information was obtained on the members' working environment, career opportunities, performance appraisals, job satisfaction and role definitions. Program Record Number: CFIA EPS 111

Personal Information Banks

Accreditation of Private Seed Testing Laboratories

Description: This bank contains technical information on organization, management, testing equipment, sample throughput and the performance rating of the laboratory in performance monitoring programs. Class of

Individuals: Seed laboratory proprietors, accredited seed analysts. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain records of the businesses and individuals who have been accredited to test and grade seed along with the technical data on the bases for the accreditation, and subsequent performance of the quality of the seed testing carried out by the laboratory. Consistent Uses: To assess, on the basis of performance and maintenance of the facilities and staff, if the accreditation should be continued or withdrawn. Retention and Disposal Standards: These files are retained for 10 years. Related to PR#: CFIA 105 TBS Registration: 003139 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 103

Accredited Private Seed Analyst

Description: This bank contains technical information on persons that applied for and written an accredited seed analyst exam. It contains a copy of their results and any certificates awarded. Class of Individuals: Seed analysts working for private seed testing laboratories or seed firms. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of the persons who have written the exam and the results they achieved in the exam. Consistent Uses: To assess the level of the actual persons' competence should they want to obtain a higher level of accreditation. The file is used to confirm that the level of accreditation that a seed laboratory merits based on the qualification of its complements of accredited seed analysts. Retention and Disposal Standards: These files are retained for 20 years. Related to PR#: CFIA 105 TBS Registration: 003138 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 102

Animal Health Importation Program

Description: This bank contains information related to the importation of animals, animal products and by-products, veterinary biologics and related items. Examples are cattle, horses, poultry, animal semen and embryos, meat, animal hides, veterinary vaccines, serums, toxins, etc. The information relates to permits, applications, quarantines, test results, numbers imported, etc. Class of Individuals: Information relates primarily to the identification of Canadian importers and, to a lesser extent, exporters in other countries. Purpose: To provide statistical information on imported commodities, to enable tracebacks for disease purposes and to provide an inventory of animals, commodities, owners, etc. for reference and consultation purposes. Consistent Uses: The bank is used primarily for issuing import permits, quarantining animals and birds, import statistic compilation, tracing back from disease outbreaks, verification of legal entry of animals, etc., into Canada. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is maintained in this bank for a period of 20 years. PAC

Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: CFIA 015 TBS Registration: 001711 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 011

Application for Compensation (PVYn)

Description: Name, address, telephone number, legal description of persons (farmers), property, production and sale records and grower's seed potato certification number. Class of Individuals: Farmers mainly. Purpose: For the purpose of awarding compensation payments to persons (farmers mainly) affected by the plant virus PVYn. Consistent Uses: It is expected that there will be some form of data sharing with the provinces and the potato marketing boards. Retention and Disposal Standards: Six years after the issuance of payments. Related to PR#: CFIA 161 TBS Registration: 002941 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 012

Artificial Insemination (A.I.) Units

Description: Information contained in the bank includes reports on owners of male donor animals in the A.I. units; name, identification and test results of the animals; records on the amount of semen being imported into the country to be stored at the A.I. units; and records showing the amount of semen exported. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have had semen collection of their animals done at artificial insemination units. Purpose: The purpose of this information bank is to support the prevention of disease transmission through the use of artificial insemination. Consistent Uses: This bank is used in the monitoring of artificial insemination units and for issuing licences, export certificates and import permits. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is maintained in this bank for a period of seven years. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: CFIA 025 TBS Registration: 000880 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 055

Authorization of Establishments to Certify Seed

Description: This bank contains technical information on seed handling equipment, seed sale data and product compliance data. Class of Individuals: Seed establishment proprietors. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of businesses and individuals who have been authorized to tag and seal certified seed, and/or sell certified seed in bulk, along with technical data on the basis of the authorization and subsequent performance of the seed from such establishments in meeting standards under the Seeds Act and Regulations. Consistent Uses: To assess on the basis of product performance whether authorization should be continued or withdrawn to certify seed. Retention and Disposal Standards: These files are retained for 10 years. PAC Number: 72-025 Related to PR#: CFIA 095 TBS Registration: 000890 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 105

Canadian Processed Poultry Stations

Description: As per the livestock and Poultry Carcass grading Regulations, under the Canada Agricultural Products Act, this bank contains documentation prepared by federal inspectors on registration, processed poultry grading standards, application, program delivery and audits. Topics: Sanitation, product analyses, audits. Class of Individuals: Registered processed poultry station operators. Purpose: To provide historical records on processed poultry stations, grading standards, compliance for graded poultry. Consistent Uses: The primary use of the files is to accumulate for weekly publication a provincial and Canadian record of processed poultry stations' output for use by the Canadian poultry industry. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is maintained in this bank for a period of four years after the current year and for one year following cancellation of registration. PAC Number: 74-023 Related to PR#: CFIA 035 TBS Registration: 000885 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 080

Canadian Registered Hatcheries (Chicken and/or Turkey)

Description: Documentation prepared by federal inspectors on hatchery permit issuance, hatchery premises plans, inspections and audit reports. Topics: Permits, plans, inspections monitoring and audits. Class of Individuals: Chicken/turkey hatchery operators. Purpose: To provide an historical record on hatcheries registered under the Hatchery Regulations of the Health of Animals Act. Consistent Uses: Health status, program performance, delivery as it relates to the production of healthy disease free chicks and poults. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is maintained in this bank for a period of four years after the current year and for one year following cancellation of registration. PAC Number: 74-023 Related to PR#: CFIA 035 TBS Registration: 000884 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 075

Consumer Complaint Database

Description: Information on complaints received from consumers and buyers of fish products including name, address and phone number of the complainant, details of the complaint and the results of the investigations. Class of Individuals: Consumers and buyers of fish products. Purpose: To record particulars of complaints from consumers and buyers of fish products and investigations related thereto. Consistent Uses: In cases of suspected food poisoning, other data including illness symptoms are stored. Retention and Disposal Standards: Permanent retention Related to PR#: CFIA 080 TBS Registration: 003623 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 095

Development & Implementation of HACCP systems

Description: The National Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point (HACCP) adaptation contribution program will provide contribution funding to small and medium sized federally registered food processing establishments to develop implement HACCP systems. Class of Individuals: Owners of small & medium sized federally registered food processing establishments. Purpose: To collect information about participating establishments and their owners such as name, address, SIN, size and progress through HACCP implementation in order to determine the usefulness of the program dollars spent.

Consistent Uses: none at the present time. Retention and Disposal Standards: 10 years Related to PR#: CFIA 080 TBS Registration: 004005 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 036

Disease Investigation

Description: Information contained in the bank includes reports on herds in which there have been an unusual number of deaths or other uncommon occurrences; reports from veterinary practitioners reporting unusual occurrences in their area; reports from veterinarians in charge of registered establishments reporting high incidence of disease in one particular herd or flock.

Class of Individuals: Livestock owners who have had uncommon occurrences in their herds or flocks. Purpose: The purpose of this information bank is to support the monitoring of livestock diseases in Canada in accordance with the Health of Animals Act. Consistent Uses: The primary use of this bank is to report unusual occurrences of animal disease. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is maintained in this bank for a period of 20 years. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: CFIA 025 TBS Registration: 000874 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 025

Disease Investigation on Reportable Diseases

Description: Information contained in the bank includes reports on individual herds or flocks in which a reportable disease has been diagnosed or suspected. Class of Individuals: Livestock owners who have a reportable disease in their herd or flock. Purpose: The purpose of this information bank is to support the eradication and/or control of livestock diseases in Canada which are reportable under the Health of Animals Act. Consistent Uses: The primary use of this bank is to monitor reportable livestock diseases and payment of compensation. Information may also be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is maintained in this bank for a period of 20 years. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: CFIA 025 TBS Registration: 000879 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 050

Embryo Transfer Centres

Description: Information contained in the bank includes the names and identification of parents of embryos, results of tests of parent and recipient animals, records of animals, animal embryos imported into the country by means of recipient animals or for transfer into recipient animals and records showing the number of animal embryos exported. Class of Individuals: Individuals who operate embryo transfers performed at embryo transfer centres. Purpose: The purpose of this information bank is to support the prevention of disease transmission through the process of animal embryo transfer from donor females into recipient females. Consistent Uses: The bank is used in the monitoring of embryo transfer centres for registration purposes, issuing export certificates and import permits. Retention and Disposal Standards:

Information is maintained in this bank for a period of 20 years. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: CFIA 035 TBS Registration: 000876 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 035

Export Control Information Bank

Description: This bank contains information such as species exported, destination and phytosanitary condition. Class of Individuals: The information in this bank relates to persons wishing to export plants or plant materials. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to issue phytosanitary certificates for export of plants or plant materials. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five years. PAC Number: 69-005 Related to PR#: CFIA 156 TBS Registration: 003037 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 120

Export of Livestock

Herd Test Reports on Brucellosis

Description: Historical data. Information contained in the bank includes reports on herd owners, the number of animals tested, the number of animals suspected of, or suffering from, brucellosis, the location where the infected animals were slaughtered, the amount of compensation paid and the certificate declaring premises free of disease. No herd testing for several years on Brucellosis. Canada declared Brucellosis free in 1985. Class of Individuals: Livestock owners of animals suspected of or suffering from brucellosis. Purpose: The purpose of this information bank is to aid in the eradication of brucellosis. Consistent Uses: The information is used to evaluate the program and to calculate the payment of compensation for animals slaughtered under the Health of Animals Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is maintained in this bank for a period of twenty years following the testing of an individual's cattle. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: CFIA 035 TBS Registration: 000877 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 040

Herd Test Reports on Johne's Disease (Paratuberculosis)

Description: Historical data. Information contained in the bank includes the number of animals tested and the number of animals suspected of or suffering from Johne's disease. Class of Individuals: Livestock owners of animals suspected of or suffering from Johne's disease. Canada is free of Paratuberculosis. No program in Canada. Purpose: The purpose of this information bank is to support the control of Johne's disease in accordance with the Health of Animals Act. Consistent Uses: Primary use of this bank is to monitor Johne's disease in Canada. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is maintained in this bank for a period of 10 years following the testing of an individual's cattle, sheep or goats. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: CFIA 025 TBS Registration: 000878 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 045

Herd Test Reports on Leukosis for CHAH Program

Description: The information in this bank includes reports on herd owners, the number of animals tested and the number of animals suspected of being infected with enzootic bovine leukosis (EBL) virus. This bank records all official test results on all herds enrolled in the Canada Health Accredited Herd (CHAH) plan for EBL. Information in the bank also includes the identity of the animals in the herd. Class of Individuals: Livestock owners who wish to enrol their herd in the voluntary CHAH plan for enzootic bovine leukosis. Purpose: The purpose of this information bank is to support a voluntary herd accreditation program for enzootic bovine leukosis in Canadian cattle herds. The herd accreditation program (CHAH) enables owners to detect EBL and to control the infection within their herd and facilitates domestic and international trade. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is maintained for a period of 10 years following the testing of an individual's cattle. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: CFIA 025 TBS Registration: 002378 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 046

Import Control Information Bank

Description: This bank contains information on plants and plant materials, such as species imported, origin, intended use, names of importers, and notices of refused entry. Class of Individuals: Persons wishing to import plants or plant materials. Purpose: To issue permits for import of plants or plant materials, to control entry and to enable the Plant Health Division to correspond with export and/or import permit holders on regulatory subject matters. Consistent Uses: To issue import permits, to compile plant-origin- destination profiles and to enable the Plant Protection Division to contact permit holders for regulatory enforcement purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: These files are retained for 10 years. PAC Number: 69-005 Related to PR#: CFIA 155 TBS Registration: 000892 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 115

Inspection and Registration – Processed Dairy Products

Description: This bank contains information on the condition of dairy premises, product quality, volumes and countries of origin of imported products. Class of Individuals: Dairy processors. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the enforcement of the regulation of dairy products under the mandate of the Canada Agricultural Products Act and Regulations. Consistent Uses: The information is used in regulating the manufacturing, importation, exportation and marketing of dairy products and in the formulation of government policy. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for three years. PAC Number: 74-012 Related to PR#: CFIA 060 TBS Registration: 000886 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 085

Inspection and Registration – Processed Products

Description: This bank contains documentation on safety, grading, packaging, and labelling of products as well as correspondence and information on food processors, packers, importers, wholesalers and producers (honey and maple). Class of Individuals: Processors, packers, importers, wholesalers and producers (honey and maple) of processed products.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to aid enforcement of the Canada Agricultural Products Act and Regulations relating to the quality and safety of processed products, including honey and maple products. Consistent Uses: The information is used to assist in the maintenance of national quality standards and to assess compliance with regulatory requirements. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five to ten years. PAC Number: 73-009 Related to PR#: CFIA 045 TBS Registration: 000888 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 095

Inspector/Grader Certificate & Application

Description: Information required for all inspectors in FPI Branch to permit them to inspect under the various acts. Class of Individuals: Inspectors. Purpose: To permit inspectors to inspect agricultural commodities. Consistent Uses: Once the application form has been completed and approved, a card is presented to the individual so that he/she then becomes a registered establishment inspector. Retention and Disposal Standards: Application for certificates are kept until date of expiry. Related to PR#: CFIA 076 TBS Registration: 002696 Bank Number: CFIA PPU 097

Investigations: Violations of Acts and Regulations – FPI

Description: The information contained in this bank consists of narrative reports which describe the action taken in a particular investigation. Coverage consists of persons and/or companies suspected of violating acts and regulations administered by the Food Production and Inspection Branch (FPI). Class of Individuals: The general public. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain records to assist in the enforcement of the acts and regulations administered by FPI. # Canadian Forces Grievance Board

Chapter 27

Background

The Canadian Forces Grievance Board (CFGB) was established on March 1, 2000 as a result of legislation that contained comprehensive amendments to modernize the National Defence Act (NDA). These amendments are designed to help renew the Canadian Forces. One of the reforms was aimed at creating an independent review of grievances through the establishment of the Canadian Forces Grievance Board. The establishment of the Board is defined in section 29 of the NDA. Chapter 7.12 of the Queen's Regulations and Orders applicable to the Canadian Forces that govern the types of grievances referred to the CFGB came into effect on June 15, 2000.

Responsibilities

The Canadian Forces Grievance Board is an external and independent "arms length" legal body, established by the National Defence Act (NDA), that is mandated to investigate and review grievances referred to it by the Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) and to providing findings and recommendations to the CDS regarding grievances so referred. The Canadian Forces Grievance Board has the power to summon witnesses, to compel the production of evidence when the Board considers it necessary and to determine and modify its own rules of procedure. Although the Board's findings and recommendations are not binding, the CDS must provide reasons in writing to the Board and the grievor if he does not act upon them. The Board reports annually to Parliament through the Minister of Defence.

Legislation

- Canadian Forces Grievance Board Rules of Procedure
- National Defence Act
- Queen's Regulations and Orders applicable to the Canadian Forces

Organization

The Canadian Forces Grievance Board is designated as a department within the meaning and for the purposes of the Financial Administration Act. Treasury Board is its employer.

The Board is responsible for the operational review of certain types of grievances referred to the Board by the Chief of Defence Staff. The review program provides an analysis and reporting service and associated procedural and logistical services required to support an orderly and effective review process.

◆ Board Membership

The Board is made up of a chairperson, a full-time vice-chairperson, a part-time vice-chairperson and part-time members, all appointed by the Governor in Council. The Chairperson is a full time member, is the Chief Executive Officer of the Board and has supervision over and direction of the work of the Board staff. The senior staff consists of an Executive Director, a Director, Grievance Analysis, a General Counsel, and a Director, Corporate Services.

◆ Director, Corporate Services (COR)

The Director, Corporate Services is accountable for designing, developing and implementing a corporate services infrastructure which meets the needs of the Canadian Forces Grievance Board.

◆ Director, Grievance Analysis

The Director, Grievance Analysis is responsible for researching and investigating the information that the Board needs to make recommendations on grievance cases.

◆ Executive Director

The Board's Executive Director is responsible for providing strategic leadership, as well as developing and implementing the Board's management framework, its strategic priorities, its business plan, and its financial and human resources, reviewing its progress and the political and legislative challenges facing the Board, and negotiating on behalf of the Board with central agencies.

◆ General Counsel

The General Counsel is accountable for directing the provision of legal advice, interpretation and opinions to the Canadian Forces Grievance Board, legal representation at Board hearings, and representation of the Board before the Federal Court of Canada.

Canadian Heritage

Background

The Department of Canadian Heritage was created on June 25, 1993, through the reorganization of the federal government. The Act to establish the Department of Canadian Heritage and to amend or repeal certain other acts was proclaimed on June 12, 1996. The Department's mission is to strengthen and celebrate Canada – its people and its land. We honour this commitment to Canadians by enhancing pride in Canada; contributing to Canada's economic growth and prosperity; protecting Canada's heritage; ensuring access to Canadian voices and Canadian spaces and encouraging participation in and contribution to Canadian Society.

Responsibilities

The Department of Canadian Heritage is responsible for policies and programs relating to arts, culture, movable heritage, archaeology, broadcasting, Canadian identity, multiculturalism, official languages and sport, as well as broad policies relating to built and natural heritage.

Areas of responsibility include: developing Canadian cultural affairs and broadcasting policy; assisting cultural industries and arts and heritage organizations; encouraging the creation, production, distribution and consumption of cultural and heritage goods and services; creating opportunities for young Canadians to participate in exchange programs and promoting exchanges and related activities; fostering Canadians' collective sense of self and promoting the civic participation of all members of Canadian society; promoting a greater understanding of human rights; enhancing the participation of urban and off-reserve aboriginal organizations in Canadian society; managing programs and initiatives related to the multicultural character of Canadian society; encouraging and developing amateur sport; advancing the equality of status and use of the official languages and supporting the development of official-language minority communities.

Legislation

The following statutes are administered, in whole or in part, by the portfolio of Canadian Heritage:

- An Act to Incorporate the Jules et Paul-Émile Léger Foundation
- Broadcasting Act
- Canada Council Act
- Canada Travelling Exhibitions Indemnification Act

- Canadian Film Development Corporation Act
- Canadian Heritage Languages Institute Act (not in force)
- Canadian Multiculturalism Act

- Salaries Act (Lieutenant-Governors)
- Status of the Artist Act (Part I)
- Trade-marks Act (Use of national symbols)

Organization

Deputy Minister's Office

Human Resources Branch

Reporting to the Deputy Minister, the Human Resources Branch provides services and advice to the Management Committee and to managers of the Department on all matters involving human resources management. Thus, the Branch ensures human resources services in the National Capital Region and in Regional Offices.

Legal Services Branch

Reporting to the Deputy Minister, the Legal services are provided by lawyers from the Department of Justice who offer program managers a wide range of services, including preparing opinions on the laws administered by the Department, drafting regulatory texts and giving advice on policies being developed.

Canadian Identity Sector

The Canadian Identity Sector encourages the use of the two official languages in Canadian Society and promotes their equal status; coordinates the cross-government commitment to multiculturalism; advances opportunities for Canadians of all ethnic cultural background to participate in and contribute fully to Canadian society; promotes volunteerism and enhances the independence of the voluntary sector. It supports Aboriginal peoples in their efforts to resolve issues affecting their lives in Canadian society. The Sector's programs and policies support the advancement of Canadian studies; create opportunities for young Canadians to participate in exchange programs and promote exchanges and related activities; encourage Canadians to value sport and to participate; advise in matters of state protocol, manage state ceremonial and events and promote Canadian symbols and institutions. It is responsible for increasing the awareness, knowledge and enjoyment of human rights and fostering compliance with Canada's human rights obligations.

Policy Coordination and Strategic Planning Branch

The Policy Coordination and Strategic Planning Branch directs the strategic planning process and coordinates policy development for the Sector. It provides policy advice to the Minister of Canadian Heritage and the Secretary of State (Multiculturalism) (Status of Women) with respect to the Sector's four product/service lines: Sport, Official Languages, Canadian Identity and Multiculturalism. The Branch also represents the Sector's interests by taking part in intradepartmental and interdepartmental working groups. In addition, it conducts research on public opinion and socio-demographic factors in order to better orient the Sector's strategic decision-making at the Sector level.

Citizen Participation and Promotion Branch

The Citizen Participation and Promotion Branch is responsible for three principal areas of activity:

- Exchanges Canada
- Canadian Identity Directorate
- Community Partnerships Program

Exchanges Canada

Exchanges Canada is a Government of Canada initiative that creates opportunities for young Canadians to connect with one another and experience the diversity of Canadian communities, languages and cultures. Exchanges Canada offers a new single window (1 800 O-CANADA and www.exchanges.gc.ca) to information on hundreds of exchange initiatives and related activities throughout Canada and abroad. Exchanges Canada programs aim to help young Canadians gain knowledge and understanding of Canada, connect to one another and appreciate the diversity and shared aspects of the Canadian experience. The Government of Canada provides funding to organizations that administer exchanges in partnership with Exchanges Canada. Special consideration is given to encourage participation from groups traditionally under-represented in exchange programs, such as Aboriginal youth, youth with disabilities, youth from low-income families, and youth from rural or isolated regions. These exchanges fall under two streams of program funding: Youth Exchanges Canada and Youth Forums Canada.

Youth Exchanges Canada offers exchanges to groups of 10-30 young Canadians between the ages of 11 and 18. Groups are twinned with a group of youth approximately the same age from another part of the country. The exchanges are reciprocal in that each group travels to its twin community and then hosts the other group in its community. Participants must play an active role in organizing the exchange, do research on both their own and their twin's communities, and participate in fundraising and activity planning.

Youth Forums Canada provides funding to support projects that give youth an opportunity to connect with one another through a variety of means, including youth forums, as well as innovative and virtual projects. Youth Forums Canada also provides funding to Katimavik, a national program that offers young people the opportunity to live in three different regions of Canada as part of a group of 11 people from the four corners of the country. Participants develop interpersonal skills, work on community projects, learn a second language, while participating in a variety of unique activities.

♦ Canadian Identity Directorate

Canadian Studies

The goal of the Canadian Studies Program, is to increase the Canadian public's knowledge of Canada. The Program encourages Canadians to learn about Canada by providing financial assistance to eligible individuals, organizations, companies and foundations working to develop learning materials (books, films, new media) about Canada. It administers an annual funding competition and an annual call for proposals for the production of learning materials about Canada. Topics for the annual call for proposals are selected to provide support for learning materials about Canada in fields that touch upon current governmental or departmental priorities. The program works with not-for-profit groups such as the Association for Canadian Studies in the development of projects that will benefit the field of Canadian Studies, or will support innovative learning initiatives. It initiates special projects and initiatives and works in partnership with a variety of governmental and non-governmental organizations on special projects to achieve the Program's goals. Finally, the program produces learning materials and resources available in print and through the Canadian Studies Web site (www.pch.gc.ca/csp-pec) such as the "EDUAction" resource guides for Canadian teachers.

National Initiatives

The National Initiatives Program coordinates the delivery of special programs that reinforce pride in Canada and being Canadian. It is currently responsible for the Path of Heroes initiative, the goal of which is to enhance an awareness and appreciation of the heroes who have built and continue to build our country. The Path of Heroes includes a physical path in the National Capital area delineating eight routes intended as walking tours. In close partnership with 35 federal partners, a kit with pull-out brochures has been developed. An interactive Web site (www.heroes.gc.ca) has also been created in order to involve Canadians in a national dialogue about our national, regional and local heroes. The National Initiatives Program is currently examining various strategies for extending the reach and impact of the Path of Heroes program.

Ceremonial and Canadian Symbols Promotion

The objectives of Ceremonial and Canadian Symbols Promotion are to fulfill obligations in the field of State Ceremonial activities. It is also responsible for encouraging awareness of, and pride in Canada, by increasing knowledge of its institutions, heritage, symbols, citizenship, culture and values. The main activities of Ceremonial and Canadian Symbols Promotion include: ceremonial and protocol advice; promotion and protection of national symbols; organization and coordination of national ceremonies, such as the Installation of new Governors General, State funerals, official Canada Day ceremonies; Canada Day/Celebrate Canada program for celebrations across Canada; National Flag of Canada Day initiative; administration of the Government of Canada responsibilities regarding Lieutenant Governors; coordination of visits by members of the Royal Family; provision of flags related materials to MPs and Senators; administration of a gift bank for the Governor General, members of the Canadian Ministry and deputy heads; and, use of Parliament Hill for activities.

National Strategic Alliances

The National Strategic Alliances Program, established in 1996, provides sections of the Department of Canadian Heritage, in particular the Canadian Identity Directorate with the necessary policy and programming tools to establish partnerships with not-for-profit organizations, corporate Canada and other government departments.

This internal service assists managers in actively involving the private sector, non-governmental organizations, other government departments and agencies in the promotion and enhanced knowledge, understanding and appreciation of Canada, Canadian identity and participatory citizenship.

Community Partnerships Program

The program promotes the growth and diversity of the voluntary sector and enhances its independence. It also promotes volunteerism at a national level. In 2001 the program will play a pivotal role in the International Year of Volunteers.

◆ Citizens Participation Directorate

The Directorate promotes the development, understanding, respect for and enjoyment of human rights in Canada; coordinates the domestic implementation of international human rights instruments, and promotes the full social, cultural and economic potential of Aboriginal people off-reserve and their equitable participation in Canadian society.

Human Rights Program

Promotes knowledge of human rights through various education and promotion activities, and coordinates the preparation of Canada's reports on the implementation of United Nations and other international human rights instruments. The activities of the Program include the provision of both financial and technical support to non-governmental organizations concerned with human rights education, development and research, and assisting and coordinating the progress of human rights in Canada. The Program also funds the Court Challenges Program of Canada for test cases on official languages and equality rights guaranteed under Canada's Constitution (administered at arms-length from the Government).

Native Citizens' Program

Coordination and administration of a series of Aboriginal community-based programs that serve the off-reserve First Nations (status and non-status), the Inuit and the Métis peoples. Two key features of programming include program devolution to Aboriginal organizations for their management and administration and community-based projects that are initiated and managed by Aboriginal peoples. Programming falls under three themes: core funding and capacity-building, Aboriginal youth programs and cultural and language development, and is designed to support and facilitate the enhancement of the capacities of Aboriginal communities and organizations to participate in various fora and processes dealing with Aboriginal governance and the social, cultural, political, legal and economic issues affecting the lives of Aboriginal peoples in Canadian society. Funding for programs and initiatives is provided through the Aboriginal Friendship Centres Program, the Northern Native Broadcast Access Program, the Aboriginal Representative Organizations Program, the Aboriginal Women's Program, the Urban Multipurpose Aboriginal Youth Centres Initiative, the Aboriginal Languages Initiative and Young Canada Works for Urban Aboriginal Youth. The Native Citizens' Program also administers three Aboriginal languages agreements with the Northwest Territories, the Yukon, and Nunavut.

◆ Multiculturalism Directorate

Since 1971, Canada's Multiculturalism Policy has contributed to a vision of Canadian society based upon the values of equality, recognition and mutual respect regardless of race, ethnicity, language or religion. The policy encourages participation by citizens of all backgrounds in building and shaping Canada through support of three fundamental goals: fostering identity, developing civic participation and enhancing social justice. The Multiculturalism Program is one of the vehicles used by government to advance these broad policy goals.

A recent comprehensive review of Multiculturalism resulted in a renewal of the Multiculturalism Program and the adoption of five new Program objectives. The renewed Multiculturalism Program undertakes a range of activities including research, public policy analysis, public education and promotion and the administration of a granting program which provides support to community initiatives. Work undertaken or funded must meet one of the following Program objectives: 1) to assist in the development of strategies that facilitate the full and active participation of ethnic, racial, religious and cultural communities in Canadian society; 2) to facilitate collective community initiatives and responses to ethnic, racial, religious and cultural conflict and hate-motivated activities; 3) to improve the ability of public institutions to respond to ethnic, racial, religious and cultural diversity by assisting in the identification and removal of barriers to equitable access, and by supporting the involvement of diverse communities in public decision-making processes; 4) to encourage and assist in the development of inclusive policies, programs and practices within Federal departments and agencies so that they meet their obligations under the Canadian Multiculturalism Act; and 5) to increase public awareness, understanding and informed public dialogue about multiculturalism, racism and cultural diversity in Canada.

Official Languages Support Programs Branch

The objectives of the Official Languages Support Programs Branch are to promote the full recognition and use of both English and French in Canadian society and to encourage the development of Francophone and Anglophone communities in minority situations.

Minority Language Education and Services

In partnership with provinces and territories, the Official Languages Support Programs Branch (OLSP) helps minority school boards offer their clients education of a comparable quality to that offered to the majority. Other measures are implemented to extend post-secondary Francophone education throughout the country, especially in key areas such as health, by using distance education and partnerships with existing institutions. OLSP also works in partnership with the provinces and territories to deliver provincial, territorial and municipal services in the minority language.

Second Language Education

In co-operation with provincial and territorial governments, OLSP supports the delivery of quality second-language instruction at all levels, and works to promote and strengthen second-language learning among Anglophone and Francophone majorities in Canada.

Direct Support to Communities

With the Canada-community agreements concluded with each provincial and territorial community, OLSP works with communities to consolidate their network of agencies, to pursue their development priorities, to contribute actively to their local cultural and economic life, and to support projects with national to strengthen the contribution by federal institutions to the development of official-language minority communities. A new initiative, the Interdepartmental Partnership Initiatives with Official-Language Communities, is implemented to encourage and stimulate partnerships among these communities and federal agencies.

Promoting Canadian Linguistic Duality

To promote the bilingual character of our country as a fundamental part of our national identity, OLSP continues its effort to promote the Francophonie in Canada, one of the pillars of our country's cultural diversity. It also strengthens the visibility of official languages and of the Government of Canada's commitments to the public, community associations, and federal, provincial and territorial agencies and institutions. OLSP, for instance, offers young people the opportunity to experience linguistic duality through exchange programs, supports volunteer agencies wishing to offer their services in both official languages, and promotes the presence and recognition of French on the Internet. Internationally, OLSP promotes its expertise in linguistic development, including the Canadian language industries and linguistic tourism.

Sport Canada Branch

Sport Canada plays a key policy and program leadership role in sport at the interprovincial, national and international levels. Sport Canada supports the achievement of high performance athletic excellence and the development of the Canadian sport system to strengthen the unique contribution that sport makes to Canadian identity, culture and society. The four strategic directions for sport include: high performance athletes and coaches; sport system development; strategic positioning of sport; and access and equity. Goals associated with each of these strategic directions are respectively: to enhance the ability of Canadian athletes to excel at the highest international levels through fair and ethical means; to advance the Canadian sport system through cooperation with key partners to enhance coordination and integration; to advance the broader federal government objectives through sport, position sport in the federal government agenda and promote the contribution of sport to Canadian society; and to increase access and equity in sport to targeted under-represented groups.

Canadian Secretariat of the Games of La Francophonie 2001

Canada will host the fourth edition of the Games of La Francophonie, to be held in Hull and Ottawa from July 14 to 24, 2001. The Games of La Francophonie are the only international games where medals are awarded both for athletic and artistic competitions.

Canada was selected in August 1997 by the Conférence des ministres de la jeunesse et des sports of the countries that share the use of French to host the IV Games of La Francophonie. The federal Government holds the franchise for the Games. The Government established a Steering Committee to be advised on planning the Games. This political committee is chaired by the Honourable Don Boudria, the federal spokesperson for the Games and includes representatives from Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick, the cities of Ottawa and Hull, the Outaouais Urban Community and the Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton.

More than fifty participating States and Governments of La Francophonie (from a total of 55 members, associates and observers) will take part in the Games. More than 2,900 participants and 4,000 volunteers are expected to attend. The primary role of the Canadian Secretariat for the Games of La Francophonie is to support the three Ministers responsible for hosting the Games: the Honourable Don Boudria, the federal government's ministerial spokesperson for the Games and Chair of the Steering Committee; the Honourable Sheila Copps, Minister of Canadian Heritage, by virtue of her responsibility for sport and culture; and the Honourable Ron Duhamel, Secretary of State responsible for La Francophonie, by virtue of his responsibility for La Francophonie.

As set in the Règles des Jeux de la Francophonie, the Games are organized and coordinated by a non-profit organization, the 2001 Games of La Francophonie Organizing Committee (COJF). The COJF is in particular responsible for organizing sports and athletic competitions; hosting, providing accommodations and food; coordinating access to health services; local transportation; organizing the press centre, media relations and public relations; organizing the opening and closing ceremonies; tourism promotion, promoting the Games in Canada in accordance with the rules of the Games of La Francophonie and the policies of the International Committee for the Games of La Francophonie (CIJF); preparing competition sites, technical support as per the standards of international sports federations and those of the CIJF for cultural disciplines, needed to ensure the smooth conduct of competitions; accreditation and required funding.

Strategic Management Sector

The Strategic Management Sector is responsible for the development and implementation of strategies and instruments in order to manage the Canadian Heritage Portfolio in a concerted fashion; to develop a vision and a focussed, coherent policy and planning framework; to set in place management mechanisms that will implement this policy and planning framework and promote the effective integration of vertical and horizontal issues across the Department and Portfolio; to provide the opportunity for the Department to define and stake out its unique role in valuing and strengthening the Canadian experience.

♦ Strategic Planning and Policy Coordination Branch

The Strategic Planning and Policy Coordination Branch manages the annual priorities and planning cycle for the Department, including the strategic planning process; develops corporate policies; and undertakes strategic research and information analysis. Furthermore, it oversees and manages bilateral relations with provincial and territorial governments. The Branch ensures that appropriate environmental and public policy factors are considered in the Department's strategic and tactical decision-making, manages the Department's approach to horizontal governmental and departmental policy issues and also manages Aboriginal issues affecting both the Department and its Portfolio agencies.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Department, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks previously described in this entry. Such personal information includes requests for information and publications, research proposals, expressions of public support, comments and suggestions, requests for funding and assistance, and complaints. This information is stored as part of the general subject files, the records of which are not normally retrievable by name of individual or other personal identifier. Specifics must be provided concerning the subject matter, related program activity, as well as the date on which the information was received by the Department and to whom it was addressed.

The personal information contained in these subject files is retained for the same period of time as the related subject information and is disposed of according to the appropriate subject records schedules.

Book Publishing Industry Development Program

This class of documents contains separate files for each application for funding under the Book Publishing Industry Development Program. Files contain information about the corporate and financial status of the book publishers or industry groups involved. Personal information retained could include citizenship, nationality and other personal and financial information of company presidents, vice-presidents and shareholders. The information is used to determine eligibility for funding under the program. Files are retained for seven years and are then destroyed. (See also Program Records: COM ACI 250 – Book Publishing Industry Development Program).

Canadian Audio-Visual Certification

This class of documents contains confidential personal information pertaining to the creative personnel employed in productions which have applied to the Canadian Film or Video Production Tax Credit Program (CPTC) and the pre-existing Capital Cost Allowance Program (CCA). Information is not filed by personal identifier, but is filed with application forms. Files are retained for 25 years and then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. (See also Program Records: COM ACI 255 – Canadian Audio-Visual Certification Office).

Canadian Heritage Information Network

This class of personal information is pertinent to the collection of museum objects by Canadian museums. The purpose of the information is to create a national inventory of museum collections and to assist museums in managing their collections. The documents may contain references to individuals with whom Canadian museums deal in relation to collecting. Also contained is basic biographical information on Canadian artists. The records are created and supplied by Canadian museums and are maintained as long as is necessary for their management. Contact information is also held about subscribers to CHIN products or services.

Cultural Initiatives Program

This class of personal information contains applications and supporting documentation submitted by cultural organizations seeking financial assistance for their activities. These documents may contain personal information pertaining to the directors and officers of cultural organizations including names and addresses. As well, the curriculum vitae of participants and/or expert advisors to the proposed activity may be held on file. This information is not filed by personal identifier but rather by cultural organization or activity title. This information was compiled to assess applications for funding of projects under the program including management development projects, capital projects and festivals and special events such as national conferences, etc. Records maintained by headquarters are retained for seven years, then transferred to National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Records are also maintained by the Department's Regional Offices which are responsible for the management of the Program.

Labour Market Study

Part 1 of this bank contains personal information on approximately 1200 employees of the museums across Canada and responses to questions on training and professional development opportunities, employment conditions, educational and training background, and some demographic data. Part 2 contains data on 500 museums and responses to questions on the museums labour market such as number of full-time and part-time positions; number of people employed for each job and their classifications; current budgets, etc. Records will be kept for five years (plus two years dormant).

National Arts Training Contribution Program

This class of personal information contains applications and supporting documentation submitted by cultural training institutions seeking financial assistance for their operations. These documents may contain personal information pertaining to the directors and officers of the institutions, including names and addresses. As well, the curriculum vitae of individuals associated with the institution may be held on file. This information is not filed by personal identifier but rather by the name of the cultural institution. This information was compiled to assess applications for funding of operations under the Program. Records maintained by headquarters are retained for seven years, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention.

Canadian Human Rights Commission

Chapter 29

General Information

Background

The Canadian Human Rights Commission was given its mandate with the passage in July, 1977 of the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Act became operative on March 1, 1978.

Responsibilities

The Commission's program objective is to give effect to the principle that within the federal sphere every individual should have an equal opportunity to participate in Canadian life consistent with his or her duties and obligations as a member of the Canadian society.

Specifically, the Commission deals with complaints of discrimination in employment, in the provision of goods, services, facilities and/or accommodation customarily available to the general public and in the provision of commercial premises or residential accommodation, based on any of the eleven prohibited grounds of discrimination enumerated in the Act: race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, family status, disability, or conviction of an offence for which a pardon has been granted. The Commission also attempts to resolve cases through mediation or conciliation before considering the tribunal process.

The Canadian Human Rights Act prohibits discrimination in policies and practices affecting wages for male and female employees who are performing work of equal value. As a result, the Commission investigates complaints alleging inequities in wage-related practices.

The Commission also carries out employment equity audits of federal departments, agencies, and federally regulated employers. The Employment Equity Act mandates the Commission to perform these audits and report to Parliament on the results every year.

The Commission also has a statutory responsibility to discourage and reduce discriminatory practices through public education, liaison, and any other means it considers appropriate. This responsibility is discharged by producing promotional and educational materials, developing and conducting information programs to foster public understanding of the principles of equal opportunity enshrined in the Canadian Human Rights Act, and by working cooperatively with employers and service providers both at the headquarters and regional levels.

The Commission functions as an independent agency and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Justice.

Legislation

- Age Guidelines (SI/78-165, October 25, 1978)
- Canadian Human Rights Act (R.S., 1985, c. H-6)
- Canadian Human Rights Benefit Regulations (SOR/80-68, January 11, 1980; amendment: SOR/82-783, August 19, 1982; SOR/83-615, July 28, 1983; SOR/85-512, May 31, 1985)
- Customs and Excise Human Rights Investigation Regulations (SOR/83-196, February 25, 1983)
- Employment Equity Act (1995, c.44 )
- Equal Wage Guidelines (SOR/86-1082, November 18, 1986)

- Immigration Guidelines (SI/80-125, July 23, 1980)
- Immigration Investigation Regulations (SOR/80-686, August 27, 1980)
- Protection of Personal Information Regulations (SOR/78-145, February 22, 1978)

Organization

The Commission is headed by the Chief Commissioner who has deputy minister status. In this role, she is supported by the Secretary General. There are five operational and administrative branches at headquarters: Executive Secretariat, Legal Services, Operations, Employment Equity Programs, Corporate Management. In addition to the aforementioned, there are also six regional offices.

Corporate Management

This Branch provides the Commission with support services in assets and facilities management, finance, telecommunications, informatics, security, information management and library services. It is also responsible for strategic planning and human resources management.

This Branch also monitors human rights issues of interest to the Commission, conducts research on policy issues and coordinates international liaison activities.

Employment Equity

This Branch is responsible for monitoring employers' compliance with the Employment Equity Act by means of employment equity audits.

Executive Secretariat

This Branch provides administrative services to the executive offices, including coordinating Commission meetings, managing executive correspondence, and preparing briefing materials. It is also responsible for access to information and privacy.

Legal Services

This Branch provides advice to the Chief Commissioner, Commission members and staff. Legal officers also represent the Commission in litigation before tribunals, review tribunals and the courts.

Operations

The Branch is responsible for the mediation, investigation and conciliation of complaints, including pay equity complaints. The Branch also provides a quality assurance function for the cases presented to the Commission.

This Branch also include six regional offices, fosters public understanding of the Canadian Human Rights Act and human rights issues through information programs, the media, and community activities.

Operations Files

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Operations Branch, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in this entry. Such personal information may include an individual's race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age or marital status, views or opinions of another individual about the individual, etc., which are stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier.

This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning personnel/employment policies and practices or special programs, plans or arrangements undertaken by federally regulated employers or service providers, or concerning Commission policies relating to the application of the Canadian Human Rights Act to employment policies, practices and special programs/arrangements. The retention of this personal information class is governed by a records schedule negotiated with the National Archives of Canada.

Enquiries Received Under the Canadian Human Rights Act, Part III

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of Standards and Alternate Dispute Resolution, categories of personal information may be accumulated and stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. Such personal information is accumulated in the course of responding to complaints of discriminatory practices and policies on various grounds which may or may not be prohibited by the Act. This form of personal information is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the nature of the complaint, the date, and the office to which it was addressed. The files are retained for two years from last administrative action, in accordance with the Privacy Act and then destroyed.

Human Rights Promotion

In the course of conducting Human Rights Promotion programs and activities, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in this entry. Such personal information may include an individual's race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age or marital status, views or opinions of another individual about the individual, etc., which are stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifiers.

This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning research related to the communication duties and responsibilities of the Commission.

The retention of this personal information class is governed by a records schedule negotiated with the National Archives of Canada.

Policy and Planning

In the course of conducting the activities of Policy and Planning, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in this entry. Such personal information may include an individual's race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sexual orientation or marital status, views or opinions of another individual about the individual, etc., which are stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifiers.

This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning research related to the duties and responsibilities of the Commission, including policy analysis and development, surveys to monitor current public opinion, socio-economic studies of human rights problems, preparation and analysis of statistics, bibliographies, and other data.

Canadian Institutes of Health Research

Chapter 30

General Information

Background

CIHR (Canadian Institutes of Health Research) is the major federal agency responsible for funding health research in Canada. The CIHR concept is an innovative one – a multi-disciplinary approach organized through a framework of “virtual” institutes, each dedicated to a specific area of focus, linking and supporting researchers pursuing common goals. Institutes bring together researchers who approach health challenges from different disciplinary perspectives, drawing on the combined strengths of these approaches. The four pillars of CIHR include biomedical, clinical science, health systems and services, and the social, cultural and other factors that affect the health of populations. Institutes created under CIHR are not centralized “bricks and mortar” facilities. Instead, these “virtual” organizations support and link researchers located in universities, hospitals and other research centres across Canada. CIHR Institutes are a source of scientific leadership within their particular area of focus and establish priorities that facilitate research efforts in this area.

Responsibilities

According to the Canadian Institutes of Health Research Act, the objective of the CIHR is to excel, according to internationally accepted standards of scientific excellence, in the creation of new knowledge and its translation into improved health for Canadians, more effective health services and products and a strengthened Canadian health care system.

Legislation

- Canadian Institutes of Health Research Act, Chapter 6, Statutes of Canada 2000

Organization

CIHR is run by a President and a Governing Council of 19 members. The Governing Council sets the overall strategic direction, goals and policies. It establishes, maintains, and terminates Health Research Institutes and determines the mandate of each. As outlined in the legislation, the Governing Council is responsible for the management of the CIHR, including:

- developing its strategic directions, goals and policies;
- evaluating its overall performance, including with respect to achievement of its objective;
- approving its budget;

- establishing a peer review process for research proposals made to the CIHR;
- approving funding for research;
- approving other expenditures to carry out its objective;
- establishing policies respecting consulting and collaborating with persons and organizations that have an interest in health research; and
- dealing with any other matter that the Governing Council considers related to the affairs of the CIHR.

Thirteen research Institutes have been created in the areas of Aboriginal People's Health; Cancer Research; Circulatory and Respiratory Health; Gender and Health; Genetics; Health Services and Policy Research; Healthy Aging; Human Development, Child and Youth Health; Infection and Immunity; Neurosciences, Mental Health and Addiction; Musculoskeletal Health and Arthritis; Nutrition, Metabolism and Diabetes; and, Population and Public Health.

Led by Scientific Directors and guided by the wisdom of Institute Advisory Boards composed of various health stakeholders, Institutes encourage researchers, voluntary health organizations, government and other partners to work together to shape the Canadian research agenda and translate research findings into practice within Canada's health system.

All applications for Grants and Awards are subject to a rigorous peer review process by volunteer committees of experts in their fields. Successful applications are approved by Council. Day to day CIHR activities are conducted by a Secretariat of approximately 120 employees located in Ottawa.

Secretariat

The secretariat, which has the general responsibility for the administration of the Program, is under the direction of the President and includes the following areas:

♦ Communications

Responsible for promoting the nature, scope and significance of health science research in Canada.

♦ Corporate Services

Corporate Services includes the following functional areas: Human Resources; Finance and Administration; Information Systems and Technology; Program Evaluation; Records, Access to Information, Privacy and Security.

♦ Ethics

Responsible for Ethic in Research.

◆ Programs

Responsible of the delivery of programs approved by CIHR and the administration of the peer review process.

◆ Strategic Partnerships and Alliances

Responsible for initiating and developing new strategic alliances and partnerships between the Canadian Institutes of Health Research, the voluntary and not-for-profit organizations, national, local or community based voluntary or not-for-profit organizations, provincial, municipal, and local government(s), provincial government agencies, federal laboratories, agencies and departments and international organizations.

Description: Information related to the organizational structure, memberships, agenda, minutes and activities of CIHR and its committees; as well as records related to corporate policy and the strategic plan. Topics: Terms of reference, agenda and minutes; membership; committees; strategic plan. Access: Information arranged by subject or committee. Storage Medium: Paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 290

Communications

Description: Information related to the administration and management of CIHR's internal and external communication function including publishing, public and media relation. Topics: Communications; public relations; publications. Access: Files arranged by subject. Storage Medium: Paper subject files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 295

◆ Corporate Services

Corporate Services

Description: Information relating to the following functional areas: Human Resources; Finance and Administration; Information Systems and Technology; Program Evaluation; Records, Access to Information, Privacy and Security. Topics: Staff relations and Compensation, Human Resources information management; Financial management; operational plans; Financial analysis and planning; assets management and Administrative services; Information management; inventory of electronic data; information systems design, implementation and maintenance; CIHR's program evaluation; essential records program; Access to Information and Privacy Acts; Security. Access: Information arranged by subject and name. Storage

Medium: Computerized database and paper files.

Collaborative Genomics Special Project Grants

Description: This program was designed to provide support for research by teams of three or more investigators with various types of genomics expertise to undertake collaborative multidisciplinary genomics research in the health sciences in Canadian institutions.

Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence.

Access: Information arranged by name of applicant.

Doctoral Research Awards

Description: Doctoral Research Awards are intended to provided special recognition and support to students who are pursuing a doctoral degree in the health sciences in Canada. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 300

Burroughs Wellcome Fund Student Research Awards

Description: A number of Awards will be provided each year to each Canadian School of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, pharmacy, and optometry to enable undergraduates to gain exposure to research at any time throughout the year. Topics: Deans' reports; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 085

Career Investigators

Description: Originally called the Associateship Program, the Career Investigators program was established in 1956 as a means of providing funds for salaries of a limited number of individuals of outstanding ability and training who made research a full-time career. No new appointments are being made by the CIHR. Career investigators appointed in 1975 and earlier will continue in their appointment, subject to the terms and conditions under which they accepted the award. Topics: Individual's career investigator application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 055

Clinical Trials

Description: CIHR will consider the funding of clinical trials which assess, in a rigorous manner the efficacy of diagnostic and therapeutic procedures, as well as workshops or meetings of the prospective participants. CIHR will not provide support for the sole purpose of satisfying regulatory requirements. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 160

Clinician-Scientist

Description: The Clinician-Scientist Award is offered to highly qualified and motivated clinicians who have been identified by a Canadian medical or dental school as having strong potential to become clinician-scientists. At the time of application, candidates will have recently completed their specialty clinical training (or will shortly do so). They should be undertaking, or intend to undertake, research training to be followed by a career as a clinician-scientist. Topics: Applications; committee assessment; notification and administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 165

Equipment Grants

Description: Applications for Equipment Grants will be considered in relation to the proposed science of the project for which the equipment is required. Where equipment is required for a project for which an application is being submitted for an operating grant, the equipment should be included in it. A separate equipment application is required only in a year where an application for operating funds has not been made. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 020

Ethics

Description: Responsible for developing and enforcing policy and guidelines in regard to research ethics. Topics: Organization of conference. Access: Information arranged by subject, by committee or by name. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 275

Fields of Research

Description: Information on areas peripheral to medical research for which CIHR has some responsibility. Topics: Research in the fields of dentistry; schools of pharmacy; psychology; occupational health and safety; gerontology; surgery and veterinary medicine; space research; mental research; general correspondence. Access: File arranged by subject. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 115

Fund for Research in the Fields of Dyskinesia and Torticollis

Description: CIHR has responsibility for administering a fund for research in the fields of dyskinesia and torticollis. The fund was established by an anonymous donor and the income derived from it is to be used for the support of research, either basic or clinical or both, in the broad field of movement disorders known as dyskinesia and more particularly for research in the movement disorder known as torticollis. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 111

General Research Grants

Description: Grants made each year to the dean of each school of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, to be used for the support of research at the discretion of the dean, except for the stipulation that they not be used for the payment or supplementation of salaries of academic personnel, construction costs or overhead expenses. Topics: Notification of the grant to the dean; financial statement; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by university. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 045

Groups

Description: CIHR groups provide full support for teams of accomplished investigators who wish to develop collaborative programs in what appear to be especially productive areas. The members of a group are expected to devote their entire research effort to the program of the group and to be free of the ordinary responsibilities of a faculty member. Topics: Application of group director and colleagues; executive and Governing Council decisions; administration of the group; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 030

Interdisciplinary Health Research Teams (IHRTs)

Description: Interdisciplinary Health Research Teams (IHRTs) will consist of five or more researchers who will pool their expertise, different perspectives, and resources to address or resolve an important health research issue. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 320

International Scientific Exchange

Description: CIHR participates in a number of exchange programs each with a separate agreement, which are intended to foster collaboration between scientists in Canada and those in Argentina, Brazil, the People's Republic of China, France and Italy. Topics: Applications;

reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 185

Investigators

Description: This program provides salary support for independent investigators who have made outstanding contributions and have demonstrated leadership in their field. It is intended for health researchers who, early in their career, have developed a reputation for excellence in research. A candidate must hold either a health professional degree, or a PhD degree (or the equivalent). Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 060

Maintenance Grants

Description: The costs of maintaining instruments that are not shared facilities should be included as part of an application for operating funds. CIHR will consider applications for the maintenance of equipment used by a single investigator in a year when an application for operating funds is not being submitted. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 025

Maintenance Grants for Multi-User Equipment

Description: CIHR will consider applications for Maintenance Grants to cover the costs of maintaining facilities which are shared by groups of researchers within a department, faculty, university or region. The number of investigators is unlimited and it must be clear that multiple research programs will benefit from the maintenance requested. Facilities such as electron microscopes, analytical ultracentrifuges and gas-liquid chromatography/mass spectrometer systems that are operated under the general supervision of the applicant (but not necessarily requiring the active collaboration of the applicant in the various projects for which the facility is to be used), are appropriate for Maintenance Grants for Multi-User Equipment. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grant; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 175

MD/PHD Studentships

Description: Studentships are offered to students who are registered in a combined MD/PHD program at one of the following institutions: British Columbia, Calgary, Dalhousie, McGill, Montreal, Toronto or Western Ontario.

Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence.

Access: Information arranged by name of applicant.

Michael Smith Award for Excellence

Description: In 1993, Dr. Michael Smith shared the Nobel prize for chemistry for discovering and developing a crucial technique, known as site-directed mutagenesis, used in genetic engineering. His discovery enabled researchers to gain enormous insights into the structure and function of genes and proteins. To honour Dr. Smith, CIHR has established the Michael Smith Award for Excellence. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 245

Multi-User Equipment Grants

Description: CIHR will consider applications for multi-user equipment grants to augment the research capabilities for a large number of funded investigators within an institution or region. The number of investigators is unlimited and it must be clear that multiple research programs will benefit from the equipment requested. Examples are electron microscope facilities, imaging, spectroscopy, DNA/protein sequence-synthesis capabilities. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 180

New Investigators

Description: This program is intended to provide the opportunity for new investigators to develop and demonstrate their independence in initiating and conducting health research. A candidate must hold a health professional degree, or a PhD degree (or the equivalent), must have shown promise of attaining competence as an independent investigator, and should in normal circumstances not be registered for a higher degree at the time of application or undertake such studies during the period of the appointment. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 065

Operating Grants

Description: Information about operating grants to provide support for new or continuing research activities by individuals or small groups of investigators working in collaboration. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence.

Access: Information arranged by name of applicant.

Opportunity Program

Description: The Opportunity Program will support workshops, consensus conferences, strategic planning exercises and similar activities. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 315

Partnerships

Description: Information related to CIHR's Partnership Research Program which aim to increase the number of grants, awards for training and other forms of salary support. Topics: Various agreements between CIHR and Pharmaceutical companies, non-profit Organizations and Government. See CIHR web site for complete listing of Agreements. (www.cihr.ca) Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 240

Postdoctoral Fellowships

Description: Postdoctoral Fellowships provide support for highly qualified candidates to add to their experience by engaging in research either in Canada or abroad. A candidate must hold, or be completing, either a PhD or a health professional degree (or equivalent) in a field such as medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, optometry, veterinary medicine, chiropractic, nursing or rehabilitative science. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 075

President's Fund

Description: Information related to funds made available for grants and awards in support of projects that cannot benefit from the assistance available under the CIHR's regular programs. Topics: Individual's request; decision; administration; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 270

Programs Branch

Description: Information related to a series of CIHR's programs designed to support research projects and salaries of scientists. Topics: Grants and awards. Access: Files arranged by name of principal applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized data base and paper case files Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 285

Research Survey

Description: Information on surveys established by CIHR to gather general statistical data on selected aspects of the research community for use by CIHR in determining the research requirements of the health science community across Canada. Topics: Graduate students; medical research support; research personnel; research trainees; research costs; health science research funding; academic degrees; fellowships and scholarships from other agencies; tropical and infectious diseases. Access: File arranged by subject. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 120

Senior Investigators

Description: This program is designed to contribute to the salary of investigators of exceptional merit who are leaders in their field. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 255

Senior Research Fellowships

Description: Senior Research Fellowships are offered to outstanding candidates who have been identified by a Canadian institution as having strong potential to become an independent investigator. The program has two phases: Phase 1 (Training) provides a stipend for up to two years of support and a research and travel allowance. Phase 2 (Salary) provides a contribution to the salary of the recipient for two years plus a research allowance and fringe benefits. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 070

Special Projects

Description: CIHR will consider projects in those subject areas which do not fall within the terms of reference of the Operating Grants Program. A preliminary proposal, in the form of a letter, should be made, providing the title of the project, a clear description of its objectives, the name(s) of the applicant(s), the amount requested and the anticipated duration of support required. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 195

The Michael Smith Awards for Research Personnel

Description: In 1993, Dr. Michael Smith was honoured with the Nobel Prize for Chemistry for his discovery and development of a crucial technique, known as site-directed mutagenesis, used in genetic engineering. His discovery enabled researchers to gain enormous insights into the structure and function of genes and proteins. Throughout his career, Dr. Smith strongly encouraged young people to pursue science as a career, and he has used his prize to promote science, encourage women to pursue interests in science and support research on severe mental illnesses, especially schizophrenia. In honouring Dr. Smith's scientific accomplishments and is lifelong promotion of science, CIHR offers Doctoral Research Award, Postdoctoral Fellowship and New Investigator awards in his name. These awards are offered to outstanding individuals whose research focus is the molecular genetics of the central nervous system with application to severe mental illnesses, especially schizophrenia. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 250

Tri-Council Workshop/Networking Program

Description: The objective of this program is to help the research community to plan collaborative research projects which will be submitted to CIHR and health-related programs of the granting councils. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence. Access: Information arranged by name of applicant. Storage Medium: Computerized database and paper case files. Program Record Number: CIHR CIHR 310

Workshops and Symposia

Description: As part of its program for research in the health sciences, CIHR is prepared to support a limited number of applications for the support of workshops and certain types of symposia held in Canada.

Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence.

Access: Information arranged by name of applicant.

Membership of Governing Council and Committees

Description: This bank contains letters nominating individuals for service on Governing Council and its committees, letters of invitation, thank you letters and Conflict of Interest Acknowledgement. The information is used to assist in the selection and appointment of members. The membership of Governing Council and Committees is made public. Persons requesting access should provide name, affiliation, name of committee and date of membership. Class of Individuals: Members of the health science community, federal employees and members of the public. Purpose: The information is used to assist in the selection and appointment of members for the membership of Governing Council and its Committees. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files in this bank are retained for eight years: active two years and dormant six years. They are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. PAC Number: 95/020 TBS Registration: 000528 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 020

♦ Ethics

Compliance- Integrity in Research and Scholarship

Description: This bank includes correspondence and reports collected and generated in the course of monitoring institutional and individual compliance with the Tri-Council Policy Statement on Integrity in Research and Scholarship. It may include allegations of non-compliance, requests from CIHR to research institutions to explore allegations, summaries of institutional findings and sanctions imposed by CIHR or Universities. Class of Individuals: Individuals who make allegations about breaches of the Tri-Council Policy Statement on Integrity in Research and Scholarship, individuals who are the subject of allegations, officials in research institution or in the academic community involved in determining whether allegations are well-founded. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to monitor the compliance of research institutions and individual researchers with the Tri-Council Policy Statement on Integrity in Research and Scholarship. Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years after the last administrative action. Summary Information related to sanctions maintained for the duration of the sanction. Related to PR#: CIHR CIHR 275 TBS Registration: 003980 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 050

Grants Applicants and Committee Records

Description: The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of the applications and assessment records of health scientists applying for funding of research projects by CIHR. It contains the relevant Canadian Institutes of Health Research application form and supporting data presented by the applicant, referee and committee assessments of the project, the ranking awarded, the decision of CIHR, and if successful, the financial and administrative data pertaining to its support. Individuals identified are those making project proposals to CIHR.

Class of Individuals: Investigators holding an academic appointment in a Canadian School of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, nursing, optometry, or pharmacy.

Purpose: Information in the bank is evaluated to assess the relative merit of the proposal for the purpose of funding or not funding the project. Consistent Uses: Information in the bank provides the basis for planning and budgeting of health sciences research activities by CIHR, and is useful in the monitoring of the peer review system. Information is shared with the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council (SER PPU 004) and the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SHR PPU 015, 020). The results of competitions are forwarded to university research administration officers and Dean's Offices who are responsible for processing application from their institutions before sending them to CIHR, for administering the grants and for informing the candidates of the outcome of their applications.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Files in this bank are retained for eight years: active two years after termination or rejection of grant and dormant six years. They are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. PAC Number: 95/020 Related to PR#: CIHR CIHR 010, 015, 020, 025, 030, 045, 160, 240, 245, 320 TBS Registration: 000525 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 005

Access Request Data Bank

Description: This bank contains access requests submitted to CIHR under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. It also contains replies to such requests and information related to their processing. Class of Individuals: Applicants under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Purpose: This information is used for the administration of the above Acts. It is used for processing access requests only, and to report on the number of access requests received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are maintained for two years following the last administrative action. PAC Number: 86/001 TBS Registration: 001610 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 035

Applicants' History Sheets and Notification of Award

Description: This bank contains Applicants' History Sheets for individuals, which are kept in the Programs Branch. These sheets, which are cumulative over the life of the program, are identified by the applicant's name and file number. They also contain information such as the title of the grant application, amount requested and funded or rejected. The Finance Section also keeps copies of notifications of awards, which contain the applicant's name, address, university, grant number and amount awarded. This information relates to investigators holding an academic appointment in a Canadian Health Science Faculty, and Research Trainees. This information is used to maintain a history of the CIHR's financial support to individuals. Consistent uses are to provide historical data which assist the peer review process.

Class of Individuals: Investigators holding an academic appointment in a Canadian School of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, nursing, optometry, or pharmacy.

Purpose: This bank is used to identify applicants and to constitute a history of CIHR support to individuals and organizations. Retention and Disposal Standards: The bank is updated annually. PAC Number: 95/020 TBS Registration: 003368 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 045

Application for Employment File

Description: The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of information relating to applications for employment received from the general public. This bank contains completed application forms, letters and curricula vitae of persons interested in working for the CIHR. Access to this bank will require name, address and date of birth. Class of Individuals: General public. Purpose: It is used to select candidates for Canadian Institutes of Health Research when vacancies arise.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 86/001 TBS Registration: 000669 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 030

Awards Applicants and Committee Records

Description: This bank contains records of individual applications for funding under one of several personnel support programs sponsored by the CIHR. It contains applications, third-party appraisals, committee assessments, training, travel and financial administration details on the support of successful applicants. Individuals identified are those applicants meeting the criteria for each program as amended from time to time and published in the Canadian Institutes of Health Research Grants and Awards Guide. Class of Individuals: Research trainees with BSC, MD, DDS, DVM, MSC, PhD, and D. Pharmacy professors holding an appointment in university or affiliated institutions. Purpose: Information in this data bank is used to assess the education and other requirements necessary to meet the criteria of the applicable program, and to evaluate the merits of the application for funding. Consistent Uses: Information in the bank provides the basis for planning and budgeting of health sciences research activities by the CIHR, and is useful in the monitoring of the peer review system. Information is shared with the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council (SER PPU 015) and the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SHR PPU 010). The social insurance number is required from the recipients of certain awards to comply with the Income Tax Act. The results of competitions are forwarded to university research administration officers and Dean's Offices who are responsible for processing application from their institutions before sending them to CIHR, for administering the grants and for informing the candidates of the outcome of their applications.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Files in this bank are retained for eight years: active two years after termination or rejection of award and dormant six years. They are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. PAC Number: 95/020 Related to PR#: CIHR CIHR 055, 060, 065, 070, 075, 080, 085, 100, 105, 110, 145, 150, 155, 165, 250, 255, 260, 270, 300 TBS Registration: 000526 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 010

Lists of External Referees

Description: This bank contains names, affiliation and mailing address of individuals, in Canada and abroad, who are asked by the CIHR to review proposals for grants and awards. The information is used to select external referees for research proposals. Persons requesting access should provide field of research, name and affiliation. Class of Individuals: Members of the health science community in Canada and abroad. Purpose: The information is used to select external referees for research proposals. Retention and Disposal Standards: The information is retained until superseded by updates or withdrawals of individuals. Withdrawn referee names are kept for two years (active) and six years dormant for reference purposes and then transferred to National Archives of Canada for selective retention. PAC Number: 95/020 TBS Registration: 000668 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 025

Partnerships Grants and Awards Application and Assessment Records

Description: This bank contains supporting documentation of proposed projects and of individual applications for funding under one of the several Partnership programs sponsored by the CIHR. It contains applications, third-party assessments, committee assessments, site visit-reports, and training, travel and financial administration details on the support of successful applicants. Individuals identified are those applicants meeting the criteria for each program, as amended from time to time, and published in the Canadian Institutes of Health Research's Grants and Awards Guide. Class of Individuals: This information relates to investigators holding an academic appointment in a faculty of health science in a Canadian university, or employees of a company (the term "company" is understood to mean an organization, industry or consortium which produces health care products or services). Purpose: This information is used to evaluate the relative merits of the proposals (with the purpose of funding or not funding) and for observing the progress of those proposals that are funded. Consistent Uses: CIHR also uses information in this bank to identify prospective referees and committee members, to evaluate its programs, and to produce statistics and planning information. Some data is shared between the CIHR and participants in this program. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files in this bank are retained for eight years: active two years after termination or rejection of special program and dormant six years. They are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. PAC Number: 95/020 Related to PR#: CIHR CIHR 170, 240 TBS Registration: 003369 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 040

Special Programs Application, Assessment Records and Other Programs

Description: The purpose of this file is to provide supporting documentation of proposed projects for funding by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research. It contains applications, third-party assessments, and administrative correspondence in the funding of successful projects. Some files identify individuals of the health services scientific community making proposals to CIHR. Class of Individuals: Investigators holding an academic appointment in a Canadian School of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, nursing, optometry, or pharmacy. Purpose: Information in the bank is used to evaluate the relative merits of the proposals with the purpose of funding or not funding and for observing the progress of those that are funded. Consistent Uses: Information in the bank provides the basis for planning and budgeting of health sciences research activities by the CIHR, and is useful in the monitoring of the peer review system. Information is shared with the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SHR PPU 025) and Health Canada (HCAN PPU 105). The results of competitions are forwarded to university research administration officers and Dean's Offices who are responsible for processing application from their institutions before sending them to CIHR, for administering the grants and for informing the candidates of the outcome of their applications. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files in this bank are retained for eight years: active two years after termination or rejection of special program and dormant six years. They are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. PAC Number: 95/020 Related to PR#: CIHR CIHR 045, 111, 112, 113, 170, 305, 310, 315 TBS Registration: 000527 Bank Number: CIHR PPU 015

Canadian International Development Agency

Chapter 31

General Information

Background

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) supports the sustainable development in developing countries in order to reduce poverty and to contribute to a more secure, equitable and prosperous world.

Responsibilities

CIDA is the federal agency responsible for implementing Canada's Official Development Assistance (ODA) program and for administering most of the ODA budget. CIDA's aid program is administered through a number of aid delivery channels: bilateral (government-to-government) assistance, multilateral development institutions, and supports the development activities of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and the private sector.

Legislation

- Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade
- Financial Administration Act
- International Development (Financial Institutions) Continuing Assistance Act

Organization

The Agency is headed by the President who reports directly to the Minister of International Cooperation. The President is assisted by the Senior Vice-President, the Secretary General, eight vice-presidents, two directors general, and one chief information officer. These branches are: Africa and Middle East, Americas, Asia, Canadian Partnership, Central and Eastern Europe, Communications, Human Resources and Corporate Services Branch, Information Management and technology, Multilateral Programs, Performance Review Branch and Policy.

The Corporate Secretariat is responsible for the coordination of four executive committees and forums, the executive correspondence and requests received under the Access to Information and Privacy Acts. It is also responsible for the activities related to Parliamentary Relations and Cabinet Liaison.

♦ Africa and Middle East Branch

CIDA's Africa and Middle East Branch is headed by a Vice-president and is subdivided into ten divisions: Policy, Strategic Planning and Management; Management Services and Employee Development; North Africa and Middle East; Sahel and Ivory Coast; Atlantic West Africa; Gulf of Guinea Region; Southern Africa; Eastern Africa and the Horn of Africa; Central Africa and Great Lakes; and Panafrikan Program and Francophonie.

The policies and strategies developed for cooperation with Africa and the Middle East complement Canada's foreign policy objectives and are in line with the specific mandate of CIDA. The Branch has two principle objectives: poverty reduction and the promotion of peace and security.

Atlantic West Africa Division

The region is composed of 7 countries: Senegal, Guinea, Mauritania, Gambia, Cape Verde, Guinea-Bissau and Sierra Leone. There are major bilateral programs in Senegal and Guinea, a small bilateral program in Mauritania, and various smaller responsive programs in the other countries (including a Canada Fund for Local Initiatives in each country). The major programming themes in the region are (1) basic human needs, and (2) accelerated and equitable economic development. Under the first theme, the main project activities are in basic education and health. Under the second theme, the main projects are focussing on micro-finance, support for small/medium enterprises, basic infrastructures, sustainable management of natural resources and capacity-building to raise the productivity of the informal sector, with particular attention on women as a target group.

Central Africa and the Great Lakes Division

The region is composed of: (1) two core programming countries, Cameroon and Rwanda; (2) two countries whose programs are in transition, Gabon and Democratic Republic of Congo; and, (3) six countries where Canadian bilateral support is limited to the Canada Fund and a small portion of regional or Panafrikan projects, such as Burundi, Chad, Central African Republic, Republic of Congo, Sao Tome and Principe, and Equatorial Guinea. The current focus of the Cameroon program is on the sustainable management of tropical forests, private sector development, and meeting basic human needs. A new programme framework will be released in the fall of 2000. The focus of the Rwanda program is on strengthening governance, promoting the role of women, and on meeting the basic human needs of vulnerable groups. International Humanitarian Assistance, provided by CIDA's Multilateral Branch, provides substantial additional resources to Rwanda, Burundi and the Democratic Republic of Congo.

Eastern Africa and the Horn of Africa Division

Eastern Africa and the Horn of Africa Division is comprised of the following countries: Comoros, Djibouti, Eritrea, Ethiopia, Kenya, Madagascar, Mauritius, Seychelles, Somalia, Sudan, Tanzania, and Uganda. The general objectives of CIDA's programs in the Eastern Africa and Horn of Africa region are to: 1) promote regional peace and security; 2) address food security; 3) support efforts to meet basic human needs, including basic education; democratic development, good governance and human rights; gender equity; and 4) promote economic development.

A Canada Fund for Local Initiatives is active in each country to help support small-scale projects.

Gulf of Guinea Division

The Gulf of Guinea Division is responsible for managing CIDA's bilateral development assistance programs in Ghana and Benin, with several projects in Nigeria and very limited activities in Togo.

The Ghana program is one of CIDA's largest assistance programs, in which CIDA is continuing over 40 years of support to the country's development of basic human needs, establishment of sustainable potable water systems, and strengthening of central and local governments. The more modest Benin Program, reoriented in 2000, is aimed at supporting capacity in governance and literacy. CIDA reopened the Nigeria program in 1999 to support initiatives that reinforce the emergence of democracy and respect for human rights, immunization against polio and anti-corruption efforts. Togo is the beneficiary of a small embassy-managed Canada Fund for Local Initiatives which finances non-government activities aimed at reducing poverty and encouraging democracy.

Management Services and Employee Development Division

The Management Services and Employee Development Division plans and directs financial administration, contracting, administration and human resources development services.

In this context, the Management Services and Employee Development Division is responsible for a team of specialists in administrative, financial and contracting services who contribute a wide-ranging background of knowledge and experience. The team gives professional and impartial financial management advice to program managers and project officers to support them in the management of their programs and projects. This Division is also responsible for the management of the administration and salary budget for the Branch as a whole. Additionally, they staff all vacancies and plan training programs tailored to the needs of the Branch's employees.

North Africa and Middle East Division

CIDA's program in this region supports three themes: socio-economic reform, environmental sustainability, and capacity building.

Sustainable development is an engine for building social stability and political harmony, contributing directly to the efforts made to reach a lasting peace in the region. To promote sustainable development in the region, the Canadian bilateral aid program aims to support the transition to an economy based on market forces as well as an equitable distribution of wealth; to strengthen the capacity of key public institutions; to promote the sustainable management of natural resources, especially water; to help support newly empowered segments of civil society meet new social, political and economic challenges; and to favour the emergence and consolidation of mutually beneficial partnerships between Canada and the region.

Pan Africa and Francophonie Division

The main objectives of the Pan-African Program are (1) to support efforts by Pan-African institutions, which give priority to addressing continental issues, such as endemic diseases, conflict prevention and good governance, and (2) to help build inter regional cooperation in seeking innovative solutions to continental and/or inter regional problems, especially in the areas of health, human rights and good governance. The Pan-African Program also supports the delivery of university training via new information technologies. The program also works in close collaboration with a number of multilateral institutions through a multi-donor approach and through strategic alliances.

The Francophonie Program basically aims to support the Government of Canada's goals to strengthen solidarity and cooperation among the countries of La Francophonie through the multilateral institutions and programs of this international organization. The program also supports multi-country projects derived from the key themes of recent Francophonie summits.

Policy, Strategic Planning and Management Division

The Policy, Strategic Planning and Management Division provides advice and managerial support to the Branch in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects; and coordinates corporate studies and exercises on behalf of the Branch. The Division also provides technical expertise in certain sectors.

The Strategic Planning Unit elaborates and evaluates the policies, programs and systems which allow the branch to fulfil its mandate and provides advice and support to the Branch in regard to the Agency's development priorities. The unit is responsible for performance review and result-based management and undertakes strategic planning functions for some technical sectors.

Strategic management responsibilities and services include: support for programming through the development of current program and project delivery processes, procedures and tools; operational advice on program delivery issues; information management within the Branch, including influencing corporate systems, development and their implementation to ensure that they meet Branch and corporate requirements.

Sahel and Ivory Coast Division

The Sahel and Ivory Coast program comprises the bilateral cooperation activities that CIDA conducts in Mali, Burkina Faso, Niger and Ivory Coast, and with the Club du Sahel, the Permanent Inter-State Commission on Drought Control in the Sahel (CILSS), the Senegal River Development Organization (OMVS), as well as a number of regional activities in the Sahel region.

Canadian cooperation strategies in these countries focus on poverty reduction and specifically basic human needs, the development of local economies, women and development, the environment, and good governance. Programs in the countries concerned are tailored to reflect the degree to which they assume responsibility for their development, the history of our cooperation, their political ties with Canada and, above all, particularly urgent needs relating to poverty reduction.

Regional instability, attributed to poverty, the fragility of political regimes newly committed to democratization, and the dependence of indebted economies, indicates that the Sahel and Ivory Coast Region is possibly a high risk area.

Southern Africa Division

Southern Africa is composed of 11 countries, of which Malawi, Mozambique, South Africa, Zambia and Zimbabwe constitute the main countries of concentration for CIDA's Southern Africa Program. Some of the region's major development challenges include: the environment, poverty, education, health (especially HIV/AIDS), the status of women, population migration, good governance, democratic development, human rights, regional cooperation and economic reform.

CIDA's bilateral priorities for the region are to allocate 35% of its budget to basic human needs, particularly targeting women and children; to encourage economic reform and employment creation by supporting the region's private sector; to protect the environment and promote sound management of the natural resource base; to provide direct support for democratic development, good governance and human rights; to support regional cooperation and security through regional programming; to place special emphasis on HIV/AIDS with particular emphasis on its impact on women; and responding to humanitarian needs, including food shortages caused by drought or floods.

♦ Asia Branch

The principal role of Asia Branch is to plan, develop and implement Canada's development co-operation program in Asia by matching Canadian capabilities and resources with the needs of recipient countries.

Under the direction of a Vice-president, Asia Branch comprises seven geographic programs as well as strategic policy planning and strategic management divisions. Each geographic program is responsible for the identification, development and management of development co-operation activities with one or several recipient countries.

The goal of Asia Branch is to promote growth with equity in Asia. To achieve this goal, the Branch pursues three objectives: i) poverty reduction ii) strengthening the basis for prosperity and iii) promoting security. It has adapted its programs and projects to meet the changing realities of the increasingly diverse economies of the region and therefore undertakes a wide range of specific development initiatives, from direct grassroots poverty reduction to helping governments improve economic and social policy frameworks, as well as helping Asian private sectors access expertise and technology from the Canadian private sector. In specific countries which demonstrate strong economic and social development, Asia Branch is gradually reorienting its programs away from a traditional focus on direct poverty reduction to one that sets the stage for graduation from development cooperation. In doing so, special attention is given to promoting sustained growth with equity, and to reinforcing national and regional security through support to better governance, democratic development and human rights activities.

The Branch implements projects across Asia by contractors, consultants, non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and individual cooperants. Some projects, such as Canada Funds, are managed in Asia by High Commission or Embassy staff. There are approximately 470 ongoing projects, including 17 Canada Funds, across the range of CIDA's six priorities. Programming in the areas of basic human needs and infrastructure services account for more than 50% of the Branch's operational budget of approximately $230 million in 2000/01. Other development priorities receiving strong support are governance, gender equity, environment and private sector development.

Geographic Program Divisions

Program Divisions are responsible for the management of development co-operation activities with one or more recipient countries. The Program Divisions are: Mainland Southeast Asia (Vietnam, Cambodia, Thailand, Malaysia and Lao PDR), Indonesia, Philippines and the South Pacific Division, Southeast Asia Regional Program, India, Sri Lanka and Nepal Division, Bangladesh Division, Pakistan and Afghanistan Division, and China Division.

Strategic Policy and Planning Division

The two main areas of activity of the Policy and Planning Division are policy development and performance review and reporting. Policy research, leading to the identification of issues and development of policy, is the basis for the formulation of coherent branch strategic plans and divisional programming initiatives and is linked to the corporate planning system through the Agency's Policy Branch. The Division acts in concert with Agency corporate functions to maintain broad coherence between Branch and Agency priorities and direction.

Technical and Strategic Management Division

The division provides training, technical expertise and managerial support to the branch in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects. Technical expertise is provided in the areas of financial management, contracting and contracting management, management systems and practises, information technology and management and in a range of scientific and technical disciplines required to support project activities undertaken by the program divisions.

♦ Americas Branch

The Americas Region consists of 35 developing countries, organized by the Branch, for program delivery and administrative purposes, into the following four geographic Divisions: the Caribbean (including Haiti and Cuba), Central America, Andean countries, and the Southern Cone, Brazil and Colombia. In addition, for program management and policy co-ordination purposes, the Branch has a Policy, Planning and Management Division. Finally, to facilitate preparations for a series of high profile events in the Americas through 2000/2001, a Hemispheric Summits Task Force has also been created.

The Americas Region is highly diverse geographically, developmentally, and with respect to resource distribution. ODA supports development activities that promote political, economic, social and environmental sustainability with a strategy of pursuing equitable development for increased economic growth and poverty reduction. Sectors of involvement include: agriculture, economic development, environment, forestry, fisheries, transport, energy, health, education, telecommunications, mining, water and sanitation. Activities in the area of social development, institutional support, and industrial co-operation can be funded through Bilateral, Multilateral, and Partnership channels and implemented by Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs), Non-Governmental Institutions (NGIs), and private enterprise. CIDA also supports small development projects in almost all countries through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLIs). CIDA promotes equality between women and men through all of its activities as well as through regional gender equality funds.

Caribbean Program

The Commonwealth Caribbean program assists Caribbean countries to remain competitive in an increasingly liberalized global economy, and to strengthen their environmental management capabilities. The program also emphasizes support to projects which promote regional co-operation and integration to increase self-reliance, and which facilitate access to other regional markets. The Program focuses primarily on the countries of Jamaica, Guyana and the Eastern Caribbean islands of Grenada, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, Dominica, St. Lucia, Antigua/Barbuda, St. Kitts/Nevis. Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados, Montserrat, Belize, the British Virgin Islands, the Dominican Republic and Anguilla, benefit from CIDA regional programs.

In addition to food aid, the Haiti program aims to address basic human needs, support economic growth (eg. by improving electricity availability) as well as to consolidate democracy and strengthen civil society. The Cuba program aims to provide assistance to the ongoing economic reform process; respond to social sector needs; and encourage dialogue on human rights, democratic development and good governance.

Central America Program

CIDA's current bilateral program covers Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Guatemala and El Salvador. Panama and Mexico also receive assistance through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. The program is targeted toward the poorest countries and also supports the establishment of a lasting peace in countries emerging from prolonged civil conflicts. Programming themes are environment (natural resource management), human rights, democratic development, basic human needs and economic modernization.

Hemispheric Summits Task Force

The Hemispheric Summits Task Force was created in 1999 to co-ordinate CIDA's participation in a series of hemispheric events (First Spouses of the Americas, September 99; General Assembly of the Organization of American States, June 2000; 3rd Summit of the Americas, April 2001) taking place in Canada during the 1999-2001 period. Additionally, the task force manages CIDA's Inter-American Program which provides funding to key organizations whose programming covers the three regions of the Americas (eg: Inter-American Council for Integral Development of the OAS, and the Canadian Foundation for the Americas). While CIDA does not have a bilateral program in Mexico, the task force also deals with bilateral issues (such as the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives) related to Mexico.

Policy, Strategic Planning and Management

The Policy, Strategic Planning and Management Division provides advice and managerial support to the Branch in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects; and co-ordinates corporate studies and exercises on behalf of the Branch. The Division also provides technical expertise in certain sectors.

The Strategic Planning Unit elaborates and evaluates the policies, programmes and systems which allow the branch to fulfil its mandate and provides advice and support to the Branch in regard to the Agency's development priorities. The unit is responsible for performance review and result-based management and undertakes strategic planning functions for some technical sectors.

Strategic management responsibilities and services include: support for programming through the development of current programme and project delivery processes, procedures and tools; advice on programme delivery issues; information management within the Branch, including influencing corporate systems, development and their implementation to ensure that they meet Treasury Board requirements.:

South America Programs

The main objectives are: to assist in the reduction of poverty, to support reform processes, to help strengthen the capacities of key institutions, and to support partnerships between Canadian and South American institutions. The program concentrates its bilateral activities in the poorest countries of Bolivia, Ecuador, and Peru. Bilateral activities are also underway in Colombia and Brazil. In Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, and Paraguay, development assistance is only available through the regional program and CFLIs.

♦ Central and Eastern Europe Branch

The Central and Eastern Europe Branch focuses on supporting democratic development and economic liberalization in Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union, by building mutually beneficial partnerships. Within this overall framework of promoting Canadian global interests and security, including nuclear safety, the Central and Eastern Europe Program aims to assist the transition to market-based economies; to facilitate Canadian trade and investment links with the region; and to encourage good governance, democracy and adherence to international norms.

The program works through partnerships, which transfer knowledge, skills and technology between Canadian organizations and those in the recipient country. In this way, Canada is helping the countries of Central and Eastern Europe reorient their human resources, build and adapt key institutions, and develop the policies needed to run a stable market economy and modern democracy – and, ultimately, to attract more foreign trade and investment. The program also aims to improve the safety of Soviet-designed nuclear power stations and continues to provide humanitarian assistance in countries such as Bosnia.

Canada has funded a program in Central and Eastern Europe since 1989, but it is only since 1995 that CIDA has delivered this assistance on behalf of Canadians. The special budget for helping countries in transition is in addition to, and separate from, the official development assistance (ODA) budget.

Central and Northern Europe, Regional, Multilateral, and “Renaissance”

This Division covers the programming in the Czech Republic, Slovakia, Hungary, Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia. It also administers a regional programme for these countries, plus multilateral projects for the branch with organizations such as the World Bank and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development. The Division also is responsible for the Renaissance Eastern Europe, which assists Canadian firms interested in establishing long-term business relationships in Central and Eastern Europe.

Policy, Planning, and Financial Services

This Division is responsible for Branch policy, for liaison with other CIDA Branches, for financial and administrative services, for personnel management and staffing, for training, and for program and project performance assessment.

Russia, Ukraine, and Nuclear Programs

This Division administers Canada's technical cooperation programme with Russia and Ukraine, and the nuclear safety program.

Southern Europe, Central Asia, and Humanitarian Programs

This Division is responsible for programming in Romania, Bosnia, Croatia, and the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, as well as the Balkans and the Central Asian Republics. It also administers the Branch's humanitarian program.

♦ Multilateral Programs Branch

CIDA funds for multilateral programs are channelled through United Nations agencies and other international development organizations. In addition, CIDA and the Department of Finance provide funds to international financial institutions (IFIs) such as the Regional Development Banks and the World Bank. While the organizations are responsible for the administration of projects, Canada participates in their governing bodies to ensure that the organizations are operating within appropriate policy and operational guidelines, and that they meet Canada's interests and those of the international community as a whole. The Multilateral Branch is composed of five divisions.

Food Aid Centre

The centre is responsible for the CIDA food aid program, programs related to the Consultative group for international Agricultural Research and issues related to nutrition, food security and disease related to malnutrition. The centre manages Canada's input to the World Food Program of the United Nations; develops food aid policy; prepares and processes submissions seeking project approval from the food aid budget; co-ordinates the planning of food aid activities in consultation with other operating branches; initiates discussions on and participates in the process of food aid budget reallocations, in consultation with other operating branches during the fiscal year. The centre provides a co-ordinating role within CIDA in policy and program discussions concerning food aid with Treasury Board, the department of Foreign Affairs, Agriculture Canada, Finance, the World Food Program, the Canadian Wheat Board, the Canadian Dairy Commission and food producers and processors. The centre provides professional services to the Agency in the field of nutrition and co-ordinates the Agency's input to the Committee on Food Security of the Food and Agriculture Organization, and the International Grain Council.

International Financial Institutions Division

The division develops and implements Canada's policies towards the international financial institutions as mechanisms for development financing. It provides guarantees (i.e., callable capital) to facilitate the recycling of private capital resources for development financing, and in so doing significantly multiplies the availability of such financing. The funds are provided to Regional Development Banks. The division participates with other departments in the management of Canadian assistance provided through the Department of Finance to the World Bank Group. It ensures that the international financial institutions are managed in a manner to maintain their credit worthiness in the international capital markets. The division is also responsible for the management of Canadian assistance provided to the Global Environment Facility, the Multilateral Fund for the Implementation of the Montreal Protocol, and the International Fund for Agricultural Development. The division fosters policies within the IFIs that are consistent with the developmental and humanitarian principles of Canadian foreign policy. It also manages a portfolio of Trust Funds to support project preparation work and policy analysis by Canadian firms and institutions at the IFIs.

International Humanitarian Assistance Program

The division provides financial support for efforts to alleviate human suffering caused by natural and human-caused disasters abroad. This assistance is normally channelled through international institutions and Canadian and international non-governmental organizations involved in such work. Grants are given in support of the programs of three major institutions: the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, the United Nations Relief and Work Agency for Palestinian Refugees, and the International Committee of the Red Cross. Grants are also given in support of special appeals launched by these and other humanitarian institutions, including Canadian NGOs specialising in relief work. To ensure the flexibility needed by an emergency response mechanism, a policy of providing largely untied international human assistance program grants is maintained. The Division also has a unit dealing with a special area related to humanitarian assistance. The peace building unit manages the Peace building fund which provides grants for rapid responses for peace building support to conflict-affected countries, for conflict prevention and post-conflict reconciliation.

Policy, Planning and Management Division

The division is responsible for Branch management processes and issues, work planning, resources and budgetary allocations, computerised systems, information management and administrative services and for coherence and consistency with other branches on these issues. The division also provides policy support to the other divisions in the Branch and offers policy advice to the Vice-President on corporate policy issues.

United Nations and Commonwealth Programs Division

The Division is responsible for promoting Canadian development policies in, and supporting the efficient and effective operation of and learning from multilateral technical cooperation organizations and programs involved in enhancing the human and institutional capabilities of developing countries. These organizations and programs include UN bodies such as the UN Development Program, UNICEF, the World Health Organization, the UN Fund for Population and UNAIDS, plus institutions of the Commonwealth. The Landmines unit coordinates CIDA programming on demining and landmine survivor assistance which is funded from the Canadian Landmines Fund.

♦ Canadian Partnership Branch

The Canadian Partnership Branch (CPB) manages CIDA's relationships with a broad diversity of Canadian and international organizations involved in development activities worldwide. Its mandate is to promote mutually beneficial partnerships between Canadian and developing country organizations to support sustainable development and reduce poverty in the developing world.

The programs of the Canadian Partnership Branch respond to initiatives of Canadian organizations, in accordance with Canada's foreign policy priorities. A principal distinguishing feature of CPB programming is its responsiveness. CPB's Canadian partners are responsible for the planning and implementation of their own policies, programs and projects in collaboration with their developing country partners. Another distinguishing feature of CPB's programming is cost sharing. All Canadian and developing country partner organizations are required to contribute resources to their development initiatives. The funds available to CPB represent approximately 15 percent of CIDA's budget.

A final feature is the sheer magnitude of Canadian participation in terms of the number of activities, the diversity of programs and projects funded, and the involvement of Canadians from all walks of life. At any given time, CPB maintains relationships with more than 1,000 Canadian partner organizations and private sector firms, supporting more than 1300 projects and programs in virtually every sector in over 130 developing countries. Canadian partners include private firms, business associations, non-governmental development organizations, universities and colleges, volunteer sending agencies, municipalities, professional associations, cooperatives, unions, and environmental groups.

The Canadian Partnership Branch is divided into five specialized divisions to deal with its diverse partners: the Industrial Cooperation Program Division for the business community; the Institutional Co-operation Division for educational institutions, professional associations, membership organizations, cooperatives and unions; the Non-Governmental Organizations (NGO)

Division for non-profit organizations whose main focus is international development; the Policy, Strategic Planning and Operations Division; and the Youth Action Division.

Industrial Cooperation Division

This division provides financial support for the creation of long term partnerships between Canadian firms and their partners and customers in developing countries. In this way, the business communities of developing countries gain access to the technologies, capital and skills that are urgently needed to strengthen their economic and industrial growth.

The projects are carried out in a context of sustainable development and are mutually beneficial. Depending on the scope of the activities or the geographic preference of a business, the proposals are handled by the Division's Africa, Americas or Asia Bureaus, which operate with the same criteria.

Institutional Cooperation Division

The objective of this division is to support initiatives of Canadian institutions in partnership with developing countries to strengthen their capacity to achieve sustainable development. Canadian institutions supported by the program are national, regional and local not-for-profit organizations, universities, colleges, unions, cooperatives, membership organizations, or professional associations as well as environmental organizations. The division is also responsible for scholarship programs. Scholarships are offered to individuals in developing countries that are members of La Francophonie and students in developing countries in the field of marine resources. Awards are also granted to Canadians wishing to pursue a career in international development.

The program also supports the Election Assistance Program which focuses on the improvement of the electoral process in developing countries.

Non-Governmental Organizations Division

The Non-Governmental Organizations Division contributes to the overseas development programs and projects of Canadian and international NGO and their developing country partners.

Policy, Strategic Planning and Operations Division

This Division performs various functions essential to support the management and operation of the Canadian Partnership Branch and its programs.

The Policy section assesses evaluates and develops policies, programs and systems that allow the Canadian Partnership Branch to fulfil its mandate. It also provides social issues/thematic guidance in areas such as human resources development, women in development and the environment. The Strategic Planning section is responsible for information management, results-based management and performance review for the Branch.

The External Relations and Consultations unit plans, co-ordinates and organizes CIDA's consultations with its Canadian partners and is one of the Agency's chief intermediaries with stakeholders. This unit is responsible for scheduling, coordinating and organising stakeholder consultations on behalf of all operational CIDA branches.

The International Conference Secretariat provides funding to organisations that host international conferences.

The division also provides operational functions to the branch, including technical services, financial management, information management, human resource development, and administration.

Youth Action Division

CIDA's International Youth Internship Program is a component of the Youth Employment Strategy which offers Canadian young people (19 or 30) the opportunity to gain work experience in their field of education in a developing or transition country.

◆ Policy Branch

Policy Branch formulates and maintains the ODA policy framework in support of the Agency's mandate and program priorities in the context of Canada's broader foreign policy objectives and interests. It monitors issues and trends in development assistance and provides strategic advice and information to the Minister, the Agency and other government departments on a wide range of long- and short-term development policy and strategic issues. The Branch also provides specialized expertise on scientific and technical matters and, in certain cases – e.g. environmental assessment – verifies Agency compliance with legislation.

Policy Branch takes the lead on strategic planning and management of the International Assistance Envelope and allocations on behalf of CIDA. At the domestic level, the Branch works closely with other departments and agencies on policy research and development, as well as on issue management, to ensure that government policy reflects the full diversity of Canada's relationships with developing countries. At the international level, the Branch focuses on improving the co-ordination of Canadian development policies with those of other donor countries – e.g., through the Development Assistance Committee of the OECD. Policy Branch also helps to represent Canada's interests in international fora and verifies that relevant international commitments undertaken by Canada are reflected in the government's international development policies.

Policy Branch includes three Directorates: (1) Policy Analysis and Development Directorate; (2) Scientific, Technical and Advisory Services Directorate; and (3) Corporate Planning and Co-ordination Directorate

Policy Analysis and Development Directorate

The Policy Analysis and Development Directorate is responsible for developing and managing an integrated policy analysis, research and development capacity for the Agency. The Directorate provides leadership in the articulation of a vision for the Agency, and in the formulation of Agency policies across a wide-range of social and economic sectors, based on a solid foundation of research and analysis. In this capacity, the Directorate plays a leading role in representing the Agency in international fora and in the interdepartmental policy development process. The Policy Analysis and Development Directorate includes the following Divisions:

Strategic Policy Division

Strategic Policy Division is responsible for providing strategic policy advice regarding the overall direction of the Agency to the Minister, President and Executive Committee. It is responsible for monitoring and analysing the changing context for international assistance, including the geopolitical context, trends in development thinking and the domestic environment with a view to articulating the implications for CIDA's approach to development assistance. In this capacity, the Division takes a lead role in coordinating the preparation of major Agency policy documents. A member of the Division acts as recording Secretary for the Executive Committee.

Governance and Social Policies Division

The Division is responsible for articulating CIDA's policy and contributing to Agency practice where these have governance and social aspects. This includes a broad range of subjects, such as basic human needs, peacebuilding and human security, children's rights, corporate social responsibility, corruption, human rights, democratic development, good governance, social dimensions, labour and public sector reform. The Division is also responsible for encouraging more effective development programs through its focus on enhancing the ability of developing countries to identify and address their own problems (the concept of effective programming and capacity development).

Economic Policies Division

The Division is responsible for contributing to the Agency's policy base in three general areas: trade and development, international finance for development, and other areas pertaining to economic development, including micro-finance, infrastructure services, and natural resources. It has corporate policy responsibilities on tied aid, and for Agency policies on private-sector development, infrastructure services, and poverty reduction. It provides advice to the Minister, President, senior management and the various branches on these subjects and economic development issues in general and contributes to CIDA's inputs into Canadian positions at various international fora including the World Bank and the IMF, OECD-DAC, UNCTAD, WTO, and G7/8 meetings. In concert with other divisions and government departments, the Division monitors and advises the Agency on emerging issues in economic development.

Environment Policies Division

Environment is a cross cutting issue in all of CIDA's work and is a priority sector programming. The Environment Policies Division provides policy analysis and seeks strategic opportunities to influence policies and programmes of CIDA and its partners, including other government departments to ensure that development cooperation is environmentally sustainable. The Division also provides analysis and advice on environment and sustainable development issues for CIDA's programs, the President and the Minister, represents the Agency and Canada in national and international fora addressing environmental sustainability globally and in developing countries.

The Environment Policies Division works with other branches of CIDA and other government departments to build the best Canadian policy positions as input into international negotiations on multilateral environmental agreement (MEAs) such as persistent organic pollutants, climate change, biodiversity and desertification and creates programmes with management frameworks for special allocations assigned to CIDA to support these MEAs. The Division houses, the Canada Climate Change Development Fund Secretariat which is responsible for coordinating CIDA's internal process for allocating this MEA fund and reporting to the Interdepartmental Governing Board. CIDA is the lead agency for Canada, as a donor and as an affected party, for the convention to combat desertification in countries experiencing serious drought and desertification, therefore this Division works to integrate desertification issues into national sustainable development plans and policies of Canada and partner countries.

Gender Equality Division Gender Equality

Gender Equality Division Gender Equality is a cross cutting issue in all of CIDA's work. The Division is responsible for the development and support of CIDA's Gender Equality Policy. The Division provides analysis and advice on gender equality issues to CIDA's programs, senior management and the Minister. It also provides support by developing procedures, technical guides, training programs, and other tools to assist CIDA's operational branches to comply with policy guidelines, the Federal Plan for Gender Equality issues and mainstreaming such as the OECD Working Party on Gender Equality and Women's empowerment and the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women. It is also responsible for the management of information about gender equality issues, particularly the lessons drawn from policy implementation in developing countries; and contributes to Agency knowledge base on gender equality.

Analysis and Research

The Division is responsible for managing a program of analysis and research which will act as a foundation for the development of Agency policy positions and programming. The Division performs this capacity by reviewing the conclusions of major research on development undertaken by the international and domestic institutions, commissioning outside studies and undertaking independent research in areas which as poverty reduction strategies, global public goods, and models of development.

The Scientific, Technical and Advisory Directorate

This directorate has corporate responsibility for providing specialized scientific and technical (S&T) sectoral expertise and advice to the Agency. The directorate is responsible for providing leadership with respect to sectoral strategic initiatives within the Agency. In this role, the directorate works with centres of excellence both within Canada and world-wide. The directorate is also responsible for providing sectoral advice to program branches to support development projects and programs. The directorate includes a corporate environmental assessment group. The directorate is divided into three divisions:

Advisory Services Division

This division is responsible for providing strategic sectoral leadership and advice. The division has four principal areas of expertise: 1) Health, Population and Nutrition; 2) Education, including basic education and distance education; 3) Knowledge and Development (including Global Knowledge); 4) Knowledge Management.

Science and Technology (S&T) Central Unit

This division is responsible for Agency level S&T support to both Policy Branch and to the operational branches. The division consists of three basic areas of expertise:

- Natural Resources: Water (irrigation), Forestry, Marine Resources, Oil and Gas, and Agriculture.
- Infrastructure Services: Energy, Water (sanitation), Information and Communication Technologies (ICT's), Transport .
- Social Sciences: Social dimensions, Micro-enterprise, Urban development.

Environmental Assessment Unit

This unit is responsible for providing corporate policies and guidelines regarding environmental assessment and compliance issues. This unit is responsible for the maintenance of a public registry in compliance with Canadian Environmental Assessment Act.

The Corporate Planning and Co-ordination Directorate

The Corporate Planning and Co-ordination Directorate includes the following three divisions:

Corporate Planning Division

Corporate Planning is responsible for directing the development of the strategic corporate planning and reporting framework and process to ensure the effective alignment of Agency programs with its corporate mandate, priorities and policies. Corporate Planning has four core functions:

- Leads the management of the International Assistance Envelope(IAE) and budgetary allocations within the Agency;
- Oversees the strategic corporate planning and reporting framework and process;
- Enhances the coordination of Canadian development policies with other donor countries, through the Development Assistance Committee (DAC) of the OECD;
- Provides information to Parliament, OGDs, external agencies, and the public on the Agency's direction and performance.

Policy Co-ordination Division

The Policy Co-ordination Division supports the Agency's executives and the Minister in the co-ordination of current, critical and horizontal public policy issues. It promotes consistency and coherence in development policy at all levels in CIDA through dialogue and information exchange with CIDA's other branches. It is also responsible for the Agency's relations with other donor countries, with other government departments involved in Official Development Assistance (ODA) and with the International Development Research Centre (IDRC).

Branch Management Services Division

Responsible for the development and co-ordination of all mechanisms and systems for human, financial and information resources management and planning in Policy Branch. Also responsible for delivering internal contract and administration services, and for advising the Branch senior management on resources utilization, corporate exercises and on the achievement of branch objectives and results.

♦ Human Resources and Corporate Services Branch

As an Agency partner, the Human Resources and Corporate Services Branch develops, implements and monitors corporate service tools, mechanisms and support services for optimal management of CIDA's resources. The Branch provides strategies, advice, programs and policies in the areas of human resources, administration and security, finance, contracts and procurement, and legal services. The Branch takes a leadership role in developing and facilitating Agency adoption of best practices in these areas.

Administrative and Security Services Division

This Division provides the Agency with full service in the following areas: telecommunications, office and workplace organization, storage, maintenance and repair of physical property, audio-visual services, mail services, procurement, room reservations, internal communications (management of the Intercom database and desktop publishing Services on the Agency's Intranet Site, ENTRE NOUS), graphic arts design (graphics, desktop publishing), security services including personnel security, building security (including fire and emergencies) and information technology security. The Division also provides internal information management services (network technical support and systems development, human resources records management, financial management and contracting management) for the Branch. It comprises three units: Accommodations and Facilities; Information Management, Internal Communications and Graphic Arts Design; and Security Services.

Contracting Management Division

This Division develops, and disseminates appropriate contracting policies, processes, reporting mechanisms and quality assurance systems necessary to demonstrate and ensure the integrity and transparency of CIDA contracting activities. The Division is responsible for making presentations and explaining the contracting process and business opportunities to our Canadian Partners. Contracting Management consists of the following three groups: Strategic Policy and Information Management, External Business Relations and Corporate Contracting Operations.

Finance Division

This Division provides financial services to the Agency. It develops, interprets, and maintains Agency financial management practices and systems; provides specialized contract and contribution audit services; and operates a financial risk assessment unit. Finance Division also provides a number of additional services including resource management; corporate planning; financial reporting; budgetary control; financial training; accounting operations; accounts verification services and information support. This Division has the responsibility to coordinate with the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT) regarding the representation of the Agency overseas. Finance Division is made of the three following sections: Resources Management, Financial Management Practices and Financial Services.

Human Resources Division

Continuous Learning Section

The Continuous Learning Section provides advice and services to the Agency related to renewal and organization change, Counselling Services and Continuous Learning. The Section is responsible for the development, the delivery and the validation of corporate training programs, courses, workshops and tools. It also manages the Learning Centre, the Official and Foreign Languages training, the Informatics training, the Distance training and the Employee Survey.

Human Resource Operations Section

The Human Resources Operations Section meets the specific HR needs of each Branch: an Advisor is assigned to one or two Branches of the Agency and provides or obtains for managers and employees of that Branch, strategic and operational services (e.g. liaison, advice, brokerage).

The HR services provided include the following: staffing, classification, organizational analysis, HR planning, official languages, training plans, staff relations and employment equity.

Human Resource Planning, Policies, Programs and Systems Section

The Human Resource Planning, Policies, Programs and Systems Section ensures that the human resource policy and management framework is coherent, complete and pertinent and drafts policies when needed.

The Section is responsible for programs intended to mobilize employees, to manage employee performance and create a supportive work environment, such as the Employee Performance Feedback program and the development of competency profiles.

The Section is also responsible for the development of the employment equity policies, the planning, implementation and monitoring of the employment equity program, the administration of official languages, the human resource planning and human resource systems (PMIS, SAP/HR).

Senior Human Resources Advisor

The Senior Human Resources Advisor provides advice and services to the Director General in the areas of EX staffing; develops policies and guidelines regarding the EX community in CIDA; provides required strategic and operational advice and guidance to Agency senior management and to EX employees; is responsible for various special projects to meet corporate needs.

Staff Relations and Employee Services Unit

The Staff Relations and Employee Services Unit provides strategic corporate advice on all staff relations and compensation programs, policies (including conflict of interest, exclusions and designations, National Joint Council grievances and other types of grievances, strike policies, harassment); advises managers and human resource professionals on all issues pertaining to employment terms and conditions, provides information, interpretation, advice and guidance on staff relations programs in accordance with pertinent policies, directives, regulations and collective agreements, union/management relations, occupational health and safety standards and pay and benefits.

The Section develops staff relations and compensation programs, strategies, policies, guidelines, plans frameworks to implement compensation, staff relations, harassment, and conflict of interest practices. Develops procedures for the delegation: of staff relations authority and of grievance levels. Develops the Agency's position with respect to changes in collective agreements. Provides reports to Treasury Board Secretariat on the usage of various types of leave and on the number and type of grievances and harassments and discrimination complaints.

The Assignments Management Centre

The Assignments Management Centre is responsible for the annual posting and reintegration/deployment exercises, liaison with field representatives, secondments, spousal employment assistance, internal and external assignments, the post secondary recruitment program, education leave and career development programs.

Legal Services Division

This Division provides a full array of client driven legal services to CIDA. It provides legal advice, drafting services for all legal documents, negotiation support and ensures proper representation and instructions in all litigation matters. It is headed by a General Counsel who responds to the President directly and reports to the Department of Justice.

◆ Communication Branch

As the Agency's responsibility centre for Communications, the Branch supports CIDA in achieving its communications objectives, as set out in the annual CIDA Communications strategy, in addition to assessing major issues and determining CIDA's response.

The Branch comprises two programs:

- Corporate, which informs Canadians about CIDA's programs and activities, and provides communications support to the Minister, Secretaries of State and the President. It develops and implements communications strategies, monitors and assesses public opinion through media analysis and public opinion polling, and produces and delivers information products and services.
- The Development Information Program (DIP) works in partnership with non-governmental and private sector organizations to provide Canadians with information on development issues with a special emphasis on the important role and unique contribution Canadians make in developing countries. The Program is built on establishing sustainable partnerships with organisations and firms that specialize in public awareness and have access to communications vehicles across television, radio, print and new media.

◆ Information Management and Technology Branch (IMTB)

This branch provides corporate informatics support services associated with information management, information technology and office automation. As with most organizations today, informatics represents a significant strategic investment for CIDA in its internal, domestic and international operations. IMTB is charged with maximizing the benefits of information spending within CIDA and working in partnership with the program-delivery and administrative branches to meet Agency business requirements. IMTB is also responsible for the ongoing development of CIDA's current technology platform, software, hardware, and applications to ensure better functionality within the Agency and with Partners worldwide, and to meet the Treasury Board's requirement for an accrual-accounting system.

IMTB currently comprises five divisions:

- Information Sources Management Division (ISM) ensures the optimal use of CIDA's information-management structures and approaches, both by evaluating the potential of new data-management protocols, methodologies and systems, and by providing corporate memory functions, libraries and archives.
- The Client Services and Partner Relations Division (CSPR) manages IMTB's relationships with other branches within CIDA and externally with its Partners. It is responsible for providing internal and external communications for the Branch, as well as communications standards and advice; it also sets standards for client service, acting as an interface between the information-management and business operations of CIDA. CSPR represents the Branch in a variety of forums, and promotes the implementation of the Branch's new information-management directives.
- The Information Services and Business Solutions Division (ISBS) is responsible for the management of major corporate IM/IT projects, such as the ongoing implementation of SAP. ISBS analyses, designs and develops business solutions and IM/IT services specific to Branch needs, and provides change-management strategies to support the smooth integration of these initiatives.
- The Information Strategy and Innovation Division is a new division that is as yet unstaffed.
- The Information Technology Division (IT) supports the operating hardware and software systems used by CIDA operations in Canada, and provides advisory, consultative and support services on all information technologies. The IT Division provides Quality Management to support the continual improvement of CIDA's information-technology infrastructure, and is responsible for assessment, procurement and maintenance of new technologies in response to business needs.

- The Management Services Division (MS) ensures consistency and direction in IMTB's business planning, priority setting, risk-management and change-management strategies and cross-branch coordination. MS prepares the Branch's input to CIDA's Reports on Plans and Priorities and Annual Performance Reports, and is finally responsible for expenditure and resource management within the Branch.

◆ Performance Review Branch

To help improve CIDA's management performance and development effectiveness, through its internal audit and evaluation activities, Performance Review provides assurance, independent and objective information and advice to management on the continued relevance, success and cost-effectiveness of key CIDA policies, programs and projects, and on the effectiveness of the management systems, processes and practices. It also provides methodological support to branches on performance measurement as well as on the development and implementation of results-based management and performance frameworks.

Information Holdings

Algeria

Description: Cooperation between Canada and Algeria has been affected by the continued unrest in the country. An important Private Sector Development Fund has been put in place to initiate transfer of technology and know-how to support private sector development. While Canadian partners have responded, they face important challenges in achieving sustainable results. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 4259

Angola

Description: Canadian assistance to Angola has been limited to food aid, humanitarian assistance, assistance with de-mining and support channeled through the Southern Africa regional program. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4273

Benin

Description: The new focus of the CIDA program in Benin, introduced in 2000, is support to institutions of financial management and control, to the improvement of the efficiency of public administration and to the increase of literacy and better basic education. The program will continue its assistance to the President's office and administrative reform but will also assist ministries and institutions with a key role in revenue collection and control and the reduction of corruption. In addition, it will support organizations and ministries oriented towards reducing illiteracy. The existing program focuses on improving the economic and legal environment, developing a cooperative network, and supporting women entrepreneurs. Benin is also benefiting from regional projects, such as l'Institut supérieur panafricain d'économie coopérative and the "SIDA" project against AIDS. CIDA also supports activities of several NGOs in Benin, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFW 4251

Botswana

Description: Because of Botswana's favourable economic situation, CIDA's bilateral assistance to Botswana is being phased out. Botswana will continue to benefit from Southern Africa's regional projects, and the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Botswana is also eligible for assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector from CIDA's, Canadian Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4276

Burkina Faso

Description: CIDA intends to focus its bilateral programming on support for the non-mechanized and urban private sector so that they truly contribute to growth, and on empowering groups and individuals to contribute to their own development through basic education (especially for girls), social communication, and administrative decentralization. Regional approaches will be favoured for environmental issues and opening up remote areas (roads and telecommunications). CIDA also supports several NGOs, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 4214

Burundi

Description: The continued conflict in Burundi makes the planning of development assistance support very difficult. Bilateral and humanitarian assistance to Burundi was suspended in 1999 due to renewed violence. Despite the progress made in the negotiation of the Arusha peace process, conflict continues and security concerns remain. Canadian assistance in Burundi will, therefore, continue to provide support for the negotiation of a durable peace process and provide humanitarian aid on a project by project basis. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4300

Cameroon

Description: A new country programme framework for the Cameroon will commence in the fall of 2000. The programme is expected to focus on environmental forestry development and to the provision of access to productive resources to the poor. A pilot project in basic human needs will be an integral part of the new programme. Governance and the role of women are expected to become important crosscutting programming objectives. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4289

Cape Verde

Description: The CIDA program in Cape Verde supports small projects financed by the Canada Fund, as well as

NGO projects. The country also benefits from a small regional project aimed at strengthening the capacities of the Sub Regional Fisheries Commission. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 4235

Central African Republic

Description: Several small-scale projects are financed by the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (rural development, health care, and education). The Central African Republic is also eligible for various regional programs or projects, including: (a) the Francophone Africa Technological Institution Building Program (PRIMTAF); (b) the AIDS program; (c) the Institut africain d'informatique (IAI) institutional support project; (d) the integrated management program for foreign executives (PIMCE). Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4290

Chad

Description: This program is basically limited to Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives and to NGO projects. Chad is also eligible for various regional programs or projects, including: (a) the Francophone Africa Technological Institution Building Program (PRIMTAF); (b) the Institut africain d'information (IAI) institutional support project; (c) the Pan-African Cooperative Training Center (CPFC) support project; (d) the integrated management program for foreign executives (PIMCE). Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4291

Comoros

Description: Comoros is eligible for the Programme canadien de bourse de la Francophonie (which provides scholarships for studies at Canadian colleges and universities), as well as the second phase of the Francophone Africa Technological Institute Building Programme currently being planned. Comoros is also eligible for assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector from CIDA's, Canadian Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4220

Congo

Description: CIDA's program consists of numerous small-scale projects financed through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. In addition, two institutional support projects relate to staff training in the public service and in specialized schools. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4297

Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC)

Description: The lingering conflict in the DRC; the difficulties found in trying to implement the Lusaka Peace Accord; and, the human suffering caused by conflict in this country, validate CIDA's current programming approach in this country. CIDA, through Canadian NGOs, works largely with Congolese civil society in: (a) supporting their efforts to provide humanitarian assistance to the population and satisfy very basic human needs; (b) promoting democratic development and good governance values among the population; and (c) promoting and protecting human rights. The ultimate objective of CIDA in the DRC is to promote efforts to finding a durable solution to the ongoing internal conflict, as a first step to solving other related conflicts affecting the Great Lakes region. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4298

Djibouti

Description: Djibouti is eligible for the Programme canadien de bourse de la Francophonie (which provides scholarships for studies at Canadian colleges and universities), as well as the second phase of the Francophone Africa Technological Institute Building Programme currently being planned. Djibouti benefits from two regional projects—support to the Intergovernmental Authority on Development and the Horn of Africa Capacity Development Fund. Canada contributes to the implementation of small-scale projects through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Djibouti is also eligible for assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector from CIDA's, Canadian Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4228

Egypt

Description: CIDA seeks to assist Egypt to promote sustainable development and encourages a mutually beneficial partnership between Canada and Egypt. The two major themes of the program are social and economic reform (transition to a market economy and a participative society), water and the environment (sustainable resource management). Assistance focuses on capacity building, notably through the transfer of Canadian technology. Key projects aim at employment creation and policy development in the small and medium enterprise (SME) sector, water quality and availability management, introduction of green technologies by SMEs and NGOs, the establishment of labour adjustment service, improved management and training in the electrical energy sector, and the implementation of an environmental information system. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 4263

Equatorial Guinea

Description: This country benefits from the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives. Equatorial Guinea is also eligible for assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector from CIDA's, Canadian Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4293

Eritrea

Description: Activities are implemented in support of Basic Human Needs (food security and basic education) and of Governance (census). Canadian Partnership Branch supports projects implemented by Canadian NGOs and institutions. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4230

Ethiopia

Description: The program focuses on two main areas: food security and good governance / democratic development. Projects aim at building the capacity of local institutions in areas such as: disaster mitigation and early warning, justice and parliament. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives supports the implementation of small scale projects. Canadian Partnership Branch supports projects implemented by Canadian NGOs and institutions. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4229

Gabon

Description: CIDA's programme in Gabon is in transition. Gabon's relatively high per-capita income precludes an active bilateral CIDA presence in that country. Nevertheless, the significant challenge that Gabon currently faces with its health sector, has resulted in CIDA bilateral retaining, in an exceptional basis, a health sector project which will last for the next three-year period. Gabon also continues to qualify for CIDA support for initiatives that favour the development of partnerships between the Canadian private sector and civil society, with their counterparts in Gabon. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4292

The Gambia

Description: The Canadian cooperation in The Gambia supports small projects through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives, an institutional cooperation project for the creation of the first university in this country, as well as various initiatives from NGOs. The country also benefits from a small regional project aimed at strengthening the capacities of the Sub Regional Fisheries Commission and from the Democratic Development Fund which supports democratic activities in Nigeria, Sierra Leone and The Gambia. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 4236

Ghana

Description: The oldest and largest CIDA program in Africa, initiated in 1958, the primary objective of the CIDA-Ghana program is to assist the Government of Ghana achieve its goal of poverty reduction. Over the past decade, this has largely been through support to structural adjustment and economic reform, the provision of potable water, and the improvement of small-scale economies activity. Canada has also been involved in initiatives in support of the democratic process, NGO and private sector activities through the Partnership Branch, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. The program is now in transition, seeking a new balance between macro-economic programming and poverty targeted projects. The focus of the new program is on potable water, governance (decentralization in particular) and food security. Program Record Number: IDA BFW 4254

Guinea

Description: Canadian cooperation in Guinea started modestly in 1964 but became more intensive as of the mid 80s. The program primarily supports rural development, fisheries surveillance and control, the development of energy related infrastructures, as well as vocational/technical training and the creation of a research centre in environment at the University of Conakry. In addition, CIDA also supports NGO activities in Guinea and the country benefits from Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Future initiatives will be focus on sustainable human resources development and the development of micro-finance facilities. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 4242

Guinea-Bissau

Description: The CIDA program in Guinea-Bissau supports small projects financed by the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives, as well as NGO activities. In 1998, CIDA was providing emergency humanitarian assistance in response to the recent civil war. The country also benefits from a small regional project aimed at strengthening the capacities of the Sub Regional Fisheries Commission. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 4239

Ivory Coast

Description: CIDA's cooperation program with Ivory Coast goes back to 1960. The program's two main focuses are support for the private sector, mainly the development of labour-intensive cooperatives and small business, and support for good governance, mainly strengthening decentralization and civil society. Ivory Coast also benefits from several initiatives funded by the Pan-African Program in the same areas, as well as additional areas such as health, training, and women in development. CIDA also funds NGOs active in Ivory Coast and small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 4210

Jordan

Description: Key projects executed in Jordan focus on supporting the peace process in the Middle East and addressing basic human needs. Canada is helping Jordan to pursue its reforms in the areas of water and professional and technical training. Environmental protection, income-generating activities for women, and support for grassroots activities are also key elements of this program. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 4266

Kenya

Description: The bilateral programme focuses on poverty reduction, concentrating on basic education, HIV/AIDS prevention and gender equity. Kenya benefits from regional projects implemented under the Pan African programme, including the Regional AIDS Training Network. Partnership Branch supports projects implemented by Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector. Several local organizations and community groups are supported through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4221

Lebanon

Description: The main project supported by CIDA aims to support taxation reform in order for the Lebanese government to better implement and manage new taxation programs. Support is also provided for the design of a curriculum in business administration and office administration for the Hariri Canadian Higher

Institute of Technology. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives managed by the Embassy aims to support community-based development projects. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 4267

Lesotho

Description: Canada no longer has a bilateral program with Lesotho. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives is administered from Pretoria. Lesotho is also eligible for assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector from CIDA's, Canadian Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4282

Liberia

Description: Canada's aid program in Liberia is limited to a Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Additionally, Canada contributed several million dollars in humanitarian and food aid to the region during the civil war and continues to help in Liberia's reconstruction. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 4209

Madagascar

Description: Madagascar is eligible for the Programme canadien de bourse de la Francophonie (which provides scholarships for studies at Canadian colleges and universities), as well as the second phase of the Francophone Africa Technological Institute Building Programme currently being planned. Assistance for small projects is provided through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Madagascar also receives some assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and private businesses from CIDA's Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4222

Malawi

Description: Malawi is one of the main countries of concentration for CIDA in Southern Africa. Programming priorities include at least 80 per cent basic human needs (education and health), complemented by governance initiatives that contribute to an improved investment climate and supplement Basic Human Needs programming. Emphasis is placed on increasing women's capacities and decision-making roles. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4280

Mali

Description: The Canadian cooperation program has begun a transition in recent years. We have gradually shifted from structural adjustment programs and protection of the plant cover, to programming based on social development, economic growth, peace and security, human rights, and good governance. At the same time, crosscutting themes include women in development and decentralization in Northern Mali. Mali is also a recipient of several initiatives funded by the regional program. Key initiatives include the OMVS project (hydroelectric development of the Senegal River and commissioning of the electric power plant to be installed at the Manantali dam); the AIDS project; the Strengthening Civil Society in the Sahel project, a regional project to help build the capacities of civil-society organizations dedicated to development and especially combating desertification in three Sahel countries; and finally, the Democracy and the Media project. CIDA also funds many NGOs active in Mali and small projects through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives.

Program Record Number: IDA BFN 4216

Mauritania

Description: CIDA maintains a small bilateral program in Mauritania. A project aimed at reducing poverty uses a lines of credit mechanism to generate counterpart funds which, in turn, are used to finance the construction or rehabilitation of social infrastructures in the suburbs of Noukchott such as classrooms, youth centres, centres for self-employed women, kindergarten, etc., the operation of which is supported by local NGOs. CIDA also supports the creation of Saving and Credit Unions to serve the needs of the poor who do not have access to the banking system. Mauritania also benefits from the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives and from various regional projects in health (fight against AIDS), in natural resources management (Organization for the Development of the Senegal River Valley – OMVS, institutional strengthening of the Sub Regional Fisheries Commission), and in technical education (the Francophone Africa Technological Institute Building Program). Program Record Number: IDA BFR 4237

Mauritius

Description: Assistance to Mauritius is currently being provided through scholarships to Canadian universities administered under the Francophone program, and from regional programming. Small projects are supported through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4283

Middle East Regional

Description: CIDA funds projects supporting the peace process in the Middle East. The Canadian Fund for Dialogue and Development encourages contact and cooperation on key development issues through seminars, conferences and workshops. The Consultant Services Fund supports Canadian involvement in the multilateral negotiations of the peace process. A new project will soon provide core water-management training for the three key parties in the peace process. Finally, McGill University offers a training program in Social Work and Architecture that aims to improve access to low-cost housing for Palestinians and Jordanians. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 4268

Morocco

Description: In accordance with the 1993 Maghreb region policy framework, CIDA development assistance program in Morocco focuses on private-sector development and institutional support. The Private Sector Development Fund (PSDF) is designed to meet the know-how and technology needs of private sector operators while the Institutional Support Program (PRICAM) helps training institutions meet private sector training needs and employment requirements. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 4260

Mozambique

Description: Programming priorities include basic human needs (education, water and sanitation) governance, the transport sector, micro credit, the environment, and support for mine action. Mozambique also receives significant benefits from CIDA's multi-country projects for the region, especially in AIDS/HIV, environment, and energy. Mozambique is the coordinator of the Southern Africa Development Community's transportation and communications program, and has received considerable assistance in the rehabilitation of its ports and railway lines. It also receives management and training assistance in the transport sector. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4274

Namibia

Description: Canada no longer has a bilateral program in Namibia. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives is administered from Pretoria. Namibia is also eligible for assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector from CIDA's, Canadian Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4285

Niger

Description: In recent years, the main objective of the CIDA program has been to support Niger's development efforts in macro-economic balance, human resource development and rural development. CIDA also received substantial support in the development of its democratic process. Over the next few years, CIDA intends to focus its bilateral program on basic education with an emphasis on young girls, basic human needs, and the strengthening of civil society. Environment and food security issues will be considered by the regional component and the multilateral program, respectively. Niger also benefits from the regional telecommunications project and the AIDS program. CIDA funds NGOs in Niger, as well as many small projects through the Canada Fund. The suspension of the execution of the bilateral program was lifted in March 2000. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 4213

Nigeria

Description: Canada's bilateral aid program with Nigeria was terminated in 1995 in response to continued deterioration of economic and political circumstances. In 1999, the program was reopened and now Nigeria is a recipient of assistance for Democratic Development, immunization against polio, and the fight against corruption. A new program oriented towards health and the environment is being developed. Program Record Number: IDA BFW 4255

Organization pour la mise en valeur du fleuve Sénégal (OMVS)

Description: OMVS is a regional agency created in 1972 to develop the resources of the Senegal River basin, shared by Mali, Mauritania and Senegal. The program focusses on agriculture, navigation and energy. Canada has supported this program to conduct studies prior to the building of dams; to procure, transport and install water inlet and outlet facilities for the Manantali dam and to implement the training and maintenance program for these facilities; to conduct technical studies on management of the waterway, harbours and ports of call of the Senegal River; and to conduct studies of the power transmission system. In cooperation with other donors, CIDA and the Canadian Industrial Sector are finalizing their participation in the installation of power generation equipment and to the planning of transmission lines to Bamako, Dakar and Nouakchott. Program Record Number: IDA BFN 4217

Republic of South Africa

Description: CIDA's bilateral program in South Africa continues to be based on an Interim Programming Strategy that was developed during the initial years following the election of the first post-apartheid South African government. The Strategy is centered on four areas: governance, human resource development (HR.), civil society and economic development. Future CIDA support will also concentrate on activities that foster regional cooperation on key development issues in all of the countries of the region, including South Africa. Canada's assistance to South Africa in 1998-99 was $15 million, of which $11.4 million was bilateral assistance; $2.7 million was channelled through Canadian NGOs, NGLs, and businesses; and $0.9 million was through multilateral agencies and the IDRC. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4284

Rwanda

Description: A new three-year programming framework has just been approved for the Rwanda programme. The purpose of this new programming, is to promote human security so as to lay the foundation for national reconciliation, which is needed to reduce poverty and sustain development. The program aims at: (a) strengthening the country's governance capacities, particularly in the justice system and in the promotion of human rights; (b) supporting women in their efforts at national reconciliation and sustainable development; and, (c) supporting efforts to meet the basic human needs of the population, particularly women and children. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4302

Sao Tome and Principe

Description: This country benefits from the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives. Sao Tome and Principe is also eligible for assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector from CIDA's, Canadian Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFG 4294

Senegal

Description: Canadian cooperation in Senegal dates back to 1962 and is focused primarily on poverty reduction. Although the bilateral program is the main delivery channel of Canadian assistance to Senegal, NGOs, Institutions and the private sector also bring important contributions. The bilateral program is focused on two main axis: (i) Social Development and (ii) Economic Development, with 'gender equality' and 'environmental protection' (sustainable management of natural resources – forests mainly) as cross-sectoral priorities. Within the Social Development axis, CIDA concentrates its efforts on: improving the quality of, and facilitating access to, literacy and basic education programs (especially for girls and women), on developing curriculum, and on strengthening education management. CIDA also supports the promotion of women's rights. Additionally, it contributes to the government's efforts toward decentralization through fiscal reforms studies and the provision of technical assistance and training for local authorities. Within the Economic Development axis, CIDA concentrates its efforts on strengthening the local economy. This includes support to the creation of credit unions and micro-finance projects which facilitate access to credit to the poor, mainly women, and allow them to carry out income generating activities. The promotion of entrepreneurship in rural areas also contributes to the generation of sustainable income. Senegal also benefits from the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives and from regional projects in health (fight against AIDS), in natural resources management (Organization for the Development of the Senegal River Valley – OMVS, institutional strengthening of the Sub Regional Fisheries Commission). Program Record Number: IDA BFR 4238

Seychelles

Description: Seychelles is eligible for the Programme canadien de bourses de la Francophonie (which provides scholarships for studies at Canadian colleges and universities), as well as the second phase of the Francophone Africa Technological Institute Building Programme currently being planned. CIDA is also helping to develop capacity at the Seychelles Industrial Development Corporation. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4223

Sierra Leone

Description: For the past decade Sierra Leone has been destabilized by civil war. The country currently benefits from one of the largest Canada Fund for Local Initiatives ($500 000). Moreover, since the beginning of the Civil War in 1991, and especially since 1999, Canada has contributed several million dollars to this country in humanitarian assistance and food aid and has supported various peace promotion initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFR 4241

Somalia

Description: CIDA provides emergency assistance to populations affected by conflict, and finances the implementation of small-scale projects through the Canada Fund for local initiatives. Somalia also benefits from the Horn of Africa Capacity Building Project and two projects financed by the Peace Building Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4231

Southern African Development Community (SADC)

Description: Canada has supported SADC since 1983. Since regional integration and cooperation are goals shared by SADC and CIDA a significant portion of projects in CIDA's Southern Africa Program have been multi-country (regional) projects. However, of the total Southern African Program, less than 20 per cent of program funding consists of direct assistance to SADC. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4272

Sudan

Description: CIDA's role in Sudan has two main thrusts: (1) humanitarian and emergency assistance, and (2) peace and conflict resolution. Sudan benefits from two regional projects: (1) support to the Intergovernmental Authority on Development, and (2) the Horn of Africa Capacity Building Project. The Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives finances the implementation of small-scale projects. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4232

Swaziland

Description: Canada no longer has a bilateral program in Swaziland. Swaziland benefits from CIDA multi-country projects for the region and from projects supported through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4286

Tanzania

Description: CIDA's assistance program in Tanzania focuses on poverty reduction, concentrating on basic education, with an emphasis on the poor; and micro-enterprise development, with an emphasis on women. As a member of SADC, Tanzania is eligible for the Southern Africa regional program for project implementation. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives finances the implementation of small-scale projects, and Partnership Branch supports projects implemented by Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4224

Togo

Description: This country benefits from the financing of small projects through the Canada Fund. Togo is also eligible for assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and the private sector from CIDA's, Canadian Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFW 4252

Tunisia

Description: As an emerging country, Tunisia (+6.2% GNP in 1999) has benefited from present CIDA policy framework implementation strategy which focuses on private sector development and institutional support and education reform. Ongoing programs include transfer of technology and know-how to private sector operators and institutional training organizations. Given Tunisia's success, traditional development assistance will give way to stronger business and investment approaches with Canada. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 4261

Uganda

Description: CIDA's programme focuses on poverty reduction, concentrating on education and governance. Through Canadian NGOs and institutions, Partnership Branch supports a number of small scale rural development projects. Uganda also benefits from the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 4225

West Bank and Gaza

Description: The bilateral program focuses on supporting the peace process in the Middle East and addressing basic human needs, especially those of Palestinian refugees. To this end, various projects provide support for community groups and local organizations, shelter for refugees, support for the city of Rafah, technical assistance in the field of housing finance, support in water planning and management, and support for democratic development. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 4265

Yemen

Description: This country benefits from the Canada Fund which is administered by the Canadian Embassy in Riyadh and is intended to finance small projects providing technical, economic, educational, cultural or social development assistance to the local communities. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 4269

Zambia

Description: Canadian assistance to Zambia focuses on support for environmental and natural resources management and basic human needs initiatives primarily in the areas of education and health, including HIV/AIDS training and education. Zambia is also a beneficiary of several regional projects in the energy, transportation, forestry, and water sectors. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4278

Zimbabwe

Description: CIDA concentrates its interventions in Zimbabwe in the areas of HIV/AIDS, governance and the environment. Several regional projects have a focus in Zimbabwe, encompassing the transportation, energy, forestry, and water sectors as well as HIV/AIDS training and education. Program Record Number: IDA BFO 4277

♦ Asia Branch

Southeast Asia Regional Program

Description: The purpose of the Southeast Asia Regional Program is to address the regional dimension of development issues of common concern in Southeast Asia. Projects are designed to complement country-level programs and provide a mechanism for dealing with issues which may be considered sensitive at the national level. Issues such as the promotion of human rights, rule of law and other democracy and governance issues, cooperative security, and trans-boundary issues, including illegal trafficking in women and children, regional migration and regional air and marine pollution are examples of matters often dealt with most effectively at the regional level. As countries struggle with these issues, a regional approach can be helpful in fostering broader perspectives, constructive dialogue and a positive vision for the future. Over the years, the Regional Program has strengthened regional institutions and organizations through linkages with Canadian counterparts, deepening mutual understanding of priority issues through dialogue and involvement in key networks. In pursuing its development goals, the Regional Program seeks to promote regional cooperation and integration through awareness building, networking, technical assistance and technology transfer. The Regional Program focuses on three priorities: environment; governance, security and the rule of law; and integration in the global economy. Multiple channels are used to deliver programming, including regional institutions, regional organizations and networks, regional fora such as ASEAN and APEC, and trilateral cooperation Program Record Number: IDA BSD 150

Bangladesh

Description: CIDA's program in Bangladesh is focused strongly on poverty reduction. Priorities are basic human needs and governance with gender as a primary crosscutting theme. Basic human needs programming includes non-formal education, microfinance, skills development for the disadvantaged, a major multi-donor project in maternal health and food aid. Governance efforts are geared to improving systems of economic management and include projects to facilitate investment increase efficiency in infrastructure, water management and agricultural production. Gender programming is designed to mainstream gender issues into government line ministries complemented by targeted programs to address specific issues. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 170

Burma (Myanmar)

Description: CIDA suspended its regular assistance program in 1988. However, the humanitarian assistance program for refugees along the borders of Thailand, Bangladesh and India has remained active. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 220

Cambodia

Description: Canada promotes sustainable development in Cambodia through initiatives designed to reduce poverty and to promote human security. The principal objectives of the Cambodia Program are to improve the Cambodian capacity to meet basic human needs and to promote good governance in Cambodia. Basic human needs programming includes the promotion of rural development, social development (particularly health and HIV/AIDS), mine action and landmine victim assistance, and post-conflict support. Governance programming aims to strengthen the rule of law and human rights, public administration, democratic practices and civil society. Support for a pilot soldier demobilization program is being provided through the Peacebuilding Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 228

China

Description: CIDA's development cooperation program with China emphasizes three main themes: (a) developing economic cooperation between China and Canada with special attention to the support of China's ongoing economic reforms in those areas necessary for the development of a socialist-oriented market economy, and the promotion of economic linkages; (b) promoting environmental sustainability with special emphasis on global issues such as global warming, the promotion of economic cooperation in environmental goods and services and the transfer of environmental impact assessment technology; (c) increasing China's capacity to improve governance, respect for human rights and democratic development processes. In addition, the program supports gender equality and poverty reduction in all aspects of its activities.

Program Record Number: IDA BSD 282

India

Description: The bilateral Development Co-operation Program, now nearly fifty years old, forms one of the cornerstones of India-Canada relations. Canada's current development goals in India are to promote sustainable development and to contribute to the transition to a more mature economic and political relationship between India and Canada. CIDA's program priorities in India are: the support for economic and social reform; the environment; and private sector development. CIDA is assisting India to assess and develop economic and social policies in a variety of ways. For example, IDRC, UNDP and Indian National Council of Applied Economic Research are studying key issues arising from the liberalization program such as the impact of adjustment on the poor. Development International Desjardin is working with Indian NGOs and banking institutions on the "Banking with the Poor Project" to give the rural poor increased access to credit. Support to India's environmental development operates at three levels. At the village level, a treegrowers co-operative federation has reforested thousands of hectares benefiting thousands of marginal farmers. At the industrial level, CIDA is assisting the Confederation of Indian Industry to establish an Environmental Management Division to introduce improved environmental practices. At the institutional/policy level, CIDA is supporting partnership of the TATA Energy Research Institute and the International Institute of Sustainable Development of Winnipeg in the development of a national energy efficiency policy. Support to India's private sector development primarily involves activity in the telecommunications and energy sectors. Program Record Number: ISA BSD 200

Indonesia

Description: Canada's development co-operation program with Indonesia promotes sustainable development by (a) facilitating good governance and the broadening of public participation in the country's development, with a special focus on women's participation, (b) supporting the application of sound environmental policies, and (c) strengthening the role of the private sector in Indonesian development. Current major projects include: a large environmental program, co-operation in financial sector reform, institutional linkages between McGill University, Simon Fraser University and Indonesian Universities, a women's support program, water sector institutional development and Canadian-Indonesian NGO linkages. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 472

Laos PDR

Description: Canada promotes sustainable development in Lao PDR through initiatives designed to reduce poverty and to promote human security. Current basic human needs programming includes a project designed to improve food security by promoting integrated and participatory approaches to agriculture and sustainable natural resource management. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives supports small community-based projects in Lao PDR. CIDA is also supporting unexploded ordnance removal activities, along with landmine awareness and education activities, through the Canada Landmines Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 250

Malaysia

Description: Canada and Malaysia have gradually moved away from a traditional donor-recipient relationship to one based on mature political and economic cooperation in the pursuit of mutual interests. The principal objectives of the Malaysia Program are to foster a long-term partnership between Canada and Malaysia, and the region, and to help Malaysia address key sustainable development issues. Programming priorities include the promotion of human resource development, governance, private sector development, gender equity and basic human needs. The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives also finances small community-based projects in the country. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 600

Nepal

Description: Informed by Nepal's development needs, CIDA's co-operation program with Nepal primarily focuses on human resource development and the environment. The latter includes regionally appropriate water and energy resource management. The objective is to reinforce key national and local community-based institutions to participate in and improve the delivery of development programs. Current activity includes: The Community Based Economic Development Project (CBED); The Water and Energy Commission Secretariat (WECS) Institutional Development Project (WIDP); and the Community Groundwater Irrigation Project (CGIP). Program Record Number: IDA BSD 676

Pakistan

Description: CIDA's assistance program in Pakistan focuses on (a) social sector development through strengthening of civil society, empowerment of women, basic human needs, citizens' rights and responsibilities, health and community development; (b) environment and natural resource management, through support for the implementation of the National Conservation Strategy and measures to integrate environmental issues with economic planning; (c) energy development, through design and articulation of a regulatory framework for the oil and gas sector, the implementation of sustainable energy resource management policies and power generation works. The program promotes linkages between Canadian and Pakistani civil society groups. Special consideration is given to integrating gender issues in all aspects of the program. CIDA is also implementing the communications aspect of Pakistan's Social Action Program, a collaboration between the Government of Pakistan and the major development assistance donors that addresses basic human needs. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 714

Philippines

Description: The country program has two main thrusts: (a) promoting responsible governance at the national and local levels, including strengthening the capacity of democratic institutions and non-governmental and people's organizations and (b) expanding the Philippines private sector capabilities in the areas of mutual interests between the two countries. Cross-cutting themes such as environment, gender equity, basic needs and infrastructure services are also addressed. In order to maximize the program's impact, some program activities are directed at helping national level institutions while the majority of development projects are targeted to three of the country's poorest regions: Western Visayas, Southern Mindanao, and the Autonomous Region of Muslim Mindanao. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 734

South Asia Regional

Description: The objective of CIDA's South Asia Regional Program is to expand regional cooperation in five priority areas: Poverty Reduction, Environment, Economic Integration, Peace & Stability and Human Development. The focus of the program is to foster sustainable linkages between Canada and South Asia which promote dialogue between partners, support the development of regional networks and contribute to building awareness about regional issues both in Canada and in South Asia. To date, the South Asia Regional Program has supported projects in the area of health, gender equity and regional economic integration. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 154

South Pacific

Description: Canada's development cooperation programme in the South Pacific is directed towards the strengthening of key regional organizations in the effective management and protection of the region's marine resources. Emphasis is placed on human resource development involving training and technical assistance in the key area of fisheries. CIDA also provides technical support for the institutional strengthening of Pacific NGOs in cooperation with UNDP. In addition, assistance is channelled to small-scale projects through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Support is also given to Canadian non-governmental organizations and institutions as well as the private sector. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 844

Sri Lanka

Description: The objective of the Sri Lanka program is to address the political, social and economic causes of the current conflict, through: (a) support for key institutions engaged in improving economic reform policies, and promoting human rights and democratic values; (b) strengthening of the community-level institutions promoting economic activity, employment creation and provision of basic social services among those whose unfulfilled aspirations have fuelled the conflict; and (c) as circumstances permit, to assist in reconstruction and rehabilitation. In light of the present conflict, assistance to Sri Lanka is provided through multilateral organizations or channelled via non-governmental organizations. Current projects involve activity in the areas of Good Governance and Institutional Strengthening, Rehabilitation through Training, and enhancement of food security in the conflict area.

Thailand

Description: Canada and Thailand have gradually moved away from a traditional donor-recipient relationship to one based on mature political and economic cooperation in the pursuit of mutual interests. The principal objectives of the Thailand Program are to foster a long-term partnership between Canada and Malaysia, and the region, and to help Thailand address key sustainable development issues. As such, CIDA provides technical assistance for sustainable development in Thailand by increasing Thai access to Canadian expertise, technology, and education and training. Programming priorities include the promotion of human resource development, governance, environment, private sector development, basic human needs and gender equality. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 906

Vietnam

Description: The goals of Canadian development assistance to Vietnam are to promote sustainable development and to strengthen mutually beneficial and long-term relations between Vietnam and Canada. The objectives of the Vietnam Program are to promote improved governance, poverty reduction and private sector development. Governance programming includes support for institutional capacity development in policy planning and implementation, environment, economic reform and environmental management, financial and market reform, and inland waterways administration. Poverty reduction programming enables the rural poor to secure sustainable livelihoods and to meet basic human needs, through the promotion of essential small-scale infrastructure and services in poor districts, improved managerial and technical capacity of key institutions and organizations, microenterprise development and rural financial services. Private sector development programming focuses on developing the skills of entrepreneurs and helping to create an enabling environment for private sector development.

Bolivia

Description: Canada's bilateral assistance to Bolivia is the second largest program in South America. The main focus of the program is poverty reduction through addressing basic human needs, principally in the health and water sectors. A counterpart fund generated by the sale of Canadian oil and gas and telecommunications equipment plays an important role, alongside regular CIDA projects, in poverty reduction efforts. Improved governance is also an important focus of the program. This is addressed through support for some of the key policy reforms of the Government of Bolivia, including strengthening local government, improved regulation of the hydrocarbon and mining sectors (including environmental management), and enhancing the role of the National Ombudsman. Program Record Number: IDA BMS 192

Brazil

Description: The goal of CIDA's bilateral program is to promote equity by supporting trends toward public sector reform and broader participation in public decision-making. The program is based on the concept of "transfer of technology", where "technology" refers to Canadian know-how: expertise or experience, policy or regulatory approaches, and institutional, organizational, participatory, or managerial models. The program is predicated on (1) responding to Brazilian developmental needs and priorities, (2) providing access to relevant Canadian know-how, and (3) supporting partnerships between Canadian and Brazilian institutions. Program Record Number: IDA BMS 204

Caribbean Region

Description: Canada's bilateral assistance to the Caribbean Region involves regional projects such as the Caribbean Regional Oceans and Fisheries Program, the Caribbean Regional Human Resource Development Program for Economic Competitiveness, the Caribbean Gender Equity Fund, the Caribbean HIV/AIDS Project, and the Caribbean Regional Institutional Strengthening Project. Program Record Number: IDA BMB 017

Colombia

Description: The objectives of CIDA's bilateral program are to promote equity by improving access to justice and respect for human rights; to support good governance through assistance to economic reform and to regulatory reforms in telecommunications, mining and oil and gas; and to contribute to sustainable development, particularly in the area of environmental management. Program Record Number: IDA BMS 286

Costa Rica

Description: CIDA's objectives are to assist the country in its economic modernization efforts in an environmentally sound manner and to therefore support sustainable development. The only bilateral project supports the modernization of the country's productive sector. Costa Rica also benefits from the regional energy project which supports reforms to improve efficiency, private sector participation and equity in the electrical/energy sector.

Program Record Number: IDA BML 302

Cuba

Description: CIDA has a bilateral program in Cuba to provide assistance to the ongoing economic reform process, provide assistance in Health and Education and engage in governance and democratic development issues. Program Record Number: IDA BML 310

Eastern Caribbean (Leeward and Windward Islands)

Description: The following Eastern Caribbean island states or territories comprise this program unit: Anguilla, Antigua/Barbuda, British Virgin Islands, Dominica, Grenada, Montserrat, St. Kitts/Nevis, St. Lucia and St. Vincent and the Grenadines. CIDA's program focuses on education/human resources development and strengthening, private sector development, legal and judicial reform, financial management, trade policy HRD for competitiveness and environmental management. Major projects now in the implementation stage include the Eastern Caribbean Economic Management Project, and the Eastern Caribbean Education Reform Project, an OECS Environment Capacity Development Project and a Trade Policy Project. A judicial and legal reform project is about to be launched. Program Record Number: IDA BMB 253

Ecuador

Description: The main focus of Canada's bilateral assistance to Ecuador is poverty reduction. A counterpart fund (The Ecuador-Canada Development Fund), generated by the sale of Canadian food commodities and telecommunications equipment, provides financing to poor and marginalized communities for income-generating activities, sustainable development of natural resources, and the promotion of women, indigenous peoples, and children. In addition, CIDA recently approved a project in support of Ecuador's Tuberculosis Control Program.

Program Record Number: IDA BMS 342

El Salvador

Description: The bilateral program in El Salvador focusses on 3 areas: human rights, democratic development and poverty reduction through productive activities, primarily agricultural. A new 5-year strategy for CIDA programming, which will take into account issues such as health, education and youth and address the rising levels of violence in the society, is being prepared. The Fund for the Environment supports sound management of natural resources, environmental protection and sustainable development. El Salvador also benefits from the regional energy project which supports reforms to improve efficiency, private sector participation, and equity in the electrical/energy sector. Program Record Number: IDA BML 350

Guatemala

Description: CIDA's objectives in Guatemala are to support poverty reduction, democratic development, human rights and good governance. The bilateral program is focused on poverty reduction of the most disadvantaged groups, especially the indigenous population and women. The Local Development Project helps strengthen agricultural and forestry co-operatives and producers' associations; provides training and promotes income generating activities among impoverished populations, and supports re-integration of refugee populations and persons displaced by the conflict. A Democratic Development Fund supports dialogue among many elements of civil society, promotes peace, and strengthens human rights through legal support in cases where it is needed. The Socio-economic Reactivation project aims to improve the socio-economic conditions of the population in the hardest hit ex-conflict zones through technical assistance to community and local government organizations and through financing productive community projects. Guatemala also benefits from the regional energy project mentioned above.

Guyana

Description: CIDA's program focuses on strengthening good governance in public and private sector management and poverty reduction through private sector development and support to strengthening civil society. The current program provides support to basic human needs, such as education and health; Programming in economic development includes savings and loans cooperatives, as well as support to Haiti Electricity Society.; The program also provides supports to good governance, human rights and democratic development, with a particular focus on civil society NGO's as they relate to Justice, Police (advisory services, training at the Academy). A food Aid program is also financing a locally managed counterpart fund dedicated mostly to the health and education sector. Program Record Number: IDA BMB 444

Honduras

Description: Canada plans to play an active role in post-Mitch reconstruction by increasing aid flows to Honduras over the next years. The main objectives of the current program are sustainable management of natural resources, poverty reduction, provision of basic human needs, mainly water. Mitch Reconstruction Projects included the rehabilitation of water and sanitation systems emphasizing health and hygiene education, support to local government in the prevention of disease and medical treatment, financial support for food distribution, the rehabilitation of houses, and the reactivation of agricultural production. The North Coast forest project promotes employment and income generation for local communities and sustainable management of the hardwood forest. An agricultural diversification and rural employment creation project is active in the Guayape Valley. A water project aims to increase the supply of potable water to poor communities on the North Coast. A regional project will assist in the implementation of reforms already under way to lead to improved efficiency and equity in the electrical sector. Program Record Number: IDA BML 448

Jamaica

Description: The main objectives of the program are environmental management, good governance and the development of civil society. Capacity development projects with the Forestry Department and the National Environmental Agency support environmental management objectives, while a fund for small initiatives supports environmental activities at the community level. Projects in the governance sector support the strengthening of civil society organizations, the local government reform process, conflict management through strengthening legal institutions and community level interventions. Program Record Number: IDA BMB 504

Nicaragua

Description: Canada played an active role in post-Mitch reconstruction by increasing its aid flows by about 30%. The main objectives of the current program are to contribute to poverty reduction, support economic revitalization, and assist in the provision of basic human needs. A Mitch Reconstruction Project has provided funds to be transferred to a local Counterpart Fund for rehabilitation of water and sanitation systems, small health and education infrastructure and rehabilitation of the agriculture sector affected by the hurricane. A Line of Credit project provides a balance of payments support through the export of Canadian commodities (plastics, paper and fertilizer) to the Nicaraguan private sector, and also finances socio-economic projects to the poorest through a local counterpart fund. Projects in potable water supply and sanitation are targeted toward the largest community on the Atlantic coast. A regional project assists in the implementation of reforms already under way to lead to improved efficiency, private sector participation and equity in the electrical sector. Program Record Number: IDA BML 696

Peru

Description: Canada's development assistance program to Peru is the largest in South America. It has three main priorities. The first is poverty reduction. A counterpart fund (The Peru-Canada Fund), generated by the sale of Canadian food commodities, mining and telecommunications equipment, supports income-generating projects in poor and marginalized communities. Other CIDA projects support small-holder agricultural co-operatives, micro-credit through co-operative credit unions, and water and sanitation services for peri-urban and rural communities. The second priority of the bilateral program is environmentally sustainable growth. In this area, CIDA provides technical assistance for improved environmental management in natural resources sectors, principally mining and hydrocarbons. CIDA's third programme priority in Peru is improved governance and democratization. This includes strengthening municipal governments, public sector reform, economic policy research and support to the National Ombudsman. Program Record Number: IDA BMS 730

Southern Cone

Description: Although CIDA does not have a specific bilateral program with the four countries of the Southern Cone (Argentina, Chile, Paraguay, and Uruguay), the region receives support under CIDA's regional programming for South America primarily through the Canada-Southern Cone Technology Transfer Fund. This five-year, $18 million Fund is based on the concept of "transfer of technology", where "technology" refers to Canadian know-how: expertise or experience, policy or regulatory approaches, and institutional, organizational, participatory, or managerial models. # Canadian International Trade Tribunal

Chapter 32

Background

Bill C-110, which established the Canadian International Trade Tribunal (CITT) and dissolved the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board, received Royal Assent on September 13, 1988. Sections of the Canadian International Trade Tribunal Act establishing the corporate structure of the CITT were proclaimed on September 15, 1988. Sections of the Act giving the CITT operational responsibilities and dissolving the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board came into force on December 31, 1988. Pursuant to the NAFTA Implementation Act, on January 1, 1994, the Tribunal became Canada's bid challenge authority in respect of federal government procurement as contemplated under Article 1017 of NAFTA. The Tribunal succeeds the Procurement Review Board of Canada in this capacity. The Tribunal also acts as the bid challenge authority under the Agreement on Internal Trade (AIT) and the World Trade Organization Agreement on Government Procurement (WTO).

Responsibilities

The CITT is a quasi-judicial tribunal responsible for conducting dumping and countervailing injury inquiries, making inquiries and carrying out recommendations as directed and considering import safeguard complaints by domestic producers. It is empowered to deal with appeals from decisions of the Minister or the Deputy Minister of National Revenue involving mainly customs and excise matters. The Tribunal receives and decides complaints from Canadian, American and Mexican suppliers who believe that the procurement process conducted by the Canadian Federal Government was not carried out in accordance with NAFTA, as well as complaints under the AIT and the WTO. The Tribunal also conducts investigations into requests from Canadian producers for tariff relief on imported textile inputs used in their production operations.

Legislation

- Canadian International Trade Tribunal Act, 1988
- Customs Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-54)
- Excise Tax Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-E14)
- Special Import Measures Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-515)

Organization

The Tribunal consists of a Chairman, two vice-chairs, and not more than six other permanent members to be appointed by the Governor in Council. The Governor in Council may also appoint up to five temporary members, as required. The Tribunal is supported by the Research Branch, the Legal Services Branch, the Procurement Review Division and the Secretariat.

Classes of Personal Information

Some CMCC files summarized in the program records contain personal information which is not used in a decision-making process directly affecting the individual to whom it relates. Examples are inquiries about CMC and CWM collections, programmes and services, information and advice given to individuals by CMC and CWM employees about museums and museum objects, and information about individuals in documents relating to grants or proposed grants to institutions.

These classes of personal information are kept on the relevant subject files and are not identifiable by name of the individual or other personal identifier. To retrieve these classes of personal information, the CMCC would need as much detail as possible about the subject matter, the geographic location and the time the information would have come to the CMC or the CWM.

The retention periods for these classes of personal information are the same as those for the subject files containing the information.

Description: Detailed information on the museum's scientific and trade publications. Topics: Publications Policy and general correspondence; co-publishing; distribution and sales; royalties; copyrights and reproduction rights; book reviews; Syllogeus publications; Natural History Notebook series; Flora of Canada; Handbook on Canadian Mammals; Famous Mineral Localities of Canada; Squirrels of Canada; Birds of Canada; A Vanished World – Dinosaurs of Western Canada; The Dinosaurs of North America; Global Biodiversity. Access: The information is classified by subject. Program Record Number: CMN NSA 030

Research

Description: Detailed information on scientific research in various fields such as Earth Sciences, Paleobiology, Mineralogy, Vertebrate and Invertebrate Zoology, Botany, Biodiversity; various research projects, field expeditions and notes. Topics: Research Policy, projects and general correspondence. Program Record Number: CMN NSA 015

Personal Information Banks

Collections

Description: This bank has complete information on names and addresses of individuals pertaining to the collection of objects by the Canadian Museum of Nature. Class of Individuals: Individuals with which the Canadian Museum of Nature deals, in relation to collecting. Purpose: To maintain complete information about objects collected or collectable by the Canadian Museum of Nature. Consistent Uses: Determination of the value of objects for income tax or insurance purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Operational records; no disposal schedules have been applied.

Related to PR#: CMN NSA 005 TBS Registration: 003412 Bank Number: CMN PPU 005

Contract Files

Description: This bank contains records of all personal and professional service contracts entered into by the Canadian Museum of Nature. The records contain information such as the request for proposal, the original contract documents and amendments, and reasons for not authorizing payments if the terms of the contract have not been met. Active files are kept within the Contracts section. Class of Individuals: Information relates to individuals from the private sector under contract for services to CMN. Purpose: For contracting services legal and financial references. Consistent Uses: To maintain information on all service contracts entered into by CMN. Retention and Disposal Standards: Six fiscal years after termination or cancellation of contract, then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 000377 Bank Number: CMN PPU 010

Donations and Contributions

Description: This bank contains personal information such as names and addresses of donors as well as financial information on donations of museological objects or financial contributions towards the acquisition of museological collections. Class of Individuals: General public and private sector businesses and corporations. Purpose: To maintain financial information dealing with the issuance of income tax receipts. Consistent Uses: Pursuant to the Income Tax Act, documentation is used to support annual individual or corporate tax returns. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for statistical purposes for six years and then destroyed. Related to PR#: CMN PPU 005 TBS Registration: 003413 Bank Number: CMN PPU 015

Individual Requests under the Access to Information Act

Description: Contains formal requests made under the Access to Information Act by individuals for access to records, the replies to such requests, and all records relating to their processing. If applicable, includes information on exemptions claimed, interventions of third parties, complaints received, reports and recommendations of the Information Commissioner and litigation in the Federal and Supreme Courts. Class of Individuals: Individuals requesting information under the ATI Act. Purpose: To process such requests. Consistent Uses: Compiling statistics relating to the administration of the Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last administrative use or request action completed, then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 001680 Bank Number: CMN PPU 020

Individual Requests under the Privacy Act

Description: Contains formal requests made under the Privacy Act by individuals for access to personal information about themselves, the replies to such requests, and all records relating to their processing. If applicable, includes information on exemptions claimed, complaints received, reports and recommendation of the Privacy Commissioner and litigation in the Federal and Supreme Courts. Class of Individuals: Individuals requesting information under the Privacy Act. Purpose: To process such requests. Consistent Uses: Compiling statistics relating to the administration of the Act.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last administrative use or request action completed, then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 001680 Bank Number: CMN PPU 030

Requests from Federal Investigative Bodies

Description: Contains requests for personal information made pursuant to paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act by federal investigative bodies, the replies to such requests, the records of information disclosed, any correspondence with the Privacy Commissioner and all records relating to the processing of the requests. Class of Individuals: Individuals being investigated by federal investigative bodies. Purpose: To meet the requirements of the Privacy Act. Consistent Uses: Compiling statistics relating to requests from federal investigative bodies. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last administrative use or request action completed, then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 000379 Bank Number: CMN PPU 025

Canadian Nuclear Safety Commission

Chapter 35

Background

The Nuclear Safety and Control Act was passed by Parliament in 1997 to better reflect the current regulatory mandate and priorities. The legislation replaced the Atomic Energy Control Act and paved the way for the creation of the Canadian Nuclear Safety Commission (CNSC). The strengthened regulations and new authorities given to the Commission represent the first major overhaul of Canada's nuclear regulatory regime since the creation of the Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) more than 50 years ago. The Commission's creation follows the coming into force of the Nuclear Safety and Control Act on May 31, 2000. It is a departmental corporation, named in Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act. The CNSC reports to Parliament through a designated Minister, currently the Minister of Natural Resources Canada.

Responsibilities

Our mandate is to ensure that the use of nuclear energy in Canada does not pose an unreasonable risk to health, safety, the environment and national security. This mandate extends to the control of import and export of nuclear materials and other prescribed substances, equipment and technology, and to fulfilling Canada's obligations under the Canada-International Atomic Energy Agency Safeguards Agreement, pursuant to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons. We achieve our mandate through regulations that establish a comprehensive licensing system which covers nuclear facilities, nuclear materials and other prescribed substances and equipment, including the certification of domestic and foreign transport package designs. This licensing system, which operates on a cost recovery basis, is administered to take into account the concerns and responsibilities of federal and provincial government departments in such areas as health, environment, transport, and labour. We also contribute to international agencies and, through cooperation agreements, assist other countries in improving their regulatory controls of nuclear materials and facilities.

Legislation

- Nuclear Safety & Control Act, S.C. 1997, chapter 9
- Nuclear Liability Act, R.S.C., 1985, chapter N-28

Organization

The Commission is constituted as a corporate body with five members, one of whom is President and Chief Executive Officer appointed by the Governor in Council. Through the President, the Commission receives advice from: two independent committees — the Advisory Committee on Radiological Protection and the Advisory Committee on Nuclear Safety — composed of technical experts from outside our organization; a Legal Services Unit, composed of legal experts provided from the Department of Justice; and a medical liaison officer, who represents the Group of Medical Advisors. Our officers and employees implement the policies of the Commission and make recommendations to the Commission on regulatory matters. Staff is organized into five directorates as described below.

Directorate of Reactor Regulation

The Directorate of Reactor Regulation is responsible for the regulation of nuclear power reactors, including the development of safety standards and licence conditions; the assessment of licence applications and reactor operations; the making of licensing recommendations to the Commission; and compliance activities.

Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation

The Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation is responsible for the regulation of uranium mining and processing into fuel; research facilities and particle accelerators; radioisotope production and use; radioactive waste; and the transport of radioactive materials. This includes the development of safety standards and licence conditions; the assessment of licence applications and licensee operations; the making of licensing recommendations to the Commission; and compliance activities. The Directorate is also responsible for the technical aspects associated with decommissioning.

Directorate of Environmental and Human Performance Assessment

The Directorate of Environmental and Human Performance Assessment is responsible for the assessment of licensees' programs and performance in the areas of radiation and environmental protection, emergency preparedness planning, quality assurance, training and human factors. Other responsibilities include technical training for our staff and foreign staff under cooperation agreements; our obligations under the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act; assessment of unplanned events and performance at licensed facilities; incident investigation; research programs; and the development of standards.

Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for the administrative support to Commission members and advisory groups; external relations, corporate documents and public communications; corporate planning and coordination services including implementation of the Nuclear Safety and Control Act; non-proliferation, safeguards and security activities; interaction with Department of Justice legal counsel at the CNSC; our responsibilities under the Nuclear Liability Act, the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act; and corporate audit & evaluation.

Directorate of Corporate Services

The Directorate of Corporate Services is responsible for supplying services to the organization to enable it to manage its human, information, financial and physical resources. The Directorate is also responsible for internal security and for administering our Employment Equity, Conflict of Interest, Official Languages and Cost Recovery programs.

Information Holdings

Accelerator Facilities

Description: Information on licensed accelerator and particle accelerator facilities in Canada. Topics: Main facility; neutron generator; drawings; safety reports; cyclotron; Tandem and Van de Graaff; Linac; Betatron. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 080

Associations, Societies and Institutions

Description: Information on professional organizations with which the CNSC consults on matters related to nuclear energy. Topics: Standards-writing organizations – Canadian Standards Association, Canadian Nuclear Association, International Atomic Energy Agency. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 115

Canadian Nuclear Safety and Control Regulations

Description: The regulations pursuant to the Nuclear Safety and Control Act as they apply to prescribed substances and items, nuclear facilities, the appointment of inspectors and inspections of licensees, security of nuclear material and information related to the nuclear fuel cycle, radiological occupational health and safety of nuclear energy workers, the appointment of medical advisers, and protection of the public and the environment. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 235

Nuclear Safety Legislation

Description: Information on the Nuclear Safety & Control Act and amendments. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 230

Atomic Energy of Canada Limited (AECL) – Licensing

Description: General licensing information on nuclear facilities operated by Atomic Energy of Canada Limited. Topics: Reactors – NRX, ZEEP, NRU, ZED 2, Whiteshell, Slowpoke. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 060

Canadian Uranium Policy

Description: The Canadian uranium policy on exports, anti-trust matters and nuclear energy. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 130

Committees

Description: Information on actions, proposals and recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Radiological Protection (ACRP) and the Advisory Committee on Nuclear Safety (ACNS). Information on committees in which CNSC staff are active. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 025

Computer Codes

Description: Information on computer codes used in reactor operations. Topics: Atmospheric dispersion; reactor physics; thermal hydraulics; fuel behaviour; containment. Program Record Number: AEB DAA 100

Coordination and Planning

Description: Information on the Commission's internal and external coordination and planning. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 205

Domestic Reactors

Description: Information on the reactors currently in use in Canada. Topics: Licence of the facility; fuel; operation; reactor operators; accountability and operational procedures; CNSC officers; significant events and incident reports; systems and equipment, proposed changes approved; proposed changes for information; radiological protection; emergency procedures; safeguards; in-service inspections and quality assurance. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 055

Emergency Planning Activities

Description: Information on emergency planning activities. Topics: Federal procedures; coordination of federal, provincial and international procedures. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 210

Federal Departments

Description: General information on liaison with other federal departments and agencies. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 225

Foreign and Marine Reactors

Description: Reactors in the U.S.; marine reactors; foreign reactors outside the U.S. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 065

Foreign Governments

Description: Information on all foreign governments with which Canada has been or is involved in the nuclear field. Topics: International nuclear safeguards; export-import controls; various reports dealing with the preceding subjects from foreign countries. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 120

Fuel Processing Facilities

Description: Information on fuel processing facilities in Canada. Topics: Operation; licensing; compliance inspections; radiation exposure data. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 200

Health Physics

Description: Information on health physics and radiation protection, as well as radiation dose limits, personal dosimetry and instrumentation, protective clothing, radiation protection training and laboratory facilities and equipment. Program Record Number: AEB DAA 245

Heavy Water Plants

Description: Information on heavy water plants in Canada. Topics: Operations; licensing; compliance inspections; emergency procedures; quality assurance; standards and guides; safety assessments; new processes. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 195

Heavy Water Plants

Description: Information on the safety assessment of design and operation of heavy water plants. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 105

Inspections

Description: Information on inspections, field instrumentation and special investigations. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 180

Inspections

Description: Information on regular inspections of reactors in service, scheduling of up and down time and computer codes used in operation. Topics: Reactor-in-service inspections; materials; ferrous and non-ferrous metals, corrosion; wear and welding. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 045

International Organizations

Description: Information on international organizations in the nuclear energy field. Topics: International safeguards; export-import control; technical reports and reviews on nuclear reactors; safeguards; quality assurance; radioactive waste management; nuclear fuel development; international organizations – Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, International Energy Agency, European Economic Community, International Atomic Energy Agency, Nuclear Energy Agency, and the Scientific Advisory Committee of the International Atomic Energy Agency. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 215

Licensing

Description: Information on licensing of reactors and sites by the CNSC. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 035

Mining, Exploration and Prospecting

Description: Information on every uranium mining and milling facility in Canada. Topics: Operation; licensing; requirements; health and safety – personal, environmental and workplace monitoring, personnel exposure data; compliance inspections; mining and milling. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 185

Nuclear Devices

Description: Information on manufacturers of nuclear devices. Topics: Luminous devices; watches; exit signs; cardiac pacemakers; smoke detectors; therapy units; static eliminators. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 165

Nuclear Liability

Description: Information on the Nuclear Liability Act and its association with the Canadian nuclear program; also insurance aspects of nuclear liability. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 220

Organization and Functions

Description: Information on CNSC activities. Topics: Organization of the Commission; appointments; significant development reports; meetings of internal heads of directorates or sections; annual reports; Policy and Practices Manual; Administrative Policy and Procedures Manual; and Minister's briefings. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 005

Orientation Facilities

Description: Information on foreign countries interested in purchasing CANDU reactors or technology. Program Record Number: AEB DOA 260

Particle Accelerators

Description: General information on particle accelerators. Topics: Courses and seminars; standards and guidelines; technical information; and relations with Health Canada. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 075

Prescribed Equipment

Description: Information on general export control of prescribed equipment, such as nuclear reactors, fuel processing facilities, heavy water plants and nuclear accelerators. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 125

Prescribed Substances

Description: Information on prescribed substances, which are defined as radioactive isotopes of all elements and any substances containing such isotopes which are designated as capable of releasing atomic energy. The CNSC maintains files on all licensed users and producers of radioisotopes in Canada. Topics: Use; exports; policies; health precautions. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 155

Prescribed Substances – Accidents, Unauthorized Uses

Description: Information on situations where possible risk to workers and the public is caused by radioactive contamination and exposure. Topics: Contamination of jewellery and pottery; improper safeguards for radioisotopes use – hospitals, pharmaceutical labs, research labs; transportation accidents; unauthorized uses of radioactive materials; contamination. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 175

Provincial Governments

Description: Information on dealings with the provincial governments and two territories. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 240

Public Information

Description: Information requests; Federal Identity Program; programs; policies and procedures; projects and publications; public opinion projects; editorial services; translation and revision. Program Record Number: AEB SEC 020

Quality Assurance

Description: Information on the overall design quality of nuclear facilities. Topics: Standards; manufacturers; manufacturer quality assurance programs. Program Record Number: AEB DAA 110

Radiation Protection

Description: Information on radiation protection for workers, public and environment affected by reactor facilities. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 040

Radioactive Waste Management Facilities

Description: Information on every radioactive waste management facility in Canada. Topics: Low-level storage; high-level storage; reactor wastes; uranium tailings; chemical treatment; licensing; maintenance; compliance. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 190

Reactor Codes and Standards

Description: Quality assurance codes and standards used in the design of nuclear facilities. Topics: Components; inspections; quality control; reliability and maintainability of concrete containment structures; protective systems and instrumentation; and seismic design requirements for CANDU. Program Record Number: AEB DAA 095

Reactor Operating Training

Description: Information on the training and examination of reactor operators according to CNSC standards. Topics: Reactor Operating Training; Ontario Power Generation, Hydro-Quebec, New Brunswick Electric Power Commission. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 070

Reactor Personnel

Description: Information on the training and examination of all reactor personnel. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 085

Reactor Safety

Description: Information on the development of safety requirements for nuclear facilities. Topics: Siting guides; reactor safety criteria. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 090

Reactors – General

Description: General information on the operation of reactor facilities. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 030

Regulatory Documents

Description: Research contract process (including reports); licensing guides and regulatory standards for the nuclear energy field and prescribed substances. Topics: Regulations safeguard; techniques; socio-economic impact analyses. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 255

Safeguards

Description: Policies and measures for the non-proliferation of nuclear energy. Topics: Domestic and international safeguards; costs; reference documents; instrumentation; inspection procedures; accountability; visits and inventories of nuclear facilities in Canada; safeguards inspectors; special studies on accountability for highly enriched uranium and non-destructive measurement devices. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 150

Safeguards Support Program

Description: Research and development contract reports and Safeguard Support Program Reports. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 250

Security

Description: Information on the physical security of nuclear facilities and personnel. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 140

Steam Rebuild Programs

Description: Information on improvements of original deficient steam generators in some of the reactors. Topics: 600MW, 500MW, and 850MW steam generator rebuild programs. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 050

Transportation

Description: Policies, regulations and practices for the safe handling and transportation of radioactive materials in Canada and abroad. Topics: Shipping regulations; labelling requirements for radioisotopes; transportation of radioactive waste; liability insurance; regulations for all modes of transportation – air, road, rail and marine; certificates; Canada Post Corporation; emergency procedures; accidents and standards; transportation of nuclear materials to and from foreign countries; endorsements from foreign countries for shipping containers; technical aspects of shipping, containers and testing programs. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 160

United Nations Disarmament Commission

Description: Information on the United Nations Non-Proliferation Treaty on Nuclear Weapons, international safeguards, international agreements and various United Nations committees on nuclear energy.

Program Record Number: AEB DRS 145

Access Request Data Bank

Description: This bank contains the access request forms sent by individuals requesting access to files, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing.

Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens, permanent residents of Canada and individuals present in Canada.

Purpose: It is used for processing access requests only, and to report on the number of access requests received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: These files will be kept for two years and then destroyed. TBS

Registration: 004128 Bank Number: AEB PPU 045

Applications for Employment

Description: This bank exists to maintain an inventory of applicants from the general public or the federal government for employment with the CNSC. It includes correspondence, applications for employment, curricula vitae and other personal information. Class of Individuals: Individuals seeking employment. Purpose: This bank is used to identify applicants for possible future appointments to the Commission staff. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained in the bank for one year and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 004126 Bank Number: AEB PPU 035

Examinations and Results

Description: This bank maintains a record of the examinations given to personnel at nuclear reactor facilities. Data include names of individuals, titles of examinations written and results in terms of success or failure. Class of Individuals: Employees at nuclear generating stations. Purpose: The CNSC sets these examinations to ensure that the requirements for operating personnel are met. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years before they are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 91-024 TBS Registration: 004123 Bank Number: AEB PPU 015

Health and Safety Regulations: Inspection Officers

Description: This bank may contain data on nationality, age, sex, education and special training, and employment history, as well as correspondence with provinces leading to appointments. There may be sensitive material relating to federal-provincial negotiations for service. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and residents of Canada. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to record information relating to the appointment of employees of provincial government departments or health institutes, to act as inspectors under the Nuclear Safety and Control Regulations. The bank provides an up-to-date identification of individuals appointed as inspectors. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are kept for 5 years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 91-024 TBS Registration: 004122 Bank Number: AEB PPU 010

Health and Safety Regulations: Medical Advisers

Description: The bank contains names and details concerning present employment and area of jurisdiction, and communications between the CNSC and parent agencies or the individuals prior to appointment. The bank provides an up-to-date status of individual appointments by name. Individuals this bank relates to are all qualified medical officers, who may be from provincial government departments, hospitals, institutions, or the federal service. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens, medical officers. Purpose: The purpose of the bank is to record information on the appointment of medical advisers to the CNSC. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained during the tenure of appointment and for two years subsequently, they are then sent to the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 91-024 TBS Registration: 004121 Bank Number: AEB PPU 005

Personal Service Contract Files

Description: The bank includes basic personal data, subject matter and terms of contract. Class of Individuals: Information on organizations and individuals from the private sector under contract for services.

Purpose: The purpose of the bank is to maintain an accurate account of all contracts. The primary use of the bank is to record negotiations between the CNSC and the individuals concerned. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years before being transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

PAC Number: 91-024 TBS Registration: 004127 Bank Number: AEB PPU 040

Reactor Operators and Training

Description: Data in this bank include a record of correspondence, details of education and experience, and basic personal information. Class of Individuals: Employees at reactor sites. Purpose: The purpose of the bank is to provide an accurate and up-to-date record of all information on authorizations and appointments of individuals to designated positions at nuclear generating stations and research reactor sites. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years before being transferred to the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 91-024 TBS Registration: 004124 Bank Number: AEB PPU 020

Reactor Personnel

Description: Data include summaries of the individual's examination results, copies of all authorizations issued for the appointment of the individual to designated positions, and correspondence specifically relating to the individual. Class of Individuals: Employees who work at a nuclear site. Purpose: The purpose of the bank is to maintain a record of each individual's examination and authorization for designated appointments at nuclear reactor facilities.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years before being transferred to the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 91-024 TBS Registration: 004125 Bank Number: AEB PPU 025

Miner Exposure Database

Description: This bank contains basic personal information collected from the personnel files of all miners who worked at the Rio Algom and Denison Mines in Elliott Lake from the early 1950's to the mid-1980's. Class of Individuals: Miners exposed to radioactive dust and radon progeny in the course of their work. Purpose: This bank will be used for research and statistical analysis purposes, including linking individuals to cancer registries. These analyses will help determine a more accurate risk of lung cancer and other health effects from exposure to radon progeny. Retention and Disposal Standards:

Records are kept until statistical analyses are complete after which time the data will be destroyed. TBS Registration: 004129 Bank Number: AEB PPU 050

Reports and Surveys

This class of information contains personal information based on a dietary survey performed by a consultant on behalf of the CNSC. Personal information may include particulars such as dietary interests, remuneration, age, gender, health, marital status and educational background of individuals. Such personal information is stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name or individual or other personal identifier. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Canadian Polar Commission

Chapter 36

Background

In September 1985 the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development commissioned a study group to investigate the state of Canadian polar science. Based on extensive consultations with Canada's northern research community, government departments, and non-government organizations, the study group produced its report, Canada and Polar Science, in March 1987. Among its recommendations was a call for the creation of "a national body ...to provide ongoing contact, at a senior level, between the federal government and those concerned with Canadian polar science and research".

Professor Thomas Symon's report The Shield of Achilles, which became the draft of a mandate for the Canadian Polar Commission, expressed concern that a new commission not duplicate the efforts of other institutions, but "...build upon, complement and support the work of the many diverse existing Canadian institutions, programmes, and organizations that are dedicated to the development of polar knowledge".

As a result of these efforts, the Canadian Polar Commission provides a new focus for polar scientific research in Canada. Through active interchange with industry, the private sector, governments, aboriginal people and other northern residents, the academic community, and interest groups, the Commission can reinforce Canada's existing role and reputation in the polar world.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Commission is to monitor and to assess the state of polar knowledge in the country, and to foster the development of this important part of Canadian science. To this end, the Commission's role is to help determine scientific priorities with regard to polar regions, encourage Canadian organizations to support development and dissemination of knowledge of these regions, advise the minister responsible (Minister of Indian and Northern Affairs) on polar matters, disseminate information about polar research, and foster international cooperation regarding the sharing of polar knowledge.

It is within the mandate of the Commission to sponsor conferences, seminars and other activities, provide financial support for studies and the publication of reports, recognize achievements in polar science, support and encourage in various ways the endeavours of those who are involved in polar research.

Legislation

- Canadian Polar Commission Act (February 1991)

Organization

The Canadian Polar Commission is made up of 7 members, selected for their skills and merits. These members, who form the Board of Directors of the Commission, cannot be full-time employees in the Public Service of Canada. They are appointed for three year terms. Sub-committees have been established on science and the environment, international affairs, communications and the Canadian Polar Information Directory. The Polar Commission itself can call on others, especially northerners, to sit on these committees.

Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission

Chapter 37

Background

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) is an independent public authority that operates at "arm's length" from government and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Canadian Heritage. It was established by Parliament in 1968 as a successor to the Board of Broadcast Governors, an earlier regulatory agency with a mandate to regulate and supervise all aspects of the Canadian broadcasting system. These responsibilities were enlarged in 1976 by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act, under which the Commission assumed responsibility from the Canadian Transport Commission for regulating telecommunications carriers within federal jurisdiction.

On 4 June 1991 a new Broadcasting Act was proclaimed. On 25 October 1993 the new Telecommunications Act, replacing the Railway Act and the National Telecommunications Powers and Procedures Act, was proclaimed. As a result of a 26 April 1994 decision by the Supreme Court of Canada involving Téléphone Guèvremont Inc., 49 telephone companies providing services on a strictly local or intra-provincial basis, but with interconnection to inter-provincial services, and formerly subject to provincial legislative and regulatory authority, were brought within federal legislative authority and became therefore subject to the CRTC's jurisdiction. The Telecommunications Act was amended in May 1998 to give the CRTC new statutory responsibilities including a licensing regime for international communications services, responsibility for the administration of numbering plans, authority to establish and administer a universal service fund to provide financial support for access by Canadians to basic telecommunications services.

Responsibilities

In broadcasting matters, the CRTC regulates and supervises the public, community and private sectors with a view to implementing the broadcasting policy for Canada set out in section 3 of the Broadcasting Act. It has the power, inter alia, to issue, renew and amend licences and to set any conditions of licence it deems appropriate. With respect to federally-regulated telecommunications carriers, the CRTC has the power to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers are just and reasonable, and that Canadian carriers do not unjustly discriminate in relation to the provision of telecommunication services. The Commission's approval is also required for traffic and certain other types of agreements. The Commission also has powers to forbear from the regulation of services of Canadian carriers. In order to fulfil its mandate, the CRTC collects a variety of information pertaining to applicants and existing licensees of programming, distribution or network undertakings across the country. Financial and operating information is collected on a yearly basis in Annual Returns. Programming on radio and television is monitored; television stations, including pay television and specialty services, must submit detailed program logs monthly and radio stations must submit their program logs upon request. In the course of the public hearing process, information concerning the applications being heard is made available for public examination, as outlined in the CRTC Rules of Procedure. These public files include the text of any intervention made by anyone wishing to express his/her views with respect to particular applications or issues raised in public hearings. In telecommunications hearings, interrogatories and other more formal practices may be carried out, as outlined in the CRTC Telecommunications Rules of Procedure. The Commission receives complaints and inquiries from specific individuals or corporations, or interest groups regarding both broadcasting and telecommunications. The Commission forwards certain complaints to the Ombudsman for Telecommunications Services. Copies of complaints relating to broadcasting matters are forwarded to the licensee concerned for comment and placed on a file available for examination by the public. As appropriate, they may be forwarded to the Canadian Broadcast Standards Council (the CBSC), which administers industry standards and codes of conduct or to the Cable Television Standards Council (CTSC) which administers Cable Service Standards.

Organization

The Secretary General

The Office of the Secretary General is the formal point of contact for the general public and industry with the Commission and communicates decisions and notices on behalf of the Commission.

Broadcasting Directorate

The Broadcasting Directorate is responsible for providing the Commission with all information needed to regulate those broadcasting undertakings subject to the CRTC's jurisdiction and for developing general broadcasting regulatory policy for adoption by the Commission. The Directorate develops advice and recommendations to the Commission in order to implement the Broadcasting Policy for Canada set out in section 3 of the Broadcasting Act as well as the regulatory policy set out in section 5. The Broadcasting Directorate is headed by the Executive Director, Broadcasting. The responsibilities of the Directorate are carried out by five divisions reporting to the Executive Director, Broadcasting.

◆ Licensing and Operations Group

Licensing and Operations is responsible for all aspects of the licensing process (issue, amendment, renewal) for radio, television, pay and specialty services and new media including new applications, renewals, changes to condition of licenses, certification of programming as Canadian. It verifies the corporate ownership structure, deficiency, management of related public hearings; oversees the implementation of decisions through supervisory, regulatory, monitoring and interpretative methods and processes; monitors licensee compliance with prescribed economic, social, financial and technical criteria and other conditions of license; represents the CRTC with the industry, provincial and municipal governments, other federal government departments, and interest groups; identifies emerging trends and issues, develops impact scenarios.

◆ Competitive Disputes Group

Competitive Disputes is responsible for the timely and efficient review and disposition of competitive disputes in a rapidly evolving competitive communications environment, including disputes of complaints arising from programming undertakings (pay, pay-per-view, video-on-demand, and specialty services) seeking access to broadcasting distributions undertakings (cable, DTH, MDS); from allegations of undue preference conduct by programming undertakings or broadcasting distribution undertakings; from alleged contravention of the Commission exemption orders; and, from allegations of inappropriate dealings with respect to exclusive or preferential programming rights. Conducts alternative dispute resolution processes including staff mediation or arbitration. Ensures that complaints and disputes are resolved in a manner consistent with public policy objectives established by the Broadcasting Act, and Commission policies and regulations made there under.

◆ Policy Group

The Policy Group is accountable for planning, organizing and leading the provision of timely and competent analysis and recommendations regarding the economic, social, cultural, competitive and technical implications of proposed regulatory policies, applications or decisions with respect to conventional radio and television services, discretionary services and social policy, recognizing the distinctions and special needs of Canada's English and French language markets. The Group determines and directs research and analysis and makes recommendations on the formulation, definition and enhancement of regulatory frameworks, strategies and policies that address social, cultural, economic and competitive issues.

◆ Economic Analysis and Research Group

The Economic Analysis and Research Group plans, organizes, coordinates and leads environmental scanning, tracking, research and analysis related to the identification, recognition, monitoring and assessment of critical issues, trends and developments affecting Canada's broadcasting and related industries in both the domestic and global marketplaces; monitors and assesses the impact of government strategies, regulatory and policy decisions and of international regulatory and market forces on the economic performance and the structure of the broadcasting sector; provides strategic information and recommendations on the application of research and analysis findings to the elaboration or review of broadcasting regulatory frameworks and Commission strategies and policy decisions; directs the diffusion of policy and market research to the public and the broadcast industry to assist intervenors in their participation in public hearings and other consultative processes and facilitates transparency in all Commission processes.

◆ Convergence and Infrastructure Access

Convergence and Infrastructure Access is accountable for developing policies in conjunction with counterparts in Telecommunications for issues related to convergence and recommends where harmonization of policy, process regulations and procedures may be implemented; oversees the implementation of decisions through supervisory, regulatory, monitoring and interpretive networks and processes; monitors licensee compliance with prescribed economic, social financial and technical criteria and other conditions of license.

Communications Branch

The Communications Branch develops and carries out all communications strategies to inform the public, media, and regulated industries; elaborates on our messages and put in place strategies and initiate public forums to better engage open discussions with the general public; works towards ensuring that the Commission's views and decisions are transmitted in user-friendly language and distributed in areas accessible to all Canadians; and ensures that the Commission's role, mandate and vision are clear.

Finance and Corporate Services Branch

This Branch provides financial, program planning, management and administrative services to ensure the most effective operation of the Commission and the most cost-effective and efficient development and use of new services and facilities. It collects broadcast licence fees and telecom fees and helps to formulate fee regulations. The Branch also coordinates informatics activities throughout the Commission, maintains a library on communications industry information in Canada and administers the Commission's records management, mail room. It prepares business plans and performance report and also conducts internal audits, evaluations of CRTC activities and business reengineering studies.

Human Resources, Official Languages and Security

Human Resources assists the Commission to carry out its mandate by ensuring it has sufficient staff which are competent, trained, deployed where needed, appropriately compensated and representative of the Canadian population. This entails the design of the organization and its positions, the recruitment and selection of employees, the investment in staff learning and development, the administration of pay and employee benefits and the maintenance of a positive work environment within the CRTC. Many of these services are governed by the Acts of Parliament which apply to human resource management across the Public Service.

Legal Directorate

The Legal Directorate is responsible for providing the Commission and its Chairperson with legal services and advice respecting the implementation and interpretation of broadcasting, telecommunications and other related legislations. The Legal Directorate:

- advises the Commission and its Chairperson on the CRTC Act, the Broadcasting Act and Telecommunications Act, as well as statutory instruments such as regulations and Rules of Procedure made pursuant to these Acts, related federal and provincial legislation, and conflict of interest rules and guidelines;
- conducts questioning at public hearings and represents the CRTC during legal proceedings;
- provides advice on applications, procedural matters and the legal implications of policies formulated to further Commission objectives;
- deals with complaints received by the Commission alleging violations of statutes or regulations;
- develops amendments to regulations; and
- maintains a law library.

Secretariat and Client Services Branch

Secretariat and Client Services provides secretariat support to committee activities of the Commission; coordinates the Commission's Vision agenda management, and public hearing schedule; directs the Commission's regional offices as well as the public examination rooms; responds to requests under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act; drafts Commission decisions; issues all public notices, decisions and orders; responds to requests for general information and handles telephone inquiries and complaints on broadcasting and telecommunications issues; responds to public inquiries and written complaints; provides liaison with self-regulatory councils.

◆ Regional Offices

Our representatives located in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Regina, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax explain the Commission's mandate, policies and decisions to the public, industry, special interest groups, governments and the media. They also deal with complaints and inquiries from the public and other interested parties and provide regional feedback to headquarters on a variety of issues, including regional concerns and licensee performance and maintain a public examination room and research facilities on broadcasting and telecommunications items.

Telecommunications Directorate

The Telecommunications Directorate develops advice and recommendations to the Commission to ensure the implementation of Canadian telecommunications objectives set out in the Telecommunications Act and to ensure that Canadian carriers provide telecommunications services and charge rates on terms that are just and reasonable, and do not unjustly discriminate or provide an unreasonable preference toward any person. The responsibilities of the Telecommunications Directorate are carried out under six branches reporting to the Executive Director.

♦ Strategic Management, Number Administration and Consumer Policy

This branch is responsible for overseeing Telecom relations with central agencies and other departments. It also is responsible for internal process and management improvement as well as internal governance. The branch also oversees number administration as it relates to the North American Numbering Plan and telecom policy development and implementation as it relates to the consumer. Included with this is the promotion of competition, the protection of consumers and support for access by all consumers.

♦ Independent Carrier Relations

Independent Carrier Relation is the liaison for the CRTC with the Independent industry. This includes the development and evolution of the appropriate regulatory frameworks for the various independent company sectors in an effort to move to a regulatory structure that is less burdensome and more closely aligned to that of the rest of the telecom industry.

♦ Tariff and Service Costing

The Tariff and Service Costing branch is responsible for tariff filings such as those for retail, carrier, pricecap, etc. It is also responsible for Phase II service costing studies that at times involve major CRTC proceedings.

♦ Technology, International, Satellite and Wireless

This branch provides the necessary support and leadership relative to issues that involve technical matters, taking into account the technological evolution this is taking place in the telecommunications industry. New technology-driven communications services will erode distinctions between industry sectors. As such, there is a need for this group to stay abreast of these changes so as to put in place the appropriate regulatory frameworks reflective of this technological evolution both in Canada and globally.

♦ Competition Implementation

The Competition Implementation group has the responsibility to encourage the use of industry negotiated processes such as CISC to resolve operational and administrative matters among carriers. Included with this are inter-carrier agreements. This branch has been formed to address the growing need for timely and efficient reaction to competitive disputes. This will ensure that competition rolls out fairly and in a manner consistent with the Commission's policies. This group's mandate is to be able to identify disputes, to explore alternative dispute mechanisms to resolve disputes and if necessary bring issues before the Commission for final resolution on an expedited basis.

♦ Financial Analysis Branch

Financial analysis provides analysis and advice on all aspects of rate regulation, including access (contribution) charges paid by competition in the long distance market, reviews the intercorporate activities of the telephone companies and their accounting practices, and reviews carrier's activities. These responsibilities are carried out by three groups.

Information Holdings

Applications (Existing Licences) – Broadcasting

Description: Information contained in applications for the amendment or renewal of AM, FM (Campus, Community, Native and Ethnic Radio), TV, Cable, Pay and Specialty Services licences, as well as information contained in any other applications for required Commission authorizations in respect of broadcasting licences. Topics: Ownership, financial, programming and other operational information.

Access: Files arranged by type; AM, FM (Campus, Community, Native and Ethnic Radio), TV by call sign, cable in numerical order and other systems in alphanumeric order. Program Record Number: CRT BRO 185

Applications (New Licences) – Broadcasting

Description: Information contained in new applications for obtaining a broadcasting licence, as well as information by the Commission for authorization of broadcasting licences. Topics: Ownership, financial, programming and other operational information. Access: Files arranged in numeric order. Program Record Number: CRT BRO 190

Audience Data

Description: Comprehensive audience information containing: 1) the Bureau of Broadcast Measurement's (BBM) Fall (four week) and Spring (three week) diary-based surveys for all television viewing in Canada and; 2) the Bureau of Broadcast Measurement's (BBM) Fall and Spring multi-week diary-based surveys for all Radio listening in Canada and; 3) Nielsen Media Research's weekly metered data of all television viewing in Canada. Topics: For 1 and 2) above (BBM) — Audience and programming information by licensee. Computerized Stand Alone Database — access is restricted internally. Contractual agreement permits dissemination of data and analysis only to federal departments and regulatory agencies (no Crown Corporations). For 3) above (Nielsen) — Audience and programming information by licensee. Computerized weekly data and weekly reports — access is restricted internally. Contract is for one year and does not permit dissemination of data to any outside sources. Program Record Number: CRT BRO 210

Canadian Program Recognition

Description: Information on programs that have been certified as Canadian content. Topics: Program title, duration, production data, type of recognition (Canadian, special recognition, dubbing of a foreign production done in Canada). Access: Files arranged in alphanumeric order by company name or applicant name. Computerized data base accessible by title or by Canadian Program Recognition identifier. An updated list of the files is available. An updated list of Canadian Program Recognition Numbers produced by the Broadcast Analysis Directorate is also available on our Internet site (www.crtc.gc.ca). Storage Medium: Computer media and hardcopy. Program Record Number: CRT BRO 180

Commission Proceedings

Description: Information on Commission proceedings dealing with broadcasting and telecommunications matters. Topics: Public notices; decisions; circular letters; telecommunications orders; and public hearing transcripts. Access: Files arranged by date, and location of public hearing. Storage Medium: Public hearing transcripts available on microfilm (1968-1981), audio tape (2-year retention period), and hardcopy, as well as on computer media. Program Record Number: CRT SEC 080

Corporate Interventions

Description: Information necessary to register, code and track all interventions and comments filed with the Commission for the purpose of supporting or opposing or commenting on a broadcasting application, or in response to a broadcasting policy public notice. Further, information that may be simultaneously relevant to a number of different hearings and /or notices is retained. Topics: Name, address and telephone number of intervenor (or agent); text of intervention; and related correspondence. Access: Computerized database can be accessed by applicant name, name or number of intervenor or by using the interventions index. Storage Medium: Records are maintained for fifteen years except for books which are retained for two years. Files prior to 1996 are arranged by call sign in alphanumeric order for each broadcasting undertaking. Books with copies of interventions are arranged by date and location of public hearing and applicant name. Access to this information is restricted prior to publication of a Notice of Public Hearing or Call For Comments in the Canada Gazette. After publication, all broadcasting interventions are available for viewing at the CRTC's Public Examination Rooms. Program Record Number: CRT BRO 220

Correspondence – Broadcasting, Telecommunications, General Complaints and Inquiries

Description: Correspondence from the public, licensees and other interested parties on any matter under the Commission's jurisdiction, not including interventions and comments related to applications or policy proceedings. Computerized database registers, tracks and reports on correspondence from receipt to completion. Topics: Complaints and inquiries concerning program content and scheduling, advertising, channel line-ups, cable rates, telephone tariffs and agreements, quality of service, terms of service. Access: Computerized database allows extensive search and reporting capabilities. Program Record Number: CRT EXE 100

Financial Data (Broadcasting)

Description: Information gathered from the Statistics Canada Annual Return for Television and Radio Programming Undertaking(s), including Networks, and for Broadcasting Distribution Undertakings. It is augmented by the CRTC Annual Return Supplement (a survey of rate-regulated cable systems, pay television and specialty services annual returns) for Pay Television and Specialty Programming Services and a CRTC Fixed Asset Supplement for rate-regulated cable systems. The Annual Return and CRTC Supplement are filed by November 30 of each year in compliance with CRTC Regulations. Topics: 1) Financial Returns, of which (i) Cable Annual Returns are available to the public; (ii) Radio Annual Returns are protected information and not available to the public; (iii) Television Annual Returns are protected information and not available to the public; and (iv) most of the data fields on Pay Television and Specialty Programming Service Annual Returns are available to the public; 2) CRTC Fixed Asset Schedules, which provide a historical summary of a cable licensee's fixed assets (for regulated activities only), and are available to the public; 3) Corporate Returns, of which (i) Cable Financial Statements are available to the public; (ii) Radio Financial Statements are protected information and not available to the public; (iii) Television Financial Statements are protected information and not available to the public; and (iv) most of the data fields on Pay Television and Specialty Programming Services Financial Statements are available to the public. Access to protected information is restricted to the CRTC, Heritage Canada and Statistics Canada. Storage Medium: Hardcopy records are retained for twelve years, as opposed to six years for computerized records then destroyed by the CRTC. Program Record Number: CRT BRO 225

Legal Correspondence and Advice

Description: The Legal Directorate's file management, legal opinions and correspondence systems. Information prepared and/or received by the Legal Directorate with respect to broadcasting, telecommunications and general matters of a legal nature. Topics: Correspondence and legal opinions with respect to legal advice given to the Commission. Access is limited internally to Counsel from the Commission's Legal Directorate, and Commission staff upon request and approval of responsible lawyer. Program Record Number: CRT EXE 105

Licensing Application Support

Description: Information bank regarding the processing status of all broadcasting applications submitted to the CRTC, from receipt to disposition. The database also contains information regarding all broadcast decisions related to specific applications. Topics: Broadcasting applications. Storage Medium: Computerized and hardcopy records are arranged as follows: radio by type: AM, FM (campus, community, ethnic, native, religious, etc.); television by type and call sign, specialty programming services, pay television; cable television and all other systems (e.g., multipoint distribution systems [MDS] and video-on-demand [VOD]) in alphanumeric order. Records are maintained for fifteen years, then destroyed by the CRTC. Program Record Number: CRT BRO 230

Mapping Data

Description: Information that permits the computerized (geographical) mapping of service areas of all broadcasting undertakings in Canada. Topics: Service areas, demographics, cable signal carriage, cable rates and number of subscribers. Access to the stand-alone computerized database is limited internally. Contractual agreement with data providers prohibits dissemination of data and analysis. Program Record Number: CRT BRO 235

Ownership System

Description: Information on the ownership and control structure for each Canadian broadcast undertaking (radio, television, cable television, specialty, pay television, direct-to-home, video-on-demand, etc.) and its related holdings in any distribution, production, film, publication, print, multimedia and communications ventures. Current information retained until superseded. Topics: Principal shareholders and holdings, administrators and executive functions including control; details of multiple ownership holdings; and securities. Access: Files arranged by company name including holding companies. Computerized database accessed by owner or corporate name with full cross-indexing. Program Record Number: CRT BRO 025

Canadian Security Intelligence Service

Chapter 38

General Information

Background

The Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) has operated pursuant to the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act, since its inception in 1984.

Responsibilities

CSIS collects, analyzes and retains information and intelligence respecting activities that may on reasonable grounds be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada, and reports to and advises the Government of Canada in relation to these matters.

The Service also plays a role in providing security assessments to departments of the Government of Canada (in accordance with section 13 of the CSIS Act and government security policy) and may provide security assessments to the government of a province or any department thereof, any police force in a province, and to the government of a foreign state or institution thereof or an international organization of states or institutions thereof when a security clearance is a required condition of employment. As well, CSIS may advise any Minister of the Crown on matters relating to the security of Canada, or provide any Minister of the Crown with information relating to security matters or criminal activities that is relevant to the exercise of any power or the performance of any duty or function by that Minister under the Citizenship Act or the Immigration Act. It may also conduct such investigations as are necessary in order to provide security assessments or advice to Ministers. Further, CSIS may, in relation to the defence of Canada or the conduct of international affairs, assist the Minister of National Defence or the Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, within Canada, in the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of any foreign state or group of foreign states or any person other than a Canadian citizen or permanent resident, or corporation.

Legislation

- Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act

Organization

The Director, under the direction of the Minister, has the control and management of CSIS and all matters connected therewith. The Assistant Director, Secretariat has the responsibility to support the activities of the Director and senior management. The Deputy Director Corporate has general responsibility for information management, internal security, management services, technical and scientific services. The Deputy Director Operations has responsibility for foreign liaison, human sources, operational support and the regional offices. The Assistant Director Operations reports to the Deputy Director Operations regarding the counter-terrorism, counter-intelligence, security screening, analysis and production programs. The Deputy Director Human Resources has overall responsibility for human resource programs.

Access Request Records

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals who have submitted a formal request under the Privacy Act or Access to Information Act for access to information originally obtained or prepared by CSIS. Documents include access and correction requests, notations, consultations with other government institutions, third party notices, exemptions, exclusions, disclosures, complaints, documents prepared for Court, and other documents pertaining to the processing of the request. Class: Individuals or authorized agents who have submitted a "Personal Information Request Form" or an "Access to Information Request Form" to a federal or provincial institution. Purpose: To process Personal Information Request Forms and requests under the Access to Information Act. Consistent Uses: Personal information may be used for the management of CSIS, research, audit, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes and to meet its legal reporting requirements. Retention and Disposal Standards: As a requirement of the Privacy Act Regulations, information is retained until all avenues of legal appeal have been exhausted with a minimum retention of two years. PAC Number: 85-001 TBS Registration: 001681 Bank Number: SIS PPU 020

Canadian Security Intelligence Service Investigational Records

Description: This bank contains personal information on identifiable individuals whose activities are suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada; on identifiable individuals who are or were being managed as confidential sources of information; on identifiable individuals no longer investigated by CSIS but whose activities did constitute threats to the security of Canada and which still meet the collection criteria stipulated in section 12 of the CSIS Act, and on identifiable individuals the investigation of whom relate to the conduct of international affairs, the defence of Canada or any state allied or associated with Canada or the detection, prevention or suppression of subversive or hostile activities. Exempt Bank Status: This bank has been designated as an exempt bank by Order-in-Council No.14 (CSIS) dated 26 November 1992. Class of Individuals: Individuals suspected of espionage or sabotage against Canada or the interests of Canada; individuals involved in foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that are clandestine or deceptive or involve a threat to any person; individuals involved in activities within or related to Canada directed toward the use of serious acts of violence to achieve a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; or individuals whose activities are directed toward the unlawful covert undermining, or the overthrow by violence, of the constitutionally established government system in Canada; or any other activities described in the definition of "threats to the security of Canada" at section 2 of the CSIS Act; individuals identified relating to a national security concern, the defence of Canada or the conduct of the international affairs of Canada; and individuals who are confidential sources of information.

Purpose: Collected under section 12 of the CSIS Act with respect to threats to the security of Canada; under section 15 concerning the collection of information for the purpose of providing advice pursuant to section 14; and under section 16 concerning the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of foreign states and certain persons.

Consistent Uses: CSIS may only disclose information it obtains if it does so in accordance with the controls of subsection 19(2) of the CSIS Act. First, it may disclose information for the purposes of the performance of its duties and functions under the CSIS Act or the administration or enforcement of that Act, or as required by any other law. The Service may thus disclose personal information to the Government of Canada, for example, as part of its duty to report, and give advice, thereto in relation to activities suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada. Secondly, where the information in its possession may be used in the investigation or prosecution of an alleged contravention of the law, or where it relates to the conduct of Canada's international affairs or to the defence of Canada, then it may be disclosed to the appropriate police officials and Attorney General, to the Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Trade and to the Minister of National Defence, respectively. Thirdly, information may be disclosed where, in the opinion of the Minister, disclosure to any Minister of the Crown or person in the Public Service of Canada is essential in the public interest and that interest clearly outweighs any invasion of privacy that could result from the disclosure. Pursuant to section 13 and 14 of the CSIS Act, CSIS may also disclose information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment, or in providing advice under the Citizenship Act or Immigration Act. Personal information may also be disclosed to the Inspector General and the Security Intelligence Review Committee. Information in this bank may also be used for audit, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank may be retained from two years to twenty years after the last action, subject to the retention and disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 82-013 TBS Registration: 002872 Bank Number: SIS PPU 045

Canadian Security Intelligence Service Records

Description: This bank consists of information on individuals who came to the attention of the former RCMP Security Service while carrying out its responsibilities pertaining to informing the government of national security concerns. This bank may also contain information on individuals who incidentally came to the attention of CSIS as a result of carrying out its mandate under section 12 and/or section 16 of the CSIS Act. This bank may contain information on individuals mentioned in reports related to probable unauthorized disclosure of, or unauthorized access to, classified information or assets. Class: Defectors, human sources or individuals, the nature of whose actions or activities caught the attention of CSIS or of its predecessor, the former RCMP Security Service; individuals suspected of espionage or sabotage against Canada or the interests of Canada; individuals involved in foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that were clandestine or deceptive or involved a threat to any person; individuals involved in activities within Canada that were directed toward the use of serious acts of violence to achieve a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; or individuals whose activities that were directed toward the unlawful covert undermining, or the overthrow by violence, of the constitutionally established government system in Canada; individuals, other than Canadians or permanent residents, whose capabilities, intentions or activities regarding the defence of Canada or the conduct of international affairs are inimical to the interests of Canada. Purpose: Collected or obtained by CSIS or the former RCMP Security Service and retained by CSIS under section 12 concerning threats to the security of Canada or under sections 15 or 16 concerning the collection of information relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of foreign states and certain persons. Consistent Uses: CSIS may only disclose information if it does so in accordance with the controls of subsection 19(2) of the CSIS Act. First, it may disclose information for the purposes of the performance of its duties and functions under the CSIS Act or the administration or enforcement of that Act, or as required by any other law. The Service may thus disclose personal information to the Government of Canada, for example, as part of its duty to report and give advice to the government regarding activities suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada. Secondly, where the information in the Service's possession may be used in the investigation or prosecution of an alleged contravention of the law, or where it relates to the conduct of Canada's international affairs or to the defence of Canada, then the information may be disclosed to the appropriate police officials and to the Attorney General, the Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, and the Minister of National Defence, respectively. Thirdly, information may be disclosed where, in the opinion of the Minister, disclosure to any Minister of the Crown or person in the Public Service of Canada is essential to the public interest, and that interest clearly outweighs any invasion of privacy that could result from the disclosure. Pursuant to sections 13 and 14 of the CSIS Act, CSIS may also disclose information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment, or in providing advice under the Citizenship Act or the Immigration Act. Information in this bank may also be used to assist foreign and domestic agencies, on request, through agreements established under section 17 of the CSIS Act. (See Classes of Personal Information at the end of this Chapter) Personal information may also be disclosed to the Inspector General and to the Security Intelligence Review Committee. This bank may be used as a source of information or for linking with other information sources for the purposes of fulfilling CSIS's legislated mandate. This information may also be used for audit, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank is under continuous review and files are disposed of in accordance with the retention and disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 82-013 TBS Registration: 000837 Bank Number: SIS PPU 015

Complaints Against CSIS or Its Employees

Description: This bank contains complaints communicated to CSIS, the Security Intelligence Review Committee (SIRC) or the Office of the Solicitor General of Canada against CSIS or its employees, and any record generated to resolve such complaints that is under CSIS control. In addition to the requirements indicated on the Personal Information Request form, individuals must provide the location where the complaint was reported and the nature of the complaint to retrieve the information of interest for processing. Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in complaints against CSIS or its employees. Purpose: To determine the validity of complaints and to record any corrective measures taken, including recommendations for disciplinary or misconduct proceedings. Consistent Uses: Used in disciplinary and misconduct processes under the CSIS Act. The SIRC or the Inspector General may also use information in this bank to conduct investigations of CSIS. Information in this bank may also be used for the management of CSIS, research, audit, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: A minimum of two years after the last documentation on the individual complaint file. However, letters of complaint may be destroyed after one year. TBS Registration: 002762 Bank Number: SIS PPU 035

CSIS Candidates

Description: This personal information bank contains recruitment documents or applications for employment with CSIS and any related correspondence. This bank may also contain personnel or staffing interviews, polygraph tests, psychological tests, test results, analysts' reports and security assessment advice. Please note that disclosure of psychological and polygraph tests are achieved through your personal examination of the test(s) in the presence of a designated practitioner. Instructions on how to contact the designated practitioner will be issued during the access request process, unless you specify that you do not want access to one or either of the tests. Class of Individuals: Potential CSIS candidates. Purpose: To meet the administrative and/or operational needs of CSIS. Consistent Uses: Information may be transferred to an employee bank if the individual is offered and accepts employment. The candidate's skills may be assessed and, if deemed suitable, may be invited to serve in a capacity other than the position or level of initial interest. Some information in this bank may be used to verify attempts to infiltrate CSIS. This information may also be used for research, audit, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of two years. However, unsolicited applications are destroyed after six months. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 000839 Bank Number: SIS PPU 025

Post Contract Evaluation

technical equipment; general property management. This bank contains names, addresses, telephone numbers, supplier capabilities, and post contract evaluations that include quality of goods and services, timeliness, management, security and safety in contract performance. Class of Individuals: Suppliers of goods and services. Purpose: To determine whether or not to consider suppliers of goods and services for a potential contract. Consistent Uses: This information is used to evaluate supplier's contract performance for the purpose of determining whether or not to consider certain suppliers for the provision of goods and/or services. Information in this bank may also be used as a source of information in respect to the CSIS 'Self Protection Activity' bank or the 'Security and Integrity of Government Property, Personnel and Assets' bank. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records in this bank are retained for a period of six years, and then disposed of in accordance with the schedule approved by the National Archivist. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 004036 Bank Number: SIS PPU 060

Security and Integrity of Government Property, Personnel and Assets

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals in contact with CSIS whose actions have raised concern about the security and integrity of government property, personnel or assets. This bank may contain letters, notes, facsimile copies, contact reports and related correspondence, and access control data or examination results of telephone use that has been used in a decision-making process. Class of Individuals: Individuals of concern regarding the security and integrity of government property, personnel or assets and CSIS employees who were the object of such actions. Purpose: This information was compiled as an aid to internal security investigations of alleged breaches of security or in relation to the safety and integrity of government property, personnel and assets. Consistent Uses: Information may be disclosed to the accredited police agency having local jurisdiction of an incident. Information in this bank may be matched with information from other CSIS personal information banks for the purpose of preserving the security of Canada or CSIS internal security. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records in this bank are retained for a period of five years, ten years for access control data, and then disposed of in accordance with the schedule approved by the National Archivist. TBS Registration: 003632 Bank Number: SIS PPU 055

Security Assessments/Advice

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals who are or have been the subject of a request for a security assessment for pre-employment/employment with federal government departments and the private sector working under federal government contracts, when a security clearance is a required condition of employment. This includes information obtained during internal quality control investigations.

Similar records are held in respect to security assessments required by a provincial government, a foreign state, or an international organization of states. This bank may also contain criminal records, credit bureau results, security analyses, security assessments and investigative reports, related correspondence and a notation of the level of security clearance granted. In addition, this bank may hold information on persons subject to security assessment or advice relative to the Citizenship Act or Immigration Act. Class of Individuals: Persons for whom CSIS was asked to provide a security assessment or advice for pre-employment/employment, including contract and company personnel working under federal government contracts; CSIS and CF/DND employees; individuals requiring access to internationally protected persons, VIPs and special events; the Parliamentary Precinct and the restricted areas of airports; individuals who would seek admittance or to remain lawfully in Canada; and individuals seeking citizenship. By virtue of the screening process, personal information may be held on individuals who are not themselves the subject of the security assessment. Purpose: Collected under section 15 of the CSIS Act to provide security assessments pursuant to section 13 or advice pursuant to section 14 of the Act. Consistent Uses: Pursuant to sections 19(2), 13 and 14 of the CSIS Act, CSIS may disclose information or may match information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment or in providing advice pertinent to the Citizenship Act or Immigration Act or where the information relates to the conduct of the international affairs of Canada, to the Secretary of State for External Affairs, or where the information is relevant to the defence of Canada, to the Minister of National Defence. It may also be used for data matching, or for the purposes of conducting lawful investigations in matters which may on reasonable grounds, be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada and in other lawful investigations. In addition, information may be provided to the Inspector General and the Security Intelligence Review Committee, the Federal Court and the Supreme Court. This information may also be used for research, audit, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank may be retained from two years to twelve years from the last updating, and then disposed of subject to the Retention and Disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 82-013 TBS Registration: 000835 Bank Number: SIS PPU 005

Self Protection Activity

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals in contact with CSIS with a view of providing services directly or through contract to CSIS. The information may include the individual's name, any aliases and other personal identifiers. Under subsection 16(2) of the Privacy Act, CSIS consistently responds to all applicants in a manner that neither confirms nor denies the existence of personal information in this bank, regardless of whether or not personal information about the applicant exists in this bank. Class of Individuals: Individuals in contact with the Service. Purpose: The purposes for which the information in this bank was recorded is in support of CSIS's counter intelligence program. The information will allow CSIS to better protect itself from infiltration by hostile foreign services and others whose interests are inimical to the interests of Canada. Consistent Uses: Information in this bank may be used in support of CSIS's counter intelligence program. Information in this bank may also be used for audit purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank will be retained for a minimum of ten years, and destroyed when considered to be of no further value. Related to: SIS DDS 010 TBS Registration: 003297 Bank Number: SIS PPU 050

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of carrying out the daily investigative activities and functions of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, personal information may be accumulated such as in the security assessments and crisis management programs which are not described in the specific personal information banks. This information is not used for an administrative purpose affecting an individual, and can include names, addresses and other identifying data in a record. Such information is only retrievable if full specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. The retention period for this form of information is in accordance with the retention and disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist.

Unsolicited opinions or requests for information are received by the Service. This information is not used for an administrative purpose, other than to respond in some instances to the originator. This correspondence is stored in a file associated with the subject matter, and is disposed of in a manner authorized by the National Archivist.

Some interview clips on video cassettes purchased from the Public Service Commission are being used to help English and French speaking CSIS employees to prepare for oral interaction tests conducted as an administrative measure in support of the CSIS official languages program. The personal information in the cassettes is not being used for an administrative purpose respecting any of the individuals presented in the videos.

Under the National Archives Act, index cards, registers and automated ledgers and indices are required to be created on all files opened by the Service since its inception. They contain general information such as the file numbers, titles, file creation and disposition dates. These personal information holdings serve as an information management tool that is created and used to account for the opening and disposition of each file. The index cards and registers are retained for specified periods after the disposition of the information holdings itself. An individual wishing access to the general information about themselves that may be contained in the index cards and registers is required to provide the file number or sufficiently specific information as to render it reasonably retrievable.

Canadian Space Agency

Chapter 39

Background

The Act of Parliament establishing the Canadian Space Agency was proclaimed into force on December 14, 1990. The Canadian Space Agency was created from divisions of the former Ministry of State for Science and Technology (MOSST), the National Research Council of Canada (NRC), the Department of Communications (DOC) and Energy Mines and Resources (EMR).

Responsibilities

The Canadian Space Agency is committed to leading the development and application of space knowledge for the benefit of Canadians and humanity.

To achieve this, the Canadian Space Agency will promote an environment where all levels of the organization will:

- pursue excellence collectively;
- advocate a client-oriented attitude;
- support employee-oriented practices and open communications;
- commit to both empowerment and accountability;
- pledge to cooperate and to work with partners to our mutual benefit.

Legislation

- The Canadian Space Agency Act

Organization

◆ Canadian Astronaut Office

Support the operational, scientific and technical planning and implementation of Human Space Flight; prospect, identify and negotiate flight opportunities; provide training and support to Canadian astronauts in preparation for flight assignment; raise awareness of Space Program Activities and their social and economic benefits for Canada and encourage Canadian Youth to pursue careers in science and technology.

◆ Space Operations

Provide an environmental test facility capable of meeting current and emerging needs of Canada's space community and the nation's space related objectives and operate the space and ground segments of the space-related assets of the CSA.

◆ Space Science

The mandate of this Branch is to advance the knowledge of space through science and to ensure that the space science and technology provide social and economic benefits to Canada.

◆ Space Systems

The Space Systems Branch conducts research and development in four key technology areas: spacecraft systems analysis, RF technology, digital technology and space systems applications.

◆ Space Technologies

The Space Technologies Branch is the functional centre for technical expertise within the Agency. It ensures the development of space technologies to enhance Canadian industrial competitiveness and to support Canadian space programs.

Corporate Functions

◆ Administration

Manage the Agency's facilities and telecommunications, ensure the physical security of the Agency's facilities and assets, manage the Agency's procurement and contract management activities, manage and maintain the Agency's corporate memory physical and electronic holdings database and manage the information technology infrastructure for the Agency.

◆ Human Resources

Guide and support the overall management of the Human Resources required to implement the mission of the CSA.

◆ Legal Services

Provide CSA with legal expertise on all aspects of its operations.

Executive Functions

◆ Audit, Evaluation and Review

Assist Senior Management to improve the performance of, and enhance accountability for, the Agency's mission and objectives.

◆ Communications

- Support the entire CSA's communications towards the objectives of the CSA, the Government of Canada and the responsible Minister through:
- Supporting the CSA's executive management in communications decision-making;
- Developing and implementing operational and strategic communications plans at the corporate and program levels;

- Coordinating with the Minister of Industry's office and Central Agencies;
- Developing and implementing policies and procedures; and
- Providing services to the major activity sectors of the CSA as close to the clients as possible.

◆ Corporate Management

Conduct financial planning and analysis, budget preparation, financial control, accounting & reporting, develop and manage financial policies, systems, procedures and controls, act as official Spokesperson with Treasury board, manage the Business Planning cycle, provide regular, integrated comprehensive status on Agency performance against Business Plans and provide Executive Secretariat services (PCO type).

◆ Policy and Planning

Develop, coordinate and report on Programs, Policies, strategies and Plans of the Canadian Space Program and CSA, coordinate portfolio-related activities, provide strategic program-level interface and relationship with stakeholders (international, national, provincial, industrial and academia), lead international relations, cooperation and marketing and assure CSA active presence in Ottawa.

Executive Office

◆ Chief Scientist/Engineer and Transition Team Head

As Chief Scientist/Engineer, provide an independent source of expertise to analyze, review and advise the President on the technical and scientific aspects of CSA's programs and projects.

As Head Transition Team, define and manage the organizational transition of the CSA, including the process of transition, the review of functions, the organizational structure and the implementation of the new organization design.

◆ Chief Systems Engineer

Provide an independent source of expertise to analyze, review and advise the President on all systems engineering aspects of CSA's programs and projects.

◆ LTSP III

Develop the long-term vision for the Canadian Space Program and specific project proposals for LTSP III and negotiate common systems operating cost offsets with NASA.

◆ President's Office

The mandate of the President's Office is to ensure that the Agency is effective in meeting the Government's objectives for the Canadian Space Program, particularly in the use of space technology to meet Canadian needs and the development of an internationally competitive space industry; and that the Programs of the Agency are delivered efficiently.

Information Holdings

Canadian Astronaut Office

Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and technical material related to IML-1 Mission, CANEX-2 flight and other Canadian Astronaut Office microgravity projects, international and national agreements and all technical research and development within the program.

Topics: Policy and agreements, general correspondence, finance, shuttle operational flights, public relations and speaking engagements, equipment, training, technical definitions, engineering and scientific studies and evaluations and scientific working groups. Program Record Number: SPA OPE 020

Space Science Program

Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and reports related to project planning, program forecasts, the management of the Space Science and User Development Programs, international and national agreements and all technical research and development within individual projects. Topics: Policy; general correspondence enquiries; administration and operation of the Division; visits; lectures; papers and talks; publicity; financial records; agreements and memoranda of understanding; co-operation and liaison with associations, international organizations and countries; public relations and speaking engagements; licences and permits; security; seminars; committees; finance, shuttle operational flights, equipment, training, technical definitions; engineering studies; satellite projects; space science program Development and planning group; Canadian Auroral Network for the Observation of Plasmas in the Upper Atmosphere and Space (CANOPUS) Data Analysis Network; Suprathermal Ion Mass Spectrometer (SMS); Viking Ultra Violet Imager; Waves in Space Plasmas (WISP); Wind Imaging Interferometer (WINDII); Ultra Violet Auroral Imager (UVAI); FREJA Cold Plasma Analyser (CPA); RADIOASTRON Radio Astronomy Program; Far Ultra Violet Spectroscopic Explorer; Measurement of Pollution in the Troposphere (MOPITT); General Excitation Mechanisms in Nightglow (GEMINI); Thermal Plasma Analyser (TPA); Observation of Electricfield Distribution in the Ionospheric Plasma: a Unique Strategy (OEDIPUS); Optical Spectrograph and Infrared Imaging System (OSIRIS) for the ODIN satellite; Biocosmos; Balloon Anisotropy Measurement (BAM); Cosmic Ray Balloon Experiment (CRAYBEX); International Microgravity Laboratories (IML) I and II; Aquatic Research Facility (ARF); Torso Rotation Experiment (TRE); Neurolab/

(Visuo-Motor Coordination Facility) (VCF); Cosmic Background Radiation; Microgravity processes in Fluid Dynamics, Chemistry, Crystal Growth, Metals and Alloys, Glasses and Ceramics, Biotechnology and Combustion; Radiation Biology; Human Physiology; Canadian Float Zone Furnace (CFZF); Canadian Advanced Protein Crystallisation Apparatus (CAPCA); Large Motion Isolation Mount (LMIM); Spacebound microgravity conferences; Canadian Space Agency Rocket (CSAR) Program; Parabolic Aircraft (T-33, Falcon & KC-135); Protein Crystallisation. Program Record Number: SPA APP 065

Space Technologies

Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and reports related to project planning, program forecasts, the management of Space Technology, international and national agreements and all technical research and development within individual projects. The holdings of the branch office include administration, personnel and finance for the Branch. There are also general files on committees, international cooperation and agreements, contracts, inter-departmental coordination and ESA programs. Program Record Number: SPA APP 070

◆ Space Operations

David Florida Laboratory – Administration

Description: Correspondence; reports and memoranda pertaining to policies, contracts, test programs, program forecasts, and other administrative matters as they pertain to the overall operation of the laboratory. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; visits/tours; facility use and loan agreements; co-operation and liaison with industry, federal departments, universities, associations, international organizations, and countries; technical support; resource documents; conferences and seminars; buildings and properties; equipment and supplies; and facility documents. Program Record Number: SPA APP 050

David Florida Laboratory – Operations

Description: Correspondence and documents on the operation of the individual test facilities (i.e. thermal vacuum, vibration, radio frequency). Topics: Environmental testing/space simulation; thermal vacuum (infrared testing, outgassing studies, helium leak detection); (structural vibration, modal analysis, shock testing, static load, seismic block); radio frequency (passive intermodulation measurements, electromagnetic interference/compatibility, radar cross section measurements, spherical near field measurements); mass properties measurements (vertical and horizontal axis measurement systems); integration facilities (high bays, class 100,000 clean rooms); quality assurance; Data acquisition/data processing systems; enquiries and results of various subsystem and spacecraft level testing. Program Record Number: SPA APP 055

RADARSAT 1

Description: Information on the management of Canadian participation in the RADARSAT Program; the provision of international and national agreements and all technical research and development within the RADARSAT Program. Topics: Configuration management, equipment – RADARSAT Studies, ground systems, simulation facility, tests and integration, remote sensor development, solar arrays – technology, working groups, panel meetings and document reviews, regional development and technology exploitation.

Program Record Number: SPA OPE 025

◆ Space Systems

Space Station Program Office

Description: Information on the management of Canadian participation in the Space Station Program; the provision of the Mobile Servicing System, including international and national agreements, all technical research and development within the Space Station Program, technology transfer agreements, licences and patents. Topics: Configuration management, space robotics, Space Station studies, space assembly and maintenance systems, simulation, ground control facilities, NASA working groups, panel meetings and document reviews. Program Record Number: SPA OPE 030

◆ Space Technologies

Spacecraft Engineering

Description: Correspondence, memoranda, and working papers: general directorate correspondence; DOC – Agency; EMR – Agency MOUs and correspondence. Topics: Current research activities include: dependable processing systems, knowledge based systems, control of large space structures, robot controls, sensor technology, materials & structures, thermal control technology, composite materials, dynamics/test of space structures, robot dynamics, and in-orbit characterization of SSRMS. Program Record Number: SPA APP 060

Spacecraft payloads

Description: Correspondence, memoranda, working papers and reports related to projects. Topics: General directorate correspondence; CRC, NRC and NSERC-Agency MOUs correspondence concerning current research activities: far infrared laser, bolometric detectors, detector passive cooling techniques, laser range finder, optical data processing techniques, optical fibre system elements, optical sensors for remote sensing, selective optical coatings, 3D-vision systems, object recognition systems, spacecraft payloads systems group, RF technology group, digital technology group, high-temperature superconductive multiplexer, power transistor development, solid-state power amplifier (X-band), digital modular (X-band), passive intermodulation (PIM), radiation damage to gallium arsenide, space qualification of GaAs devices, satellite system modelling, remote sensing microwave instruments, dual-polarization antenna, smallsat cost reductions. Program Record Number: SPA APP 080

Corporate Functions

Human Resources

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries. Topics: Organization charts, job descriptions, position classifications, staffing, planning, training, development, equity, redeployment, competition posters. Program Record Number: SPA COR 215

Contracts Administration

Description: The files contain general correspondence, proposals and evaluations, contracts and purchase orders with industry. Topics: Correspondence, contracts for professional services and purchase orders for materials, equipments and supplies. Program Record Number: SPA COR 200

EDP Operations

Description: Information on the operation of the Division. Topics: Administration and Scientists requirements; strategies, standards, policies, computer hardware/software, data communication, office automation, database management, EDP training, computer maintenance, technical support, computer needs, system development, internal and external EDP Professional consultants, future planning. Program Record Number: SPA COR 220

Facilities Management and Telecommunications

Description: In accordance with Treasury Board and CSA policies, provide facilities and telecommunications service to all CSA employees. Topics: Processing requests regarding office disposition services, telephone system services, vehicle fleet management, parking management and forms management. Program Record Number: SPA COR 210

Inventory Control, Customs and Excises

Description: Coordination and steering of programs for Life Cycle Material Management of assets throughout the Agency. Topics: Statistics on Agency assets, movement of material on international level, recording and documenting capital acquisitions through crown research projects and grants establishing up to date information on equipment used throughout the Agency. Program Record Number: SPA COR 225

Records Management

Description: Information on the planning, development and implementation of records and of information systems and programs including related services. Topics: Records classification scheme, records retention schedules, equipment relating to records, retrieval and reference services, mail and messenger services, review and analysis of forms. Program Record Number: SPA COR 240

Security

Description: The security Division is responsible for administering the Canadian Government Security Policy for the various programs of the Canadian Space Agency. It has responsibility to develop policies and procedures in the areas of access control, physical security, security of personnel, security of material, security of information technology, security of informatics and communications security. Topics: Data files are kept on the following topics; PROTECTED personnel information in support of the security clearance program, general investigation reports and general correspondence documents.

Program Record Number: SPA COR 235

♦ Executive Functions

Audit, Evaluation and review

Description: Correspondence, reports, studies, memoranda. Topics: Internal audit, evaluation studies, review matters, performance measures. Program Record Number: SPA COR 241

Communications

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from individuals and organizations. Topics: General correspondence; Annual Reports; Industry directories; mailing lists; communications strategies; publications; A/V documents; speeches; exhibitions. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 100

♦ Policy and Planning

Economic Studies

Description: Studies, reports, analysis. Topics: Potential economic spin-offs of major space-related projects. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 105

European Space Agency

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from industries relevant to Canada's membership in the European Space Agency. Topics: General correspondence, Statutes, Annual reports, Council deliberations; ESRIN; financial data, reports of committees, progress reports on projects, contracts to Canadian firms, etc. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 110

Federal/Provincial Relations

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from provinces. Topics: General correspondence, Annual Reports of Provincial Organizations, documents on provincial space activities and programs; Feasibility studies. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 115

Industrial Development

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from industries and scientific organizations pertaining to economic and financial aspects of private organizations. Topics: General correspondence; Annual reports; Industry directories; regional conferences. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 120

International Relations

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from industries and foreign organizations relevant to Canada's space cooperation activities with foreign countries and organizations. Topics: Foreign Agencies Annual reports, documents on foreign space activities and programs; NASA; NASDA; [etc]; Cooperation arrangements and MOUs; minutes of steering committees, Panels, working and ad hoc groups meetings. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 125

International Space University

Description: Correspondence, reports, course catalogues, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from individuals, relevant to Canada's contribution to the International Space University activities. Topics: General correspondence, Annual reports, Canada's contributions, Canadian ISU foundation; ISU permanent campus; ISU summer sessions. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 130

Ottawa Office

Description: The files contain ministerial and parliamentary relations information. Topics: Ministerial memoranda, memoranda to Cabinet, Treasury Board Submissions, Written and Oral Anticipated Questions, Correspondence. Program Record Number: SPA COR 205

Regional Distribution

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, and data on the regional distribution of Canadian Space Program expenditures. Topics: General correspondence, regional distribution of space and space-related contracts and expenditures; industry team; Government team; SPAR MOU; data base. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 145

Space Agency Forum

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from individuals, national and international organizations relevant to the Space Agency Forum activities. Topics: General correspondence, reports of the Space Agency Forum, Hand-out for distribution; preparation and organization of meetings, participation in working groups. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 135

♦ Executive Office

Chief Scientist/Engineer & Transition Team Head

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda
Topics: Information relating to technical and scientific activities proposed and on the organizational transition of the CSA. Program Record Number: SPA TTT 001

Chief, Systems Engineer

Description: Memoranda, reports, correspondence.
Topics: Information regarding systems engineering aspects of CSA's programs and projects and RADARSAT II. Program Record Number: SPA CSE 001

LTSP III Task Force

Description: Correspondence, feasibility and market studies, program proposals, project documentation.
Topics: information relating to new Canadian space activities/programs and applications. Program Record Number: SPA LTSP 001

President's Office

Description: Working papers, memoranda, correspondence and reports on the administration and operation of the Agency, Information on visits, lectures, gifts, interviews, correspondence with the Minister, agenda, minutes and documents pertaining to executive committee and managers' meetings. Topics: General Administration, speeches, audits. Program Record Number: SPA PRE 005

Personal Information Banks

♦ Space Science

Space Science

Description: This bank contains information on Committee Membership, information regarding names, affiliations, and primary disciplines of all individuals nominated for service on Advisory Committee. Class of Individuals: Employees of the Institution and members of its Advisory Committee. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain general information on individuals who are not employed by the institution but who serve on its Advisory Committee. Retention and Disposal Standards: 5 years TBS Registration: 003060 Bank Number: SPA PPU 010

♦ Administration

Access to Information and Privacy Requests

Description: This bank contains requests submitted by individuals seeking access to information under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act; replies to such requests; and information relating to their processing. Class of Individuals: Individuals submitting requests for access to information under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Purpose: The information is used to process formal access requests in accordance with the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Consistent Uses: This bank is also used to report to Treasury Board and to Parliament on access requests received under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act; to verify the identity of requesters; and for purposes of consultations with other government institutions. Retention and Disposal Standards: 2 years after request is finalized. TBS Registration: 003061 Bank Number: CSA PPU 020

Contracts between CSA and individuals

Description: The files contain correspondence, proposals, contracts, financial transactions and interim and final reports. Class of Individuals: Members of the general public who submit proposals for work to be performed for the Canadian Space Agency. Purpose:

To negotiate and award contracts, to provide information on payments of contracts and to administer contracts.

Retention and Disposal Standards: 6 years TBS Registration: 003062 Bank Number: SPA PPU 015

Reliability/Security Investigation File

Description: This bank contains personal data, such as criminal records, investigative report, credit check reports, related correspondence, notations of the level of security clearance and reliability check granted, and Security Clearance Review Board documentation. Class of Individuals: Members of the general public and some members of other government departments who have applied for a pre-employment/ employment security clearance or reliability check. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain investigative documentation necessary to assess an individual's loyalty and reliability to Canada from a departmental security clearance viewpoint in order to grant access to classified material and to assess reliability as a condition of employment and for permitting access to designated information or valuable assets. Consistent Uses: The information in this bank may be used in matters which, on reasonable grounds, may be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada or the Canadian Space Agency; information may also be used in other lawful investigations. Retention and Disposal Standards: 5 years TBS Registration: 003064 Bank Number: SPA PPU 030

♦ Human Resources

Employment Applications

Description: This bank contains information on candidates available for employment at the Canadian Space Agency when vacancies arise. Records contain letters, completed application forms, applicant resume comments of interviewers, and letter of reference. Class of Individuals: Members of the general public who apply for employment at the Canadian Space Agency. Purpose: To select candidates for vacancies at the Canadian Space Agency. Retention and Disposal Standards: 2 years if considered, 6 months if not considered. TBS Registration: 003063 Bank Number: SPA PPU 025

♦ Policy and Planning

Stear Program

Description: The records in this bank are used to support proposals for industrial R&D contracts (commercial confidential) to cover the costs of salaries and other costs for company and university research staff engaged in approved projects. Class of Individuals: Directly-related employees of companies that submit bids for R&D contracts through this program. Purpose: To confirm the value of the R&D contract supported if the proposal is accepted. Retention and Disposal Standards: 6 years TBS Registration: 003059 Bank Number: SPA PPU 005

Canadian Transportation Agency

Chapter 40

General Information

Background

The Canadian Transportation Agency (Agency) is a quasi-judicial tribunal which replaced the National Transportation Agency as a result of the proclamation of the Canada Transportation Act on July 1, 1996.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Agency is that of an economic regulator and decision-maker with respect to transportation services under federal jurisdiction. Its responsibilities include the issuance of licences to air carriers and certificates of fitness to railways, dispute resolution powers over various air, rail and marine transportation rate and service matters, and the determination of railway compliance with the annual railway revenue cap for western grain movement. The Agency continues to have powers to remove undue obstacles to the mobility of travellers with disabilities in the federally-regulated transportation network. On July 5, 2000 the Agency was conveyed expanded responsibilities over air transportation and the position of Air Travel Complaints Commissioner was created.

Legislation

- Aeronautics Act
- Canada Marine Act
- Canada Transportation Act
- Civil Air Navigation Services Commercialization Act
- Coasting Trade Act
- Energy Supplies Emergency Act
- Excise Tax Act
- Expropriation Act
- National Energy Board Act
- Pilotage Act
- Railway Relocation and Crossing Act
- Railway Safety Act
- Shipping Conferences Exemption Act, 1987

Organization

The Agency consists of up to seven full-time members and up to three temporary members. One member is designated as Chairperson, another is designated as Vice-Chairperson, and one temporary member is designated as the Air Travel Complaints Commissioner.

The Agency comprises two program branches: Rail and Marine Transportation, and Air and Accessible Transportation; two support branches, Corporate Management, and Legal Services and Secretariat; and the Communications Directorate.

♦ Air and Accessible Transportation Branch

The Branch protects the interests of consumers and carriers by ensuring that air carriers operating to, from and within Canada meet certain minimum economic requirements. To this end, it administers an air carrier licensing and international charter permit system, international air agreements and air tariffs. The Branch reviews new and revised Nav Canada user charges for air navigation services on appeal, and is responsible for ensuring that undue obstacles to the mobility of persons with disabilities are removed from federally regulated transportation services and facilities. The Branch is also responsible for the administration of an air travel consumer complaint handling process and monitors and investigates monopoly pricing in Canada. Regional Field Investigators, responsible for the enforcement of Agency regulations and license conditions, are located in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and Moncton.

♦ Communications Directorate

The Directorate is accountable to the Chairman for the planning and management of communications programs, initiatives and policies. The Directorate works with the branches to develop the Communications strategies, to create public awareness and educational programs. It educates the public on the mandate and responsibilities of the Agency and it answers questions from the media on programs administered by the Agency, as well as on decisions and orders. It is also responsible for producing all Agency publications and its World Wide Web Site where most decisions, orders and publications are also available to the public.

♦ Corporate Management Branch

The Branch is responsible for the design and operation of the Agency's management processes and related information systems; it also provides comprehensive services in support of Agency programs in the areas of informatics, records management, human resources, library, finance, planning, administration and security. It is responsible for developing and implementing human resources, finance, administration, information technology and official languages policies, systems and programs that will assist the Agency. It also ensures that the management of human resources and financial matters reflects policies established by the Central Agencies.

◆ Legal Services and Secretariat Branch

Legal Services is responsible for providing legal advice to Agency members and staff. It acts as the Agency's legal representative at meetings, conferences, public hearings, inquiries, and, when required, at judicial proceedings in the Federal and Supreme Courts. Its other responsibilities include drafting and processing regulations in accordance with government policy. The Secretariat is responsible for recording Agency decisions and orders; and for writing, editing, reviewing, producing and issuing decisions, orders, reports and notices. It plans Agency meetings, administers public hearings and inquiries, coordinates all translation services and produces the quarterly ministerial briefing notes. It also maintains parliamentary liaison, and coordinates ministerial and executive correspondence.

◆ Rail and Marine Branch

The Branch is responsible for the Agency's legislative obligations as they affect the rail and marine modes pursuant to the Canada Transportation Act, the Railway Safety Act, the Coasting Trade Act, the Shipping Conferences Exemption Act -1987, the Pilotage Act, the Canada Marine Act and other Acts and Regulations. This includes the administration of legislative provisions governing the resolution of disputes concerning railway service, rates, and the transfer and discontinuance of rail lines; the determination of railway revenue caps and related compliance for the rail transportation of western grain; the establishment of regulated railway interswitching rates and regulations; railway infrastructure matters concerning federal railway licensing, railway construction approvals, railway crossing and operational disputes; various railway costing and financial analysis activities; the inspection of railway accounting and operating statistics systems; and, on the Marine side, determinations concerning the suitability of Canadian registered vessels versus foreign vessels for Canadian operations; determinations concerning the economic soundness of marine pilotage rates; and the resolution of disputes concerning whether rates set by Port Authorities, the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation and Bridge Corporations are unjustly discriminatory. The Branch also undertakes special projects and review processes at the request of the Minister of Transport.

carriage; accessibility standards; aircraft accessibility data; public awareness and education programs; procedural and attitudinal training; monitoring programs; and various studies, surveys and projects. Program Record Number: CTA AIR 061

Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Program

Description: Information relating to the administration of freight subsidy programs applicable to the Atlantic Region. Note that since July 1, 1996, the Agency has no further responsibility for the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Program, and these program records will be disposed of in accordance with their Retention and Disposal Standards. Topics: Subsidy claims, including waybills and other supporting documentation; desk and field audits; and payments pursuant to the Maritime Freight Rates Act and the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act and Regulations. Program Record Number: CTA MAR 183

Audits

Description: Information relating to audits and analyses for the determination of rates, railway costs, rail freight movements and rail networks. Topics: Railway annual reports; railway audit manuals; comprehensive system review; special costing; schedule "A" directives; specific costs; and western grain railway revenue cap verification. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 156

Industry Monitoring and Analysis

Description: Information relating to the comprehensive coverage of changes in structure, service levels, prices and competition in all modes of the transportation industry under federal jurisdiction, and the assessment of related effects on transportation users. Note that since July 1, 1996 the Agency has no responsibility for Industry Monitoring and Analysis and these program records will be disposed of in accordance with their Retention and Disposal Standards. Topics: Annual reviews of transportation in Canada including supporting surveys and data bases, for example: specific air, marine and motor vehicle surveys; commercial travelers, freight forwarders, and port terminal operators surveys; shippers surveys covering all modes of transportation; scheduled air services data; air tariff information; liner trade data; and rail traffic information. Program Record Number: CTA IMA 111

Licensing, Charters and Agreements

Description: Information relating to the administration of the licensing system for Canadian and foreign air carriers, international air agreements, commercial agreements between airlines and appeals to changes to Nav Canada charges for air navigation services. Topics: Applications for licenses or modifications to licenses; applications for international charter flight permits; Canadian ownership; financial evaluation; notices, announcements and appeals of changes to Nav Canada charges; terms and conditions on licenses; liability insurance; air operator certificates; suspension or cancellations; discontinuance or reduction

Information Holdings

Accessible Transportation

Description: Information relating to the regulation of, and resolution of complaints related to transportation facilities, equipment and services provided within Canada to travelers with disabilities. Topics: Co-operation and liaison with associations and various levels of government; committee and conference participation; service complaints; regulations on fares and conditions of of services; and investigations of service complaints on discontinuance of domestic service; bilateral and multilateral agreements and negotiations; commercial agreements; conventions and protocols; foreign air transport regulations; and air relations between Canada and foreign countries. Program Record Number: CTA AIR 080

Marine

Description: Information relating to the administration and enforcement of legislation governing marine activities under federal jurisdiction. Topics: Shipper and carrier complaints; coasting trade licenses; pilotage tariffs; St. Lawrence Seaway Management Corporation; Canadian ship database; marine associations data bank; operations and rates investigations; and Shipping Conferences Exemption Act tariffs and service contracts. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 081

Rail and Marine Complaints

Description: Information relating to economic disputes between carriers and users; competitive access provisions; tariffs; and mediation services and arbitration support. Topics: Dispute investigations; competitive line rates; interswitching; rates and conditions of carriage; track usage; rail freight traffic data; level of service; rail connections; rail liability; and arbitration cases. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 021

Rail Infrastructure

Description: Information relating to applications and complaints concerning the construction and modification of rail lines, highway/railway crossings, farm crossings, and other rail infrastructure; to railway licensing; to rail line transfers or discontinuance; and to track determinations. Topics: Crossing files; modification of subdivision name/mileage; noise, vibration and pollution complaints; connections and interchange; drainage; fencing; relocation of railway lines; right of way; spurs, sidings and lead tracks; environmental issues; and railway licensing and certificates of fitness. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 062

Rail Rates Costing and Monitoring

Description: Information relating to the management of rate programs that determines appropriate compensation for rail services provided by eligible transportation companies. Topics: Railway unit costs and service units; rates costing; railway costing manuals; historical railway input price indices; western grain railway revenue caps and compliance; traffic workloads; cost of capital rates; depreciation rates; uniform classification of accounts; and net salvage value determinations. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 121

Rail Rationalization

Description: Information relating to the evaluation of proposals to rationalize rail networks prior to July 1, 1996. Since then, the Agency has no approval responsibility for Rail Rationalization and these program records will be disposed of in accordance with their Retention and Disposal Standards. Topics: Railway costs and revenues; applications for abandonment of rail lines and removal of stations; branch line and passenger subsidy programs; branch line rehabilitation; conveyance of railway lines; and track determinations. Program Record Number: CTA RAI 176

Secretariat Services

Description: Information relating to Agency decisions, orders, reports and notices; the administration of Agency meetings, public hearings and inquiries; and the coordination of translation services. Topics: Agency orders, decisions, applications for review of orders and decisions; minutes of Agency meetings; and transcripts and exhibits of Agency public hearings and inquiries. Program Record Number: CTA SEC 006

Tariffs, Complaints and Enforcement

Description: Information relating to the regulation of air tariffs; the enforcement of Agency regulations and license conditions; the investigation of illegal operations by air carriers; the regulation of and resolution of consumer complaints relating to air travel; and the resolution of complaints relating to the pricing of passenger and freight transportation services provided within Canada on monopoly routes. Topics: Compliance; scheduled and non-scheduled tariffs; special permissions; industry complaints; consumer complaints; airline prices; general schedules; computer reservation systems; charter contracts; investigation reports on possible illegal activities by air carriers; and referrals to RCMP for investigations. Program Record Number: CTA AIR 096

Trucking and Commodity Pipeline

Description: Information relating to the administration and enforcement of legislation governing trucking and commodity pipeline activities under federal jurisdiction. Note that since July 1, 1996 the Agency has no responsibility for Trucking and Commodity Pipelines and these program records will be disposed of in accordance with their Retention and Disposal Standards. Topics: Newfoundland Roadcruiser Bus Service tariffs and complaints; specific merger and acquisition proposals; and applications to construct and operate commodity pipelines. Program Record Number: CTA MAR 082

Access Requests

Description: This bank contains the access requests submitted by individuals seeking access to Agency information or personal information pursuant to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, the replies to such requests, and information related to their processing. This bank may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name; his or her home, business or mailing address or telephone number; and identifying numbers. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have requested access pursuant to the Access to Information Act or Privacy Act. Purpose: To process access requests and report on the number of access requests received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for two years after resolution. PAC Number: 86/001 TBS Registration: 000322 Bank Number: CTA PPU 040

Air Service License Applications

Description: This bank contains a record of air service license applications for use in granting or denying license authorities under the Canada Transportation Act. The bank contains applications and interventions in support or opposition thereto. The bank may contain personal information relating to the applicant or other parties of record in the form of an individual's name; his or her home, business or mailing address or telephone number; nationality; age; identifying numbers; and financial information. Note that since July 1, 1996 interventions are no longer a part of the air service license application process. Class of Individuals: Applicants and intervenors in the licensing process. Purpose: For granting or denying licenses under the Canada Transportation Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are held for ten years following the cancellation of the license. PAC Number: 95/023 Related to PR#: CTA AIR 080, 096 TBS Registration: 000320 Bank Number: CTA PPU 015

Air Travel Complaints

Description: This bank contains a record of air travel complaints regarding such incidents as delayed flights, lost or damaged baggage, ticketing, quality of service, safety, cargo, reservations, denied boarding, smoking, unruly passengers, discontinuance or reduction of service to a community, departure taxes and fares. This bank contains personal information in the form of individuals' names, addresses and contact numbers. Class of Individuals: Members of the general public who lodge air travel complaints. Purpose: The purpose is to resolve air travel complaints. If a complaint relates to an air carrier or other responsible body, a copy of the complaint is forwarded to them for comments or for their resolution as appropriate. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for 10 years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 95/023 Related to PR#: CTA AIR 096 TBS Registration: 004442 Bank Number: CTA PPU 014

Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Subsidies

Description: This bank contains information regarding federal assistance made to certified carriers – truck, water and rail – who offer lower transportation rates to manufacturers, shippers and producers within the select territory and from points within the select territory to points in Canada west of the select territory, under the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act and Regulations. This bank may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name; his or her home, business or mailing address or telephone number; claim identifying numbers; and financial information relating to the claims. Note that since July 1, 1996 the Agency has no responsibility for Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Subsidies and the records in this bank will be disposed of in accordance with the Retention and Disposal Standards outlined below. Class of Individuals: Trucking companies, railways and water carriers who applied for assistance under the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act and Regulations. Purpose: To administer the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Program, establish the eligibility of claims and the certification of subsidies, as well as for accounting and statistical purposes. Consistent Uses: To comply with requests from federal investigative bodies. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed seven years following payment. PAC Number: 95/025 Related to PR#: CTA MAR 183 TBS Registration: 001864 Bank Number: CTA PPU 038

Canadian Ship Database System

Description: This bank contains information relating to the characteristics and use of Canadian registered vessels including unique content on operations and geographic analysis. It contains personal information in the form of individuals' names, addresses and contact numbers. Class of Individuals: Owners, operators and contacts for Canadian registered vessels. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide information to process coasting trade licence applications to use foreign vessels in the Canadian coasting trade and identify suitable Canadian vessels which can provide the service or perform the activity described in the application. # Canadian Wheat Board

Chapter 41

Note: This institution is not subject to the Access to Information Act.

General Information

Background

The Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) was established by the Canadian Wheat Board Act in 1935 to provide for the orderly marketing of wheat produced in the area designated by the Act. Barley and oats were added to the mandate in 1949. The marketing of oats was removed from the CWB in 1989.

Responsibilities

The CWB is obliged to purchase wheat and barley offered to it for sale by farmers in accordance with established delivery calls and to pay an initial payment for same in accordance with the Act. The CWB then markets this grain in interprovincial and international markets. The surplus proceeds received upon sale and available for distribution are divided equitably among the farmers delivering grain to the CWB after the initial payment is made to the farmers and the CWB's operating costs are deducted. The CWB is also responsible for administering a delivery system which is designed to maximize marketing opportunities, as well as allocate delivery opportunity among farmers wishing to deliver grain for sale in interprovincial and international markets. The CWB administers the Agricultural Marketing Programs Act pursuant to which advance payments are made to farmers undertaking to deliver wheat and barley as delivery opportunities are available. The CWB administers the Spring Credit Advance Program (SCAP) for wheat and barley pursuant to which advance payments are made to farmers to assist with seeding costs.

Information Holdings

Grain Growers Advance Payment Records

Description: This bank is used to record the value of cash advances issued and refunds received from grain growers under the Agricultural Marketing Programs Act and the Spring Credit Advance Program. Class of Individuals: Grain growers who have taken cash advances under the Agricultural Marketing Programs Act. Purpose: The information gathered is used to monitor the grower's repayment of monies advanced. Repayment is conditional on the grower's delivery and sale of grain as soon as he or she is able to do so. The information is summarized and controlled as required by the federal government. Consistent Uses: The information is shared with grain companies that act as agents of the CWB in making and collecting cash advances. It is also shared with the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency, provincial crop insurance organizations, lending institutions and secured parties (secured parties are any person or business organization with a lien on the grain pledged by the grain grower on the advance payment application) when requested. Information would be shared for the purposes of completing the advance payment application. The grain grower agrees to permit the CWB to share this information with these other parties to protect their security interest in the grain. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for three years following the retirement of the advance payment. TBS Registration: 004082 Bank Number: CWB PPU 010

Grain Growers Delivery Records

Description: This bank contains a record of each producer certificate issued to a grower by a grain company in payment for the grower's delivery of wheat and barley to the CWB account. Class of Individuals: Grain growers who deliver to the CWB. Purpose: The growers' delivery records are the basis for equitable distribution of profits realized from the sale of wheat and barley by the CWB. These records also include farmers who participate in the CWB fixed price or basis contracts and are receiving a payment separate from the CWB price pooling system. The information produces statistical statements by district(s), grain company and type of wheat and barley. Consistent Uses: The information is shared with the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency, Human Resources Development, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's farm safety net programs, provincial crop insurance organizations and grain companies that are agents of the CWB. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for seven years. TBS Registration: 004083 Bank Number: CWB PPU 015

Grain Growers Payment Records

Description: This bank contains a record of each payment made to wheat and barley growers which resulted from an increase in the price paid for wheat and barley or from the profits realized from the sale of wheat and barley by the CWB. It also contains payment records for farmers participating in the fixed or basis contracts who are receiving a payment separate from the CWB price pooling system. Class of Individuals: Wheat and barley growers who deliver to the CWB. Purpose: The information is maintained to control the value of payments and monitor bank cashings, lost cheques, uncashed cheques, etc. Statements are produced to show the value of payments by district(s), kind of wheat and barley, dates of issuance and bank clearance and for other control purposes (verification of rates and tonnes; verification of accounting transactions, stale-dated cheques; cancelled/re-issued cheques). Consistent

Uses: Information in this bank is shared with the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency, Human Resources Development, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's farm safety net programs and, in the case of non-resident farmers, with their representatives in Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for seven years. TBS Registration: 004081 Bank Number: CWB PPU 005

Grain Growers Permit Records

Description: This bank is used to establish and maintain a record of each wheat and barley grower's entitlement to market wheat and barley. Under the authority of the Canadian Wheat Board Act, this bank may contain the Social Insurance Numbers of those farmers who choose to supply them. Class of Individuals: Wheat and barley growers who have obtained a CWB permit book.

Purpose: The permit book application information is used to monitor and record each grower's delivery and sale of wheat and barley to CWB account and to verify entitlement for cash advances under the Agricultural Marketing Programs Act. The grower's name and address are used to distribute profits realized from the sale of wheat and barley. Summary statements for planning purposes are produced by district(s) and type of wheat and barley. Information in this bank is used to prepare voters' lists for Canadian Wheat Board elections.

Consistent Uses: Various components of the information are shared with Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency for inter-provincial and export licenses, provincial crop insurance organizations, various other provincial institutions, departments and related commodity groups, universities for consistent use and statistical research purposes and the grain companies that are agents of the CWB.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for seven years. TBS Registration: 004084 Bank Number: CWB PPU 020

Citizenship and Immigration Canada

Chapter 42

Background

The federal government has administered immigration matters since Confederation. The Department of Citizenship and Immigration (CIC) was created by an Act of Parliament which received Royal Assent on June 23, 1994. This brought together, in particular, the Citizenship Registration and Promotion component of the Department of Canadian Heritage (previously with the former Department of Multiculturalism and Citizenship); the Immigration Policy, Selection and Enforcement components of the former Department of Public Security (previously with the department of Employment and Immigration); and the Immigration Settlement previously part of Employment and Immigration. The Department reports to Parliament through its Minister, who is also responsible for the independent Immigration and Refugee Board (IRB). The IRB functions are separate from those of the Department. CIC's authority stems, notably, from the Department of Citizenship and Immigration Act, the Immigration Act and the Citizenship Act. These provide the Deputy Minister, the Minister and Governor in Council with the discretionary authority required to develop and implement responsive and flexible policies and programs.

Responsibilities

The Department of Citizenship and Immigration Act establishes a specific federal mandate for the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration. This mandate includes all matters relating to the administration of the programs and policies of immigration and citizenship that are not assigned by law to other departments, branches or agencies of government.

The department consists of three main sections: Departmental Support, Program Delivery, and Strategic Support. The Associate Deputy Minister works closely with the Deputy Minister to set departmental priorities and to develop strategies to meet these goals. The department consists of three main sectors: Policy and Program Development, Corporate Services and Operations. Each sector is composed of a number of branches and regions, both in Canada and overseas. In the case of Operations, Directors General report directly to their respective Assistant Deputy Minister. The ADM, Operations' role is to ensure that departmental processes are well designed and maintained, and that the various branches work together harmoniously towards a common purpose. The Assistant Deputy Minister, Corporate Services, provides a strategic orientation and ensures effective program objectives as they relate to resources, i.e. capital, financial, human and electronic infrastructure necessary to the department's operating platform. In addition, Corporate Services provides ministerial executive services and manages the Communications program activities through the department. In addition, the Sector is responsible for partnerships with other departments, central agencies, provincial governments, other national governments, international agencies and the private sector. Another important function of the position is to ensure that CIC remains client oriented in all its activities. The ADM Policy and Program Development is responsible for the formulation of effective policy and lending support to the DM to develop a coherent and forward looking strategic vision for the department.

Organization

Departmental Support

This group is responsible for providing specialized support in leading the Department as it fulfils its broader role in the governance of Canada to support the Minister, the Deputy Minister and those charged with the overall management of the Department and to provide services to branch heads. This group is composed of the following branches: Communications, Human Resources, Finance and Administration, Information Management and Technology, Department Delivery Network, Executive Services and Strategic Policy Planning and Research.

♦ Case Management Branch

The Case Management Branch directs the development of strategies and procedures for the efficient management and coordination of cases, including the resolution of cases under litigation and/or which have security, organized crime, criminal and potentially serious public policy dimensions and which require a representation to the Minister's personal attention, or for which special exemption is sought from the provisions of the Immigration Act and Regulations.

♦ Finance and Administration

The Finance and Administration Branch provides services, advice and information to departmental management concerning the financial and administrative management of the Department's policies and programs. This includes: providing financial and administrative policies and systems; providing accounting services; managing the loan portfolio; developing cost recovery/revenue generation plans; developing resource management plans for reallocating departmental funds or securing funding approval through central agencies to fund departmental programs; providing financial analysis and reporting services; providing facilities and real property asset management services; and supplying materiel, contracting and security services.

♦ Human Resources Branch

The Human Resources Branch provides a full range of personnel services such as staffing and classification, official languages, pay and benefits, training and development services to staff, as well as management of staff relations, professional conduct, conflict of interest, compensation, employee assistance, workforce adjustment, workforce analysis, human resources planning including employee appraisals and telework, awards and diversity management programs. This branch also develops, disseminates and monitors human resources policies and programs.

♦ Information Management and Technologies Branch (IMTB)

The Information Management and Technologies Branch (IMTB) is responsible for the design, development, implementation and maintenance of all of Citizenship and Immigration Canada's automated systems. It establishes and administers all policies and standards related to information management and information technology and is responsible for the effective introduction and development of information management and information technology solutions for the department. The branch also ensures the integrity, accuracy and effective delivery of departmental information holdings, including departmental records (both paper and microfilm) and library holdings.

♦ Executive Services

The Branch consists of Briefings and Parliamentary Affairs, Ministerial Enquiries and Public Rights Administration. It is responsible for support and coordination services to the office of the Minister, Deputy Minister and Associate Deputy Minister. The branch is also responsible for the management of access to information, privacy and human rights activities.

♦ Communications Branch

The role of the Communications Branch is to provide services which will meet the communications needs of the Minister, the Deputy Ministers, the department and its clients. The Branch informs the public, in both official languages, about departmental policies, programs and services, alerts key audiences to major new departmental initiatives, and provides advice and guidance to the Minister and senior departmental officials on all communications aspects of programs, operations and activities. The Communications branch is divided into three directorates: Corporate Communications, Strategic Communications, and Public Relations and Media Relations. The key functions carried out by these directorates include publishing and distribution, internal communications, media relations, media monitoring and analysis, speechwriting for the Minister and senior departmental officials, strategic communications advice and planning, community education and outreach, public environment research, program related communications assistance, and departmental publications.

Communications is also responsible for the maintenance and upkeep of the departmental Internet Web Site, which gives access to a wide variety of departmental publications and provides answers to frequently asked questions.

♦ Strategic Policy Planning and Research Branch

SPPR provides strategic policy, planning and research support to the Department, including the integration of priorities with the broader government agenda.

The Intergovernmental and Stakeholder Relations component: establishes frameworks and acts as the Department's focal point for federal-provincial relations; supports existing immigration agreements; establishes negotiating frameworks; manages federal-provincial negotiations for immigration agreements; manages negotiations of memorandums of understanding on the exchange of information with provinces; and supports other branches in federal-provincial consultation exercises.

Strategic Policy provides strategic policy advice and briefings for the Minister, Deputy Minister and the Associate Deputy Minister on government-wide and Department-wide issues, and develops and coordinates long-term and ongoing corporate strategic policy.

Strategic Planning provides organizational leadership for the departmental planning and accountability processes, including performance reviews, plans and priorities, reporting systems, and environmental analysis.

Strategic Information ensures the development of supportive information systems and data policy; promotes the development of statistical "Executive" reporting, scanning and analysis tools; and provides secretariat and substantive support for departmental intelligence partners.

Research and Review provides support to policy and program development; develops and manages the departmental research plan; is the departmental focal point for the development and contracting of research; leads the Department's audit and evaluation activities; and develops and manages the Department's review (audit/evaluation) plans.

Regulatory Process provides advice and guidance on regulatory issues; manages and monitors the regulatory and legislative agenda; and develops the regulatory plan.

Program Delivery

Program Delivery is the area of the Department responsible for the delivery of the programs developed by the various Service Lines. The Program delivery group is divided into six geographic regions (which cooperate with National Headquarters to meet the needs of CIC's clients): International Region, British Columbia and Yukon Region, Prairies and Northwest Territories Region, Ontario Region, Quebec Region and the Atlantic Region.

◆ Departmental Delivery Network

The Departmental Delivery Network (DDN) provides integrated program management and delivery on a product line basis in Canada. It ensures that CIC's seven centralized points of service have access to management and program support.

DDN includes a small NHQ structure (including Support Services, Service Delivery, Immigration Services and Citizenship Services Divisions), three central processing centres (Case Processing Centres are in Vegreville, Alberta (CPCV), in Mississauga, Ontario (CPCM), and in Sydney, Nova Scotia (CPCS)), and four Ottawa-based central points of service (Interim Federal Health Program; Immigration Health Services; Immigration Warrant Response Centre; and Query Response Centre).

The Support Services Division is responsible for developing systems for Information Management, Information Technology, Human resources practices, finance and administrative matters.

The Service Delivery Division provides functional guidance to CIC's call centre operation. It also develops the application kits used by clients to access the CPCs and missions outside Canada. The Citizenship Services Division is responsible for issues relating to the delivery of the Citizenship program, and is the principal contact for issues related to CPCS. The Immigration Services Division provides advice, guidance and operational instructions on the immigration program to CPCM AND CPCV.

CPCV opened for full processing on April 1, 1994 and is responsible for:

- 1) Visitor Extensions; 2) Student Authorizations;
- 3) Employment Authorizations; 4) Minister's Permit Extensions; 5) Immigrant Applications for Landing in Canada; and 6) Right of Landing Fee (ROLF) Loans.

CPCM is the national case processing centre for all immigration Family Class sponsorships and is responsible for reviewing undertakings to determine eligibility of sponsors; assessing the financial information provided by sponsors and determining whether or not they will be able to meet their obligations; providing administrative support from Family Class sponsorships, i. e., liaison with Le Ministère des Affaires internationales de l'Immigration et des Communautés Culturelles (MAIICC), respective provincial adoption ministries, ministries of social services, and issuances of appeal notices to sponsors.

CPCS has operated since 1984 and provides direct service in all matters concerning Canadian Citizenship. Through the Citizenship Registration System (CRS), the staff administers the Citizenship Act while serving as a citizenship card production centre.

The Interim Federal Health (IFH) Program which was known as the Non-Insured Health Benefit Program under Health Canada was transferred to CIC on April 1, 1995. IFH is designed to cover emergency and essential health care costs for refugee claimants, refugees and others under immigration control.

The Immigration Health Services Division is responsible for centralized medical processing in North America; developing medical assessment guidelines; maintaining quality assurance standards; and providing statistical and qualitative medical information.

The Immigration Warrant Response Centre is responsible for managing immigration warrants on the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) database; and for responding to requests for warrant confirmation from police agencies, Canada Immigration Centres and Missions abroad. The centre also responds to police requests for immigration and citizenship status checks.

The Query Response Centre is responsible for all requests for verification of admission records of immigrants and visitors to Canada; all enforcement cases for Immigration; inquiries; and court cases.

◆ Regional Offices

The five in-Canada regions (British Columbia and Yukon Region, Prairies and Northwest Territories, Ontario Region, Quebec Region and Atlantic Region ) deliver the immigration, visitor, citizenship and settlement programs of the Department both through Ports of Entry and inland offices. Officers at Canada's ports of entry as well as inland are responsible for facilitating the admission of bona fide visitors, temporary workers, students as well as immigrants and refugees while ensuring that those inadmissible to Canada are refused entry and those subject to enforcement action are dealt with promptly and efficiently. In-Canada regions also grant citizenship and work with the provinces, municipalities and community groups to help newcomers integrate and promote understanding of the rights and responsibilities of Canadian citizenship.

◆ International Region

The International Region is responsible for the delivery of Canada's immigration programs at Canadian missions abroad. This includes immigrant selection, non-immigrant processing, immigration medical services, interdiction, and reporting and liaison. The International Region plays a lead role in international migration, and in the co-ordination of the Department's international activities, particularly with respect to relations with Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT), other countries, and multilateral organizations. The International Region comprises nine divisions – Asia and the Pacific, Africa and the Middle-East, Western Hemisphere, Europe, Resource Management, Personnel, Operational Co-ordination and Overseas Medical Services and Management Services.

The International Region is responsible for the delivery of all program activities at Canadian diplomatic missions around the world. This includes all operational aspects of immigration programs such as delivery of annual immigration levels; management of immigration, visitor and refugee programs abroad; ensuring a consistent approach across geographic regions; and co-ordination and liaison with other departments and agencies such as Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS), Health Canada and the RCMP. The International Region ensures that the delivery of the program is consistent with Canadian law and policy and with Canada's bilateral and multilateral foreign policy interests.

Resource Management is responsible for the maintenance of an operational structure through the allocation of financial and human resources to ensure global immigration is consistent with levels established by Cabinet. This includes those resources in the DFAIT financial base that support the immigration program.

Operational Co-ordination is responsible for the development and dissemination of statistical information relevant to international operations, communications policies and activities with missions abroad, managing overseas mission reconfiguration, promotion and recruitment, and issues of global interest within the International Region.

In consultation with the departmental Human Resources and Finance and Administration Branches, the Personnel Division is responsible for the management of human resources relating to the International Service.

Overseas Medical Services identifies immigrants, refugees, and certain classes of visitors who are medically unfit for admission to Canada, for those applicants applying at missions abroad. In association with Health Canada (Occupational and Environmental Health Services), it ensures that federal employees and dependents are medically fit for posting abroad and helps them to remain healthy while serving abroad.

The four geographic branches are responsible for managing the delivery of immigration, visitor and refugee programs at missions within their respective territories.

Management Services is responsible for the provision of program support to the region for information management, visits and protocol, access to information, management of locally engaged staff and program integrity.

Service Line Management

This Group is responsible for policy development, program design and direction for CIC's core Service Lines. Service line branch heads are accountable to the Deputy Minister for all Service line related issues, up to but not including program delivery. Each branch is responsible for policy development, program design and direction of one of the four core CIC Service Lines. The Department is divided into four service lines: Integration, Refugees, Enforcement and Selection.

◆ Enforcement Branch

The role of the Enforcement Branch of National Headquarters is to develop national policy, procedures, guidelines and strategies to ensure that violations of the provisions of the Immigration Act and Regulations are properly actioned in accordance with the Immigration Act, to counter illegal immigration movements to Canada, and to preserve the integrity of Canada's immigration and refugee determination systems. The Enforcement Branch also provides to field officers and to other Branches of National Headquarters, functional direction, coordination and training regarding national policies and procedures on enforcement activities. In addition, the Enforcement Branch liaises with service delivery partners for the purpose of developing and updating national memoranda of understanding with other Departments, Provinces, or agencies, for the exchange of information. It also develops removal arrangements with other countries, and it coordinates activity through liaison with partners in enforcement and the airline industry. The Branch also directly manages carrier compliance by negotiating Memoranda of Understanding with individual transportation companies and by ensuring compliance with Memoranda of Understanding. National Headquarters also administers the program of administration fees assessed against transportation companies for carrying improperly documented passengers to Canada.

The Enforcement Branch (SED) is composed of four core sections, namely Intelligence and Interdiction, Port of Entry Management, Hearings and Detention and Investigations and Removals. The Branch is also comprised of three additional units who lead Enforcement Branch's efforts in planning, program development and in developing a long-term strategic vision for the Enforcement program. These include, a Border Policy, a Program Development and one other section, the Service Line Support.

The Intelligence and Interdiction section (SEZ) monitors, analyzes and reports on illegal migration practices and abuse of the Immigration program.

The Port of Entry Management Division (SEM) overseas, monitors and evaluates port of entry operations across Canada. It develops and implements national policies, strategic directions, operational priorities and service standards applicable in the examination of all persons seeking admission to Canada at land borders, airports and marine ports of entry.

The Hearings and Detention section (SEA) develops and implements national policies, strategies, operational priorities, instructions and procedures regarding the issuance of removal orders by senior immigration officers; eligibility determinations and re-determinations; multiple refugee claim determinations; inquiries; appeals to the Immigration Appeal Division from removal orders and from refusals of applications for permanent residence by sponsored family class applicants; interventions into refugee claims by the Minister before the Convention Refugee Determination Division; and with respect to detention of individuals pursuant to the Immigration Act.

The Investigations and Removals Directorate (SEO) develops and implements national policies, strategic directions, operational priorities, service standards, procedures, and operational instructions for the investigative and removal functions of the Immigration Enforcement program. In conjunction with the Program Development Directorate, SEO develops international removals strategies in partnership with DFAIT and other key international partners.

The Program Development section (SEP) is responsible for the development of and coordination of a coherent international enforcement strategy. This is intended to support the Branch's objectives with respect to interdiction, removals, and migrant smuggling.

The Border Policy Directorate (SEF) develops, recommends and manages policies and legislative provisions to support the Department's leadership role in the area of managing border issues with the US, and with national and regional partners.

Service Line Support Directorate (SED) supports Enforcement Branch management's responsibility for Branch planning and priority setting. The section leads Branch participation in various corporate exercises related to establishing program and corporate objectives and plans, budget forecasting, planning and reporting and accounting for program results. The section provides internal services to managers in the areas of human resources (staffing, training, succession planning), IT systems, organizational development, expenditure control and other administrative matters.

◆ Integration Branch

The Integration Branch is responsible for the development of policy and programs that define membership in Canadian society, enhance the role of Canadian citizenship, and support the settlement, adaptation and integration of newcomers. The Branch develops policies and programs that promote integration and Canadian citizenship; ensures that the federal government's responsibilities towards the immigrants it accepts for permanent residence are met; educates potential new Canadians about the rights and responsibilities of Canadian citizenship; promotes the value of Canadian citizenship to newcomers; and administers and interprets the Citizenship Act. The Integration Branch oversees the delivery of programs under its jurisdiction through a network of national partnerships, as required. The Integration Branch is composed of four program divisions: Citizenship Division; Settlement Division; Integration Promotion Division; and Service Line Support Division.

The Citizenship Division manages the overall administration of the Citizenship Act and Regulations. The main activities are developing and revising the regulations and policies for the administration of the Act, maintaining legislative compliance, providing functional guidance on citizenship matters, implementing new Citizenship Legislation and maintaining an historical body of knowledge on past and present nationality legislation.

The Settlement Division provides functional guidance; develops policies, operational procedures, work instruments; designs program terms and conditions for the settlement programs and services which are provided to newcomers; manages national settlement realignment agreements with the provincial governments; manages the orientation abroad initiative; and manages contribution program allocations and expenditures.

The Integration Promotion Division is responsible for the development of activities and programs which promote citizenship and settlement programs and initiatives. This Division is also responsible for the development, production and distribution of promotion material in support of its mandate.

The Service Line Support Division provides the Branch with the capability to plan, analyze and coordinate activities and to provide an efficient infrastructure to support the other division in the Branch, corporate initiatives and CIC priorities. It is also responsible for cross-cutting policy development.

◆ Refugees Branch

Refugees Branch is composed of the Asylum, Resettlement, International Liaison and Refugee Program Support Divisions. They are responsible for the management of refugee policy, programs and targets; liaison with the Immigration and Refugee board (IRB); representing the interests of CIC and the Government on international migration issues; and coordinating reporting and liaison activities.

◆ Selection

The Selection Branch is responsible for the development of policy, program design and procedural guidance affecting the selection of people to Canada both immigrants and non-immigrants. The goal is to develop policy with an operational perspective, provide procedural guidance to the field both nationally and internationally, and feed back field perspectives into the policy-making process.

The Social Policy and Programs Division is responsible for development of policy and programs for the social benefit of Canada including Family Class immigration, international adoption, landing in Canada programs, Live-in-Caregivers in Canada and related humanitarian issues. The Division is also responsible for the policy on Minister's Permits and on immigration representatives (lawyers and consultants).

The Economic Policy and Program Division is responsible for developing policy and designing programs for the economic benefit of Canada including the selection criteria for skilled workers, for all non-immigrant programs including foreign students and temporary workers, for returning residents and for provincial nominees. The Division is also responsible for international agreements (e. g. NAFTA, GATS, etc. ) concerning temporary entry of business persons.

The Immigration Health Policy Division is responsible for the legislation on medical inadmissibility. It is also responsible for developing immigration health policy in consultation with federal and provincial partners and for maintaining liaison on immigration health issues with federal government departments, other immigrant receiving countries, and with international organizations.

The Business Immigration Division is responsible for policy formulation, program development and procedural compliance for self-employed, investor and entrepreneurial programs.

The Service Line Support Division is responsible for the establishment of branch objectives and monitoring of branch policy, program performance and guidance. It is responsible for ensuring compliance with program guidelines and directives, through the establishment and management of the national Quality Assurance program for all inland activities by monitoring the reliability of client information provided in applications and the quality of decision-making made by the staff. The division is also responsible for the development of the annual immigration plan for production of annual statistics and management reports including levels and mix information.

Information Holdings

◆ Finance and Administration

Management Data

Description: Computerized information systems of a financial, personnel, administrative and operational performance measurement nature. Topics: Correspondence; status reports; minutes of meetings. Information held in EDP systems is organized under the following titles: Immigration Program Accounts Receivable – provides for the accounting, control, and billing of loans granted to immigrants; Integrated Financial and Materiel System (IFMS) – financial position of commitments, budgets, expenditures, revenues, advances, overall salary costs and non-salary items within CIC, performance measurement information; employee information that allows production of certain personnel reports for management and central agencies. Storage Medium: Electronic files and paper. Program Record Number: CIC SYS 555

Security

Description: Information on policies, correspondence and protective procedures relating to departmental security, its implementation and administration. Topics: Policies and procedures on personnel, physical, communications and administrative security. Storage Medium: Paper and Microcomputer Diskette. Program Record Number: CIC FIN 055

◆ Information Management and Technologies Branch (IMTB)

National Case Management System (NCMS)

The NCM system replaces seven regional case tracking applications – Tracking Resource Allocation and Client Scheduling (TRACS), Système d'Affectation des Ressources et Calendrier des Enquêtes (SARCE), Investigations Tracking System (ITS), Investigation Case Management System (ICMS), Système Informatique pour le Suivi des Appels (SISA), and Appeals Tracking System (ATS).

NCMS provides functionality that supports critical case tracking requirements from the regions and NHQ. It provides a facility aimed at satisfying management information needs. Key enforcement data is stored centrally to provide an integrated client case history for all domestic users. Its functions include case tracking, bring forward, scheduling, workload management, file registry, and forms and letters modules for all of CIC's major enforcement business lines (except port of entry examinations).

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

Description: EDP (Electronic Data Processing) systems are those used to gather or update the information needed for the operational support of immigration programs. Immigration-related programs and services are delivered using integrated clerical, manual and EDP systems. The EDP component consists of the sub-systems listed below. The information banks supported by each system are given by number after each description. All sub-systems are linked to each other, either by a full computer connection (interface), or by common data elements that allow comparisons of information across systems. Therefore, actions in one sub-system may affect the smooth running of others. Approximately 500 separate immigration forms, with a total volume of 1,000,000 documents, are processed through these sub-systems each year.

- (1) Immigration Data System Overseas (IDSO) (EDP-1); Immigration Data System Canada (IDSC) (EDP-2): IDSO and IDSC are used by overseas offices to maintain records of all applications for permanent resident status. Both systems provide information used in recruitment and selection processes. The data are case-oriented and can only be accessed by providing the case serial number recorded on the landing record. Files, including microfilm records, date back to 1935. EDP records are available as far back as 1968. (EIC PPU 225)
- (2) Landed Immigrant Data System (LIDS) (EDP-3): The Landed Immigrant Data System (LIDS) retains a permanent record of individuals granted permanent residence. Its main purpose is to create an official name index, which is used by immigration officers in Canada and abroad to verify an individual's status in Canada. It is also legal proof of residence for citizenship, Old Age Security, Family Allowance, welfare, etc. In addition, information from the system is the sole source for all of CIC's reports on permanent residents. (EIC PPU 230)
- (3) Visitor Information Data System (VIDS) (EDP-4): VIDS retain a permanent record of all persons granted permission to enter or remain in Canada for a temporary period (whether as visitors, students, temporary workers or permit holders). The system's main purpose is to provide an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada to verify an individual's status in Canada. Information from VIDS is also used to produce the Department's reports on visitors and permit holders. Data used in the annual report to Parliament on Minister's permits are retained here. (EIC PPU 285; 290;295;300)
- (4) Enforcement Information Index (EII) (EDP-5): Please see EIC PPU 265 for details. A set of EII (EIC PPU 265) cases produced on CD was distributed to posts (embassies and consulates) abroad.
- (5) Enforcement Data System (EDS) (EDP-6): Please see EIC PPU 270 for details. A set of EDS (EIC PPU 270) cases produced on CD was distributed to posts (embassies and consulates) abroad.
- (6) Field Operational Support System (FOSS) (EDP7): The FOSS database is a central repository of information on all persons who have been or are wanted to be seen by Immigration staff. FOSS is the main operational support system for Immigration operations in Canada. The system is comprised of numerous components including query functions, status entry, document creation, refugee monitoring, case processing support, medical profiles, registry functions, client name and address, statistical functions, airport primary inspection line functions, access and security, appeals and litigation, quality assurance and records maintenance. All Immigration staff that work with the public and the staff that support these officers use FOSS. It is also used at all international airports by Customs inspectors and by a number of specialized groups, such as: Case Management, Query Response Centre, Social Insurance Registry, Immigration Health, Immigration Statistics, External Affairs Protocol Office and the U.S. Immigration Offices at Detroit and Buffalo. There are over 8 million client records and over 6.5 million document reference records.
- (7) Settlement Management Information System (SMIS): SMIS which ceased to be operational in early 1996, was used to monitor the effectiveness of settlement services delivered by contracted non-governmental organizations. It also serves as a record of the adjustment assistance granted to newcomers in need, used in the administration of financial assistance loans. Associated settlement programs are the Immigrant Settlement and Adaptation Program (ISAP) (PPU 250), the Host Program (PPU 226) and Adjustment Assistance Program (AAP) (PPU 235), and Language Instruction for Newcomers to Canada (LINC) (PPU 500).
- (8) Computer-Assisted Immigration Processing System (CAIPS): CAIPS is the Department's automated system for application processing outside Canada. Information is entered in the system from application forms and supporting documentation submitted by applicants for immigrant and visitor visas, returning residence permits and student and employment authorizations.

- (9) Stand Alone Immigration Reporting System (STAIRS): STAIRS is used to capture immigration and visitor information from non-CAIPS immigration missions overseas. It allows operational data for a mission to be produced and transmitted to National Headquarters for further processing in IDSO and ISIS. There are at present 7 STAIRS missions overseas. The system enables users to search by applicant and/or dependent in an automated case index; to print non-immigrant visas; to conduct tracking by case status; and to produce operational reports and key indicators.
- (10) Case Processing Centre System (CPC): The CPC system supports the processing of all in-Canada applications for the following six lines of Business: in-Canada sponsorship of relatives; extension of tourist visas; extension of work permit applications; extension of student visa authorizations; applications for landed immigrant status from in-Canada; and applications for landed immigrant status for refugees. The system will interface very closely with the FOSS system, and with the AVRES (automated voice response enquiry system).
- (11) Citizenship Registry System (CRS): The CRS manages all processes related to citizenship: grants (of citizenship), proofs of citizenship certificates. The main functions are: Collect Fees; Collect Data; Certificate Preparation; Clearance; Decision; Scheduling; Log In (results) and File Retention. All record scheduling and workflow data related to citizenship processes are kept in this database and there is an interface with FOSS.

Classes of Personal Information

Briefings and Parliamentary Affairs

Receives telephone and fax queries from MP's, Senators, NGO's, lawyers, consultants, the media and the general public. This activity includes requests for ministerial intervention, and compliments, complaints, comments and questions on specific cases, legislation, procedures, ministerial announcements and quality of service. Liaises with Minister's Office staff on ministerial intervention requests from MP's, lawyers, NGO's and members of the general public, particularly when requests are deemed by MEU to have significant political implications. Liaises with Case Management Branch, International Region Branch, and other departmental officials in responding to representations. Memos and other briefing documents may deal with the same topics and individuals.

Ministerial Enquiries Unit

Copies of internal and external correspondence addressed to or handled by the Minister's and Deputy Minister's offices, as well as information related to its processing. Letters written by the general public or their representatives, and by MP's, private sector and other governmental and non-governmental organizations may include enquiries, requests, advice and opinions on the policies and programs of CIC and on the handling of individual cases. They may also deal with individuals employed by CIC and questions on quality of service. Information is retrievable by personal identifier, including names of individuals and file numbers, from the automated Ministerial Tracking System containing processing and control data and from paper files containing copies of actual documents. The personal information contained in this correspondence is not used for an administrative purpose.

♦ Communications Branch

Distribution mailing lists, both on paper and computer disks, which include individuals, as well as groups and media, who receive various departmental and branch publications, notably news releases and speeches, or who are targeted to receive promotional/educational or information materials (e. g. National Citizenship Week and other campaigns) or key documents or legislation (e. g. Annual Immigration Plan). This information is not retrievable by personal identifier.

♦ Integration Branch

Immigration/Citizenship/Integration Promotion

Letters written by the general public asking for information on the programs and responses to these letters are placed on CIC program files and are not retrievable by personal identifiers. They may, however, contain personal information. Any questions relating to CIC's programs and services are referred to the appropriate program group and letters from the public will be found in the relevant program files. Mailing lists may be found by consulting the Communications Branch.

Copyright Board Canada

Chapter 43

Background

The Copyright Board was created by a series of amendments to the Copyright Act which were proclaimed on February 1, 1989. It replaced the Copyright Appeal Board which had been responsible since 1935 for approving annual tariffs respecting the public performance of music. Bill C-32 (Act modifying the Copyright Act) which received Royal Assent on April 25, 1997, modifies the mandate of the Board by adding the responsibilities, among others, for the adoption of tariffs for the public performance and communication to the public by telecommunication of sound recordings of musical works, for the benefit of the performers of these works and of the makers of the sound recordings ("the neighbouring rights") and for the adoption of tariffs for private copying of recorded musical works, for the benefit of the rights owners in the works, the recorded performances and the sound recordings ("the home-taping regime").

Responsibilities

The Copyright Board is an independent administrative agency which has been conferred department status for purposes of the Financial Administration Act. Its mandate stems from the Copyright Act.

The Copyright Board plays a major role in the collective administration of copyright, particularly where the public performance and the communication to the public, by telecommunication, of musical works, as well as the retransmission of distant radio and television signals are concerned. The Board plays a surveillance role in three ways with respect to collective societies which administer very large repertoires of work created by a multitude of originators both in Canada and in other countries: as an economic regulatory body, by approving tariff proposals by the various copyright collective societies; as an arbitrator in private disputes; and as an arbitrator of the public interest.

The Board's principal mandate is to set royalties which are fair and reasonable for both copyright owners and the users of copyright-protected works, as well as issuing non-exclusive licences authorizing the fully legal use of works when the copyright owner cannot be located.

The Board reports annually to Parliament through the Minister of Industry.

Legislation

- Copyright Act, R.S.C. (1985), c. C-42
- Local Signal and Distant Signal Regulations

- Retransmission Royalties Criteria Regulations
- Programming Undertaking Regulations
- Definition of Small Retransmission Systems Regulations
- Definition of "Small Cable Transmission System" Regulations
- Regulations establishing the Period of Royalty Entitlements of Non-members of Collecting Bodies
- Regulations defining "Wireless Transmission System"
- Regulations defining "Advertising Revenues"
- Exceptions for Educational Institutions, Libraries, Archives and Museums Regulations
- Regulations prescribing Networks

Organization

The Board consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and a maximum of three other members, all appointed by the Governor in Council. The Chairman, who must be a judge of a superior, county or district court, directs the work of the Board and apportions its work among the members of the Board. The Vice-Chairman, who is the Chief Executive Officer of the Board, supervises and directs the work of the Board's staff. The Board has a staff of seven employees, three of whom report to the Chief Executive Officer: the Secretary General, the General Counsel and the Researcher-Analyst.

Correctional Investigator Canada

Chapter 44

Background

The Office of the Correctional Investigator was established by Part II of the Inquiries Act. The office investigates complaints from inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act and reports upon problems of inmates that fall within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada and meet the following conditions:

- (1) The subject matter of the complaint concerns an incident occurring within twelve months of the lodging of the complaint;
- (2) The complainant has taken, in the opinion of the Commissioner, all reasonable steps to exhaust legal or administrative remedies;
- (3) The subject matter of the complaint does not involve the preparation of material for consideration by the National Parole Board.

The Commissioner need not investigate if the subject matter of a complaint has previously been investigated, or in the opinion of the Commissioner, a person complaining has no valid interest in the matter.

Responsibilities

The Correctional Investigator investigates and reports on the problems of inmates that come within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada (other than those problems raised on complaint in certain defined circumstances). Investigations are undertaken at the request of the Solicitor General, on the Investigator's own initiative, or upon complaint from or on behalf of inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act.

Legislation

- Parole Act and Regulations
- Penitentiary Act
- Penitentiary Service Regulations
- Prison and Reformatories Act

Organization

The Office of the Correctional Investigator comprises three secretarial/administrative positions, a director of investigations and five investigators.

Information Holdings

Offender Complaints and Investigations

Description: Each file contains records [notes, correspondence and documents] related to the subjects raised by the offender and the office's responses in the form of interviews with the offender, inquiries and research undertaken and findings and recommendations.

Information may relate to the full range of personal information described in the Privacy Act, including, but not restricted to age, sex, addresses, criminal and employment history, medical condition and treatment identifying numbers, personal views and private correspondence. Class of Individuals: Current or former federally-sentenced offenders, either incarcerated or under conditional release. Purpose: All information is gathered for the purpose of dealing with, and attempting to resolve, offender problems and of reporting on these to the Commissioner of Corrections, the Solicitor General or Parliament, in the manner and in the circumstances provided in Part III of the Corrections and Conditional Release Act. Personal information is used exclusively for these purposes. Personal information may be disclosed to third parties only where doing so would assist staff in arriving at findings or recommendations or in connection with prosecution for perjury or for an offence against the Correctional Investigator under Part III of the Corrections and Conditional Release Act. Third parties could normally include government staff – usually Correctional Service, Solicitor General Secretariat or National Parole Board employees- and relatives, legal counsel or support groups of offenders. In practice, disclosure of personal information, even under the above provisions, is strictly limited. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained in our offices for 3 years and then kept in a separate storage facility for 7 years, after which they are sent to National Archives. TBS Registration: 004140 Bank Number: OCI PPU 005

Classes of Personal Information

The class contains personal information which does not qualify as a bank of information but has reached the Office of the Correctional Investigator as a result of such activities as visits by Correctional Investigator staff to institutions, requests for particulars concerning administrative policies at all levels, minutes of meetings with various inmate committees, or with institutional and volunteer groups. When requesting access, an individual must provide the name of the institution about which information is requested and the approximate date of the event prompting the information held.

Manuals

- Commissioner's Directives
- Institutional Standing Orders
- Regional Instructions

Correctional Service of Canada

Chapter 45

General Information

Background

In 1977, the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) was formed through the amalgamation of the Canadian Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Service.

Responsibilities

Mission: The Correctional Service of Canada, as part of the criminal justice system and respecting the rule of law, contributes to the protection of society by actively encouraging and assisting offenders to become law-abiding citizens, while exercising reasonable, safe, secure and humane control.

The Correctional Service of Canada provides programs for offenders from admission until the expiration of their sentence. In order to carry out its responsibilities, the Correctional Service creates files to hold information on offenders, prisons, organizations and occurrences that affect or may affect it in the carrying out of its mandate. Information must be collected from and shared with numerous sources, such as other components of the criminal justice system, as is explained in the section "General Information on Data Matching/Data Sharing", at the end of this chapter.

Legislation

- Corrections and Conditional Release Act, SC 1992, c. C-20
- Criminal Code RSC, 1985, c. C-46
- Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1976
- Criminal Records Act RSC, 1985, c. C-47
- Prisons and Reformatories Act RSC, 1985, c. P-20
- Transfer of Offenders Act, 1977-78, c. T-15
- Young Offenders Act RSC, 1985, c. R-1

Organization

Communications and Consultation

The Communications and Consultation Sector is responsible for raising Canadians' awareness about correctional issues through public education, and encouraging citizen engagement. The Sector provides communications planning and advice; handles relations with the media; and offers a variety of multimedia services to its clients, including exhibits, publications, film and video. It is also responsible for promoting citizen engagement through mechanisms such as the Citizens' Advisory Committees.

Corporate Development

The Corporate Development Sector is responsible for strategic and operational planning and reporting, research, policy development, intergovernmental affairs and offender affairs. Specific responsibilities of this Sector include the legislative agenda (e.g. Correctional and Conditional Release Act and Regulations), federal/provincial projects, international relations, restorative justice/dispute resolution, and issues relating to human rights and to the Access to Information and Privacy Acts.

Corporate Secretariat

The Corporate Secretariat is responsible for the daily liaison with the Office of the Solicitor General and for the coordination and preparation of executive correspondence to the Commissioner, the Minister's Office, other Members of Parliament and Legislative Assemblies.

Corporate Services

The Corporate Services Sector is responsible for information management and technology, technological and operational support, technical services, facility planning, design and construction program, real property services, departmental security, finance and material management. More specifically, this Sector provides all goods and services (food, clothing and housing), technology, engineering, finance, administration, procurement, information management, maintenance and capital program management services to support correctional facilities and activities.

Correctional Operations and Programs

The Correctional Operations and Programs Sector is responsible for the integrity of community and institutional operations and correctional programs across the Correctional Service of Canada, and for improving the delivery of safe corrections. More specifically, this Sector is responsible for: aboriginal issues; chaplaincy; health services; offender reintegration and correctional programs (e.g. sex offender, education, substance abuse, living skills and personal development programs); operational support; security and CORCAN.

CORCAN provides employment and training opportunities to offenders incarcerated in federal penitentiaries and, for brief periods of time, after they are released into the community, to facilitate offenders' reintegration into society and re-entry into the labour market.

Legal Services

This Sector is responsible for providing a variety of in-house legal services to the Commissioner and staff of the Correctional Service of Canada in connection with matters relating to the operations of the Service and provides interpretations of related acts, regulations, policies, directives and guidelines.

Office of the Commissioner

The Commissioner, as the Senior Executive Officer of the Correctional Service of Canada, is accountable to the Solicitor General of Canada in managing and guiding the policies and programs of the Service.

Office of the Deputy Commissioner for Women

The Women Offender Sector is responsible for the effective policy and program development, implementation and ongoing program delivery for women offenders sentenced to two years or more.

Office of the Senior Deputy Commissioner

The Senior Deputy Commissioner supports the Commissioner in the management and direction of the Correctional Service of Canada to achieve the Service's program objectives.

Performance Assurance

The Performance Assurance Sector is responsible for audits, evaluations, investigations and the management of the accreditation process. It is also responsible for providing performance measurement tools and advice for the regions and sectors of the Correctional Service of Canada.

Personnel and Training

The Personnel and Training Sector is responsible for the identification, resolution and implementation of human resources activities and for providing interpretations of related policies, directives and guidelines. Overall this Sector is responsible for staff relations; staff training and development; employee assistance programs; occupational safety and health; corporate classification and staffing; personnel services for National Headquarters; recruitment and career management; and human resources systems.

Regions

Five regional offices, located in the Atlantic, Québec, Ontario, Prairie and Pacific Regions, are responsible for administering the operations of correctional institutions and the supervision of offenders. These offices are responsible for implementing national policies and programs; developing regional policies, plans and programs for performance measurement, human resource and financial management, federal/provincial relations, liaison with the Commissioner's Office, public consultation, and provision of information to the media, elected officials, interest groups and the public.

Each Region is comprised of correctional facilities classified as maximum, medium and minimum security; women's facilities, district offices, parole offices and community correctional centres. These facilities are responsible for the delivery of programs, secure housing and safe reintegration of offenders by implementing both national and regional policies and programs and for participating in the formulation of corporate policy and plans, and ensuring their appropriate implementation.

Case Management – Community Bank

Description: Since 1991, as a result of the shift of case preparation from the community to the institutions, the CSC gradually introduced a major change to its case management records system. The existing three-bank case management records system, CSC PPU 035 Case Management – Institution "A", CSC PPU 040 Case Management – Institution "B", CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community was phased out; as a result of the conversion the CSC has one, single ACTIVE case management bank called "CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank". (a) ALL the records filed before the conversion on the CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank remain active and are transferred to the new "CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank", (b) the name CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community Bank disappears; (c) ALL case management records, be they generated from then on in the institution or in the community, are filed on the one, single case management bank CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. Therefore, all the CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community records that were held on the former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community Bank are now all on the CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. In order to access a CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank the requestor merely has to request the CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank and he will thus get all his former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community records. Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank for offenders who were under CSC jurisdiction BEFORE the conversion of the case management records system and who DID NOT return under CSC jurisdiction: The CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank remains inactive. This bank remains accessible under the Privacy Act. Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank for offenders who were under CSC jurisdiction BEFORE the conversion but who came back under CSC jurisdiction AFTER the conversion of the case management records system: The CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank is: (a) retrieved from

Archives, (b) the name CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community is deleted, (c) the content of this former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community Bank is reactivated and the file is renamed CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. From then on, the CSC continues filing ALL case management records on the offender on this one, single, CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank, be they generated in the community or in the institution.” This bank contains records and data on an offender’s release programs as well as background information on his/her incarceration. It may contain information provided under expressed or implied confidentiality related to the offender’s conduct, such as routine police reports, community investigations and information of a general investigative nature. ### Case Management Bank

Description: Since 1991, as a result of the shift of case preparation from the community to the institutions, the CSC gradually introduced a major change to its case management records system. The existing three-bank case management records system, CSC PPU 035 Case Management – Institution “A”, CSC PPU 040 Case Management – Institution “B”, CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community was phased out; as a result of the conversion the CSC has one, single ACTIVE case management bank called “CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank”. (a) ALL the records filed before the conversion on the CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank remain active and are transferred to the new “CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank”, (b) the name CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community Bank disappears; (c) ALL case management records, be they generated from then on in the institution or in the community, are filed on the one, single case management bank CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. Therefore, all the CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community records that were held on the former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community Bank are now all on the CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. In order to access a CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank the requestor merely has to request the CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank and he will thus get all his former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community records. Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank for offenders who were under CSC jurisdiction BEFORE the conversion of the case management records system and who DID NOT return under CSC jurisdiction: The CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank remains inactive. ## Classes of Personal Information

Administrative Inquiries

This group is a class of records on incidents involving offenders, staff or members of the public regarding injury sustained while on institutional property, damage or loss of personal property or departmental property and other unusual incidents such as fires which might result in a claim against the Crown. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the location and the approximate date the inquiries were held. This class of records is used to process claims for and against the Crown, to establish the nature and length of disabilities and to determine the need for establishing or revising internal operating procedures. Records are retained for twenty-five years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Appreciation, Complaints, Inquiries

This group is a class of records generated by members of the public, or staff such as: letters of appreciation, complaints and general inquiries. The data contained in this class of records is only used for an administrative purpose in cases where a complaint or inquiry is acted upon. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date that the letter of appreciation, complaint or inquiry was initiated. These records are retained for two years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Complaints and Criticisms

This group is a class of records on complaints or criticisms received from staff regarding conditions of employment, including those from the Human Rights Commission and the Anti-discrimination Branch of the Public Service Commission. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date the complaint or criticism was lodged. This class of records is used to record information dealing with complaints or criticisms involving staff and to make specific decisions to resolve the matter. Records are retained for three years.

Correctional Investigator Inquiries Records

This group is a class of records on inquiries initiated by the Correctional Investigator. This class of records is used to analyze and make action recommendations resulting from these inquiries conducted by the Correctional Investigator. These records are retained for twenty-five years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with the correctional investigator.

Disciplinary Court Hearings

This group is a class of records on disciplinary court hearings. For each session of disciplinary court, audio recordings are made which contain the transcripts of the hearings on offenders who have been charged while incarcerated in an institution. This class of records is used to make decisions on the discipline of offenders resulting from the disciplinary court and during the grievance process. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the name of the institution in which they were charged and the date of the disciplinary hearing. It should be noted, however, that the offender may obtain records by sending a written request directly to the warden of the institution where the disciplinary hearing occurred. These records are retained for two years following the suspension of all actions relating to the disciplinary hearing. No data matching occurs.

Information Services – Inquiries

This group is a class of records on miscellaneous inquiries received from the public, outside organizations and other government departments on services performed by the Department. This class of records is used to respond to requests to interview employees and offenders from external sources such as the media and provincial organizations. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date that the inquiry was initiated. These records are retained for two years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Institutional Security Threats

This group is a class of records on national and international groups, organizations and criminals. This class of records is used to provide background information on threats to institutional security and to provide reports on all security investigations to aid in preventing recurrences. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the location and approximate date of the threat or investigation. These records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with NPB, law enforcement agencies and provincial authorities.

Ministerial Inquiries

This group is a class of records on inquiries received from the public, outside organizations and other government departments on parliamentary matters and material agendas and decisions of Cabinet. This class of records is used to prepare ministerial correspondence resulting from these inquiries. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the subject matter, and approximate date the inquiry was initiated. Records are retained for five years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Research/Public Opinion Research

This is a class of records generated by research subjects, offenders or staff who participate in research, including public opinion research, on a vast spectrum of topics, conducted in the Correctional Service of Canada. Retrievable records consist of data gathering instruments such as, but not exclusively, questionnaires containing personal information that reveals the identification of the research subject. Data contained in this class of records are not used for administrative purposes. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the title of the research project in which they participated, the location and date of the research, and any other data that may help to identify and locate the personal information they are seeking. No data matching occurs.

Security Inquiries

This group is a class of records on serious security incidents. For each incident, the report includes the inquiry terms of reference, facts gathered and recommendations. This class of records also encompasses police reports and intelligence assessments and is used to provide documentation to prevent recurrences of security incidents. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the type of incident, the location and approximate date of the incident. These records are retained for twenty-five years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with NPB, law enforcement agencies and provincial authorities.

Special Investigations

This group is a class of records on special investigations performed by the Audit and Investigations Sector on a wide variety of operational matters. The reports of the investigations include the terms of reference, facts gathered and recommendations. This class of records is used to resolve incidents involving offenders or employees and to correct, where required, methods of operation and internal procedures. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the investigation, the location and approximate date it was initiated. Records are retained for twenty-five years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

General Information on Data Matching/ Data Sharing

Data Matching – Data Sharing

Within the mandate of the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) is the requirement to share data with other areas of the Criminal Justice Community, to ensure that offenders are appropriately managed in a safe, secure and humane environment, and to ensure the safety of the offender, other inmates, staff and the community at large. Also, in order to accomplish its mandate the Service needs the information provided by other agencies and therefore matching/sharing is conducted.

Data Matching/Data Sharing with Law Enforcement Agencies (municipal, provincial, international, federal police forces or another law enforcement body)

Following an offender's sentence to a federal institution, the CSC requests the criminal record (history information) from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP). This information is used to assess the impact of the offender's criminal behaviour and to alert staff who will deal with the offender. CSC also requests a police report from the arresting and/or investigating law enforcement body in order to have a full understanding of the events surrounding the offence.

Following a sentence to a federal institution in the case of foreign nationals, the CSC must also request from the Inland Service (Immigration) that they provide it with information that is relevant to the administration of the offender's sentence and to the case management process.

When an offender is released to the community, there is a requirement to notify the RCMP and/or the local police force, and, when necessary, the Inland Service (Immigration), of the offender's address and the terms and conditions of the release. If an offender violates conditions of release, or is considered to be a risk, CSC will issue a warrant for the apprehension of the offender. The warrant is transmitted to the local police and the data is entered into the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) system. The police is requested to locate and apprehend the offender.

Data Matching/Data Sharing with the National Parole Board

CSC data is shared with the National Parole Board (NPB). With the implementation of the OMS (Offender Management System) there is one integrated system to meet the demand of both agencies.

While it is CSC's responsibility to manage the offenders for the duration of their sentence, it is the NPB's responsibility to assess the offenders' progress during incarceration, their risk to society, and their potential for successful reintegration into the community as law-abiding citizens. CSC information is shared with NPB pertaining to all aspects related to an offender prior to and during incarceration. Once NPB has assessed the information, and through a hearing process, makes their decision, CSC is notified. If the NPB makes a decision to conditionally release an offender, it is CSC staff who are responsible for the supervision and control of the offender in the community and keeping NPB informed of the offender's progress.

Data Matching/Data Sharing with Provincial Authorities

An offender, who is sentenced to a period of incarceration of two years or more, will serve this sentence under the jurisdiction of CSC. Offenders sentenced to less than two years will serve their sentence under a provincial jurisdiction. However, CSC is doing the case preparation and supervision for some provinces that do not have a parole board.

Often an offender will have a history of provincial incarceration, further, prior to sentencing the offender could be held in a provincial institution or a remand centre. Information collected during any period of incarceration is deemed significant and sometimes crucial to the successful management of that offender. It is for these reasons that information is routinely shared between CSC and provincial authorities, which include also the boards of education and hospitals.

Information is also requested from the sentencing judge and could also be requested from the crown attorney, from provincial parole and probation services. CSC uses this information in the management of the offender and decision-making process.

Method of Data Matching/Data Sharing

In the preceding descriptions of CSC data matching/sharing, every effort is taken to ensure that the data matched/shared concerns the same individual. In order to validate that the different agencies are dealing with the same individual, a number of personal identifiers are matched. These include: name, sex, date of birth, finger print series number (FPS) and in some cases physical features.

CSC may conduct or assist others in conducting ad hoc data matching/sharing for the purpose of the enforcement of any law (i.e. Criminal Code).

Department of Finance Canada

Chapter 47

General Information

Background

The Department of Finance is established under the Financial Administration Act. The relevant portions are sections 14 and 15:

- 14. "There is hereby established a department of the Government of Canada called the Department of Finance over which the Minister of Finance appointed by commission under the Great Seal shall preside.
- 15. The Minister holds office during pleasure and has the management and direction of the Department, the management of the Consolidated Revenue Fund and the supervision, control and direction of all matters relating to the financial affairs of Canada not by law assigned to the Treasury Board or to any other minister."

In addition to this broad assignment of responsibility, and his key role as a central policy advisor, the Minister is responsible to Parliament for the following statutes:

Responsibilities

The Department is responsible for advice to the federal government on the economic and financial affairs of Canada. It oversees all government initiatives affecting the economy and monitors external factors that may have a bearing on domestic economic performance. The Department's most visible output is the federal budget. The Minister of Finance's budget speech reviews the government's accounts and presents fiscal projections for the coming years, including expenditures, revenues, tax changes and debt levels. In addition, the Minister is responsible for the management of the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

The Minister of Finance also plays an important role in the field of international financial matters. He has direct responsibilities under the Bretton Woods and Related Agreements Act, which legislation constitutes Canada's participation in the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the World Bank, the International Development Association, the International Finance Corporation, and the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency. The Minister of Finance also gives direction to his representatives at the Organization for the Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) and the World Trade Organization.

Another significant role of the Department is to provide actuarial advice to the Government. The Department has statutory responsibility for the preparation of actuarial reports on the operation of the Canada Pension Plan and performs actuarial work for other government departments as required (e.g. for the Public Service Superannuation Plan, to Canada Customs and Revenue Agency in respect of the actuarial reserves of life insurance companies, etc.)

Organization

Access to Information and Privacy Division

This division is responsible for administering the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act for the Department. It processes requests submitted under the legislation, handles complaints lodged with the Information and Privacy Commissioners and responds to informal enquiries. The Division also provides advice and guidance to departmental officials on matters which concern the legislation.

Canada Investment and Savings

Canada Investment and Savings is a federal Special Operating Agency within the Department of Finance responsible for the delivery of the government's retail debt program. The Agency was created in the 1995 federal budget to provide individual Canadians with better access to existing Government of Canada Securities, such as Canada Savings Bonds, Treasury Bills and Marketable Bonds and to develop new investment products to help them meet their savings and investment needs. The Agency is organized into four main functional areas directed by the President and Chief Executive Officer.

◆ Marketing Services

Conceptualizes the government's overall marketing and communication strategy for the retail debt program (e.g. New Canada Savings Bonds) develops and implements marketing plans and advertising campaigns for existing and new products, and monitors performance. CI&S encourages all Canadians, including children and their parents, to be acquainted with good savings habits, and publicises promotions that encourage this.

◆ Product Management

Manages existing portfolio of products and develops and introduces new retail debt products.

◆ Sales and Distribution

Manages the delivery network for the family of retail debt products, develop new relationships with financial institutions, explores and pilot tests new distribution channels including electronic alternatives and develops easier access to existing Government of Canada retail debt products.

◆ Corporate Services

Provides and arranges for all internal support functions including finance and accounting, administrative services, contracting and human resources.

Consultations and Communications Branch

This branch is responsible for developing communications and consultations strategies and initiatives that assist the Minister and other branches in formulating and implementing policy initiatives, including the annual federal budget. It organizes ministerial and departmental consultations, manages a range of information and public affairs activities, and provides related services. It is composed of two divisions.

◆ Communications Policy and Strategy Division

This division develops communications plans and strategies, and provides communications advice on the handling of departmental issues and the implementation of policies and programs. It also drafts speeches, press releases, various briefing papers, publications and multi-media presentations, including material in support of the federal budget. The division also develops and controls organization, content and multimedia applications for the Department's Internet site. As well, the division undertakes communications research and analysis and monitors the media on a daily basis for issues of interest to the Minister, the Secretary of State and the department.

◆ Public Affairs and Operations Division

This division implements and supports external communications and public relations activities. It carries out an extensive media relations program, including preparing departmental and ministerial announcements and statements, and arranging for briefings and press conferences, including those for the release of the federal budget. The division handles all logistical arrangements for domestic and international Meetings and other events hosted by the Minister and Department such as Federal-Provincial Meetings, G-7, APEC and Commonwealth Finance Minister's Meetings. The division also manages the editing and production for all departmental publications. The division develops and maintains contacts with the business community, labour organizations, and social, voluntary and other interest groups, and assists the Minister, the Secretary of State and the department in consulting with the public and stakeholders on a range of economic and fiscal issues. As well, the division manages all correspondence written to the Minister and Secretary of State.

The division also manages the Visits, Conferences and Protocol unit. This unit provides Finance with expertise and services in the areas of conference and meeting organization, management and logistics, visit by foreign dignitaries and officials, and other protocol services.

Corporate Services Branch

The Branch jointly assists the Deputy Minister of Finance and the Secretary and Comptroller General of the Treasury Board Secretariat in the internal administration of their departments, and provides financial, human resources, informatics and administrative support to the branches of the two departments. The Corporate Services Branch is also responsible for a number of other activities including task force organization and co-ordination of the Canada Savings Bonds and United Way campaigns. The Branch is composed of six divisions: Administrative Services Division; Financial Services Division; Human Resources Division; Informatics Services Division; Security Services Division and Business and technology Integration Division.

Economic and Fiscal Policy Branch

This branch analyzes and appraises all factors affecting Canada's economic and financial situation and recommends measures to meet the requirements of appropriate fiscal policies. It also analyzes and forecasts the financial requirements of the government of Canada.

◆ Economic Analysis and Forecasting Division

This division has primary responsibility for monitoring and analyzing current Canadian economic conditions and the economic outlook and for the preparation of quarterly economic forecasts for the Canadian (national and provincial) and U.S. economies. It also prepares assessments of the impact of policy measures and other events on the Canadian economy. In addition, the division produces the quarterly publication entitled "Economy in brief".

◆ Economic Studies and Policy Analysis Division

The division has primary responsibility for anticipating major policy issues the government of Canada is likely to face, develops tools to analyze these issues, prepares analysis and research of the highest calibre and, based on all this, recommends policy advice in both macroeconomic and structural areas. The technical work undertaken in the division is made public in the form of a working paper series.

◆ Fiscal Policy Division

This division has primary responsibility for advising on fiscal policy and analyzing the financial requirements of the Government of Canada and for monitoring and analyzing the developing fiscal positions of other levels of surplus government. It also has primary responsibility for analysis and advice on the government's fiscal framework and co-ordinating the department's advice to the Minister on overall spending priorities. The division plays a key role in the budgetary process, and is responsible for the preparation of the Fiscal Monitor, and the Annual Financial Report, as well as several budgetary papers. In addition, the division reviews the form and content of the Public Accounts and other statements for which the Minister has responsibility under the Financial Administration Act.

Economic Development and Corporate Finance Branch

This branch is responsible for providing policy advice and analytical support to the Minister of Finance on a wide range of economic, fiscal and financial issues related to the microeconomic policies of the government.

◆ Corporate Finance & Privatization Division

This division advises: on the economic and fiscal implications of policies and programs in the areas of transportation and infrastructure systems and services; provides corporate financial analysis and advice on proposals for government support to major development projects and in relation to corporate restructuring plans; plays a central role in the privatization of federal Crown Corporations, other corporate holdings and government services that no longer require government ownership or direct delivery to fulfill a public policy role; and provides a focal point for cross-cutting issues of interest to the Minister of Finance in the management and operations of federal Crown Corporations.

◆ Economic Development Policy Division

This division advises on the economic and fiscal implications of policies and programs to promote economic development in Canada in the specific areas of industrial and sectoral development, industrial innovation and science and technology policy, small business development, regional development, telecommunications policy and business framework legislation, agriculture and fisheries, and environment, energy and natural resources, and national defence policy.

Federal-Provincial Relations and Social Policy Branch

This branch is responsible for providing policy advice on federal-provincial fiscal arrangements and social policy programs.

◆ Federal-Provincial Relations Division

This division is responsible for the federal government's major transfers to provinces and territories. # Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade

Chapter 48

Background

The Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade had its origin in an Act of Parliament in 1909 to deal with Canada's relations with other governments within the British Empire and with foreign states. In 1981, the foreign operations of the immigration service were brought into the Department. In January 1982, there was a fundamental reorganization to include the foreign trade policy and international trade component of the Industry, Trade and Commerce Department. In 1992 the Immigration component of the foreign service was transferred to Employment and Immigration Canada and certain other non-core functions, such as the World Exhibition program and international sport program, were transferred to other departments. In 1993 the Investment Development Division of Investment Canada was merged with the Department.

The Department of External Affairs Act of 1985 set forth the mandate of the Department and provided for a Secretary of State for External Affairs (SSEA) and a Minister for International Trade. The name of the Department was subsequently changed to External Affairs and International Trade Canada. In the fall of 1993 the Department assumed its present title, the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT), and the SSEA's title was changed to Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Responsibilities

The Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade has the primary responsibility for the promotion and protection of Canada's interests abroad and the conduct of Canada's relations with other countries. Its legal mandate, as set out in the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade Act, RSC 1985, c. E-22, is to:

- conduct all diplomatic and consular relations on behalf of Canada;
- conduct all official communication between the Government of Canada and the government of any other country and between the Government of Canada and any international organization;
- conduct and manage international negotiations as they relate to Canada;
- coordinate Canada's economic relations;
- foster the expansion of Canada's international trade;
- coordinate the direction given by the Government of Canada to the heads of Canada's diplomatic and consular missions and to manage these missions;
- administer the foreign service of Canada;

- foster the development of international law and its application in Canada's external relations.

The Department has four basic roles, which flow from the legal mandate. They are:

- the development and coordination of the Government's international policy;
- advocacy of Canadian interests and values overseas;
- the provision of services to Canadians (trade and investment promotion, securing and improving market access, consular assistance, passports);
- support for other government departments and agencies abroad (including provincial governments).

Organization

The Department has two Ministers (the Minister of Foreign Affairs and the Minister for International Trade) and three Secretaries of State (for Asia Pacific; for Latin America and Africa; and for Western Economic Diversification and La Francophonie). The responsibilities of the two Ministers extend beyond this Department: the Minister of Foreign Affairs is also responsible for the International Development Research Centre, the International Joint Commission and the International Centre for Human Rights and Democratic Development. The Minister for International Trade is responsible for the Export Development Corporation, the Canadian Commercial Corporation, the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) Secretariat, and the Northern Pipeline Agency Canada.

Canadian Foreign Service Institute (CFSI)

The Institute plans and delivers training and development programs to Departmental employees. The programs are designed to facilitate career development and improve the effectiveness of employees in the delivery of the Department's programs in Canada and internationally. They include training in official and foreign languages and a broad range of work-related skills. Organizational development services are also provided to assist the Department in managing change. A research function also exists.

Communications Bureau (BCD)

The Communications Bureau consists of the Media Relations Division, the Foreign Policy Communications Division, the Trade Communications Division, the Communications Programs and Outreach Division, the Communications Services Division and the Public Environment Analysis Unit. The Bureau is responsible for increasing awareness and understanding of Canada's foreign policy and international trade agenda, and of the Department's role in shaping and carrying out that agenda; supplying quality communications advice to ministers and officials on issues, events and initiatives; ensuring Canadian and foreign media, as well as other groups and individuals, receive timely and accurate information; operating anti-drug, outreach, speaker and other communications programs; providing the Department with public opinion research and analysis; and promoting public understanding of the historical background of Canadian foreign relations.

Consular Affairs Bureau (JPD)

The Consular Affairs Bureau has the sole responsibility for the provision of assistance to and protection of Canadians in other countries. In carrying out that mandate, it operates through staff at Canadian missions abroad as well as through five headquarters divisions consisting of: Case Management, Emergency Services, Program Services, Informatics Services, and Communications and Training. All divisions are under the direction of a Director General. The Bureau sets overall policy for the delivery of consular services, manages cases in cooperation with missions, establishes service standards, manages the cost recovery program, delivers passport and citizenship services overseas, manages the 24-hour, 7-days-a-week departmental/consular operations centre and ensures the application of the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations and related multilateral and bilateral agreements to its consular activities.

Economic Policy Bureau (EED)

The Bureau is responsible for the development and coordination of Canada's positions on international economic and development assistance issues, including G8 Economic Summits, the OECD and APEC. It is also responsible for research and analysis for policy options on Canada's international trade and economic agenda. It consists of three divisions: International Economic Relations and Summit Division; Economic Relations with Developing Countries Division; and Trade and Economic Analysis Division.

Executive Services (DCD)

The objective of this Bureau is to provide dedicated one-stop support to our two ministerial offices. It is composed of three divisions: DCL (Cabinet and Parliamentary Liaison); DCP (Access to Information and Privacy issues); DCC (Ministerial Correspondence). It also acts as a focal point on regulatory matters and policies and, as Secretariat to the Departmental Executive Committee.

Export and Import Controls Bureau (EPD)

The authority to control the export and import of goods and technology through the Export and Imports Permits Act (EIPA) is the basis of the Bureau's foreign and domestic policy mandate. The Act sets out criteria to govern the inclusion of particular goods on an Export Control List and an Import Control List, and provides for the inclusion of particular countries on an Area Control List applicable to exports. Control over the flow of goods contained on these lists and to/from these destinations is effected through the issuance or denial of export and import permits. The Act delegates to the Minister of Foreign Affairs the discretion to grant or deny requests for permits, and thus confers on the Minister broad powers to control the flow of goods. The principal role of the Export and Import Controls Bureau is to manage Canada's export and import control regime. This it does through policy development; issue management; processing and issuance of permits; and multilateral and bilateral negotiations.

Geographic Bureaux

For the conduct of external relations, the world has been divided among eight geographic bureaux, each under a director general. These are: Africa (GGD); Central, East and South Europe (RBD); European Union, North and West Europe (RWD); Latin America and Caribbean (LGD); Middle East, North Africa and Gulf States (GMD); North Asia and Pacific (PND); South and Southeast Asia (PSD); and United States (URD). Each bureau is separated into divisions according to smaller geographic areas, and within the divisions, a country desk approach is normally used. The responsibilities and activities of the geographic bureaux have much in common and are best described together.

Each bureau is responsible for the management and coordination of the full range of relations with its region. Included are the operations of the Canadian posts abroad in its area, their guidance and instruction, the on-going dialogue with them, and the provision and allocation of resources to them. Under the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade Act, a head of mission is defined as responsible for the management and direction of the mission and the supervision of the official activities of the various Canadian departments and agencies in the country in question.

The geographic bureaux provide policy advice to Ministers, based on country and regional analysis, and generally are responsible for the handling of bilateral political and economic issues and trade policy with various parts of the world. Each bureau normally manages directly certain core DFAIT programs or "business lines"; for example, "international security and cooperation" or "international business development". In addition, the bureau – with its component divisions – coordinates the delivery within its area of other departmental business lines, including DFAIT's public affairs, consular and administrative programs, as well as the programs of other federal departments and agencies with major operations overseas. As the main point of contact for the Canadian business community, geographic divisions handle export promotion and country-specific market access issues. Most of them support tourist promotion activities in conjunction with the Canadian Tourism Commission, fairs and trade missions, investment development and science and technology cooperation. They also serve as a point of contact for non-governmental organizations with interests abroad and for foreign diplomatic missions based in Ottawa.

Global and Human Issues Bureau (AGD)

This Bureau is responsible for policy development and coordination of activity in issues which are transnational in nature and contribute to sustainable human development and human security. The Human Rights, Humanitarian Affairs and Women's Equality Division ensures effective monitoring of human rights, women's equality issues world-wide and the effective integration of these considerations into all relevant aspects of bilateral and multilateral relations. It also coordinates the foreign policy aspects of humanitarian affairs and migration and refugee issues. The Bureau is also responsible for departmental coordination of aboriginal affairs and for the activities of the Ambassador for Circumpolar Affairs as well as the Counsellor for International Indigenous Issues. The Bureau is responsible for the development of the Government's Peacebuilding and human security initiative, including programs involving conflict resolution and democratic development. Aspects of social development, including children's issues, are the responsibility of this Bureau as is the implementation of the Youth International Internship Program. The International Crime Division coordinates international policy development on crime, drugs and terrorism issues.

Trade Policy Bureaux I and II and Office of the Coordinator for NAFTA (EAD, EBD)

The two Bureaux work closely together and collectively are responsible for all aspects of Canadian trade policy, including the management of trade-policy disputes. Trade Policy Bureau I is responsible for maintaining broad oversight of the international framework for trade. In this respect, it is responsible for coordinating Canadian trade policy on the WTO and regional agreements and initiatives, such as the Free Trade Agreement of the Americas, APEC, trade-policy relations with Europe, trade-related work of the OECD and bilateral free trade agreements, such as those with Chile and Israel. Trade Policy Bureau II is responsible for all services, investment and intellectual property related trade policy issues which are increasingly becoming the focus of trade agreements and trade negotiations. The Director General for Trade Policy Bureau II is also the Coordinator for NAFTA and, as such, is responsible for coordinating Canada's participation in the NAFTA and its institutions.

The two Bureaux consist of the following seven divisions: Trade Policy Planning Division; Trade Remedies Division; Technical Barriers and Regulations Division; Tariffs and Market Access Division; Investment Trade Policy Division; Services Trade Policy Division; and the Information and Technology Trade Policy Division.

♦ Headquarters organization

The Department is headquartered in Ottawa but operates throughout Canada via local and regional passport offices and through its network of trade commissioners in regional offices. Below the deputy minister level, the Department is organized by function, by geography and for corporate services at the assistant deputy minister level and is supported by the Legal Adviser and Planning Secretariat. There are special ambassadors, based in Ottawa, for specific subjects such as Fisheries Conservation, the Environment, Air Negotiations and Circumpolar Affairs. The present headquarters structure came into effect in September 1996.

The functional Assistant Deputy Ministers (International Business and Communications, Trade and Economic Policy, Global and Security Policy) are accountable for developing coherent, effective global policies and initiatives to achieve worldwide the objectives of the government's foreign policy. The geographic Assistant Deputy Ministers (Asia Pacific and Africa; Americas; Europe, Middle East and North Africa) are accountable for the implementation of objectives within their respective regions and ensuring that policies and initiatives are consistent with the development and maintenance of effective and coherent relationships between Canada and each country.

The Department is divided into a number of bureaux, as listed below alphabetically, each headed by a director-general. The bureaux in turn are separated into divisions, each under a director. There are also some divisions and work units that do not form part of bureaux. The acronyms by which each major unit is known is shown after the name.

♦ Missions abroad

Outside Canada, the Department operates through a network of 129 missions and 33 offices in 107 countries. Overseas representation also exists through a number of honorary consuls. Details of missions abroad can be found in the publication Canadian Representatives Abroad, issued annually.

Bilateral missions are accredited to specific countries. They include larger missions that provide a full range of services within the business line framework and smaller missions that specialize in specific services, including those of other government departments such as CIDA and Citizenship and Immigration.

Multilateral missions serve Canadian interests in specific international organizations such as the World Trade Organization (WTO), the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), the United Nations (U.N.) and the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), the European Union (E.U.), and the Organization of American States (OAS). Missions also provide support to other government departments, including financial management, accommodation and property management, materiel management, communications, information management, personnel management of locally engaged staff, transportation and security.
